THE WEATHER

Conditions

Pressure has fallen decidedly over southern Canada and the greater part of the United States and it is now quite low over a wide area with centers of minimum pressure.

The Colorado disturbance will move rapidly east northeastward during the next two days and it will be attended by rain over nearly all sections east of the Mississippi river.

The weather will become considerably warmer Friday in the Atlantic states but colder weather will overspread the Atlantic states during Saturday and Saturday night.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Fresh to strong south and southwest winds and overcast thick weather with occasional rain Friday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Fresh south or southwest winds and overcast weather probably occasional showers Friday.

Forecast

For southern New England: Occasional rain Friday and Saturday; warmer Friday; colder Saturday afternoon and night.

GREENEVILLE

Terry Shahan has accepted a position at the United States Finishing company.

Bernard Enright of Gilmore street is spending a few weeks in New York city.

Wednesday morning was the coldest day of the year, the mercury dropping to 12 degrees below zero. Inside of 24 hours the difference of temperature at the early hours on Thursday was 12 degrees at the same time as the day before.

William Carrigan has returned to his home at New London, after spending a few days with relatives in Greeneville.

NORWICH TOWN

FRANK C. DURR ARRIVES FROM SO. DAKOTA FOR VISIT

Frank C. Durr of Bellefourche, South Dakota, arrived Thursday noon for a visit of a few weeks with his mother, Mrs. Mary Durr, of 85 Town street. Mr. Durr who has been located in the west for about fifteen years, comes home for a visit every two years. An older brother, John H. Durr, has been located in Bellefourche for the past eight years. He also makes a trip home every two years, his visits alternating with those of his brother.

SUPPER AND ENTERTAINMENT AT M. E. CHURCH NETS $25

In the vestry of the Methodist Episcopal church Thursday evening from 5.30 o'clock on, an appetizing supper was served followed by an entertainment programme of burlesque at 7 o'clock, also vocal and instrumental selections. The arrangement for the entire evening was under the auspices of Dorcas Home Missionary society, Mrs. William Weaver, president. Mrs. Weaver and Mrs. Harold Rore assisted Mrs. Arthur Fulton, chairman of the supper, which consisted of meat pie, macaroni, peas, pickled beets, cabbage salad, rolls, cake and coffee. There was an attendance of about 100. The waittresses were: Muriel Blanch Rose, Virginia Ward, Alice Browry, Ruth Lathrop, Florence Gembel and Effie Ladd. Dr. Charles H. Lamb led in the singing of the Doxology preceding the supper. The title of the playlet was "Mrs. Finnigan's Tenth Wedding Anniversary." Miss Annie Ward impersonated Mrs. Finnigan and Mrs. William Weaver represented Mrs. McGinnis. The story was written by Miss Ward and Mrs. Weaver, during the former's stay at the Weaver home last summer. Seated on the platform with Mrs. Weaver and Miss Ward was little Miss Winifred Fries. Mrs. Lewis Aldrich was in charge of the evening program also accompanied for the hymns sung. Dr. Lamb led in the singing. The program included: Song, Jerusalem the Golden, all; reading, A Motor Romance, Mrs. Aldrich; musical selections on a harmonica, Miss Izetta Dilette; recitation, When the Minister Comes to Tea, encore; Arithmetic, Miss Dilette; sketch, Mrs. Finnigan's Tenth Wedding Anniversary, Miss Ward and Mrs. Weaver; song, Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory, all; Riddle Guessing, with Mrs. Aldrich reader; duets, O'Susanna, Old Black Joe and Way Down Upon the Swanee River, Miss Dilette, harmonica and Mrs Aldrich, piano. In closing, all sang America. At the close of the program the children played several games. The net proceeds were about $25.

Rev. Frederick C. Baker, of North Grosvenordale, who was called to Norwich Town to assist at the funeral of Frederick H. Bushnell, Wednesday afternoon, is known to many local Methodists. For years he has been the preacher who has led the conference at the "Love Feast" service each year. It was during his pastorate at the Norwich Town M. E. church 1884-1885, that Mr. Bushnell united with this church, since which later they remained firm friends.

The Camp Fire group of girls of Norwich Town now has 21 enrolled. A meeting was held Wednesday night at the Methodist parsonage under the direction of the Guardian Mrs. Helen Haviland Potter. The group has applied to the national headquarters, New York, for a charter. The business meeting Wednesday night was conducted by the president, Doris Rose. An important item of business was the project of establishing a Camp Fire newspaper which will be read at the meetings monthly. The following elections took place. Editor-in chief, Grace Marie Hinrichs; editorials, Margaret Rose; jokes, Bertha Backus; personals, Barbara Fellows; poetry, Margaret Phillips. The meeting closed with the announcement that next week would be a "Good Manners" meeting and the singing of Camp Fire songs. Posters on the first point of the Law "Seek Beauty" are in the process of construction and are due in two weeks. Honors will be given for the three best posters.

COUNTY FARM BUREAU DIRECTORS NAME NEW EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

An executive committee was named Thursday at a meeting of the directors of the New London County Farm bureau at the farm bureau office in the Shannon building. President W. W. Service presided at the meeting which was called to order at 11 o'clock. The minutes of the previous meeting were heard and accepted and reports of the farm bureau activities since December 1st were given by County Agent Walter T. Clarke, Club Leader R. W. Whaples and the home demonstration agent, Miss Ruth Russell. Miss Marjorie Brewster of Jewett City, treasurer of the farm bureau, gave an interesting report on the American Farm Bureau Federation meeting in Chicago, which she attended, early in December.

The executive committee was then named as follows: The farm bureau officers: President W. W. Service, Vice Presidents F. M. Abell of Lebanon and Mrs. H. R. Whitman of Waterford, Secretary Arthur Davis of Waterford and Treasurer Marjorie Brewster of Jewett City and the following: For one year—Mrs. Austin Rathbun, Franklin; Milton Beckwith, Franklin; for two years—Mrs. George Metcalf of Groton; Joseph Clarke of Ledyard; for three years—Mrs. Eugene Wood of Stonington; Elisha L. Waterman of Lebanon.

A report of the membership committee was heard and accepted after which the following project committees were appointed:

Home Economics Committee—Miss Margery Brewster, Jewett City; Mrs. H. H. Whitman, Waterford; Mrs. E. M. Woods, Stonington; Mrs. E. J. Graham, Lebanon.

Club Committee—Miss Julia Rodman, North Franklin; Miss Margery Brewster, Jewett City; Mrs. Hugh Whitman, Waterford; Mrs. Eugene Wood, Stonington; Mrs. H. H. Tompkins, Colchester; Thomas Woods, Waterford; Ernest Manning, Lebanon; Edward Lewis, Preston; Imbert Fellows, Norwich Town;; Albert Lillibridge, Norwich Town; Joseph Clark, Ledyard.

Dairy Committee—F. M. Abell, Lebanon; William Babbitt, Sprague; Albert Beckwith, Franklin; Thomas Wood, Waterford; William Lathrop, Norwich; C. B. York, Stonington; Charles T. Armstrong, Griswold; Elmer Foote, Colchester.

Fruit Committee—E. W. Jones, Lebanon; Clifford Chipman, Waterford; E. W. Graham, Lebanon; A. W. Lillibridge, Norwich; Milton Beckwith, Franklin; George Wheeler, Stonington; F. W. Burton, Mystic; Walter Scott, East Lyme; Charles Elias, North Stonington; Simon Brewster, Jewett City.

Dinner was served by Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps, No. 16 after which the afternoon session was called to order by President Service. Mrs. Charles W. Sewell of Otterbein, Ind., chairman of the home economics committee of the American Farm Bureau federation gave a very interesting and instructive talk on Farm Bureau Work Throughout the Country. Mrs. Sewell, in her talk, urged better living conditions on farms by the installation of electrical and other conveniences. Her motto is, Good Standards of Living With an Adequate Income From the Farm to Provide Them. Well organized effort, Mrs. Sewell said, will greatly aid in bringing this about.

23RD LIONS DISTRICT TO MEET IN NORWICH

The weekly noon luncheon meeting of the Norwich Lions club held at the Wauregan hotel at 12:15 o'clock Thursday was opened with the singing of America and the business session was in charge of Dr. Kopland K. Markoff. A committee, Joseph A. French, Louis M. Crandall and Louis J. Fontaine, was appointed to make arrangements for the delegates meeting of the 23rd Lions district, Thursday, Feb. 28, in this city. Delegates from Connecticut and Rhode Island clubs are to attend with International Vice President Earl Hodges, who will bring greetings of the international association to the delegates.

At the next meeting of the club the speaker will be T. Alfred Fleming of the National Fire Waste Insurance council, who will talk upon fire prevention. Louis J. Fontaine was appointed a committee of one to urge the local insurance men to attend the address of this nationally known speaker. The Norwich chamber of commerce, will be well represented at the meeting.

It was announced that the Business and Professional Women's club have invited the members of the Lions club to be present at a lecture to be given at Slater hall, Jan. 21 by Dan McCowan of Banff on the topic, A Naturalist in the Canadian Rockies. The club also received an invitation from R. E. Hourigan post, No. 594, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to attend an informal dance at the Wauregan hotel Saturday night. Both invitations were accepted.

NEW CHELSEA BOAT CLUB HAS ELECTION

At a meeting of the newly re-organized Chelsea Boat club held Wednesday evening at Kitemaug the following officers, as presented by the nominating committee, Albert H. Schultz, Hibberd N. Alexander, Michael O'Connell, New London, Louis Gotthelf, Milton Green and E. L. Duff of this city, were elected:

Commodore, Joseph A. French of Norwich; vice commodore, William E. Mitchell, Norwich; rear commodore, Albert H. Gebrath, Groton, formerly of Norwich; secretary, Harold E. Carpenter, Norwich; treasurer, Joseph Moore, Norwich; board of governors: For three years, Hibberd N. Alexander, New London; William R. Frisbie, Norwich; two years, William B. Mitchell, Norwich and Michael L. O'Connell, New London; for one year, Milton Green and Benjamin Hall, Norwich.

A clam chowder was served and prizes were awarded for winners in the various events as follows: For eating the largest quantity of chowder, William E. Mitchell of Norwich; for boxing the compass, Joseph A. French, Norwich; for naming the lights within a radius of five miles from Ocean Beach from west to east, Louis Chapman of Norwich. These winners at the expense of their fellow members are to enjoy a free trip to the New York motorboat show next spring.

EBEN LEARNED JR. ON RECREATION COMMISSION

Eben Learned, Jr., has been notified by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins of his appointment as a member of the city recreation commission to complete the unexpired term of the late John M. Lee. The mayor's letter notifying Mr. Learned of his appointment follows:

January 17, 1929.

Mr. Eben Learned Jr.,
Norwich, Conn.

Dear Mr. Learned: This is formal notification of your appointment to the recreation commission of this city to fill the balance of the unexpired term of the late John M. Lee.

It is indeed pleasing to me to know that you are willing to serve our city in this capacity and especially because I feel assured that your interest in athletics will materially contribute toward maintaining this commission at its present high level of progressiveness and success.

Cordially yours,
LEE ROY ROBBINS,
Mayor.

TO FORM SPECIAL COURT OF AWARD

Arthur L. Peale, John Hill, Downer Johnson and James Fitzgerald have been appointed a committee to arrange for the formation of a special court of award, to consist of two scouts from each troop in the Norwich Council of Boy Scouts. The committee was named at a meeting of scoutmasters of the council Wednesday evening at the office of Scout Executive Frederick J. Bielefield, Jr. Previous to the appointment of the committee there was a discussion as to the duties of the proposed court and who shall constitute it.

Upon the suggestion of Arthur L. Peale, to have each individual troop be responsible for a project in civic service, the scoutmasters voted to consider the matter, and report back at a later meeting on Jan. 30. Several suggestions on the nature of projects to be performed by the troops were made by Mr. Peale who presided. The scoutmasters also discussed matters pertaining to the court of honor meeting, Feb. 6, when special awards are to be presented scouts.

TIME EXTENSION GRANTED FACT FINDING COMMITTEE

In a letter to Albert Boardman, chairman, and Martin Cohen, secretary of the fact finding committee, which was appointed at a special city meeting to investigate the local gas and electrical rates, Mayor Robbins states that a postponement of the meeting to receive the committee's report is necessary. The committee was to have given their report at a city meeting on Jan. 15, but it was unable to make a final report on that date and an extension of time is asked.

The mayor's letter to the committee says:

Your letter of the 12th makes it clear that no course other than a postponement of the meeting to receive your report is practicable.

While the time within which to complete your investigation and make your recommendations was fixed by the city meeting in November, it is nevertheless obvious that the quality of the report itself was then, as now considered of first importance.

It is gratifying to me to know that you are making an exhaustive study of this problem and are working in a conscientious and business-like manner to reach logical conclusions.

SUB BASE COMMANDER IS SUED FOR DIVORCE

At attachment of $100,000 has been placed on personal property of Commander Francis X. Koltes, of the Submarine Base, in a divorce suit brought by Mrs. Capitola W. Koltes of New London. The suit is returnable to the superior court the first Tuesday of next month, and the papers were served by Deputy Sheriff Nelson C. L. Brown.

Mrs. Koltes, through her counsel, Judge S. Victor Prince, sets out that since May 15, 1927, her husband has been guilty of intolerable cruelty. They were married Sept. 6, 1926, and the petitioner states that the naval commander claims to own personal property to the value of $75,000.

She claims a divorce and alimony.

Judge Christopher L. Avery of the superior court, upon application, has issued an injunction restraining the defendant from disposing of his equity in any bank deposits, stocks, bonds, etc., pending the trial of the action.

SUDDEN DEATH OF STARR STREET MAN

While at work in his shoemaker's shop at No. 24 Lafayette street, Peter Bohara, 64, of No. 14 Starr street, died suddenly late Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Bohara was seized with the attack as he was repairing a pair of shoes. He was found dead by a Mr. Quinn. The police and the medical examiner were notified. Death was due to heart disease.

Mr. Bohara, a shoemaker for many years, was born in Poland, in July, 1864, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bohara. He was married in Poland, his wife dying in 1923 in this city, where Mr. Bohara has lived for about 26 years. For a number of years he lived in the Falls section of the city. Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. Sophie Wilczek of Norwich and Mrs. Mary Worski of Waterbury and seven sons, Andrew, Michael, Stephen, Frank, Seymour, William Bohara of Norwich and Joseph of Moosup. He also leaves two brothers, Walter Bohara of Cleveland, and Michael Bohara of Poland.

FORMER LOCAL PASTOR TO PREACH HERE SUNDAY

Rev. Dixon A. Brown, who for five years was pastor of the McKinley Avenue A. M. E. Zion church, will be the speaker at that church at three o'clock Sunday afternoon. Many improvements were made on the church and parsonage during the five years of Rev. Brown's pastorate. The morigage on the parsonage of more than $1,000 was burned, a new furnace was installed, and the church was painted and the roof newly covered. Rev. Mr. Brown was successful in creating a spirit of unity and good-will among the three colored churches in Norwich, that still has its pleasing effects.

The interior of the church has just been redecorated at a cost of $300.

"Whoopee" Club Meets.

The weekly meeting of the newly organized Whoopee club was held on Tuesday evening at the home of one of the members. Matters of importance were discussed and light refreshments were served followed by games and dancing. The next meeting is to be held in their newly furnished club room.

Sprained Ankle in Fall.

Mrs. James C. Stanley is confined to her home on Broad street, with a severely sprained ankle, sustained by a fall late Wednesday afternoon on the icy sidewalk on Franklin square.

THREE PINOCHLE LEAGUE TEAMS TO PLAY TONIGHT

As a number of the members of the City Pinochle league were not present for the games Thursday evening at the Duwell club, owing to the stormy weather, a full schedule was not played. In order to straighten out the schedule the officials of the leagues have arranged for a special league night this (Friday) evening, at the Eagles hall, when the following teams will play: K. of C. vs. Eagles, Eagles vs. J. O. A. M. and K. of C. vs. J. O. A. M.

The results of the games Thursday evening follow: First round, Duwells 29,910 vs. Moose 26,100; J. O. A. WAS PRESENTED BROOCH ON HER BIRTHDAY

The members of the Thursday Afternoon club enjoyed a supper served at the home of Mrs. G. Rossoll on Dunham street in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Peter Weiss. A platinum brooch was presented to Mrs. Weiss as a birthday gift and following the supper, music and vocal selections were enjoyed. Those present were Mrs. A. Kieburg of Mystic, Mrs. E. Hochschild, Mrs. W. Hochschild of Mystic, Mrs. A. Lapkowski of Groton, Mrs. H. Leno of New London, Mrs. M. Haber and Mrs. M. Zemke, Mrs. F. Decker, Mrs. M. Krausee, Mrs. B. Pickering, Mrs. A. Schulz, Mrs. F. Edwards, all of Norwich.

TAFTVILLE

A lost letter for Mrs. Agnes Burrell is being held at the local post office, the addresses being unknown to the postmaster.

Men employed in the outside gang of the Ponemah company sprinkled sand on the village sidewalks and slippery places on the roads Thursday afternoon. In spite of the rain, the youngsters of the town were coasting on Merchants avenue, Providence street and the large lot north of North B street.

Mrs. Mary Whitehead, who has been spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. John W. Mather and family of Boswell avenue, has gone to Willimantic, where she will visit her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Whitehead, and family.

FUNERAL

William H. Desmarais

Funeral services for William H. Desmarais were held Thursday morning from the undertaking parlors of George G. Grant on Providence street, followed by a high mass of requiem at which Rev. Francis X. Chicoine was celebrant at Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock. Miss Alice Frechette, organist at the church, was in charge of the music. Interment was at Sacred Heart cemetery on the Old Canterbury turnpike, where Rev. Father Chicoine read the committal prayers.

Taftville people are interested to note that Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's church, Putnam, and at one time pastor at Sacred Heart church, this village, is enjoying a vacation trip to Bermuda.

Mr. and Mrs. Eadras Gosselin have taken a house on North B street.

A birthday surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Smith of North B street, Taftville, Thursday evening, in honor of their daughter, Miss Alice Smith. Refreshments were served and many games were played during the evening. A duet was sung by Miss Sue Sikorski and Helen Hurd, while Miss Alice Smith played the uke. Miss Sophie Isik, Miss Josephine Lacervara and Miss Buban Noland entertained with dancing.

BITTER FIGHT FOR CONTROL OF STANDARD OIL CO. OF IND.

The Rockefeller Forces Are Making a Determined Effort to Oust Col. Stewart From Chairmanship—Col. Stewart is in New York, But Denied Visit Was in Any Way Connected With the Rockefeller Controversy—Stewart Declined to Comment When Informed That Rockefeller Was Soliciting Proxies in an Effort to Defeat Him—Contest Will Be Decided on March 7, When the Annual Meeting of the Company Takes Place.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)—Indications multiplied today that although the Rockefeller-Stewart fight for control of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana will be bitterly fought, every effort will be made to make it appear in the public eye as a dignified contest and not a knock down and drag out brawl for power.

Col. Robert W. Stewart, the former rough rider, whom John D. Rockefeller wants to oust from chairmanship of the Indiana company, arrived from Chicago this morning but denied that his visit was an invasion of enemy country for any purpose connected with the Rockefeller controversy.

At almost the same time the Rockefeller offices made public a letter and its answer in indication that there was a firm intention to avoid any appearance of mud slinging and to keep the contest on a "high plane."

"Absolutely not," Colonel Stewart boomed, when asked if he was here to get proxies to vote for himself against the proxies the younger Rockefeller is soliciting in an effort to depose him.

"I am not here in this proxy matter at all," said Stewart. "I am here on affairs of the company which I do not care to make public. I shall only be in New York until tomorrow and I do not want to discuss the fight with Mr. Rockefeller."

The letters made public at the Rockefeller offices were one to John D. Rockefeller, Jr. who now is on his way to Egypt, from a stockholder in the Indiana company whose name was not disclosed, and an answer by T. M. Debevoise, a Rockefeller associate.

"I am in receipt of your circular letter under date of Jan. 2," the letter from the unnamed stockholder reads," "requesting proxy for the stockholders' meeting of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. I have been asked by several other stockholders who seem to have been solicited to send in their proxies to present officers of the company, as to whether they should do so or not. I have no facts upon which to base an opinion excepting newspaper reports and would like to know confidentially whether you have any information or whether it is your opinion that Colonel Stewart had originally intended keeping the bonds he had possession of for his own personal use or not. If this point was stressed in the newspaper reports, I failed to see it and if not inconsistent, would be glad to receive any information you have on the subject or if you have no definite information, your opinion, which I will keep confidential if you wish."

The bonds referred to evidently were the Continental Trading Co. bonds which Stewart was called before the senate to testify about in connection with its oil investigation. After his testimony Rockefeller called on him to resign and Stewart refused. Then Rockefeller set out to oust him.

"We have no information," Debevoise wrote, in replying to the stockholder for Rockefeller, "that Colonel Stewart originally intended to keep for his personal use the Continental Trading Co. bonds that were in his possession so long and we do not wish to express any opinion in regard to this or many other questions which naturally arise in connection with the whole transaction and with Colonel Stewart's attitude toward the senate investigation and his testimony before the senate committee.

"If Mr. Rockefeller started to make such comments his contest with Colonel Stewart would rapidly fall from the high plane on which he thinks it should be kept. He feels that the confidence of the public in the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana has been seriously impaired and that it cannot be restored without a change in leadership. We believe that in this feeling a majority not only in interest but a majority in number agree with Mr. Rockefeller and we are very anxious that everyone be encouraged to join with us."

Neither Stewart nor Rockefeller agents would make any definite prediction how the battle would go on March 7 when the annual meeting of the oil company takes place and by vote of the stockholders it is determined whether Colonel Stewart remains as chairman or whether he is pushed aside by the Rockefeller strength.

From persons close to the affairs of the company it was learned that annual meetings in the past have never brought out more than 75 per cent of the voting stock. But it was generally believed that because of the campaigns by Stewart and Rockefeller nearly every share would be put to voting use this year.

There seemed little doubt that the campaign of both sides would be spirited, although the contestants had apparently tacitly agreed to keep it from being acrimonious.

32,000 SHARES THROWN TO SUPPORT OF ROCKEFELLER

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18—(AP)—A. P. Giannini, president of the Transamerica corporation today threw the 32,000 shares of Standard Oil Company of Indiana to the support of John D. Rockefeller Jr., in the latter's fight to oust Colonel Robert W. Stewart from chairmanship of the board of directors.

Giannini said late today that he understood several other San Franciscans who held large blocks of Standard of Indiana stock had sided with Rockefeller. He was confident, he said, that Rockefeller would win.

ANOTHER PROHIBITION DEBATE IN THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP)—The senate was a forum for another prohibition debate today as an attempt was made to decide how much, if any, additional money should be appropriated to enforce the laws under the 18th amendment.

The discussion sought to determine primarily how far political influence affected enforcement of the laws but the debate ranged over the efficacy of the Volstead act, its administration under Secretary Mellon and the best means to demonstrate its success or failure.

An observation by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, that prohibition appointments are dictated largely by political influence gave an opening to Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, and that party's nominee for vice-president in the recent campaign, who declared that the prohibition workers had been mobilized to work for the election of the republican ticket.

"The controlling consideration," Robinson said, "is to get men into office who will be loyal to the administration, who would recognize the republican party as its first and dominant master.

"The prohibition forces in large part were converted into business. They were told what to do, where to go, how to vote, what influences to exert."

A possible basis for a compromise on the proposal by Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, to add $15,000,000 to the enforcement fund—the subject which has stirred up the two days of debate—and the proposal of Senator Jones, republican, Washington, to name $1,250,000 available for dissemination of law observance appeals and enlargement of the field force, was seen in a new recommendation by Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia.

REED FURNITURE AIRED AT TARIFF REVISION HEARING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP)—A charge by a New York importer that American manufacturers of reed furniture were deliberately presenting misleading information to obtain tariff increases was made today before the house ways and means committee hearings on tariff revision.

The allegation, made by Allan Gerdau, representing the Otto Gerdau Co. of New York, resulted in a rapid fire of questions from both republicans and democrats on the committee, and finally the witness was asked to produce any concrete evidence he might possess.

Gerdau, a reed importer, declared the present duty of 20 per cent ad valorem on reeds was "discriminatory and monopolistic," and had cut his business in half. He said he was amazed at the testimony of manufacturers and asserted that 60 per cent of it was unfit for presentation.

Chairman Hawley interrupted to say that this was for the committee, not the witness, to determine.

WATERBURY YOUTHS HELD FOR MIDDLETOWN HOLD-UP

MIDDLETOWN, Jan. 18— (AP) — Traced through a stolen car which they are said to have used and identified by their victim, two youths, accused of holding up a lunch wagon proprietor, were brought here tonight from Waterbury and held without bail for hearing in city court on charges of obbery tomorrow.

The youths are Edward J. Gravelin, 19, and John Roach, 19, both of Waterbury, arrested there today. They are charged with robbing Gus Mastras of $42 in his lunch wagon in East Main street here, last night.

A local policeman, unaware a holdup had been committed on his beat, jotted down the number of the automobile in which he saw three men early today. He turned the number over to his superiors with the notation "suspicious car."

The auto bearing this number was found abandoned in Waterbury two hours after Mastras had reported to Middletown police that he had been held up and robbed by three youths. Hearing three young men had been picked up after the car was found, the local police sent Mastras to Waterbury, where he was able to identify Gravelin and Roach. He could not identify the third youth, Angelo Summa, 20. Gravelin and Roach were turned over to Middletown police. They and Summa are also accused of having robbed a Waterbury grocery store. Summa is being held for questioning in Waterbury.

BARBER WARNED TO STOP RESEMBLING MUSSOLINI

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)—Frank Valentino, a barber and reputed double of Premier Mussolini, announced today that he'd been told he'd got to stop looking like Il Duce in public.

Signor Cavaradossi, Italian vice-consul, who communicated this information to Valentino, said the barber had been making use of his resemblance for publicity purposes, and that it had to stop.

"He wants to make money," asserted Signor Cavaradossi. "I called him into my office and told him that this sort of thing had to stop. He is a journeyman barber, not even the head of his own shop."

"This fellow, this barber," the signor continued, "does not look like Premier Mussolini anyway. I see no resemblance whatever."

WEATHER BUREAU WARNS OF SOUTHWEST STORM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP)—The weather bureau tonight issued the following advisory storm warning at 9:30 p. m.:

Southwest storm warnings displayed Cape Hatteras to Eastport, Maine. Storm of marked intensity central near Cleveland, Ohio moving rapidly eastnortheastward will be attended by south and southwest gales, shifting to northwest Saturday forepoon.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

ROME, Jan. 18—(AP)—At the suggestion of Premier Mussolini the council of ministers at its session approved a bill favoring increased rewards and further advantages for heads of large families and tending to prevent concentration of population in large cities.

LONDON, Jan. 18—(AP)—Sir Stewart Hewett and Lord Dawson, of Penn, physicians to King George, issued a bulletin this evening which said: "The king had a quiet day. There is no change to report in his majesty's condition. The next bulletin will be issued tomorrow night."

PARIS, Jan. 18—(AP)—A new trial was denied to Mme. Juliette Brucy, murderess, by the court of appeals. She was the last of four women condemned to the guillotine to reach the end of her resources in the courts. The only hope left them is for executive clemency by President Doumergue.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 18—(AP)—The correspondent of La Razon at Santa Fe, inland Parana river port, says that 2,000 boxes of rifles, destined to the government of Bolivia, have been unloaded there and are being held by order of the Argentine government. They were taken from aboard the German ship Schsenwald.

FIVE NEGRO BANK BANDITS REPULSED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Jan. 18—(AP)—Five Negro bandits who invaded the Franklin Trust and Savings bank in the 35th street Negro district today flourishing pistols and shotguns found four bank employes prepared. When the shooting was over the cashier, assistant cashier and a guard were wounded and the robbers fled with less than $2,000 after two of their number were believed to have been shot.

The robbers entered the bank shouting and cursing, waving shotguns and pistols. Martin French, 75, Negro guard, answered with a burst of pistol fire which disconcerted the robbers and gave Edgar Olson, cashier; Leo Poquette, assistant cashier, and William John, teller, an opportunity to open fire also.

Within five minutes more than 50 shots had been exchanged and the plate glass windows of the bank, fronting on Michigan avenue, were shattered before the quintet escaped in an automobile.

When French fired, one of the robbers discharged a shotgun into his breast, probably fatally wounding him. One of the bandits disarmed the teller, who thrust a pistol through a wicket to fire, and reaching inside, scooped up about $2,000. Olson and Poquette dropped as the robbers fired on the employes at random. Four girl employes fainted.

About 30 employes and customers were in the bank during the holdup.

FIREMAN KILLED, ENGINEER INJURED IN TRAIN WRECK

STONY CREEK, Ont., Jan. 18.—(AP)—One man was killed, one seriously injured and several others slightly injured tonight when the engine and several coaches of train No. 83 of the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo railway plunged through a washout on the track near here and rolled down a steep embankment.

The fireman, a man named Rickert, was killed and the engineer, Frank Gaunt, seriously injured. None of the injured passengers was in a serious condition, it was said.

Heavy rains during the day had loosened the track and when the fast train passed over the weak spot the rails gave way. The embankment is more than 100 feet high there and the engine and several of the cars rolled down its full length.

Rescuers had difficulty in reaching the injured at the bottom of the cliff, due to the ice and the slowness of the rescue gave rise to early reports that many had been killed.

EXPLORER CASPER WHITNEY DIED OF PNEUMONIA

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Caspar Whitney, widely known as an explorer and war correspondent, died of pneumonia today at the age of 64.

For ten years after his graduation from St. Matthews college in California he explored odd corners of the earth, only curtailing his travels to become a correspondent in Cuba during the Spanish-American war.

He was in Mexico during 1914 as a correspondent and the following two years he served with Mrs. Whitney on the commission for relief in Belgium. With America's entry into the war he became a correspondent for a New York newspaper, serving throughout the conflict.

During his editorial career he was a special writer and later editor of Harper's Weekly, Outing Magazine, Collier's Outdoor America, and Recreation.

He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Faith and Phoebe Cloe. Funeral services are to be held tomorrow from the home.

ARGUMENTS REACHED IN HARSH MURDER CASE

ATLANTA, Jan. 18—(AP)—The argument stage was reached today in the murder trial of George R. Harsh, wealthy collegian, on the charge of killing a drug store manager in a holdup robbery attempt.

Assistant Solicitor E. A. Stephens opened for the state after an hour and a half had been allotted for each side by agreement. He contended that the former student of Oglethorpe university here behaved as would any criminal on the night of October 16, 1928, when he shot to death Willard Smith, the store manager who resisted the holdup.

The defense, through 11 medical experts, friends, relatives, and others, attempted to show that the scion of a Milwaukee family was a "constitutional psychopath," incapable of judging between right and wrong, who could not resist a "criminal impulse."

RELIEVED AS DIRECTOR OF VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

HARTFORD, Jan. 18—(AP)—Frederick J. Trinder, of East Hartford, director of the bureau of trade and vocational education of the state board of education, was relieved from duty in that capacity Wednesday, it was learned today. His retirement from the department officially becomes effective on July 1, 1929.

Mr. Trinder declined to make any comment on the situation. Dr. A. B. Meredith, commissioner of education, under whose jurisdiction Mr. Trinder has acted, could not be reached at his office today, being in Stoneham, Mass., to attend the funeral of his mother-in-law.

West Nomination Discussed In Senate

After a Three-Hour Wrangle It Was Voted to Keep Hearing of the Case Behind Closed Doors.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP)—Taking up the nomination of Roy O. West, of Chicago, to be secretary of interior, the senate spent almost three hours today arguing whether his case should be discussed in open or secret session. After three roll calls it was decided to keep the case behind closed doors and debate on the nomination went over until tomorrow.

The three hour wrangle brought to a head the long series of arguments in the senate about the consideration of executive nominations and the senators were reminded again of the rule that members are subject to expulsion for disclosing what occurs in secret meetings.

Senator Nye, of North Dakota, and Norris, of Nebraska, republicans, who are opposing West's nomination, urged the open session and recalled that all the hearings on West's nomination before the lands committee were open to the public. Friends of the secretary insisted upon the regular procedure and a two-thirds vote to open the doors was not available.

By a vote of 38 to 34 the senate also refused to make public the two roll calls by which it was decided to keep the discussion in executive session.

Senator Denee, republican, Illinois, is leading the forces supporting West's nomination and he took charge of the contest today. Friends of the secretary are confident of the votes for his confirmation but they are doubtful whether a vote will be reached by tomorrow.

Finally getting down to business today, the senate received a report by Senator Glenn, republican, of Illinois, from the lands committee which voted 8 to 4 to recommend the confirmation of the secretary and a minority report prepared by Chairman Nye of the committee.

Senators Nye and Norris and others against his confirmation are opposed to West principally because of his investments in the Samuel Insull Power Utility companies. West told the committee he had invested about $67,000 in Insull Companies and that he sold these for about $118,000 when he was named secretary of interior last August by President Coolidge.

Meanwhile a report was received today by the senate in response to the resolution of Senator Nye asking the federal power commission to submit the protests received against the granting to the Cumberland Hydro-Electric company, an Insull concern, a power license at Cumberland Falls, Kentucky. Examination of the protests showed one from a mass meeting of societies in Cincinnati protesting against Mr. West sitting in the case because of his previous connection with the Insull interests.

Appearing before the senate committee, Mr. West volunteered to withdraw from consideration of any cases coming before his department in which the Insull interests might be involved.

DEATH HALTS SESSION OF SALVATION ARMY COUNCIL

SUNBURY, England, Jan. 18—(AP)—Death and the courts abruptly checked today the high council of the Salvation Army and its self-imposed task of selecting a successor to General Bramwell Booth. This business now will wait until Tuesday, if not longer.

Commissioner William Haynes, vice president of the council and one of the delegation which requested the resignation of the general, collapsed and died in the council chamber at the climax of a stormy day.

General Booth and his followers successfully blocked for the moment the attempt of the council to separate him from leadership and control of the army founded by his father. A chancery court in London granted an injunction returnable Monday, restraining the councillors from acting upon their resolution for removing the general as unfit.

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE DONE BY AN EARTHQUAKE

GUATEMALA CITY, Jan. 18—(AP)—Considerable damage was done by an earthquake which rocked Puerto Barrios at 7 p. m. last night. There were no casualties.

Puerto Barrios at the rail head on the Bay of Amatigue is the chief Carribean port of Guatemala, American fruit and timber companies have large interests there.

MARSHAL FOCH SHOWS SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT

PARIS, Jan. 18—(AP)—The "front has been stabilized," was the description by a military man of the condition tonight of Marshal Ferdinand Foch, after doctors had given out guarded and qualified comment. The physicians had said the case was "in a stationary state and showing a slight improvement after a good day."

Six Persons Were Killed By Tornado

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 18—(AP)—A tornado, swirling up the Ohio river valley and thence up the Wabash, today brought death to six persons and injuries to more than a score of others, mostly children.

The twister first struck 20 miles south of Cape Girardeau, Mo., where two children were killed. Then it pounced upon the village of Maunie, Illinois, near the southern Illinois-Indiana line. In the collapse of a school building there, at least two children were killed and about 25 other pupils were injured. Then the tornado turned north and struck Fort Branch, Ind., killing a woman and injuring two other persons.

The dead:

Marjorie Hargraves, age 4, near Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Buddie Hargraves, age 3.

Dorothy Mae Henry, age 13, Maunie, Ill.

Bernice Tucker, 11, Maunie.

Mrs. — Newman, Maunie.

Mrs. Mary Nolen, 65, Fort Branch, Ind.

Some reports from Maunie indicated a third child had been killed in the school collapse. The tornado cut a narrow path through the town, demolishing half a dozen houses as well as the school building. Reports that a smaller school house, eight miles north of Carmi, Ill., had been razed by the tornado, had not yet been confirmed late today.

Storm conditions prevailed generally in the southern half of Indiana throughout the afternoon. The temperature at Evansville soared to 64 degrees at noon. The sudden rise caused an atmospheric change which sent the barometer down rapidly, which was followed by a torrential rainstorm.

Telegraph and telephone communication from all directions out of Evansville were hampered tonight by storm conditions. A second blow south of Princeton this afternoon, tore down a stretch of poles definitely breaking wire connections from Evansville to the north.

THREE MEN DROWNED IN THE OHIO RIVER

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Three men were drowned and five or more injured today by a wind and rain storm that swept Kentucky unroofing buildings and paralyzed wire and rail facilities for several hours.

Roy Liter, 21, and Clinton Mahoney, 24, lost their lives when the skiff in which they were crossing the Ohio river to their home in Milton, Ky., from Madison, Ind., was upset by the high wind.

William Thresher, 47, a workman, was blown from a bridge under construction across the Ohio river here and drowned before aid could reach him.

Five employes were injured when the storm demolished a laundry at Elizabethtown.

Trains from the southern and western parts of the state were several hours behind schedules.

More than a hundred roofs were torn from houses, street car service was disorganized and telephone and electric light wires were blown down in Louisville. Damage was estimated at more than $100,000.

"REAL PRINCES AMONG MEN," THOUGH NOT OF ROYAL BLOOD

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)—Archduke Leopold of Austria, grandnephew of the late Emperor Franz Josef, sailed today for Barcelona on the liner Manuel Arnus, convinced that although America has no princes of royal blood she has "real princes among men."

"I have found many good sports among them," said Leopold, referring to the Americans he met during his two-year visit. "I have had a fine time in America. I have lived close to the people and have observed and studied."

The 30-year-old archduke sailed to visit his parents in Spain.

Leopold regards the acquisition of a liberal education as his work and he said he would return next year and "settle down and work real hard."

BENEFICIARY OF $4,000 CHECK IS MISSING

NEW BRITAIN, Jan. 18—(AP)—A $4,000 check went all but abegging here today.

Edward Wetmore, former foreman of the Superior Auto company, after recovering from injuries he suffered in an auto collision, sued Gordon Brothers, fruiterers, because their truck ran into a private car which he was repairing, and was awarded $4,000 by a jury.

Today his lawyers, Nair and Nair, received the check, but Wetmore could not be found. Tonight found the law firm making a desperate effort to locate its client. They learned he had left town.

Watch the Bids in Advertisements.

When a corporation, or individual, wants to buy property, or construct a building, or engage in such an undertaking invariably the first step is to seek bids on the work. This practice of competitive bidding has saved millions of dollars.

The same system can be applied to your own buying. And you can save a proportionate amount of money. How? Simply by consulting the advertising pages of The Bulletin.

When you find yourself in need of a household device, shoes clothes —anything—don't rush and buy the first one offered you. Exercise the power of selection that the advertisements give you. Read about each one, what it will do, who makes it, what it costs. In this way you will be spending your money wisely.

Every advertisement is the bid of some merchant for your trade; consider them carefully before buying.

STRENGTHENING BULWARK OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

President-Elect Hoover Directs a New Deal in Republican Leadership in New York State—Trio From the Empire State Has Been Chosen to Make Recommendations on Patronage and to Take Steps Looking to the Strengthening of the Party—Mr. Hoover is Expected to Take Similar Action Respecting Those Other States, So as to Place Control of Party Affairs Into the Hands of the Friends and Supporters.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP)—A new deal in republican leadership in New York state was decreed today by President-elect Hoover, who is expected to take similar action respecting some other states so as to place control of party affairs into the hands of his friends and supporters.

Under the New York plan, worked out at a breakfast conference at the Hoover home, H. Edmond Machold, state chairman; Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman, and William H. Hill, who holds no official position in the party, were constituted a committee to make recommendations on patronage and to take steps looking to the strengthening of the New York organization.

Chairman Machold said after the conference, which also was attended by Hill and Ogden Mills, under-secretary of the treasury, that he would act as liason officer between the committee and Mr. Hoover, reporting after there had been an agreement by the Committee of Three on recommendations for candidates for federal offices in the state.

While rather unusual, the placing of Mr. Hill was not unexpected, as he headed the independent New York Hoover-for-President organization which began to function during the pre-convention campaign, while Mr. should either draft President Coolidge Hilles was insisting that the party or again nominate Charles Evans Hughes.

Some political observers here saw in the creation of the committee and the appointment of Mr. Machold at its head a move for the gradual elimination of Mr. Hilles from party affairs in the Empire state, but at the Hoover headquarters it was said that this was not an accurate interpretation of the situation.

Mr. Hilles has been national committeeman since 1916 and for four years before that time was chairman of the republican national committee, having been selected to conduct the presidential campaign of William Howard Taft in the three-cornered race with Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

Mr. Machold became chairman of the state committee late in the last presidential campaign after the death of George K. Morris. Some of Mr. Hill's friends boomed him for the place and it was the understanding at the time that Mr. Hilles played an important part in the selection of Mr. Machold. Machold and Hill worked in close co-operation during the remainder of the campaign.

No statement regarding the breakfast conference was forthcoming from the president-elect, but late in the day Mr. Mills, one of those high in Hoover councils, issued this formal, written statement:

"At the morning conference held at Mr. Hoover's home this morning and attended by Mr. Hill, State Chairman Machold and myself, the general situation of the republican party in New York was discussed. There was general agreement that Messrs. Machold, Hilles and Hill could be relied on to take all of the steps necessary to insure co-operation and harmony among party leaders with a view to building up and strengthening party leadership and organization."

Previously the treasury under-secretary had stated orally that the purpose of the conference was to reconcile individuals rather than party factions. He added that any reported differences with the party in New York state were "purely superficial."

While Mr. Hilles did not attend today's conference, it is understood that the president-elect went over the ground with him earlier in the week when he also was a breakfast guest at the Hoover home. The national committeeman was invited in after Mr. Hoover had held a dinner conference the evening before with Under-Secretary Mills.

WAGE INCREASES FOR N. Y. CENTRAL SHOP WORKERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)—A board of arbitration today filed a report in federal court awarding immediate hourly wage increases of six and two-thirds per cent to 16,500 shop workers of the New York Central railroad.

The employes had asked a daily increase of $1.42. The board stipulated that the increases become operative next pay day.

The board directed that machinists, boiler makers, blacksmiths, sheet metal workers and electrical workers who asked for $7.50 a day shall receive 81 cents an hour; electrical workers who asked for $7.18 a day are to receive 77 cents an hour; electrical workers asking $6.70 a day are to get 71 cents an hour; electrical workers asking for $6.14 a day are to receive 64 cents an hour; Carmen (now receiving $6.08) who asked for $7.50 a day will receive 81 cents an hour; carmen asking for $7.10 a day will receive 74 cents an hour; helpers asking for $5.66 a day will receive 58 cents an hour. Regular apprentices asking for $4.06 to $6.06 a day, the latter rate to apply to four year men, are to receive from 38 to 63 cents an hour.

REPRESENTATIVE BOX'S VIEWS ON RECENT CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP)—For ten minutes the house listened in silence today while Rep. Box of Texas, the democratic whip, expressed his views on the recent campaign and declared that, if he could, he would rid that party's ranks of what he said were "subverting influences and republican control."

The Texan, who a short while ago addressed a letter to Governor Roosevelt of New York declaring the party should be freed from the influences which led to the nomination of Alfred E. Smith, prefaced his remarks with a request that he be permitted to proceed with his talk without interruption.

He so timed his utterances that the speaker's gavel banged almost simultaneously with the expiration of 10 minutes alloted to him and as a result there were no questions. When he finished a number of members, including several republicans, applauded.

Box started out by reading an article from the Minneapolis Journal which said that John J. Raskob, the chairman of the democratic national committee, had been a republican before the campaign and had continued to be one while he directed the fortunes of the democratic party.

"If I could I would free the party from subverting influences and republican control," Box said, after affirming his faith in the principles of the party and his allegiance to it.

HE SUFFERED FOR TEN YEARS

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief in 2 Months — Doctor Recommended It

Constipation is dreaded not only for its own insidious self, but because of the many serious conditions and diseases it causes. Mr. Lind was a sufferer—but read how he found relief.

"For the past 10 years I have suffered from piles. At times I have been unable to work. I have tried suppositories, ointments, etc., but to no avail.

"Two months ago my grocer called my attention to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I began taking it regularly. Immediately the pain and annoyance from the piles was relieved. I found that it requires very little ALL-BRAN to give nature a fair chance to effect a cure."—WALTER J. LIND, R. 2, Box 137, Appleton, Wis.

Don't neglect constipation. At any time its poisons may take terrible toll from your health and well-being. Protect yourself. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily, or in chronic cases, with every meal. ALL-BRAN brings sure, natural relief. It is what doctors call a bulk food. It sweeps the intestine clean and stimulates normal action.

Ready-to-eat with milk or cream. Also try the recipes on the package. Results guaranteed. Doctors recommend it because it is 100% bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served in hotels, restaurants, and dining cars. Sold by all grocers.

WESTERLY

MRS. EVA KENYON BEATEN BY ENRAGED MACK RHODES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 18—The death of Mrs. Eva Kenyon, who has figured recently in court cases in New London and Westerly, must have resulted from a beating up received Friday noon about 12:30, at the rear of her boarding place, 159 Main street, but for the timely arrival of Police Officer George L. Madison. Mack Robinson Rhodes, 45, part Indian and white, residing with his 75-year-old mother, Sarah F., widow of William H. Rhodes, who has been on parole for about a year from the Rhode Island State hospital at Howard, was her assailant. He had dragged her by the hair out of the house and was thus holding her while he swung blows upon her body and declared that he would kill her. Just previous he had been lying on his bed in his room and was reported to have made an attack upon his aged mother. When the Kenyon woman appeared there followed a general roughhouse in which both women were thrown about by the powerful man and out into the yard the combat was continued.

Officer Madison rushed to the place in the police car and went to the rear of the house to seize Rhodes. Grappling with the man, he snapped handcuffs upon him and called upon two passing truck drivers to cut down a clothesline and to tie his legs, while both men rolled upon the ground. When Rhodes was subdued and tied, he was placed in a passing laundry express truck and while three men sat upon him was taken to the police station. The new straight-jacket and feet straps recently purchased for the police department were brought into use and eight men assisted in placing Rhode in security while he alternately, struggled, raved and swore at the police and helpers.

Chief of Police Brown who had been summoned from Dixon square to assist in securing Rhodes called the authorities of the Rhode Island State Welfare Institutions at Howard and notified them of Rhodes' condition. John J. Durkin, rehabilitation worker of the state hospital for mental diseases at Howard, accompanied by Assistant Albert Anderson and two wardens, drove to Westerly and after a further tussle departed with Rhodes for Howard.

At the police station while waiting for the state authorities Chief Brown assigned Officers Madison and Norman to watch Rhodes. Less than half an hour after Rhodes had been secured at the police station he had what the hospital authorities termed a "seizure" when he suddenly jumped or leaped from the chair in which he sat in the patrolman's room and although bound hand and foot fell back in the chair smashing it to pieces. In another leap he fell bodily to the floor and rolled and struggled until exhausted.

When the police went to get the Kenyon woman who was cut, bruised and scratched with hair torn from her head, they found that she had taken her departure for New London, where Rhodes is said to have a brother.

PAWCATUCK CONG. CHURCH HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

The 86th annual meeting of Pawcatuck Congregational church, Rev. Luther G. Coburn, pastor, was held Thursday at the church on West Broad street. Stormy weather prevented the attendance of many of the members. Officers elected were: Trustee for three years, George Smith; deacons for three years, David B. Hart, Stuart Cruickshank; treasurer, Mrs. Clarence Vars; clerk, L. E. Peck; collector, Miss Jean Dey; members of church committee, Mrs. George Kemp, Mrs. John Olson, Mrs. James Fiddes; superintendent of Sunday school, James Rae; auditor, Andrew Lowe.

The pastor is Rev. L. G. Coburn. During the past year the entire interior of the church building has been thoroughly renovated, the ceilings redecorated and floors painted. The report of the treasurer showed all bills paid and the largest balance in the church treasury in over ten years.

At the Friday morning session of the Third District court, Judge Oliver H. Williams on the bench, matters were disposed of as follows: Criminal docket, State, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police, vs. Lawrence Hunter. Continued two weeks. Civil docket, Charles H. Gavitt vs. Joseph A. Guarino. Clifton D. Hall vs. Angelo Pucci. Oscar Silverman et al vs. Pasquale Salimeno et ux. James W. Burke vs. Thorman F. Eldredge. Andrews and Co., vs. Alvira A. Sisson. Harry Dobson vs. Charles Wells, are continued two weeks.

When the civil case for the collection of attorneys' fees, Clarence E. Roche vs. William M. Champlin was called, Mr. Champlin arose to ask for a two weeks' continue, stating to Judge Williams that he had engaged an attorney and had paid him something on account, but the lawyer had refused to come into court unless he was paid more money. Respondent added "I don't blame him so much, as another lawyer is already suing me to collect fees!" He asked for time to work for money to pay his lawyer in a further continuance of two weeks, Judge Williams granting the continuance with the assurance that the case would go to trial with lawyer at that time.

FRANK W. COY DIES EARLY FRIDAY MORNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Jan. 18—The sudden death of Frank Woodbury Coy, 72, resulted from a blood clot, at his home, 53 Elm street at 4 a. m. today. Mr. Coy had been confined to his home for a time, but the first of the week was uptown for a short time.

For the last year or more his health had not been of the best, and at several periods he had not been able to attend to his business.

Mr. Coy was born in Westerly July 2, 1856, the son of Woodbury Coy and Sarah E. Crandall of Charlestown. He was educated in the schools of Westerly, and later took a course at Bryant & Stratton college, Providence. He served as a clerk for several years with E. A. Lewis and John B. Brown, later became a partner in the firm, finally he and Mr. Lewis bought out Mr. Brown, and conducted a grocery business at 60 Main street. Mr. Coy took over the business later and continued it himself until he took in a partner, William H. Wilson. At this time, Mr. Coy started a real estate and insurance business in connection with his other interests. In 1903 he sold out the grocery business to James H. Blades. Mr. Coy continued for a short time his branch store at Watch Hill, which gave him his introduction to the Watch Hill people and developed a large real estate business there. In 1903 Mr. Coy opened a real estate and fire insurance business in Westerly.

Mr. Coy was a member of Westerly chamber of commerce and Westerly board of trade in both of which bodies he headed the traffic committees. It was due in great measure to his efforts that action resulted from the New Haven road, which gave Westerly many benefits, among others a great improvement in the train service. Mr. Coy was known far and wide for his activities in promoting the shore resorts of Westerly for the past 35 years. He has been active, especially in the development of Watch Hill.

In Westerly realty development Mr. Coy's efforts resulted in the building up of Prospect Park, the section now traversed by Park and Highland avenues and Summer street.

Mr. Coy was united in marriage with Miss Bessie W. Holmes of Stonington, October 26, 1887. Four children were born to them, Edward Brown, in business with his father, Arthur Holmes, connected with the Westerly water works department, Sallie Elizabeth, assistant librarian of the Westerly library, and Louise Crandall, who is in the office of her father. Mr. Coy was a director and vice president of the Westerly Savings & Loan association, and a member of the First Baptist church. He was descended from John Coy, who married Sarah Woodbury, October 27, 1745. They lived in Bristol and Barrington.

OBITUARY

Andrew R. Jordan.

Andrew R. Jordan, 67, died Friday morning at 6 o'clock at the Westerly hospital. He was taken Tuesday afternoon to the hospital in the ambulance of the Westerly Sanitary corps from his plumbing shop on Canal street, suffering with influenza.

About twenty years ago he served for a time as Pawcatuck patrolman. The greater part of his life, however, he has been engaged in the plumbing business on Canal street.

Besides his wife, he is survived by three sons, Andrew R., Jr., of Boston, Mass., and Joseph and John Jordan of Westerly.

Joseph F. Matthews.

Joseph Francis Matthews, 61, died Friday morning at his home, 58 John street. He had been ill about a month. He was born at St. Petersport, Guernsey, British Channel Isles, on Dec. 4, 1867. With his wife, Rachel Blick Matthews he came to this country about 40 years ago and had since resided in Westerly. For over 20 years he was employed at the local plant of the American Thread Co., and for the past 13 years he had worked for the George C. Moore Co., retiring only a month ago.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, Austin Matthews of Providence and Louis Matthews of Westerly and a daughter, Mrs. Clarence Pinkham of South Bristol, Me. There are four grandchildren.

FUNERAL.

Bradford G. Perrin.

The funeral of Bradford Green Perrin, 79, was held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Clark's Falls chapel. The services were conducted by Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, D. D., pastor of Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church. During the service, William Hair sang "In the Sweet Bye and Bye." Burial was in the Brown cemetery in North Stonington, where the committal service was conducted by Dr. Burdick. Eight grandsons were bearers, Gordon, Grant, Albert and Everett Perrin, Louis Rochette, Denison Wells, Wilbur Wells and Robert Green, Jr.

Miss Evalina Harrington.

Westerly friends have learned of the death of Miss Evalina Harrington, a former resident of Westerly, which occurred at her home in El Paso, Texas. During her residence here she made many friends and in spite of the distance she came to Westerly for a visit every summer.

No near relatives survive her.

COLUMBIA

NEARLY 8,000 VOLUMES IN S. B. LITTLE FREE LIBRARY

The annual business of the Saxton B. Little Free Library association was held at the library Monday evening. The treasurer's report showed $319.39 receipts for the year, with expenditures of $255.35 leaving a balance of $64.04. The trustees' report showed $5,347.40 invested trust funds. Librarian reported a circulation of 3029; visitors at the library 1285; and 418 children's books. During the year 59 books have been received from the state, 10 were given and 27 purchased, making a total of nearly 8,000 volumes in the library at present. About 40 resident families are represented by those taking books and 50 summer visitors. It is interesting to note that the all-year residents draw most heavily in books from October to April that being the farm family's time of greatest leisure. During the summer months the books drawn by summer people greatly outnumber those drawn by residents. The following officers were elected: President, William M Wolff; vice president, Howard Rice; secretary, C. E. Hunt; treasurer, E. P. Lyman; trustee, H. B. Hutchins; assistant trustee, E. P. Lyman.

The pupils at the Center school are having an unscheduled vacation, due to the illness of their teacher, who is suffering from one of the prevailing hard colds.

Mrs. Hubert Collins is recovering from a severe cold.

Mrs. Harvey Collins and infant daughter Janet arrived home Thursday from the private hospital in Willimantic.

Miss Anne Dix has returned from Boston where she has been spending several weeks.

Storing 9-inch Ice.

Luther Buell is filling his ice-house with 9-inch ice cut from one of the coves in the lake. The center of the lake was open until a few days ago, but the extreme cold has now closed over the entire surface in ice of varying thickness.

Wednesday morning was the coldest of the season, with temperature ranging from zero to 16 below, according to the locality.

Colds are becoming prevalent.

Grange Installation.

The annual installation of the officers of Columbia grange was held on Wednesday evening. The installing officer was State Deputy Harold Hansen of Coventry grange, assisted by Mr. Wilcox of Tolland grange and Mr. Hill of Coventry grange. Following the installation ceremony supper was served by the committee. The next meeting will be February 6th in charge of the new officers. The officers installed were:

PRESTON

Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson and Rev. and Mrs. John Smith left Monday for a motor trip south. Mr. and Mrs. Smith expect to stop at North Carolina to visit relatives and Mr. and Mrs. Richardson plan to go to Florida.

Friends were saddened to learn of the death of Clifford Main, at Tucson, Arionia, last Monday. Much sympathy is felt for the family in their bereavement.

Next Tuesday evening is to be installation of Grange officers at the local Grange, with Worthy Deputy C. M. Adams, of Groton, installing.

Mrs. Gilbert Burns spent Sunday with her mother at Graniteville.

THE REMARKABLE NEW

"FINGER-TIP CONTROL"

Greater beauty and improved design in new Whippets and Willys-Knights

The ultra-modern lines and larger bodies of the new Superior Whippet are winning the enthusiastic praise of Four and light Six buyers, while the new style Willys-Knight Six is the largest, most beautiful and most powerful Knight-engined car ever offered at so low a price.

See and examine these superb cars without delay! An immediate order will aid in early delivery.

What it means to you in driving convenience and safety

Willys-Overland is the first producer of automobiles to equip all its passenger cars and commercial vehicles with the wonderful new "Finger-Tip Control."

A single button, conveniently located in the center of the steering wheel, controls all functions of starting the motor, operating the lights and sounding the horn.

This fundamental improvement does away with all troublesome foot fumbling for the starting button. You can keep your foot always on the brake when starting or re-starting on a hill—an obvious safety advantage of major importance.

"Finger-Tip Control" also avoids changing from the comfortable driving position to reach a light switch on the dash. You can at all times keep your eyes on the road, and the hand that operates the button flashes back to the rim of the wheel in any steering emergency.

DANIELSON

WAUREGAN MAN DIES AT NORWICH HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 18—Matthew Beauregard, 27, died last night at the Backus hospital at Norwich. The body was taken to the home in Wauregan in charge of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy. Mr. Beauregard had undergone a surgical operation. He was a native of the town of Plainfield and lived in Wauregan all of his life. He leaves his wife, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russell, two aunts, Mrs. Dora Shippee and Mrs. Rose Bedard, and two uncles, Lionel Russell and George Russell, all of the town of Plainfield. His parents are dead.

Many were the tales of what automobile drivers and those riding with them went through during the period between the early hours of this morning and late afternoon of yesterday. Drivers told today of requiring two hours to cover distances usually easily covered in 45 minutes. The highways all through this section were one glare of ice, the rain that was falling and the fog that came later making the going doubly difficult. In some cases machines were driven onto the property of acquaintances of the drivers and allowed to remain there for the night. Dozens of cars skidded and in some instances turned over, yet with all the difficulties no one was reported injured. On hills that had been sanded by state highway crews the long drawn out storm covered up much of the protective material during the early hours of the evening. Early this morning with a rise in temperature that was a rapid improvement in traveling conditions and there continued to be throughout the day, with the mercury registering as high as 45 degrees in the early afternoon.

Postmaster E. H. Keach has again made known to the postal officials at Washington the series of complaints he has received and the consequences of the delays of late arrival of the morning boat train, bringing the most important mail of the day to Danielson. Mr. Keach previously has taken this matter up with the superiors in his department of the government service, but the results have not been regularly anywhere near what is desired by local interests in on-time delivery of their morning mail. Still another suggestion heard in business circles here today was that the government put morning mail trucks in service, thus giving delivery as has been made for some time since by another truck operating out of Worcester mornings and getting here about mid-forenoon. This service has proved dependable and is appreciated.

Pre-inventory sale closes Saturday at the Alice-Eleanor shop. Many wonderful bargains still available. Heavy price reductions on all lines excepting corsets.—Adv.

The body of Charles J. LaMothe, 26, was brought to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis LaMothe in Danielson today in charge of Undertaker Martin T. Burns from the Peter Bent Brigham hospital in Boston, where he died during Thursday. The young man had been ill only a short time. He was a native of this town and had lived here about all of his life. In addition to his parents he leaves three sisters, Misses Lauretta, Yvonne and Flora LaMothe, and a brother, Wilfred, all of Danielson.

It was made known this afternoon that Mrs. Annie Russell Marble of Worcester will come here on the afternoon of Friday, February 1, to speak before members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., on Authors in Dunnsike, at the Westfield Congregational church. Arrangements may be made by interested persons, through members of the chapter, to attend this lecture. The local chapter also has made known that it has accepted an invitation of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R., to be guests at Odd Fellows' hall in Putnam on March 11, for a lecture on Early Shipping Days in New England to be given by Mrs. Alice Collins Gleason of Providence.

In addressing members of the local chapter at their January meeting yesterday afternoon Supt. W. E. Parker of Killingly's schools, discussing some interesting phases of work in the public schools, traced the development of the nation's educational system from the days of the little red school house and its simple course of studies through various stages of advancement up to its present high state of efficiency, touching also on the evolving of the modern school building with its many facilities for aiding pupils along the road of knowledge.

Cars operated by Arthur W. Logee, carrier on the rural delivery mail route out of the Danielson office, and by Wee See Wee, a Chinese resident of Providence, were in collision today in East Brooklyn near The Pines. The slippery roadway condition was held responsible for the accident, in which both cars were considerably damaged. Mr. Logee received a small cut over one ear, but neither driver was materially hurt in the accident.

In legal circles an impression appears to be growing that under certain circumstances it is going to become increasingly difficult to obtain convictions in liquor cases where evidence is obtained by secret agents operating for police departments. Attention is directed to this through the case of Philip Hebert of Plainfield, acquitted in the superior court at Putnam this week of a charge of making a sale of liquor to one Aldor Blanchette of Voluntown, who was working under the direction of state officers. Counsel for Hebert probed into Blanchette's reputation, establishing from a federal court record that he had served upwards of 18 months in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta for a violation of the Mann act and discrediting his veracity by introducing Officer Henry Maynard of Jewett City to testify that Blanchette had told him of "framing" a man in that town by presenting false testimony against him in a liquor case. Hebert was fined in the Plainfield town court on Blanchette's testimony, but appealed to the superior court and was acquitted. This becomes of special interest because other cases in which Blanchette is scheduled to appear as a witness have been appealed for re-hearing in the superior court.

In acquitting Hebert, the superior court sustains the position Judge W. Fenner Woodward of the town court of Killingly took last November in freeing Albert Stebenne of Danielson and Walter Murphy of Dayville from punishment on testimony offered against them, in liquor cases by Blanchette, when the defendants pleaded not guilty and introduced not only their own testimony but that of other witnesses to establish they had not made sales to Blanchette.

Danielson members of the Quinebaug Circuit league are to meet next Friday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church in Moosup. Rev. Albert Abbottes of the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church will speak.

Mrs. Patrick Murray of Academy street has as her guest Miss Annie C. Murray of Los Angeles.

Nature took a hand today in settling the discussions about coasting on hilly streets in Danielson by melting off much of the snow and ice and leaving numerous bare spots.

Mrs. James H. Diggitt, who died in Westerly a few days ago, formerly was a resident of Killingly Center.

Tuesday afternoon members of the Ladies' Prayer league are to meet with Mrs. K. A. Darbie of Broad street.

Having been engaged with their mid-year examinations the past three days, this week end comes as a welcome one to the students at Killingly high school.

A twisted ankle, an injury caused by slipping on the ice, has kept Mrs. A. V. Woodworth confined to her home the past week.

Mrs. S. S. Stone is en route to Florida to spend the remainder of the winter, as has been her custom for a number of years.

Newly elected officers of Brooklyn grange will be in Putnam next Monday evening to be installed at a joint installation of officers of other granges in that section of the county.

Some cars that had to be abandoned last night because of the icy going were able to proceed this morning.

It is announced that Mrs. Annie May Clapp of Danielson and Vivian A. Perkins of Occum were married here on New Year's day by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong.

Killingly's representatives in the legislature have the same committee appointments as they held at the last session, Representative A. W. Williams being on the motor vehicle committee and Representative William S. Hunter on the committee on corporations.

Judge Sebin S. Russell was the speaker at last evening's meeting of the Danielson Rotary club.

Henry Boulais, on a vagrancy charge, was before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court and was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail.

Former employes of the Connecticut Mills here write from the new plant of the concern at Albany-Decatur, Ala., of the wonderfully fine weather now being enjoyed down there while New England is having its season of snow and ice.

F. W. Tillinghast of Central Village has purchased from the estate of George H. Call, the Call residence on Broad street. This is one of the finest homes in Danielson. Mr. Tillinghast's stallation at a joint installation of announced.

COLCHESTER

CHAS. S. VAN CLEVE DIES AT BINGHAMPTON, N. Y.

Albert T. Van Cleve has received notice of the death of his brother, Charles S. Van Cleve in Binghampton, N. Y., Wednesday, January 16. Mr. Van Cleve had been connected with the Binghampton fire department for the past thirty-seven years and for a number of years has been chief of the department. He had visited Colchester several times in the past few years and was particularly interested in the success of the local fire company.

Principal Raymond Q. Kendall has been confined to his home on South Main street ill with a light attack of influenza.

Arthur W. Holmes of New London was a caller here Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wickwire of New Haven, former local residents were guests Thursday of Mr. Wickwire's sister, Miss Addie M. Wickwire. During the day they motored to Hebron and called on Mrs. Emma Bestor at the Hough home.

Has Pneumonia.

Local friends of Mrs. A. F. Roper are informed that she is still confined to her bed ill with pneumonia at the home of her daughter in Whitinsville, Mass.

One of the Colchester druggists reports that his sales of cough and cold remedies have increased tenfold during the past few weeks.

Lloyd W. Brown and Eugene P. Beebe are making a few days visit in Boston.

WESTMINISTER

An accident due to the slippery condition of the state road occurred Tuesday on Westminster hill in which a Chrysler sedan and a gasoline oil truck from Bridgeport figured. The Chrysler driven by the owner, a Willimantic man, was proceeding down the hill and when near the truck the Chrysler began to skid on the icy surface. The driver applied the brakes, but the Chrysler turned completely around and collided with the truck which was slowly ascending the hill. The Chrysler lost a wheel and sustained a damaged running board and fender. The truck with only a slightly bent fender later proceeded on its way. A wrecker from Willimantic took charge of the Chrysler. The owner of the Chrysler assumed responsibility for the accident.

Zero weather is an old story now, if this way, every is busy keeping account of how far below the mercury registers. One resident, who figured he had enough alcohol in the radiator of his car for zero weather did not need to look at the thermometer on a morning recently. It was far below and his car has a new radiator.

Shirley, infant daughter, and only child of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Peloquin, of Norwich, formerly of Westminster, was born in Norwich New Year's day, which was also the sixth wedding anniversary of her parents.

Mrs. A. T. Macleod left Tuesday for New York where her sister, Mrs. Arthur Nodolly is seriously ill.

GURLEYVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. John Mikes of Hanks Hill have announced the coming marriage of their daughter, Miss Bertha Mikes and Arthur Chasse of Lincoln avenue, Willimantic, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chasse. They will be married in the fall.

Oliver Wood has been home from college recently.

Grace Geissler is employed at Norwich.

Mrs. Samuel Morse and family who have been ill are recovering.

Miss Olive Dunham is ill.

Josephine Ziska was in Hartford recently.

FRANKLIN

The two 4-H clubs, the Franklin Thimble-Wearers and the Nimble Workers meet today (Saturday) at the homes of their respective leaders, Miss Florence J. Rockwood and Miss Julia Rodman.

PUTNAM

LOCAL DRIVERS EXPERIENCE FEW TROUBLES ON ICY ROADS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 18—The favor of the gods rested on the shoulders of automobile drivers in this section last evening when no accidents of any nature occurred during the night. The highways were covered with ice, as the result of the freezing of the mist alighting upon them. Several cars were seen to skid but averted all crashes. The state highway department with trucks and sand worked until an early hour this morning, sanding the roads.

Shortly after midnight Thursday, mounting temperature and heavy fogs proved to melt the ice. The unusual beauty and grandeur that generally accompanies an ice storm was not realized by nature lovers today, since the nature painters lost their grip on the earth before the arrival of the sun this morning, which illuminates the landscape with sparkling beauty.

Scores of residents of the city are today confined to their beds, suffering with grip, bronchial and nasal afflictions, as the result of exposures during the past few days. The varied temperatures, from freezing winter to spring-like temperature, are said to be the cause of the increased number of cases of minor sickness, according to local physicians.

While no "flu" has as yet been discovered, public gathering places have posted warnings, urging patrons to be exceedingly careful while sneezing. The school health department is maintaining vigilance over students for outward symptoms of influenza, by regular examinations of the scholars.

Word has been received from Priv. Henry Bugbee, formerly of this city, now a member of the United States marine corps, stationed in Cape Haitien, republic of Haiti, that he expects to receive a furlough from the service in the near future. Private Bugbee, since his enlistment in the service three years ago, has been in the southern republic. In letters to Putnam friends, Bugbee states that the leathernecks are enjoying the tropical summer climate while New England freezes.

Mrs. Gertrude Woznicki, of Canal street, died last evening following a prolonged illness, at the age of 48 years. Mrs. Woznicki is a native of Vermont. She has resided in Putnam for the past decade, where she made a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. Mrs. Woznicki was a member of St. Mary's church of this city and was highly devoted to her religious duties. Mrs. Woznicki is survived by the following children: Mrs. Lillie Baker, Mrs. Lorretta Benoit, Miss Albina, Miss Agnes and Chester Woznicki, all of whom reside in this city.

The season's first thaw today saw the overflow of sewers and surplus water finding its way into the streets in the business section, making the thoroughfares difficult for pedestrian traffic. On Union square several women who ventured out attired in their best were victims of the splashing water and snow as automobiles darted into Main street.

The senior class of Tourtellotte Memorial high school held its annual novelty dance at the high school auditorium in North Grosvenordale last evening. The gathering was a brilliant affair and was largely attended by the student body. A feature of the evening was the distribution of novelties and the releasing of a number of huge colored streamers. Proceeds derived from the dance will be used to defray graduation expenses.

Representatives Leon A. Talbot and J. Otis Fox, Jr., of this city, were appointed to the legislative committees at the convening of the legislature in Hartford yesterday. Mr. Fox has been appointed to serve on the committee on aviation while Mr. Talbot received an appointment to the committee on congressional and senatorial districts.

The Young Farmers' club of the Windham County Farmers' association has arranged for a Young Farmers' club meeting to be held at the home of Clinton L. Taylor, in South Woodstock, on Thursday evening, Jan. 24. The club members co-operating with Raymond E. Wing, county agent, have secured the services of P. L. Putnam, who will be the principal speaker of the evening. The meeting also contains plans for a round table discussion on "Labor Efficiency."

All of the youngest members of the county farming association are urged to be present at the meeting to take part in the discussions. Clayton Peckham and Clinton Taylor, both of Woodstock, are assisting the local farm bureau in order to make the gathering a success.

The school health department has commenced its work in inoculating the students with toxin anti-toxin for the prevention of diphtheria. About a week ago the school department announced that the work would be carried out providing the consent of the parents was obtained. It is apparent that a number of parents of the school children have approved of the medical treatment, despite the warnings, distributed by the anti-vaccinationists, advising against the treatments. The school health department is to conduct the clinics in all of the schools of the city.

A number of the regular teachers in the schools of the city have been forced to abandon their duties because of illness. Supt. of Schools Farrin said this afternoon that all vacancies are being filled at the present by substitutes. It is expected that all teachers will be physically fit to return to their duties Monday.

Putnam people, if alert, will be able to catch occasional glimpses of John Coolidge, fiance of the daughter of Gov. John H. Trumbull. The son of the president is now employed by the New Haven railroad and is assigned to check running schedules of trains running over the main line of the New Haven division. Coolidge, it was said by local officials, will make several trips over the road on the trains during the forthcoming month of February. The son of the president rode over the main line a week ago, checking the time schedules of one of the New Haven's crack fliers. His presence in the cab of the engine was unknown to residents of the city.

The outcome of the bar examinations held recently in Hartford have been announced. J. Olney Brott, of Thompson, was successful in the tests, while two Putnam law students failed, Miss Elsie Gallant and J. Arthur Plessis. Miss Gallant was stricken with appendicitis shortly after she returned from the capitol city, after taking the examinations, and was forced to enter St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester. Miss Gallant had been suffering from an illness before she went to Hartford. She will apply for permission to take the exams in the summer.

The arrival of spring was forecast in the flying of a number of wild geese northward today over Putnam Heights section of the city. Those who saw the birds this morning forecast an early spring, while others are of the opinion that the group became separated from the flock. The honking of the geese was heard, while they were flying at a low altitude, endeavoring to locate feeding grounds. Still there may be a vast amount of confidence placed in the old story that spring came with the geese, since the mercury drifted upward today until it reached a point at 53 degrees early this afternoon.

Gustav Stein, of North Grosvenordale, who was seriously injured several weeks ago when his automobile crashed into the side of a railroad engine at Perryville crossing, was discharged today from the Webster hospital. Stein sustained a fracture at the base of the skull and narrowly escaped death when his car was thrown against a nearby embankment. Railroad officials stated that Stein failed to adhere to the warnings displayed at the crossing, of the approaching train.

Lester G. Herlihy and J. H. Bulger were in Providence today.

A farewell party was given Miss Blanche Laporte, of Southbridge, at the home of Mrs. G. C. Marcel, last evening, on Woodstock avenue. Miss Laporte is to enter the Convent of the Presentation of Mary on Feb. 11. A number of guests were present. Bridge games were played, which were followed by a buffet lunch served by the hostess.

The "Pastime club," the city's latest addition to fraternal circles, is to close its doors tonight, after an existence of about a month. The Pastime club was organized by a group of young men in the city. Its established headquarters were on School street. Upon the resignations of Fritz Proux, president, Vice-President Philip Foisey and Peter Dumas, secretary, the members have decided to disband. The club rooms are to be taken over it is understood, by the Albert J. Breault post of Veterans of Foreign Wars. The veteran post is a flourishing organization, consisting of ex-service men of this city.

Indications are that the protest of the Danielson Armory five, regarding Jack Crowe alleged roughness in the Southern New England basketball loop has not as yet materially affected the league, since the games played by the locals following the protest have served to draw capacity crowds. Cronin has figured in games in Putnam, Plainfield and elsewhere, since the Danielson five called his rough play to the attention of the league officials and in each event the fans turned out to watch the dashing member of the world championship football team, the Providence Steam Rollers, in action.

CANTERBURY GREEN

The Grange held a regular meeting Wednesday evening with the newly installed officers in charge. A report of the proceedings of the state grange was given by the master, Miss Grace Dawley, and the lecturer, Miss Elise Hawes, who also attended the state session. Singing from lately purchased song books was a feature of the evening. A few games were enjoyed at the social hour. The next meeting's program will be under the direction of Mrs. Grace Wright.

Sixteen from Canterbury Grange, including a degree team were at Plainfield Tuesday evening to confer the first and second degrees on a class.

The first whist of the season was held at Grange hall Friday evening with a fair attendance. Prizes were taken by Elbridge Kinne and Mrs. James Davis, Mr. Kerr and Mrs. Levi Clark, Richard Parkhurst and Grace Wright. Cake and coffee were served.

Mrs. Christian Kerr was in Hartford last week to attend the governor's reception.

A number of people are afflicted with the prevailing grip or colds, among them the families of Malcolm Wibberly and Dudley Ferguson.

School at the Green has been closed this week on account of the illness of the teacher, Mrs. Edward Lovell. Mrs. Arthur Tracy, the teacher at Westminster is ill also.

Mrs. Lillian Frink, Canterbury postmistress has been confined to the house this week.

Mrs. Dwight Bushnell is reported ill.

The Ladies' Aid society, will meet next Tuesday with Mrs. Hiram Hawes.

James Lathrop and W. B. Kerr are among those drawn for jury duty at the superior court at Putnam.

Work on the state road here has ceased for the winter with the exception of that on the new bridge over the brook near James Lathrop's. The road is in a fairly passable condition and much of it has already been stoned and rolled.

The potato crop this year is the largest that the country has ever produced.

JEWETT CITY

SUDDEN TEMPERATURE RISE DASHES ICEMEN'S HOPES

Again the "almost" ice crop has received its third set-back, lining up with last winter's melted promises. No ice can stand up under such radical changes in temperature. Tuesday morning there were seven inches of ice, with the mercury at 9 below zero. Friday, at 1 p. m., there were five and one-half inches, with the mercury at 51 above—a rise of 60 degrees.

COLLECTION OF CALENDARS COVERS VARIED SUBJECTS

Many callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox are expressing admiration at the display of beautiful and artistic 1928 calendars. Within the collection, which numbers 57, are many of the handsomest prints, natural water colors, photographs and canvas reproductions, to be seen anywhere. Everyone was a gift to the present owner. The admiration of those who daily see the set is divided, because of the widely diversified subjects, which have been taken up by the firms and traffic organizations that choose to make use of this form of advertising. The railroad calendars are the most striking and outstanding in the group. There is the new issue of the Pennsylvania system, "Harnessing the Plane to the Iron Horse," and the New York Central's "Westward Bound in the Mohawk Valley," showing the 20th Century Limited in a fine setting of Appalachian scenery at sunset; and the new "Serving New England" print by the N. Y., N. H. & H. These make a trio of railroad calendars unexcelled. The first two are from paintings by Grif Tellar and Walter L. Green, respectively, and are reproductions true to color and detail. The steamship lines are represented by the White Star. The sets from the Attleboro Falls, Mass., jewelry and box firms are all water colors, done by hand from the original, and are Gerlach-Barklow creations. To be seen in one set from the W. N. Fisher Co., are eight years' issues, all young women's photographs, large cabinet mountings, tinted in water colors by hand; they are chosen from among the beautiful girls of eastern Massachusetts. The group of bank calendars includes novelties from the Jewett City Savings bank, the Brooklyn, Conn., Savings, the Windham National, the Middletown Savings and the Atlantic National of Boston. These portray landscapes and scenery with "Lugand Smiles Beneath Italian Skies", also a pleasing ocean picture from the Atlantic, "Rolling Down to Rio." The American Bank Note Co. issues its accustomed unique offering and in varied colors. A New York linen supply company finally allowed its "Bewitching Eyes," a masterpiece, to go outside the trade. The General Electric also presents in its regular calendar, a series of 12 paintings, all from the brush of W. L. Green, that serve to show augmented strength and new economics in modern electrical equipment.

The home town issues are more beautiful than in previous years, and display many points of excellence comparing favorably with the rest. The local firms which are contributory to the sets are: Charles R. Carey, A. Zegeer, J. B. LeClaire, E. J. Jodoin, Elias Anthony, Polish corporation, E. L. Alley, F. H. Driscoll, Eagle restaurant, Mrs. Grace Webster, William M. McNicol, Daniel J. Sullivan, Jewett City Cash store, Jewett City Savings bank, Quality bakery, Adams' Motor, Jewett City garage, and Jewett City Auto Sales. The insurance sets and those of several Rhode Island and Connecticut granite companies are of much interest. Outstanding among those from Colonial Panorama are "Barbara Frietchie" from U. S. Mortgage & Trust Co., of N. Y., and the beauty from the Smith Granite Co., Westerly, R. I., "Washington Inspecting the First Money Coined by the United States." Of special attraction, as being from original canvases by artists of note, are "Mt. Baker, Giant of the Cascades," from A. V. Woodworth, Danielson; and a rare painting, "Nature's Panorama," from Larkin Reed Co., of Danielson; "Old Ironsides," from the Wauregan store, and "Too Many Thumbs" from Franklin Machine Co., of Providence. There are several salt water scenes from Fall River and New Bedford firms.

Others particularly attractive are: "Sweet Rose of Araby," from the Foxon Labels of Providence; Wheator Lumber Co., of Putnam; The Worcester Rendering Co.; Tucco, Inc., of Worcester, Mass.; C. E. Barber, of Central Village; D. A. Boyd, of Halifax, N. S.; Pieroni's Sea Grill and Tuttle's Elixir, of Boston.

The De Laval Separator Co., of New York, has a new issue as large as a door. Sporting designs of special attraction are from the Hercules Powder Co., of Delaware, Winchester Arms Co., and Thomas Redfern & Sons, of Fall River. Those from the Thames Lumber Co., and Leno's Market from New London are to be admired, as well as the "Big Redwoods" picture from the R. Hoe Co., of N. Y.

At the Congregational church Sunday evening, L. D. Howe is to give a stereopticon lecture on his last summer's trip to Zion Park, Utah.

Miss S. Nettie Johnson, a Riverside grammar school teacher, fell on the icy walks while going home from school, Thursday afternoon. She was unable to be at her school duties Friday.

Miss Helen M. Iago, of North Brookfield, Mass., is teaching in the White district school. She was a graduate of Worcester Normal school in 1924.

Representative Lionel E. Boucher, from Griswold, has been named on the new counties and county seats committee, and George A. Ross on the forfeited rights and state prison committees.

Miss Russell in Charge

A home demonstration meeting in chair seating is to be held in Pachaug church chapel Tuesday morning next at 10 o'clock. Ruth T. Russell, home demonstration agent, will be in charge.

The Baptist Ladies' Aid society met at the home of Mrs. A. M. Brown, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Brown was assisted by Mrs. Edward Raney, Mrs. Martin Davis, Miss May Blake and Mrs. S. F. Brown.

Wednesday's treacherous walking demonstrated to perfection, with no waits or delays, the popular radio song, "I fa' down and go bum'!"

Fire in the picker room in the Fisk Tire Co. textile division at 11:15 Wednesday night caused considerable damage. The pickers were not in operation Friday.

PLAINFIELD

LIBRARY ASSOCIATION HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Harold Grant of Hartford was a caller Wednesday at the home of Rev. William C. Prentiss.

Mrs. Elmer Greene and daughter Helen were callers in Norwich Thursday.

ANDOVER

Mrs. Jennie Brown, 84, who died at her home here Monday evening, was a resident of Bolton for many years, but had lived here for 19 years. She leaves no near relatives. Her nephew, Clayton Root, lives at Leonard Bridge, and she also has a nephew in Hartford. Her funeral services were held in the church here Friday afternoon.

The body of William Maxwell, of Hartford, was brought here Wednesday and burial was in the Townsend cemetery.

The Ladies' Benevolent society met Thursday afternoon in the conference house.

The annual installation of officers in the local grange will be held next Monday night in the town hall. Howard Stanley is chairman of the supper committee.

Colds are prevalent.

Yesterday was the coldest morning of the winter so far, the thermometer going as low as 17 below in some places in town. Several inches of snow fell in the storm of Tuesday morning.

LEBANON

CULLING OF PUREBRED HERDS IS ADVOCATED

CLAYTON, Del., (AP)—Strict culling of purebred herds was urged by Dr. J. C. McDowell, senior dairy husbandman of the federal bureau of dairy industry, in an address before the Delaware State Holstein-Friesian association.

Under the herd test plan of the association there is a rule which permits the herd owner to omit an individual record from the official herd average if he surrenders the certificate of registry to the breed association for cancellation. In the first eight months under the plan more than 100 certificates were surrendered.

"Such culling of purebred herds is a move in the right direction," Dr. McDowell declared. "If pushed vigorously it will result in great improvement in our purebred dairy cattle. Test records showed that on an average the purebred Holstein excelled the grade animal by 14 per cent in milk production, 9 per cent in butterfat, and 15 per cent in income over cost of feed."

Nine-tenths of the people of America were classed as farmers in 1800.

This New Jersey Man Gained 28 Pounds

One Atlantic City man who needed 28 more pounds took McCoy's Tablets for 8 weeks and gained the flesh he wanted. One thin woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks, thanks to McCoy's and a young woman from Alabama writes that her weight jumped from 109 to 125 after taking only three boxes of McCoy's.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your money will be returned.

When YOU WANT to put your business before the public there is no medium better than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All Druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c, 30c, 60c.

UNIFORM TRAFFIC RULES.

All the difficulties in connection with the administration of motor vehicle departments are not going to be ironed out by any one meeting of the motor vehicle administrators, yet much good should follow such conferences as that being held in Hartford this week at which commissioners from 14 states, the District of Columbia and two Canadian provinces are present.

Such officials are much concerned with problems that are common to them all and the great need is to come to an understanding over a solution that will be supported by all. Through the study of these common problems it ought to be possible to hit upon a uniform method of treating them.

Uniform traffic regulations throughout New England is one of the accomplishments aimed at during the session. Those who have done any great amount of driving know what an advantage it would be if they could set out on a trip with the knowledge that they understood what would be required of them in each of the states about to be visited. It would not mean an abandonment of caution, but would on the other hand eliminate much of the halting and uncertain driving which develops from the fear that regulations will be disobeyed.

When we stop to think of it, it is ridiculous that in this group of six states there should be six sets of regulations for the government of automobile drivers when a uniform system would meet all the requirements. Every city would of necessity have its own rules and regulations because conditions in each differ, but for general highway purposes uniformity should prevail. When we realize that New England is smaller than many states the present lack of uniformity is comparable to establishing different regulations in every county of some of the large states.

Efforts in behalf of uniformity, where such action is possible, is to be commended whether it involves New England, the eastern states or the whole country. The need has long existed and it increases as the number of motor vehicles grows each year.

FAIR WARNING.

From the fact that notice has been served upon shipping that the big submarine V-4 will be making tests for the next month and a half off Provincetown, it is apparent that it is the intention of the navy department not to let the lack of such precaution be pointed to as the cause of any accident that may happen there in the meantime.

The V-4 is undergoing tests over the same course that the S-4 was operating on at the time it was struck and sent to the bottom by the coast guard vessel. It was contended at the time that the underwater boat had equipment which is intended to disclose the presence of another vessel and that it should have been in use and revealed the danger that was approaching. It was likewise claimed that the coast guard vessel should have detected the periscope of the sub before it did. Furthermore it was pointed out that no notice had been given to shipping concerning the submarine maneuvres at that time and place, so that there was no warning to cause special attention to be given to such a menace, except a flag flying from the mast of a government tug in Provincetown harbor.

Those aboard the S-4 never had a chance to explain their side of the matter, but it is gratifying to note that the lesson from that fatality was such as to cause not only increased efforts for the protection of those who go to sea in submarines but more and easy precautions for accident prevention.

Inasmuch as the submarines are often so deeply submerged as to make detection difficult, it is only fair that their presence in any particular locality should be disclosed to shipping, especially in times of peace when no thought has to be given to an enemy. It is giving protection to the sub by informing vessels which might strike it where it is likely to be. It is a fair proposition not only to the underwater boat but to all vessels that operate upon the surface. Regardless of where the fault was when the S-4 was sent to the bottom the right course is now being adopted for the prevention of anything approaching such a catastrophe.

REMOVING GENERAL BOOTH.

For some little time differences of opinion have prevailed among leaders in the Salvation Army in regard to the head of the organization. General Booth's illness has brought the situation to a focus. He apparently labors under the impression that it is this illness which has prompted the members of the council to voice their opposition and for that reason considers it most unfair. Although from his attitude he is in the position of a man being attacked when he is down, that is not the view taken by the council.

By the action of that body with only eight of the 63 members supporting the general, the vote that he was unfit was impressive. It disclosed a very general sentiment and was greater than needed to accomplish his removal under the provisions of the Army's constitution.

That there will be a legal fight over the action that has been taken is at present indicated. Whether the contention that the council has no right to pass upon unfitness unless it concerns spiritual unfitness will be the ground for action is not disclosed, but such would hardly seem to be sufficient for it must be evident that unfitness in many other ways might be quite as detrimental to the organization and call for a remedy as that of spiritual unfitness.

It cannot be pleasing for such a leader to be deposed whatever the cause may be and especially when he is on a sick bed. He has resisted it to the limit and also maintains that he should not be denied the right to select his successor. The naming of a successor would be recognized in case of retirement but when removal is effected for unfitness the choice of a successor rests with the council.

What has been done has not been pleasant. The council sought to avoid it by seeking the voluntary retirement of the general. So determined was it that a change must be made that when that was refused it required little time in reaching its decision. That, barring the contest for a legal decision as to whether the Army's constitution has been properly observed, should end the matter. It is a contest which has awakened widespread interest on both side of the Atlantic.

MILK BOTTLES.

It would be folly to declare that the paper cone will not replace the milk bottle in these days of many and radical changes. The mere suggestion doesn't mean its accomplishment. It will be necessary to show that there are advantages in making the change both from the standpoint of handling milk as well as the cost of the container.

The practice of handling milk by bottle has succeeded the old time practice of pouring it out of the can. It involves considerable work in filling, capping and cleaning and the expense is by no means overlooked when it comes to purchasing new equipment or making replacements. Milk bottles always have and probably always will break. That is the glass ones do.

But we know that where oysters used to be carried in cans they are today put up in paper in different forms. We used to get molasses in jugs and bottles. Today it is more apt to come in close fitting covered tubes. We find that paper, or rather paper board, is being used in numerous ways which were not familiar in the days which are gone. They represent the change in the times and it is not improbable that the milk bottle of glass is destined to give way to the milk bottle of paper.

Such a change means that it will be impossible to discover the amount of cream, the color of the milk or the quantity before opening the paper containers, as is now possible with the glass bottle. It means, also, that the life of the container is only for a day. It will not be taken back, washed and used over again. Whether the expense of this discarded container would be sufficiently low to offset such expense as is now involved in buying and handling the glass bottle should be readily obtained. If the change is made it will be for economic reasons and the consumer will probably have little to say about it.

THE COAL TAX.

Almost from the time that it was established Pennsylvania has been experiencing real evidence of the opposition that exists over the tax on anthracite. It was fought through the court of last resort at the time it was imposed. It was found to be legal but it created a resentment on the part of consumers which has never been overcome.

It is a natural outcome, therefore, when the governor of the Keystone state asks for a repeal of the tax and it is shown that with a surplus of $35,000,000 in the state treasury such a tax is not necessary. Probably the meat of the whole effort lies in the statement by the Philadelphia Public Ledger when it declares: "It is pointed out that the effect of the tax has been to stimulate the use of untaxed competitive fuels—oil, coke and so forth—and, what is more serious, depression in the anthracite markets in the New England and other states which resent the imposition of this tax."

That tells the story. It is not a new one but Pennsylvania has come to realize it at a rather late date. It has had its way. It has gone against the warnings that were given at the time it was being adopted and it has experienced the effects of a decrease in the demand for its product. After the sales dropped off and the business in other fuels has increased there is now a belated effort to restore the popularity of anthracite. The coal tax was the last straw for those consumers who had been experiencing a steadily increasing fuel bill and too frequently finding that there were times when it was being subjected to hardships in order to further boost it. Pennsylvania may well remove the tax but that offers no certainty that it can regain lost markets.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

In an age when life was taken more seriously than it is today, there lived in France a man by the name of Chamfort who rebelled against the unnatural somberness of the age. He said it was not the mark of excessive piety but rather of dumb stupidity. He shocked the glum ecclesiastics of the day by remarking that "the most wasted of all days is one on which one has not laughed." Sir John Lubbock has said "It is no small merit of laughter that it is quite spontaneous." Another has said: "You cannot force people to laugh; they must laugh of themselves or not at all; you cannot give a reason why they should laugh." "If we think we must not laugh, this makes the temptation to laugh all the greater." It cannot be denied that laughter has a bearing on good health. It is generally conceded that sadness of mind paves the way for disease. Hence a jubilant spirit is conducive to health.

In connection with the matter of laughter, it has often been asked why is it that the lower animals, which oftentimes show undisputed signs of intelligence, are never known to laugh or to show any signs whatever of the humorous side of life? Once animal books used to describe what they called "the laughing hyena," but the noise made was nothing more than a wild, howling screech which passed for laughter, but it was absolutely devoid of mirth. It may be that Dr. William R. Inge, known as England's "gloomy dean," would look upon this absence of human as strong evidence of intelligence. We must admit that laughter appears to be the special prerogative of man. The higher animals, if not possessing highly-developed reasoning powers, are possessed of some degree of intellect, yet they do not seem capable of appreciating a joke.

On the other hand, it is quite evident that animals not of the high caliber of man are quite expressive of sorrow or pain. Sometimes we hear animals giving vent to their feelings that closely resembles the voice of a weeping human being. They also oftentimes exhibit the inflammatory passions of a human being, such as anger, resentment, retaliation, revenge and, of course, joy. But they are never known to laugh. It is amazing how many strange things they can be taught. Along some lines they show some intelligence superior to that of man. It is related that years ago, before national prohibition was thought of, a certain farmer one day drove into town with his daughter. During the day he got drunk and got his daughter drunk also, and, when arrested, he was trying to get his horse drunk, too. But the so-called inferior animal refused his rum. Which of the three was the most intelligent?

This latter item—while only remotely connected with present day conditions—is suggestive of a very serious situation. I refer to accidents of daily occurrence resulting from drunken drivers. It is enough to make the people rise up in open rebellion against this absolutely unnecessary nuisance of having themselves exposed to death or mutilation by reckless drivers caused by rum. It will be stopped when our state legislatures give us laws with teeth in them; and when our so-called courts of justice stop this pussyfoot business of mild fines and sentences. If a man is arrested for driving when drunk, not only forbid him from ever driving again, but give him a prison sentence for a term of years. The manner in which this terrible menace to life and limb has been treated in the past is a sheer travesty on justice!

It would take a long time to tell in how many ways living today is an improvement on the past. To show this it is only necessary to use one general illustration that will apply to life in general today. The writer has specially in mind the matter of Christian unity that persists in keeping itself in the forefront, in spite of many temporary setbacks. There was a time—and that quite within the memory of men now in middle life—when a Christian of one denomination looked upon himself as the arbiter of the other man's conscience if he chanced to belong to another denomination. The time was when a devout Baptist seriously questioned the salvation of a Methodist, and both of them were not quite sure that Congregationalists belonged to the "church of the first born." All the denominations were equal sinners along this uncharitable line. But what a change! The Presbyterians suggesting organic union with the Methodists! Gallileo was right: "The earth does move!"

It is often said that the weather is always open to conversation, if not always to intelligent thought. It is very easy to say that "the winter is very open, or remarkably hot or cold or dry." But up to the time when these lines are written we can truthfully say that the winter has been very agreeable. On the very day when these paragraphs were preparing themselves for immortality the writer took a long hike over Liberty hill and adjacent hills and he was reminded of October, with the absence of flying leaves with their variegated colors. There is a something in the clearness of a January day that accentuates the outlines of objects as at no other season of the year. There was something in this hike that is a reminder of what Thoreau says: "This wildness of nature is like boneset to my intellect. This is what I go out to seek."

Speaking of Thoreau reminds me of what my eye ran across the other day while running through his "Letters." "Man is continually saying to woman, 'Why will you not be more wise?' Woman is continually saying to man, 'Why will you not be more loving?' It is not in their wills to be wise or loving; but, unless each is both wise and loving, there can be neither wisdom nor love." If one accepts either of these premises he will be forced to accept Thoreau's conclusion. It is perfectly legitimate for one to ask if the average woman is not as wise as the average man? Neither sex has a monopoly on wisdom. There are certain phases of personality more conspicuous among men than women, and vice versa; women rise to certain heights that the average man seldom reaches. If it were possible to tabulate all the virtues and vices of the sexes, it would be seen that neither would have any conspicuous reason for boasting.

Do we get the enjoyment out of uncultivated nature that is possible? I think we are justified in answering this in the negative. Thoreau in his "Excursions" says something along this line that you will not all agree with, because the majority has not felt this great throbbing heart of nature as this naturalist has. Somehow I like what Thoreau says: "I derive more of my subsistence from the swamps which surround my native town than from the cultivated gardens of the village. There are no richer pastures to my eyes than the dense beds of dwarf andromeda which cover these tender places on the earth's surface." Now somebody is going to say to this: "What! See more beauty in a nasty, slimy old swamp than in a beautiful rose garden!" Of course, you are right if you cannot see anything beyond the slime of the swamp. But the anemones are there, and other fine things that you will never find in a rose bed

What the Legislature Is Considering - -

Toll Motor Road, Deficiency Bill, Importance of Committees, Bill to Regulate Brokers, Budget, Licensing Bills.

(Special to The Bulletin)

That the proposed new toll highway between New York and Boston, to be built by private capital across the state of Connecticut with bridges elevating it over intersecting roads so that continuous and uninterrupted travel might be maintained, is doomed to be rejected seemed obvious in the gossip among the members of the 1929 Connecticut general assembly when they convened for business for the first time Thursday.

There are several factors which point almost definitely toward a rejection of the bill which will be introduced to grant the right to construct and maintain the private toll highway. In the first place, the measure, when introduced, will bring immediately to the fore the question of the right of eminent domain. It is a difficult job to talk eminent domain to members of the Connecticut legislature. This angle of the proposed project is therefore more than likely to result in an unfavorable disposition of the bill.

Secondly, there is some opposition to the measure among the legislators who represent the towns in the territory through which the proposed toll road may pass. This was obvious in the discussions on the subject which took place Thursday. In the past, new highways were in great demand on the theory that they enhanced the real estate values along the right of way. During the past year or so, however, the conclusion seems to have become widespread that any new road with its incessant traffic movement is by no means a boom for residential property values. "A house by the side of the road" is no longer a coveted residential possession. It is for this reason that some of the legislators, particularly those in the house of representatives have come to view the proposal with a critical eye.

Then, too, there is the age-old opposition to any project for which toll is collected. Connecticut long ago abandoned the collection of toll on its highways and bridges. Even when the collection of toll was in vogue on certain bridges several years ago, it was not viewed as a means of state revenue, but was placed in force only until such a time as the cost of construction of the bridge had been paid by those who made use of it.

The many road projects completed during the past two years by the state highway department has also made a distinct impression upon members, and many believe the state should continue along in its present course, without recourse to toll highways.

These four points make it appear that it will be necessary for the proponents of the toll road to produce some new selling qualities before their measure will stand chance of passage. And even if they are able to do this it seems hardly possible that they will be able to override the opposition in the house to eminent domain.

Deficiency Appropriations.

Deficiency appropriations aggregating approximately $700,000 will be heard by the committee on appropriations during the coming week, making this committee the first to see real action in the new assembly. Deficiency bills, although usual in every session of the legislature, are far from being popular, either with the committee or with the assembly as a whole. When this year's deficiency bills are scrutinized closely, however, it becomes immediately apparent that most of the bills at least were unavoidable.

For example, the teachers' retirement board pension fund is recorded as having a deficiency of about $110,000. In the state board of education, the enumeration grant called for expenditures of about $20,000 more than was allotted by the committee on appropriations of the 1927 general assembly. High school tuition ran nearly $50,000 above the 1927 appropriation and high school transportation was $25,000 above its estimated figure. Widows' aid went $75,000 above the allotment as did payments to state paupers by $12,000.

The state health department was faced with extraordinary expenses during the small pox scare last year when a large part of its antitoxin deficiency amounting to about $18,000 was incurred. Health department laboratory expenses ran above the appropriation by $14,000. Herd tubercular tests by the office of the commissioner of domestic animals resulted in a deficiency bill of about $150,000.

Committee Appointments.

Senate and house committee appointments were announced on Thursday morning by President pro tempore Wilcox and Speaker Eddy respectively. The appointments as usual resulted in considerable disappointment because many more members than the prescribed 13 representatives and two senators desired places on the important committees. The disappointment this year, however, was less discernible than in many previous sessions of the assembly.

In the senate some of the democratic members were displeased over their appointments to minor committees and so expressed themselves. The answers of the majority republican leaders was to the effect that the people of Connecticut had elected republicans to assume the responsibility for legislative accomplishments.

In the house there was considerably less evidence of disappointment than usual, probably due to the fact that in this session, some of the committees which formerly had little or no business before them are quite likely to have some relatively important matters assigned to them this year.

Two years ago, for example, the committee on humane institutions had only one bill referred to it. This year, it is the intention of the presiding officers of both houses to submit to this committee bills concerning state institutions which were previously handled by the overworked committee on the judiciary.

The committee on capitol furniture and grounds for many sessions past was considered as practically defunct. Within a short time, however, a bill will be presented to the assembly and referred to it which will provide for the construction of the new state office building recommended by the board of finance and control. This bill may involve the expenditure of $2,000,000 to $2,500,000. The committee will have the duty of supervising the start of the structure. It will play an important part in the planning of all matters concerning the construction, making plans for housing several of the state departments now occupying quarters in the over-crowded capitol building or in the other buildings on neighboring streets.

Two years ago when the committee on motor vehicles was instituted, the committee on roads, bridges and rivers which had formerly handled motor vehicle bills, came to be looked upon as being less important than usual. Not so in this session, however. There were more requests in the house for committee assignments on roads, bridges and rivers and for agriculture and fish and game than for any other committees.

Committees on Banks.

Evidence that the committee on banks will have a large amount of work ahead of it before adjournment time arrives, was obvious Thursday in the introduction of a bulky bill providing for the regulation of brokerage houses and their salesmen. This bill provides that a commission will have jurisdiction over the registration and operation of brokers and their sales representatives. The measure at present is quite drastic in its terms and it is extremely doubtful if it will receive favorable action in its present form. It is likely, however, that some action covering security sales will come out of the present session.

There will doubtlessly be an unusual number of banking bills, chief among which will be those intended to untangle the existing Trust of Bridgeport and to settle once and for all the question of legitimatizing or banning branch banking in the state.

The Budget.

During the coming week, it is expected that the budget compiled by the board of finance and control will be submitted to the committee on appropriations. This report, most of which is based upon personal investigation by members of the board, will be a weighty volume, between 600 and 700 pages in length. Although the complete report of the board has not yet been printed for public distribution, it is practically certain that the final appropriations will not vary greatly from the recommendations its contains.

Compilation of the budget by the board of finance and control will be the means of saving the committee on appropriations an untold amount of work. Prior to the establishment of the board, it was necessary for the committee to make its recommendations to the assembly only after holding hearings upon practically every item it contained. The board has been able to carry on this work over a long period of time and has been able to determine the exact financial needs of every state department and institution. That its report is detailed is evidenced by its length. There will probably be few changes necessary.

This new method of estimating the budget has given the committee on appropriations the appearance of not being as important as formerly and this may result in a decreased demand for places upon it. The committee, however, is of the greatest importance for it still has the final say in all budget and appropriations matters.

Licensing Bills.

Early indications point to a number of licensing bills, many of which seem destined for interesting discussions. The first of these measures was submitted Thursday. It was a bill proposing that architects be licensed and prescribing certain regulations under which they might operate. The annual bill for licensing realtors is certain to appear again. There is likewise some talk of causing taxi cabs to procure another license in addition to the regular motor vehicle registration. The commitee on public health and safety will be importuned to recommend changes in the present statutes governing chiropractors, natureopaths and hairdressers and cosmeticians. Amateur boxing seems destined to be brought within the licensing control of the state athletic commission. Two years ago, the bill intended to regulate amateur boxing was given an unfavorable report, but in the interim there have been such obvious abuses in the amateur field that there will probably be little or no opposition to its passage.

Judicial Procedure.

A number of bills changing judicial procedure were presented in the house Thursday and many more are expected. Most of them are based upon the recommendations of the judicial council established by the 1927 assembly. Many of the minor recommendations of this body are likely to be accepted, but some of the major changes suggested, such as the appointment by the governor of all city and town court judges, may meet with opposition. While they appear theoretically sound, their practical features would doubtlessly make their passage difficult. Among the major suggestions being viewed favorably are those concerning the jury system of the state courts.

YOUR HEALTH

CHEW YOUR TEETH INTO POSITION

By George H. Griffith, D. D. S., Trenton, N. J.

You, who are interested enough in your teeth and the teeth of your children to desire the most benefit possible from those you happen to have in your mouth, will be interested to know what percentage of normal masticating surface you possess, and how to make it one hundred per cent.

Get some bees wax, put it in warm water until soft and pliable, roll it into pencil form long enough to reach over all the teeth, bend it into a horseshoe shape and place it between the teeth. Close the teeth in a normal position, and bite through the wax until your teeth meet. Hold the wax in the mouth until it hardens, open the mouth and remove the wax. Now hold the wax up to the light and you will see how many of the teeth have cut through, showing you the contact points of all the teeth.

Perhaps one person in five hundred has one hundred per cent contact or occlusion.

Some of the causes of malocclusion are loss of teeth improper of insufficient use of the teeth (caused by mouth breathing or decayed teeth) adenoids and enlarged tonsils.

Gladstone said, "Chew every mouthful of food thirty-two times, once for each tooth in the head."

Gladstone knew food values, and that foods have to be reduced to a liquid with saliva, and acted on by the gastric juices, before they give up the elements they contain for furnishing material to replace that used by the body.

We know that it is possible to chew teeth into proper position but we must chew. I have advocated the chewing of whole wheat.

A child of three of four years can be taught to chew a handful of wheat, after each meal, until there is left in the mouth a mass of soft chewy material like chewing gum—and how he will enjoy it. Do not tell the growing child not to fill his mouth full of food, because it is the chewing of a mouth full of food that brings all the teeth into play, and it is the pressure of the tongue and lips that develops the muscles of the mouth, while the bones are supplied with materials to make them strong, through the masticated food.

To keep the enamel surfaces clean, and to keep the grease and starchy film from the teeth, it is necessary, after we have eaten a meal, to chew something of a fibrous nature such as celery, lettuce, apples, raw carrots or whole wheat. Just chewing will scrape the teeth and give the gums the friction and exercise they need to make them healthy.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—The Bystander recalls, most pleasurably, his first stroll on the ancient, historic streets of London. England's hearts of oak might be touching shoulders with him unbeknownst, he meditated; for there was only one of today's great men he would have known at sight. And almost at that moment that man, Lord Balfour, came swinging along past St. James palace afoot, tall hat, long coat of funereal hue, badly furled umbrella and all.

The big guns of British official life were not very casually visible about the streets. The king, of course, rode in Rotton Row almost unattended every morning while in residence at Buckingham palace, but sidewalk courtesy forbade you to recognize him. There was no tipping of hats or other salutation as he passed, although if he emerged in more formal fashion from the palace gates an hour later the Londoners made quite a fuss about it.

Easy Over Here.

Much differently flows the course of life in Washington, citadel of the American democracy in everything but a voting sense. Would you like a close-up of Calvin Coolidge? Perfectly simple. Take a stroll with the "P" street shoppers nearly any pleasant afternoon. Like as not he'll pause at your side to stare at a window display, preferably a bookshop window.

Watch him skip agilely through motor traffic unrecognized save by those who spot the pair of husky, well turned out men-about-town who are at his heels for who, they so obviously are, secret service "dicks". It's the president's way of getting desk kinks out of his legs.

Or again: Go out to the "million dollar bridge"—as it's known to Washington folk—the Connecticut avenue bridge across Rock Creek canyon. Wait on the west footway a little after 7 a. m. You are almost certain, rain or shine, hot or cold, to see a burly, erect figure in dingy old business suit, wrinkled leather puttees, shapeless cloth cape, swinging a bit of a twig by way of riding crop, come ambling along. That will be Borah of Idaho, off for his invariable morning ride.

Meet Mr. Taft.

Cross to the east foot way and wait another hour or two. A fine, upstanding man of deeply lined face, but turned out as sprucely as any Bond street tailor could wish for, will stride by, pounding the pavement with his cane as he goes. That will be William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States and the only living former president.

Around 8 a. m. go down Connecticut to the hotel, club and shopping zone at "K" street. A very Beau Brummel of a clubman will come stepping by. You'll know his military carriage instantly. That will be Pershing, doing his daily dozen.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Former Musical Clubs of Norwich

Mr. Editor: Being one of your readers that enjoyed, shortly after the anniversary of Christ's birth, the rendition of Haendel's great work, The Messiah, given at Slater hall by the Norwich Choral society and also the article so ably given by Mr. Dyer, I am wondering if it would be of interest to your younger readers to hear of a former society, which fulfilled the wish of the builder of Slater Memorial to educate and gratify the musical minds of Norwich.

Not having the pen or memory of "Dad S." it took the deluge of New Year's day to bring to light the facts and dates of such an organization, causing a trip to the attic and delving into a chest full of "Daboll's" and other interesting "back numbers."

If old musical news finds interesting reading, now that the younger generation are making history in that line in local organizations, why can we not have memories of Eugene Wallner's "Orpheus," "The Bass Clef," F. W. Lester's Woman's chorus and others?

One of my memories concerns The Musurgia club, of which Wm. McClenahan Ransom was director. This was in existence for seven years, from 1886-1893. It was a choral society of between 60 and 70 mixed voices, giving three or four concerts each season. The accompanist was Miss Mary T. Copp (afterward Mrs. Jas. D. Copp), until her removal to New London, then Frederic W. Lester until its disbanding. Professor Ransom originally educated to the career of civil engineer, became increasingly interested in music, and quite against his fathers's, the "commodore's" wish furnished a studio in what will be the Uncas-Merchants bank and proceeded to teach his students vocal culture.

The musical atmosphere had been deepened a few years previously when Prof. Jas. A. Butterfield had resided in Norwich; so the interest in musical activities was large for a town of the size of Norwich. A vocal club was organized under Professor Ransom and after due rehearsals the first concert was given in Breed hall, May 7, 1886. We find such composers as "Rubinstein, Brahms, Tours, Raff and Wagner" on the programme.

It was in this year that the Slater Memorial was finished, and as Wm. Slater was desirous to increasing musical interest as a department of activity in that institution, later concerts were held in that hall.

In fulfilling his ideas in that line of education, Mr. Slater accepted the presidency of the club and his backing was good for any excess of expenses over receipts of the concerts. In consequence Norwich music lovers were able to hear New York Philharmonic club, Reeves orchestra, Adamowsky, Campanini, Dippel and Bowen Church as outside attractions on the programmes.

On account of Mr. Slater's backing, Mr. Ransom was able to carry out the crowning success of the Musurgia, when he directed, in April 1892 in the Broadway theatre, Bizet's grand opera, Carmen. It was a fine tribute to Mr. Ransom's training and executive ability, when he creditably put on such a work with an amateur club on a local stage. With Andreas Dippel as Don Jose, Del Puente as Escamillo, Madame Basta Tavary as Carmen, Mr. Ransom's wife as Micaela and pupils of Ransom in the rest of the cast, the opera was given before a capacity house.

Probably change of membership and other circumstances, brought about in 1892, caused the eighth season to be less enthusiastically received, and probably the last concert was given at the Arcanum club with Mr. Capron and Bowen Church of Reeves band as soloists. Shortly afterwards Prof. Ransom moved to Providence.

Norwich has now, on account of the opportunity that the proximity of the Conn. college gives in its ability to use such a musician as Dr. Lawrence Erb in directing its choral society, a chance both to educate its singers and hearers alike in choral music as time goes on.

Are there not many more music lovers, who like this writer, would be able and willing to tell us about "what we have done along the line of music" to help and encourage the present enthusiastic workers?

OLD TIMER.

Sunday Morning Talk

The Spiritual Powerhouse

Several years ago a stranger visited a large city to see the places of historic and civic interest, he walked around looking at the large buildings and public interests. Finally he paused in front of a large brick building with many windows. Wondering what kind of an institution it might be, he spoke to a man passing by, asking, "Is it a school?" "No," was the reply. "A prison?" "No." "A factory?" "No." Several more guesses included a library, alms house, hospital. Finally he was told it was a power house and was further told that this building lighted the school house, runs all the machines of the near-by factories, furnished lights and power for all public institutions and private homes, meaning the success and usefulness of each.

After a little the sightseer fell to musing. So it should be with the church. It should be the spiritual power house of the community. Without it no place can be its best, should furnish the light and power to lift burdens, to furnish and make possible high ideals, inspire to noble lives and deeds, to give to the young visions of what life should be and the power to make them come true. We have yet to show what could be done by the power of God radiating from the church to those living in darkness and without the joy and peace of God in their hearts and lives. May we ever keep in touch with the church that the light, joy and power of Christ may brighten and ennoble the lives of many, that we may be found true to the trust committed to us to carry the light of Christ's love into the hearts of all we come into contact with.

Stories That Recall Others

Logical

The teacher in a fifth grade class was conducting a lesson in art appreciation, and the picture under discussion was that of an American Indian on horseback.

"What are the trappings of an Indian?" asked the teacher.

Loudly and clearly Edward replied: "Why, they're the things he catches rabbits and other animals with."

Taken at His Word

"Where did you get that tie?" asked Mr. X one evening of his 12-year-old son while at the dinner table, for he felt that his son's tie, in addition to being somewhat large, was rather familiar.

"Why I just exchanged the one Aunt Mary gave me for this one which she gave you. You told her Christmas day you thought she had good taste in ties and had picked out a mighty fine one for me, and that you would probably be wearing it, too. I like yours best, dad, so I thought you might just as soon have mine."

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the old volunteer hook and ladder company celebrated its 21st anniversary at Steiner's hall. The same week the annual meeting of the old First National bank was held, Lucius W. Carroll being elected president. Extracts taken from the file of The Bulletin of January, 1879, are as follows:

Monday, Jan. 13, 1879—The Hook and Ladder boys will celebrate their 21st anniversary, this evening, by a grand gathering and supper in Steiner's hall. The entertainment, which is to be given under the auspices of the entire company, will be attended by all the honorary and contributing members. It cannot fail to be one of the pleasantest and most successful gatherings of this popular company.

On Saturday morning, Mr. Osborn, express man, took a friend, a hackman, out on the avenue for a brief sleigh ride. The horse became frightened and ran from Preston bridge to Franklin square, where the driver succeeded in stopping the animal. The hackman was left on the way, in a convenient snow bank, out of which he emerged with a couple of bushels of snow in his clothes.

As Capt. Whaley was driving into Greeneville, yesterday, he caught a number of boys not only breaking the Sunday law, but making very lively work with the city statutes which prohibit sliding on the thoroughfares. One of the sleds, a "double runner" was taken in. It now reposes among the police archives.

Tuesday, Jan. 14, 1879—At a meeting of the stockholders of the First National bank of Norwich, yesterday, the following directors were chosen: Lucius W. Carroll, Leonard Ballou, Jeremiah Halsey, Amos W. Prentice, Samuel B. Case, John A. Morgan, Charles D. Browning, Francis J. Leavens, Charles M. Pendleton. At a subsequent meeting of the directors, Lucius W. Carroll was elected president and Lewis A. Hyde, cashier.

The Rev. W. H. Andrews of Wethersfield gave a very interesting lecture at the Greeneville Congregational church, Sunday evening, on The Second Coming of Christ.

Amy Stone and company appear at Breed hall, next Friday evening. "Led Astray" is their play. Their orchestra is very full. Remember they are a good company.

Wednesday, Jan. 15, 1879 — C. W. Tubbs was installed as H. P. at the installation of Palmyra encampment last Thursday night.

The Hon. John T. Wait expects to start for Washington tomorrow. During his absence he has been paired with Congressman Harris.

This evening the Norwich Hose Co. give their first annual social in Steiner's hall, with a supper.

Thursday, Jan. 16, 1879—The Rev. L. W. Bacon finished the entertainment in the regular Otis library course of lectures last evening. He announced no subject for the evening's entertainment and said that he simply wished to point out some of the weak spots in general reading. The lecture was humorous and withal instructive. The room was crowded.

A New London hack filed homeward, night before last, without driver or occupant. No damage.

The Norwich Hose Co., No. 4, gave their first annual social in Steiner's hall last evening. They had a very large and pleasant party.

Mr. William H. Collins, an old Norwich boy, who lately obeyed Horace Greely's injunction and went west, is now tarrying in Denver, Col.

Friday, Jan. 17, 1879—The snow of yesterday was one of the severest storms that have ever visited Connecticut. It is probable that the sleighing is insured for at least a few weeks.

Judge Alfred Coit of the court of common pleas is dangerously ill of brain fever in New London.

The sidewalks are in a condition of chronic disability.

The river is frozen to a point above New London.

Saturday, Jan. 18, 1879—Mrs. James McQuire of Elm street died yesterday of a paralytic stroke.

The social of William M. Williams Steam Fire Engine Co., will be given on Thursday evening next at Steiner's hall.

A fiendish smile of joy was depicted on the countenances of livery keepers and dealers in sleighs yesterday.

The Burns anniversary celebration and annual ball of the Caledonian society takes place Friday next when an evening of rare enjoyment may be relied on by all who attend.

How to make canned vegetables even more appetizing

The taste of nearly all good foods is improved with sugar

SCIENCE now knows that the great majority of the canned fruits and vegetables on the market today are rich in vitamins.

This is great news to all who wish to be well fed and healthy. In order that your family may relish these healthful foods, be sure that they are served in the most appetizing way possible. For example, add one level teaspoonful of sugar to one can of corn when heating it for serving. One rounded tablespoonful, at least, of sugar should be added to one can of tomatoes to develop the taste and make them palatable and delicious. The flavor of canned peas is improved by adding one-half to one teaspoonful of sugar to each can, and for string beans add one-fourth to one-half teaspoonful per can. The general rule is that all canned vegetables should be sweetened to taste so that they will be more enjoyable.

As a nationally recognized medical authority says, . . . "canned tomatoes after three years were as rich in vitamins as raw tomatoes . . . canned strawberries were also found to equal raw strawberries in vitamin content." He names numerous other canned fruits and vegetables and all were found rich in vitamins.

Welcome the canned foods to your table. To do so is to welcome health to your home. Eat plenty of varied, nourishing foods sweetened for taste and zest. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

SECURES DIVORCE FROM NEW LONDON TAX COLLECTOR

Edna Williams Alexander of New London, formerly of this city, at present employed in a clerical capacity at the Atlantic Coast Fisheries was granted a divorce from Tax Collector Hibberd N. Alexander of New London by Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court here Wednesday. The case which was slated to be contested was not contested, although Mr. Alexander and his attorneys, Attorneys J. James Floyd and Arthur M. Brown, were present in court.

The divorce was granted on the grounds of intolerable cruelty. Attorney George Curtis Morgan represented Mrs. Alexander. A dozen witnesses had been subpoenaed for the defense and were present in the court room but agreement was reached by counsel whereby Mrs. Alexander withdrew her petition for alimony and the divorce action was permitted to go through uncontested.

The defendant agreed to give Mrs. Alexander $400 in return for which she executed a quit-claim deed to her equity in the Alexander property in Montauk avenue, New London, which formerly stood in both their names. She was also allowed $250 for counsel fees by her husband.

Three witnesses were called to the stand by Attorney Morgan. The first was Mrs. Alexander who testified to alleged acts of cruelty.

Her father, Robert Williams, testified to having been told by his daughter of the defendant striking her about four years ago.

The last witness was Fred F. Copp, bookkeeper and cashier for the S. N. Ellis Co.

Mrs. Alexander was also given permission to resume her maiden name, Edna Williams. The couple were married Dec. 4, 1922.

WAITRESS GETS DIVORCE ON DESERTION GROUNDS

Nellie Mitchell Whitehead of Groton, employed as waitress in New London, was given a divorce from Warren F. Whitehead, a North Stonington fisherman, by Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court here Wednesday. The decree was granted on the grounds of desertion.

Although the case was slated to be a contested one, neither the defendant nor his attorney appeared in court. They were married June 3, 1925, and desertion was alleged since July 1, 1925.

BRINGS FORECLOSURE SUIT ON FARM IN LEBANON

Peter and Mary Gantick of Windham have brought a foreclosure action against Anshel and Minnie Dicker of Brooklyn, N. Y., seeking to foreclose on a $5,000 mortgage secured by a 40-acre farm in Lebanon, according to papers served by Deputy Sheriff George H. Stanton and returnable to the superior court. The Jewish Agricultural Society, Inc., claims to hold a $2,000 mortgage on the premises.

SOCIAL WORKERS COUNCIL HAS MONTHLY MEETING

The January meeting of the Social Workers' council of New London and Windham counties was held Tuesday afternoon at the New London Y. W. C. A. A short business session preceded a talk by Dr. John O'Brien of the Seaside Sanitorium at Niantic on the work that is being done in connection with tubercular children in that place. The address was illustrated with motion pictures.

ASKING MILITARY CONVEYANCE FOR GEN. MALONE'S VISIT

The Norwich chamber of commerce in a letter addressed to Governor Trumbull requests the governor to assist in securing military conveyance for General Paul B. Malone, during his visit to Connecticut next month.

The secretary's letter follows:

To His Excellency,
The Governor,
John H. Trumbull,
Executive Chamber,
State Capitol,
Hartford, Conn.

Your Excellency:

General Paul B. Malone of the Sixth Corp Area, Chicago, has accepted our invitation to address a meeting of the Norwich chamber of commerce on Tuesday evening, February 18th, 1929. The general is a distinguished army officer in addition to being a most acceptable public speaker. He recently was appointed in command of the army in the Philippines by President Coolidge.

On Monday evening, February 17th, General Malone is to address the Worcester chamber at their annual banquet and they expect to have a crowd of 800 out to hear him. We are hoping to make the affair here in Norwich a memorable one. We are organizing a committee made up of all the military organizations and in this connection we would very much appreciate having a military representation from your staff present at the banquet. It also appealed to the writer that some of our military organizations might be anxious to cooperate with us during the major's visit to Connecticut by providing transportation for him from Worcester to Norwich. We are of course, perfectly able to do this privately, but I know you will agree that when a man of such outstanding ability and reputation comes to our state that we may to advantage extend our most hospitable facilitations. It has been suggested that if we could arrange to have a delegation of military officials along with representatives of the state and local chamber of commerce meet the general in Worcester Monday noon, February 18th and accompany him to Norwich it might be appropriate.

Anything you can do to assist us in connection with this event will be greatly appreciated.

Respectfully yours,
Norwich Chamber of Commerce,
(Signed) Walter H. Pilcher, Secretary.

JUDGMENT FOR CITY IN G. AND E. INJUNCTION SUIT

Judgment for the city of Norwich on a demurrer was entered in the superior court short calendar session here Friday by Judge C. L. Avery in the suit brought by Carl W. Brown and other merchants for an injunction to restrain the gas and electric department from selling apparatus and appliances. The court found the issues for the defendant and that the complaint is insufficient and the defendant is to recover costs.

Judgment for $7,060.60 was entered for the Mariners Savings bank of New London against Francis Westgate, formerly of Groton, now of San Diego, Cal. The property is located in back of the monument in Groton in Smith street and Feb. 4 was set as the limitation of time for redemption.

Judge Arthur B. Calkins was granted permission to withdraw as attorney for Councilor Lucius E. Whiton in the case of the city of New London against the Pequot Point Beach Co., and Councilor Whiton.

Statutory continuance of three months was granted in the case of Abrams, et al, against Carini, et al.

Judgment as per stipulation for $5,750 was entered for the plaintiff in the case of Ellen P. Holbrook against McNamara, et al.

Disclosure of defense within ten days or judgment was ordered in the case of Lubow against Paquette, et al.

Allowance to defend in the sum of $50 was ordered in the case of David Gabur, against Della Ruchard Gabur.

Judgment was entered for the plaintiff in the case of Schwolsky against Matera, et al. A hearing in damages will be held later.

An answer or the case will be placed on the uncontested list was ordered in the case of Charles D. White of Providence against Coretta P. White of Stonington.

BURNED TO DEATH WHEN FLAMES DESTROYED SHACK

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Jan. 18—Daniel Foley, 53, lost his life while sleeping in a one-room wooden shack that burned to the ground last night on the road between Storrs and Eagleville and one mile from the state road that leads to Willimantic past Connecticut Agricultural college. A brother of the dead man, Edward Foley, who lives about 100 yards from the scene of the accident, was notified of the fire over the telephone from a Willimantic operator about 10:30 o'clock. He rushed to the shack but was unable to rescue his brother or even make any attempt at saving the building.

Mr. Foley's body was burned beyond recognition. The bed nearby had been occupied and it is believed that upon waking, Foley made an attempt to escape from the burning house but was dazed and overcome with smoke. He was last seen by neighbors at six p. m.

It is thought that the fire may have been caused by an oil lamp on the table or by the wood stove in the single room.

Mr. Foley was unmarried and had lived in the one room shack by himself for some time. He was employed at intervals by the agronomy department of the Connecticut Agricultural college as a teamster but held no steady employment.

The body was taken to the undertaking rooms of Killourey brothers of Willimantic.

Marshall Resigns Commission

Benjamin T. Marshall, former president of Connecticut college, has resigned his commission as captain in the 102nd Regiment, Field Artillery, and it has been accepted. He was chaplain of the regiment.

LESTER WILL CASE TRIAL DRAWS ATTENTION OF N. Y. ATTY. GENERAL

Unless something unforseen arises between now and Monday, it is the expectation that the trial of Frances Dawley Lester will case is to be resumed here Monday before Judge Nelson J. Ayling in the probate court. At this hearing testimony is to be given in support of the condition under which Dr. Thurman A. Hull of Troy, N. Y., would be a beneficiary to an estimated amount of $50,000 from Mrs. Lester's estate, which is believed to amount to close to $750,000.

It is claimed of relatives of Mrs. Lester who are contesting the validity of the codicil that Mrs. Lester was mentally incompetent and that Dr. Hull used undue influence to induce her to sign the codicil while he was her physician in the Samaritan hospital at Troy where she died July 22, 1928.

It has been learned here that the office of the attorney general of the state of New York has had its attention drawn to the trial of the case and has written here to learn what it would cost to get a complete transcript of the testimony given in the four days last October when the relatives of the Norwich woman showed their ground for trying to break the codicil. The testimony at that time fills over 400 typewritten pages and it is understood that the transcript would cost $105.

For the trial Monday Dr. Hull will have special counsel in the person of Attorney Frederick H. Wiggen of New Haven, who will make his first appearance in the case then, and is expected to have with him Attorney E. E. Hall of Boston, a brother-in-law of Dr. Hull.

Attorney Charles L. Stewart will represent the contestants of the codicil, as he did in the previous hearing, and will have associated with him Senator S. Robert Lawson of New York, while Dwight S. Underwood, executor of the will, will be represented as he was before by two local attorneys, Arthur M. Brown and Andrew B. Davies, and by Attorney John P. Taylor of Troy.

WILLIAM HENRY ALLEN, LOCAL UNDERTAKER, DIES

William Henry Allen, 76, proprietor of the undertaking firm of Henry Allen & Son, died Friday afternoon about 3 o'clock at his home, No. 20 Church street. He had been in ill health for a long period of time, but had been confined to his bed for only two weeks.

Mr. Allen, one of the oldest and most widely known undertakers in the eastern section of the state, was born in this city, June 26, 1852, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allen. He was one of a family of six sons and daughters. Henry Allen, his father, was the founder of the undertaking firm which was started May 12, 1862.

In 1870, Henry Allen's son, the late Amos D. Allen, was admitted as a partner and the firm name became and has since continued as Henry Allen & Son. In 1883, by reason of his advancing years, Henry Allen disposed of his interests in the business to William Henry Allen and retired.

In 1894 Henry Allen died, and the following year Amos D. Allen retired from the firm, and William Henry Allen had since continued in the business, but of late years has taken no active part and the business has been incorporated under the name of the Henry Allen & Son Co.

On April 13, 1882, Mr. Allen was united in marriage with Ida M. Avery, daughter of Edwin and Susan Avery, and a native of Mississippi. The marriage took place at Memphis, Tenn. Mrs. Allen died a year ago this month.

Mr. Allen was a member of Somerset lodge, No. 34, F. and A. M., and was a 32nd degree Mason. He was a member of the old Second Congregational church and continued his membership in the United Congregational church when the Second and Broadway churches merged.

Surviving relatives are one sister, Miss Susan C. Allen, of No. 22 Church street; two cousins, Edwin Allen, of Hopkinton, R. I., Charles Allen, of South Willington, Conn., and three nieces, Mrs. Louise Larkin, of Los Angeles, Mrs. Bessie Macrae, of Hawaii, and Miss Ruth Allen, of Nappa, Calif.

Mr. Allen stood high in business financial circles of Norwich and was widely known throughout eastern Connecticut. He was a former president of the Connecticut Funeral Directors' association.

Damage to the extent of about $20,000 was caused by the fire which broke out about 2:30 o'clock Friday morning in the paint and hardware store at No. 92 Water street, conducted by Robert H. Goldstein. It is understood that the loss is only partially covered by insurance. It was 3:45 o'clock when the recall was sounded and 5:15 o'clock before the last piece of apparatus rolled into the central fire station.

Charles McCubbrey, night watchman at the Porteous and Mitchell building, discovered the fire, while making his rounds. From the top floor of the Porteous and Mitchell building he saw smoke coming from the roof of the Goldstein store and notified the fire department by telephone. On the arrival at the fire, Acting Chief Henry R. Taft ordered a bell alarm sent in from Box 161, calling out additional apparatus. Shortly afterwards Engine No. 3 was called to the scene by telephone.

Mr. Goldstein, proprietor of the store, was in Willimantic where he was staying over night. He went there to secure a plumbing contract. Employes at the store reported that when they left the building at 6 o'clock Thursday evening that there was no sign of fire.

HUNTINGTON HOME FAMILY AT SHELTERING ARMS

The family of the Sheltering Arms entertained the ladies of the Huntington home Friday afternoon from 4 to 6. Refreshments of ice cream, cake, tea and coffee were served in the sun parlor, which was decorated in yellow and white. A large cake was the gift of Mrs. Eben Learned.

The Huntington Home ladies, who were accompanied to the Sheltering Arms by Mrs. Frank Drisler, are Miss Colt, Miss Dowd, Miss Leach, Mrs. Browning, Miss Woodward, Miss Edmunds, Mrs. Camp and Mrs. Mead.

WITHDRAWAL IN SUIT FOR JESSE WILCOX DEATH

The $10,000 damage suit brought by Jesse H. Wilcox of Stonington as administrator of the estate of Jesse E. Wilcox, late of that place, against Sidney Siswick and Hobart Siswick, both of Stonington, has been withdrawn from the docket of the superior court; according to papers filed Friday with Clerk John H. Walker.

Jesse H. Wilcox claims that the death of Jesse E. Wilcox was caused by injuries received on Dec. 28, 1927, when struck on the Boston Post road, near Mystic, by an automobile owned by Sidney Siswick and operated by his son, Hobart.

S. M. D. CLUB CONDUCTS WHIST AND PINOCHLE

The second in the series of whist and pinochle parties conducted by the S. M. D. club was given Friday evening at Foresters hall with 12 tables of pinochle and six of whist in play. The prize awards were as follows: Pinochle, women, first, Mrs. Richards, 8150; second, Mrs. Clifford, 8010; third, Mrs. Clement, 7480. Gentlemen, first, P. Rigney, 7550; second, Mr. Shea, 7400; third, Mr. Lafferty, 7390. Whist, women, first, Mrs. Elroy Bolduc, 32; second, Mrs. M. Day, 32; third, Mrs. J. McKenna, 32, the former winning from the latter on the cut. Gentlemen, first, Edward J. Sullivan, 31; second, Charles Lasch, 29; third, Bert Webber, 24. A special prize was taken by Charles Lasch.

ACCUSED AND WITNESS ARE HELD FOR CRIMINAL COURT

Probable cause being found, Israel Markow, 68, was bound over to the criminal term of the superior court by Judge Arthur F. Libby on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, when his case came up in the city court Friday morning. After Markow had been bound over, Judge Arthur F. Libby ordered the arrest of Israel Ragovin of No. 155 West Main street, one of the witnesses in the case, and bound him over, also, on a charge of perjury. Both are at liberty on bonds of $500 each pending their trials in the superior court at the May term.

Markow was arrested Wednesday evening on complaint of Philip Sherman of 52 Geer avenue, proprietor of the Norwich Radiator Works at No. 375 Main street. Sherman claims that Markow stabbed him with a penknife. According to the testimony in court Friday morning, the trouble between the two men originated in Ragovin's store where Markow, it is claimed, accused Sherman of being a bootlegger and a thief. There was considerable talk, and Markow, becoming more or less unruly, was put out of the store by Ragovin.

Sherman left a short time later and was about to enter his machine, parked across the street, when Markow, he claims, rushed up to him and struck him on the left shoulder with the penknife. Sherman claims, also, that Markow slashed a rear tire on his automobile.

Sherman made a complaint to the police and Markow was arrested. At police headquarters Sherman displayed a slight wound on his shoulder.

Markow denied that he used a weapon on Sherman and said that he merely attempted to strike him with his fists. Markow claimed that Sherman robbed him of some money and was continually antagonizing him.

Ragovin testified that he was in the rear of the store during the trouble between the two men and as a result said he did not witness the affair.

Judge Libby showed his disgust at the way the witness testified by ordering him arrested on the charge of perjury.

SPANISH GUITARIST GAVE MOST ENJOYABLE RECITAL

Andres Segovia, the Spanish guitarist, held an audience of over 600 at Slater hall Friday evening enraptured throughout his programme which made one of the most delightful evenings of the Slater hall musical course this season. The music lovers who filled the hall showed their deep appreciation at hearing a master on this instrument which is so little heard in recitals and the enthusiastic applause left no doubt that Segovia's talent had captivated his audience.

His programme opened with a group that comprised Sarabande (Handel), Three varie (Sor), Serenade (Joaquin Malatso) and Etude (Francisco Tarrega), the last named being an exquisite piece of musicianship and technique by the artist.

For the second group he gave a Bach selection, originally written for the lute, which was rendered with rare interpretive feeling and was followed by a beautifully played Menuet by Haydn.

The final group consisted of selections written for the guitar by Spanish composers including a Fandanguillo by Turina dedicated to Segovia, a dance by Granados and two compositions by Isaac Albeniz, Sevilla and Legenda, the whole tendered with masterly insight, beauty of tone and shading.

After taking four curtain calls, Segovia obligingly responded to the insistent applause by giving an added number, his second encore response of the evening.

GAVE FAREWELL PARTY FOR TELEPHONE OPERATOR

An enjoyable farewell party for Miss Mary Connelly of Boswell avenue, who is soon to leave for Nashua, N. H., to attend school, was given Wednesday evening at the rest room of the local telephone exchange. There were 35 present. The entertainment provided comprised of a vocal selection by Miss Helen Keefe and an exhibition of the varsity by Miss Helen Coughlin. During the evening Miss Connelly was presented a beautiful traveling bag on behalf of the local operators. Dainty refreshments were served by Misses Gladys Williamson and Eileen O'Neil. The party was arranged by Miss Dolly Enos assisted by Misses Helen Nicholson, Mary Tracy, Doris Fowler. Miss Connelly has been a telephone operator at the local exchange.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER GIVEN FOR MISS AGNES GAYESKI

At the home of Miss Bernice Chapman, No. 44 Greene avenue, Friday evening a miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Agnes Gayeski of Yantic, a telephone operator at the local exchange, in honor of her approaching marriage to Joseph Beausoliel of this city. The program of entertainment, a feature of the evening, included piano selections by the Misses Spicer and Sussanne Hargreaves, in addition to a sketch, in which the Misses Billy Lambert and Freda Blinderman participated. The hostesses served delicious refreshments assisted by Mrs. William Leary, of Ware, Mass., Mrs. Thomas Murphy of Franklin, and Mrs. Arthur Chapman. The bride-to-be received a large assortment of handsome gifts. Forty attended.

FUNERALS

Timothy Coffey

At 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon the funeral of Timothy Coffey was held at the parlors of Undertaker C. A. Gager, the service being conducted by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of Greeneville Congregational church. Burial was in Yantic cemetery, friends acting as bearers, and Rev. Mr. Ricketts conducted the committal service. Friends were relatives were present and there were a number of beautiful floral tributes. Mr. Coffey died at Stratford

STONINGTON TOWN MEETING ADJOURNS WITHOUT ACTION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 18.—A special town meeting held in Stonington town hall Friday night to vote on the sanctioning of Sunday afternoon and evening moving pictures in Pawcatuck, on the petition of Manager John B. Finlay and 426 others, adjourned without action. The meeting was held with only a four day notice, when the statute requirement is five days.

The point was raised by Dr. James H. Weeks, clerk of the meeting, before the call was read, but the adjournment vote put by Charles John Fribance, selectman, was declared lost on a voice vote. Attorney John F. Gallagher, for Mr. Finlay, presented a formal resolution for the adoption, but Clerk Weeks declared "If you vote tonight no court in the state will sustain it!" to which Mr. Gallagher replied that the selectmen had the authority to grant the petition exclusive of the action of this meeting. When Dr. Weeks said that the selectmen would refuse to grant the petition if the meeting voted it, by reason of an illegally held meeting, Attorney Gallagher retorted "They'll cross that bridge when they come to it! They haven't refused it yet!" On motion of Albert G. Martin the call for the meeting was read and Chairman Fribarce declared that the meeting had been called in good faith, as a legal meeting, by the selectmen, who were not informed on the point raised. Representative Stahle inquired if the selectmen would agree to act if the meeting voted regardless of the technicality and the moderator replied that they were not prepared to answer at this time.

Bourdon A. Babcock of Pawcatuck declared that the names on the petitions were secured in the state of Rhode Island, in Westerly, and moved that the meeting be postponed. The "No's" were largely in the majority on the voice vote. Mr. Gallagher said they were qualified Connecticut electors, and on his presentation of the favoring resolution the "Yes" votes predominated, but Chairman Fribance declared in fairness to all the selectmen he would declare the meeting adjourned, to permit another meeting to be called with the legal five day notice requirement met. There was an attendance of about 200.

LEBANON WOMEN VOTERS HOLD INTERESTING MEETING

The Lebanon League of Women Voters held a very interesting meeting at the Lebanon high school Wednesday evening.

The program opened with a piano duet by Mrs. Fred Burgess, and Mrs. William Pultz. Mr. Larcomb, supervisor of Lebanon schools then spoke. His subject was "Assets and Liabilities of the Typical Lebanon School Child." He said he was very glad to talk to the Lebanon league, who by their help had saved one Lebanon school child from becoming blind. Most of the children in the Lebanon schools are of foreign parentage, and Mr. Larcomb said the tsome of the characteristics of these children were assets, and some liabilities.

Mrs. George MacDonald spoke a few words for the league hoping that they might become of some help to Lebanon schools and school children in the future.

FARLEY NAMED AS TRUSTEE OF MULDOON-TUNNEY TROPHY

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)— James A. Farley, chairman of the New York State Athletic commission, was named today to fill the vacancy left among the trustees of the Muldoon-Tunney Trophy, symbol of the world's heavyweight championship, by the death of Tex Rickard.

With Herbert Bayard Swope as spokesman for Bernard Gimbel, former Judge Jeremiah P. Mahoney, and John M. Bowman, other members of the commission in charge of the $10,000 trophy, the trustees announced their plans for the naming of a new champion, determined the former champions whose names will be inscribed on the emblem, and passed resolutions of regret at the death of Rickard.

The axiom that a "championship may never be awarded but must always be won" will guide the trustees in the naming of a champion to succeed the retired Gene Tunney, Swope said. The former champion and William Muldoon, 83-year-old "solid man" of boxing, established the trophy when Tunney retired from the ring last summer.

The trustees showed no inclination to accept Jack Dempsey as the champion in view of Tunney's retirement and his knockout of Jack Sharkey, a move suggested unofficially some time ago by Muldoon. Instead the trustees decided that there is no champion at present and will be none as far as they are concerned until some figure is generally recognized by the public as the new titleholder.

The trustees will suggest no bouts or elimination tournaments, Swope said, and will have no official standing in the boxing world nor connection with any athletic commission. Rather the trustees hope that all boxing boards throughout the country, because of the prominence of the donors and the desire of the committee to act merely as steward of the public, will aid them in deciding upon a new champion. The "widest receptivity" will be given suggestions of all boxing writers and authorities, Swope said.

The trophy, which will stand over six feet high, will be placed in the lobby of Madison Square Garden and will not come into the possession of any boxer. The names of the past eight champions will be inscribed on the base. In order they are John L. Sullivan, James J. Corbett, Robert Fitzsimmons, James J. Jeffries, John Johnson, Jess Willard, Jack Dempsey, and Gene Tunney. The trustees did not recognize Tommy Burns, who claimed the title after Jeffries retired, as champion.

As soon as possible, Swope said, a dinner will be arranged in Madison Square Garden where the trophy will be unveiled. Six of the titleholders named will be present, he said, while the two who have died, Sullivan and Fitzsimmons, will be represented by Muldoon and Robert Fitzsimmons Jr., respectively.

PUTNAM GOES INTO SECOND PLACE BEATING STONINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

STONINGTON, Jan. 18—By nosing out the local high school team by a two-point margin, 44 to 42, here tonight the Putnam high quintet went into second place in the Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic circuit. The game was one of those affairs where interest was maintained until the final whistle as the outcome of the game was uncertain throughout. Battling on practically even terms for the entire four quarters the visitors managed to hang to their two point margin until the end. This victory for Putnam makes the standing in the league read:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chapman Tech	1	0	1.000
Putnam	2	1	.667
Windham	1	1	.500
Norwich Academy	0	1	.000
Stonington	0	1	.000

KOZIOL BEATS SALEK IN FURIOUS BATTLE

156, Euclid Fisette, Woonsocket, beat Elmo Nyholm, Maynard, decision.

Bats Kayees Rivers

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 18—(AP)—Benny Bass of Philadelphia, former featherweight champion, knocked out Joey Rivers of Kansas City in the second round of a 10-round bout here tonight. Bass weighed 127 1-2; Rivers 126 1-2.

AGGIES INVADE DOMAIN OF MASS. AGGIES TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Jan. 18 —Two Connecticut Aggie athletic teams will entrain for the camp of the Massachusetts Agricultural college where they will meet the Bay staters in basketball and hockey, tomorrow afternoon. The meeting will mark the first arrival of any Connecticut team on the field of any sport at Amherst since the last advent in the fall of 1926 when a Nutmeg eleven defeated the football machine there. Since then a breach lasting for two years ensued which was broken this winter after the athletic officials of both colleges decided on a basketball and hockey contest.

The fast moving Aggie quintet will play the Bay state five in the evening following the hockey tilt on the Amherst rink. The latter event will be the second between the two colleges since Mass. Aggies played the Nutmeggers at Storrs recently and won by a 6-0 score. The basketball tilt will be the third for the Aggies in four days which included Tufts and Maine. The latter contest is to be staged here this evening for which Coach Alexander has not given the squad any preparation. The game tomorrow evening at Amherst will also have no pre-contest drilling. The Blue and White had only one day for practice all week for the trio of games. On Monday Coach Alexander gave the men a day of rest and on Tuesday the charges were sent through a hard practice session. The following evening the Aggies engaged Tufts and won by two points at Medford.

Coach Alexander will take two full quintets on the trip and if there are no accidents this evening in the Maine contest, it is very probable that he will start the first string quintet. The starting five will consist of Ray Ryan and Eugene Lamoureux, forwards, Chubbuck, center, and Duffy and Osterling, guards. In reserve Coach Alexander will have Darrow and Glennon, forwards; Matzkin, center; and Flydal and Dall, guards.

The hockey contest for the Aggies will be the fourth on the first schedule ever played in the ice sport. The Blue and White were defeated twice and ended one game in a 2-2 deadlock after playing out three five minute overtime periods. The latest defeat was at the hands of the crack New Hampshire university sextet by the score of 8-1. Coach Dole will take a squad of eleven men on the trip. The starting sextet will include Brown, goal; Hawkins and Captain Knaut, defense; Bauman, center; and Christen and Murphey, wing. The substitutes on hand will be Sasso, Mullane, Passelinsky, Moore, and Rhody.

ACADEMY BASKETBALL SCHEDULE CHANGED

The following is the Academy basketball schedule revised to date:

Jan. 19, Torrington at Torrington; *Tuesday, Jan. 22, Chapman Tech at New London; Friday, Jan. 25, Rockville at Norwich; Saturday, Jan. 26, Pratt High at Essex; Friday, Feb. 1, Deep River at Norwich; Saturday, Feb. 2, Gilbert High of Winsted at Norwich; Wednesday, Feb 6, Collegiate Prep at New Haven; *Friday, Feb. 8, Chapman Tech at Norwich; *Tuesday, Feb. 12, Windham at Norwich; Friday, Feb. 15, Torrington at Norwich; *Saturday, Feb. 16, Stonington at Norwich; *Monday, Feb. 18, Putnam at Norwich; Friday, Feb. 22, Gilbert High at Winsted; (Saturday, Feb. 26, Friday, March 1, Saturday, March 2 or Tuesday, March 5, series of three games with Y Seniors, all at Norwich); *Wednesday, March 6, Windham at Willimantic; *Friday, March 8, Stonington at Stonington.

CONN. AGGIES WIN EASILY FROM MAINE

STORRS, Jan. 18—(AP)—Though every member of the second string team substituted at one time or another for varsity men, the Connecticut Aggies were able to swamp the Maine university basketball quintet by a 29-22 score tonight.

The hard playing Nutmeggers put Sylvester, Maine center, out of the game with a fractured ankle in the last five minutes of the second half.

Chubbuck, Aggie center, again demonstrated his scoring prowess by making a total of 13 points, but Maine's right forward, Herbert, was behind him by only two points.

Throughout the entire contest, Maine was forced to use long shots because of the strong Nutmeg defense. Coach Alexander used the Aggie second string quintet to save the varsity for its game with the Massachusetts Aggies at Amherst tomorrow night. At the end of the first half, the score stood 17 to 6, favor Nutmeg.

Dartmouth-Hebron Tilt Off

HANOVER, N. H., Jan. 18—(AP)—The Dartmouth freshman-Hebron hockey game, scheduled to be played here this afternoon, was called off when a temperature of 50 degrees melted the ice on the Green's outdoor rink. The Maine prep sextet decided to remain in Hanover overnight and play the game tomorrow, weather permitting.

NURMI STARTS HIS FIRST RACE AT BROOKLYN TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)— Paavo Nurmi will make the first start of his second American invasion in a 3,000-yard invitation race at the Brooklyn college track and field games at the Thirteenth Regiment armory in Brooklyn tmorrow night.

Although nearly four years older than when he last raced here, Nurmi has shown in daily workouts since his arrival from Finland a month ago that at least at distances longer than a mile he still retains most of his old speed. A field consisting of Ove Anderson, a point winner for Finland in the Olympics; Gus Moore, national cross country champion; Joe Hagen of Columbia university and Irving Totten, former Union college runner, will provide the opposition and Nurmi will be clocked at various points in his run over the 3,000-yard route, a freak distance of his own choosing.

In 1925 he broke the world's indoor mile record at Buffalo with a mark of 4:12.

Besides Nurmi's debut the Brooklyn college meet offers a high class sprint series including Karl Wildermuth and Bob McAllister; a special 440 with Oliver Proudlock, Bernard McCafferty and Cecil Cooke among the entrants; two college relay events and a featured thousand-yard race in which Phil Edwards will make his first appearance of the season against such stars as Harold Cutbill and Sam Martin.

BALTIC INDS. WIN FROM U. S. FINISHERS.

The Baltic Independents won an easy victory 36 to 27 over the U. S. Finishing five of Norwich at the Baltic gym on Friday evening. The Independents took the lead in the first quarter, lost it again, and then went out in front never to be headed during the remainder of the contest. Viau and Wilcox starred for Baltic while Archibald was high scorer for the Finishers. The summary:

BRICE BEATS CHASE IN MIAMI FINALS

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 18—(AP)—Harcourt Brice, of Miami, see-sawed his way to a one-up victory over Lee Chase, of Buffalo, and trophy championship in the Miami mid-winter amateur golf tournament here today.

The finalists, playing at the Miami Country club, kept within reach of each other during the 18-hole morning round. In the afternoon, however, first one and then the other playing in brilliant fashion.

Brice launched a determined assault that gave him a lead of five up on the outgoing nine of the afternoon round. On the return trip they halved the first three holes but Chase rallied to gain the 31st, 32nd and 33rd. They halved the 34th, and Chase took the 35th only to lose the match when he got no better than a half on the last hole.

CANZONERI KNOCKS OUT SANTIAGO IN THE FIFTH

CHICAGO, Jan. 18—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri of New York, former world's featherweight champion, knocked out the sensational young Cuban, Armando Santiago, conqueror of Joey Sangor, in the first round of a savagely fought battle in the Coliseum tonight.

Canzoneri, floored in the first round for a count of seven, came back in the second to batter the Cuban warrior into a state of helplessness. He won the second, third and fourth rounds by sharp scoring with lefts and short right crosses and in the fifth floored Santiago for a count of six with a series of left hooks before knocking him completely out with left and right to the stomach.

HANN WINS FIRST MATCH AT BILLIARDS

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)—Joseph Johann won his first match of the National amateur class B 18.2 billiard tournament there tonight, defeating Jerome Strauss, 200 to 167. The match went 44 innings. Johann had a high run of 27 against 23 for his opponent.

Johanna was beaten twice in the tournament before tonight's victory. Strauss has record of three defents and one victory, an upset of the defending champion, David Weiner, last night.

Williams Swimmers vs. N. Y. U.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Jan. 18—(AP)—The Williams college swimming team will oppose New York university here tomorrow in the first home meet of the season for the royal purple. Burg, star in the 440 yard event, will be out of the Williams lineup with an injured knee but the rest of the team is intact. This will also mark the opening of the season for the New York university mermen.

ACADEMY BEATS PROVIDENCE FIVE IN CLOSE GAME BY TWO POINTS

The Academy scored a close victory over Bryant-Stratton Business college five of Providence Friday night at the Y gym, 20 to 18 in a stubbornly fought contest. The result was in doubt all the way and the final whistle found the Providence team advancing on the Wildcat basket for the probable tying points. Ten seconds previous the visitors had closed the gap to within two points on a long basket. A fairly good crowd attended.

Defensive play featured the work of both teams. Bryant-Stratton used long shots to score most of their points while the Academy tallied the majority of theirs on tosses rather close by. Fat Stevens led the Academy in scoring with nine points, while Mercier of the visitors scored the same number.

Academy Leads at Half.

The first half ended, 8 to 6, in the Academy's favor. The Wildcats had spurted in the second quarter to gain the lead. At the resumption of play the Providence team spurted a trifle and outplayed the Red and White in the third quarter, gaining the lead at 10 to 8 at its conclusion.

It wasn't long after the final quarter opened however, before the Academy knotted the count. A toss from the side of the court by "Gink" Barber that went through clean turned the trick. Bryant-Stratton went ahead again on a field goal by Mercier only to have Barber again tie the score at 12-all. Stevens threw one in that made it 14-12 and Mercier droped in a foul it 14-13. Capt. LaCroix, however, scored with a neat floor basket, pushing the score up to 16-13 and Dickerman made it 18 and then 20.

Baskets by Feinsberg and Mercier and a foul by Mercier completed Providence's scoring, their last basket coming just before the game ended. In fact, the teams had just lined up at the next tapoff when the game ended.

N. F. A. Slightly Improved.

The Academy showed improvement over its other two games this season but still there is plenty to do. The locals showed a tendency to drop passes and to pass probably a bit too much. However, once the players became accustomed to one another, the Red and White should be ably represented. To date the team has won two and lost one game.

In the preliminary the Y Emps had little trouble with the Willimantic Trade school five, winning, 21 to 5. Murphy led the locals in scoring with five field goals. Willimantic could get but one basket from the floor through the local defense. Summaries:

At Torrington Tonight.

Tonight the Academy meets one of the leading high school fives in the state in Torrington High, the game to be played at Torrington. Torrington yearly produces great court teams and this season is no exception. The last basketball meeting of the Wildcats with Torrington was in 1927, the first season of basketball at the local school. Torrington won decisively that time. Torrington in other sports is unusually easy for the locals. A large crowd of students plan to make the trip tonight.

LANDS AND GRIMM TAKE LEAD IN SIX-DAY RACE

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)—Stealing a lap during the evening sprints, the team of Dave Lands and Willie Grimm tonight went into undisputed possession of the lead in New York's 46th International six day bicycle race in the Kingsbridge armory.

At 10 a. m. 119th hour of the grind, the Grimm-Lands combination had covered 2015 miles, eight laps. Five teams were tied for runner-up position.

Grimm and Lands made their unexpected dash while the ninth sprint of the evening was on. They caught the field flatfooted and maintained their advantage against every rival thrust.

MRS. JONES TO PLAY IN EDGEWATER GOLF FINALS

EDGEWATER PARK, Miss., Jan. 18—(AP)—Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago, former western champion, and Miss Marion Turpie, New Orleans, southern champion, today advanced to the championship finals to be played tomorrow in the Pan-American woman amateur golf tournament. Mrs. Jones defeated Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, international star, 4 and 3, and Miss Turpie defeated Mrs. John Arends, of Evanston, Ill., 6 and 4, in the semi-finals.

LARGE FIELD OF WOMEN FOR NAT. SQUASH TITLE

BOSTON, Jan. 18—(AP)— Sixty-four women, from four squash centers, were entered in the first women's national squash racquets championships, which opens here Monday at the Harvard club, today, when the seedings were made.

Sixteen players were seeded, the 1928 results having been used largely as a guide for the scattering of the stars. The seeded list contained eight Boston women and eight from Philadelphia, Greenwich, Conn., and Ardsley-on-Hudson, N. Y.

BASKIN WILL BE IN MILLROSE A. A. HIGH HURDLES

NEW YORK, Jan. 1—(AP)—An international field headed by the national indoor high hurdling champion, Weems Baskin, was assured today for the sixty yard hurdle event in the Millrose A. A. games at Madison Square Garden the evening of February 9.

Among the half dozen already listed to start is Erick Kjellstrom, Swedish Olympic hurdler who now is training at Washington. In addition to the long striding southerner, Baskin, the home bred talent includes John Collier, lanky star from Brown university; Earl MacDonald, formerly of Holy Cross and now with the New York A. C.; Sol Furth, stocky all-round competitor from New York university; and Dougherty, of Williams college.

GREENLEAF INCREASES HIS LEAD OVER SEABACK

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf lengthened his lead today in his 1500 point pocket billiard match with Charles Seaback although the two blocks were divided. The two point score now stands: Greenleaf, 1262; Seaback 1024. Two blocks tomorrow complete the match.

Seaback took the afternoon block today, 141 to 134 in 12 innings. His high run was 42; Greenleaf's 39.

Greenleaf came back tonight to crush his rival under a 128 to 39 count in seven innings. He had one run of 71. Seaback's best effort of a bad evening was a cluster of 14.

SOCCER LEAGUE GAME AT J. B. MARTIN GROUND SUNDAY

The Velvetmen have another home game scheduled for Sunday afternoon. They meet the fast traveling Cottrell F. C. of Westerly, R. I., in a game that should be full of excitement. These teams are evenly matched having met twice this season and each having a game to their credit. The Westerly boys are coming to Taftville with a strong lineup being determined to garner the two points.

The J. B's. management have decided to re-arrange their team after being defeated last Sunday by Bradford. The lineup will be chosen before game time.

Referee will be Fred Knowles and the kick-off will be at 2:15.

MISSES SEARS AND WATERMAN TO BATTLE FOR SQUAD TITLE

BOSTON, Jan. 18 — (AP) — Miss Eleanora Sears, defending her title as the women's Massachusetts squash rackets champion, defeated Mrs. George W. Wightman, of Brookline, three games to one here today in a semi-final match at the Harvard club.

Miss Louise Waterman, of Boston, conquered Mrs. Lothrop Wightington, of Boston, in the other semi-final match and will oppose Miss Sears in tomorrow's title round.

STRIBLING SCORES KAYO OVER ANOTHER PUSH-OVER

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 18—(AP)—Young Stribling, of Macon, Georgia, knocked out Art Mayal, of Chicago here tonight in the third round of what was scheduled to have been a ten-round battle.

The fight was so uninteresting as to cause spectators to begin leaving their seats before the end of the second round. Malay, dazed by a straight left delivered in the first few seconds of the fighting did not strike Stribling even one effective blow.

All Stars Beat Rangers

The Norwich All Stars won a rough game of roller polo from the Rangers Friday evening at the Olympic rink, the score being 5 to 1. The game proved to be the liviest played this season, the large crowd thoroughly enjoying it. A return game is scheduled for next Monday night between the same teams. The lineups:

All Stars — Cooke lr, Falcone 2r, Quinn c, Savage hb, Starr g.

Goals—Quinn 3, Cooke 2, Brooks 1.

Navy Star Operated On

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 18 —(AP)— Edward J. Burke, captain of the Naval academy football team, and choice of experts for all-American honors, was operated on today for chronic appendicitis, with which he had suffered throughout the 1928 football season.

A report from the Naval academy hospital after the operation said it was successful and that the football star was recovering nicely.

Paul Beats Genaro

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 18—(AP)— Tommy Paul, youthful Buffalo bantam, tonight defeated Frankie Genaro, recognized by the N. B. A. as flyweight champion, in a six round bout. Paul weighed 118 1-2; Genaro 115.

High School Basketball

Wallingford, 24; Milford 9.

Young Dempsey and Fuente Draw

LOMSKI TAKES TOUGH BATTLE FROM BRADDOCK

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)—Leo Lomski, slashing light-heavyweight from Aberdeen, Washington, battered out a decision over James J. Braddock, of Jersey City, tonight in the ten-round feature match of a stirring card. Braddock, who recently jumped into fame by knocking out Tuffy Griffiths and fracturing Pete Latzo's jaw, scaled 172 pounds, Lomski 172 1-2.

Lomski won by forcing the battle every inch of the way although he was battered considerably and staggered frequently along the route. Jimmy unleashed a right in the third round that slashed a deep gash in Lomski's left eyebrow. In each round thereafter, Braddock kept a trickle of blood coursing down the westerner's cheek. There were no knockdowns.

By continually keeping the jump on the easterner, and dropping into close quarters with left hooks to the body, Lomski avoided severe punishment from Braddock's crushing right hand. James J. was loath to lead at all times, never forced the milling, and failed to take advantage of the occasional right smashes that dizzied the coast boy.

The judges failed to agree in their verdict, one voting the match a draw, while the other and Referee Arthur Donavon gave the match to Lomski. A consensus of ringside opinion conceded Lomski six rounds, Braddock three with one even.

The Jersey youngster measured Lomski repeatedly in the first and third sessions with the same powerful right hand thrusts that finished Latzo and Griffiths. He laid back constantly, waiting for further openings as the bout went on, but Lomski refused to fall into the trap.

Despite height and reach handicaps, Leo kept a busy left hand in Braddock's face and set the pace by jumping to close quarters with short left hooks to the head and body. Braddock was rarely able to untangle his right hand from Leo's port side long enough to shoot cleanly for the head or ribs.

The action was warm in every round but despite Braddock's heavy hitting neither ever was in danger of going to the floor. Lomski gathered strength in the closing sessions while Braddock appeared to weaken. Jimmy saved most of his punches for the ninth and tenth sessions when he slugged on close to even terms with the westerner.

The Preliminaries

Babe McGorgary, Oklahoma light-heavyweight, won a decision over Ray Still, of Los Angeles, in a bruising ten-round bout. McGorgary, with a 13 1-2 pound advantage, clinched the victory by flooring Still for a count of two in the last few seconds of the match. McGorgary weighed 170 1-2.

Ben Jeby, New York middleweight, knocked out Cecil Harper, of Aberdeen, Washington, in 55 seconds of the third round of a battle that kept the capacity crowd of 19,000 in an uproar. Harper, who was knocked down twice for counts of nine in the second round, dropped Jeby for eight after getting up, and finally went down twice and out in the third. Jeby weighed 150, Harper 153 1-2.

In a ten-round semi-final, Charley Belanger, Canadian light-heavyweight, knocked out Nando Tassi, of Italy, in the fourth round. Belanger flattened the Italian with one right to the body in one minute, 40 seconds, of the round. There were no previous knockdowns and the battling was rough but fairly even until the Canadian flashed his finishing punch. Belanger weighed 177 1-2, Tassi 180.

Canzoneri weighed 129 pounds and Santiago 128.

LEWIS WINS HARD MATCH FROM CLINSTOCK

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18—(AP)— Ed, "Strangler" Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling champion, tonight threw Jim Clinstock, Sioux Falls Indian, in one hour, 30 minutes and 20 seconds with his famous headlock. It was the "Strangler's" first match since he lost the title to Gus Sonnenberg in Boston two weeks ago.

Clinstock fell when victory appeared within his grasp. Shortly before the end, the Indian hurled Lewis to the mat twice with scissors hold, but the latter wrested himself free and a moment late pinned Clinstock's shoulders to the mat. Lewis scaled 230 and Clinstock 224.

RHODODENDRON PLANT IS REAL THERMOMETER

NEW YORK—(AP)—When the leaves of the rhododendron drop it is time to put alcohol in the radiator; and should they roll up like balls, look out for a snap that will freeze the water pipes.

As a weather indicator, says Edmund H. Fulling of the New York Botanical Garden, a rhododendron bush is almost as useful as a thermometer, and sometimes easier to see.

Thirst is the botanical explanation for the action of the leaves of this shrub. As the temperature drops below 40 they curl and when it hits zero hang straight downward on their hinges and roll up tight; because the drooping and the curling assist in preventing evaporation of their moisture.

REGINA, Sask.— (AP) —Producer of 26,396 pounds of milk with 1,080 pounds of butterfat in 305 days, the Holstein Friesian cow "Canary Korndyke Alcartra," owned by Ben H. Thompson of Boharm, Sask., and world champion in her class as a butterfat producer, has been purchased by the Saskatchewan government department of agriculture for $10,000.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

At the last regular meeting of Norwich grange, No. 172, held in Steiner hall, the overseer, Mrs. Althea Brown, presided in the absence of A. W. Lillibridge, worthy master, and after a short business meeting the lecturer's programme was carried out under the direction of Miss Nellie Howie. It opened with a song by the grange and a roll call on "Which part of the Bulletin do you like best?" This brought many responses and created quite an amusing time. Then followed a reading, My Son, by Mrs. Anna Woods, paper, Developing the Fraternal Spirit, Miss Belle Rathbone, piano solo, with encore, by Dwight Richardson, reading John E. Fanning, game contest by the grange, and readings by Mrs. John E. Fanning that were humorous and much enjoyed. A song by the entire grange concluded the pleasing programme.

The next meeting will be Jan. 22 when a supper will be served by Division E at 6:30 after which the installation of officers for 1929 will take place.

Members of Norwich grange who attended the Connecticut grange conference at Bridgeport this month included Mrs. Ida Richardson, of the state executive committee, Mrs. Maude Bliss, Pomona lecturer, Albert W. Lillibridge, master of Norwich grange, Elizabeth W. Murray, lecturer of Norwich grange, Mrs. Amy Coles, Hattie Woodmansee and Clara Storey. The sixth degree was conferred on a class of about 150 in a very beautiful ceremony.

COVETOUSNESS BRINGS NOTHING HOME.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

The Old Sampler

Out of the way, in a corner
Of our dear old attic room,
Where bunches of herbs from the hillside
Shake ever a faint perfume,
An old oaken chest is standing,
With clasp and padlock and key,
Strong as the hands that made it
On the other side of the sea.

When the winter days are dreary,
And we're out of heart with life,
Of its crowding cares aweary,
And sick of its restless strife,
We take a lesson in patience
From the attic corner dim
Where the chest still holds its treasures,
A warden faithful and grim.

Robes of antique fashion,
Of linen and lace and silk,
That time has tinted with saffron,
Though once they were white as milk;
Wonderful baby garments,
Broidered with loving care
By fingers that felt the pleasure,
As they wrought the ruffles fair.

A sword with the red rust on it,
That flashed in the battle tide,
When from Lexington to Yorktown
Family men's souls were tried;
A plumed chapeau and a buckle,
And many a relic fine,
And all by itself the sampler,
Framed in with berry and vine.

Faded the square of canvas
And dim is the silken thread,
But I think of white hands dimpled,
And a childish sunny head;
For here in grim and in tent-stitch,
In a wreath of berry and vine,
She worked it a hundred years ago
"Elizabeth, aged nine."

In and out in the sunshine
The little needle flashed,
And in and out on the rainy day,
When the merry drops down splashed,
Close she sat by her mother,
The little Puritan maid,
And did her piece on the sampler,
While the other children played.

They are safe in the beautiful heaven,
"Elizabeth, aged nine,"
Long before you went you had troubles
Harder than any of mine,
Oh, the gold hair turned with sorrow
Those at the drifted snow,
And your tears dropped here, where I'm standing
On this very plumed chapeau.

When you put it away its wearer
Would need it never more,
By a sword-thrust learning the secret
God keeps on yonder shore;
And you were your grief like glory,
You could not yield supine,
While wrought in your patient childhood
"Elizabeth, aged nine."

Out of the way in a corner,
With hasp and padlock and key
Stands the oaken chest of my fathers
That came from over the sea;
And the Pillsbie herbs above it
Shake odors fragrant and fine,
And here on its lid is a garland
To "Elizabeth, aged nine."

Our love is of the immortal,
And sadness is sublime,
And trouble a thing of every day
And touching every time;
And childhood sweet and sunny,
And womanly truth and grace,
Know can light life's darkness
And bless earth's lowliest place.

Ebenezer Gray

He thought he was a Christian,
Did Ebenezer Gray;
He thought he was a Christian,
Did Ebenezer Gray;
He never missed church Sunday
And was always glad to pray,
He did not let religion
Hurt his business through the week,
Nor on a Sunday morning
He was righteous-like and meek.

He used to have a manner
That would make a clown feel sobe
And to chill his neighbors.
And his home was chilly, too,
But in the church on Sunday
You could never find him late
And when it came to rooting in revival
He was great.
He used to skin all comers through the week
And liked the game,
Yet claimed to run his business
In the Master's holy name
He never let the doctrine used on Sunday, understand,
Affect quad his week day
Any deal he had on hand.
Some people called him "brother,"
Great numbers called him names
The latter people being those Who fathomed all his aims.
He died in proper season
Crossed onto another shore
And this is what St. Peter
Told the fellow at the door:
"While you were good on Sundays,
Through the week, Eb, you were tough,
Hence, when I speak your sentence
Do not think that I am rough:
Now you can spend your Sundays
Down in Heaven, very well.
But week days Ebenezer,
I'm going to give you ——"

It Takes So Little

It takes so little to make us sad,
Just a slighting word or a doubtful
sneer,
Just a mournful smile on some lips held dear,
And our footsteps lag, tho' the goal seemed near,
And we lose the courage and hope we had—
Oh, it takes so little to make us sad.

It takes so little to make us glad,
Just the cheerful clasp of a friendly hand,
Just a word from one who can understand,
And we finish the task we long had planned
And we lose the doubt and fear we had—
So little it takes to make us glad

SECOND STORMY SUNDAY

Dear Social Corner Friends and Editor: This is our second stormy Sunday for the New Year with snow during today and a blinding ten minute snowstorm at 5 o'clock. We had our first snow weather this morning (Jan. 13th) although in some places it was warmer (Denver) colder.

Quid Nunc: You cannot imagine how much I enjoyed reading about "Shinny Joe." It certainly was an out of the ordinary line of stories.

Roberta: Yes, Cheerio is good, but for a change I am "listening in" to the "Dandies of Yesterday" from WEAN and also like the Cathedral Hour from the same station at 4 o'clock every Sunday afternoon.

With best wishes for 1929.

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS

Jan. 23—Club No. 4 meets at Moosup Girls' club rooms, Moosup.

GOOD TIME TO BAKE POTATOES.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Greetings for 1929. May all your wishes come true.

Social Corner Member: I thank you for the pretty calendar.

This Christmas seems to have bee a happy one judging from reports from all directions: more decorations, more community trees, mode parents and celebrations of various kinds. May the Christmas spirit of "peace on earth and good will to all men" increase each year.

Primrose: Who was the author of the verse you sent about Labor?

Belinda: You have my sympathy.

Thirty-Two: It was a sad holiday for you. You have my sympathy. We have had that experience twice on New Year's day.

Social Corner has met with a great loss in the passing away of Kitty Lou. She took great interest in the Corner and her letters were always helpful, interesting and exact. She wrote for other papers and maxazines and possessed a remarkable store of valuable information. The best memorial to her is for every one to write and keep the page full every week. That would please her more than anything else.

Yellow Daisy: You should see the house plants Mary France has.

Caro: Like you, I dread snow and ice.

Now that hot fires are necessary it is a good time to bake potatoes. They are more nutritious and tasty than served any other way.

Wishing health and prosperity to all. NEMA.

URGES MEMBERS TO WRITE

Dear Social Corner Friends: Just a word to say I am glad to see our page so filled up with letters, for I enjoy reading them very much. That is the first page I turn to when my Bulletin comes on Saturday. I do hope some of the other sisters will get busy and write a few lines, if only a little bit.

Yes, Silver Locks, my name was B. B. before I was married.

Yellow Daisy: My mother is very feeble. She is in bed all of the time. Rational only at times. Has been there since the first part of October. She is not able to feed herself or wait o herself at all. My father is fine for an old man, 88 years old. Mother is 86.

Nona: Why don't you get busy and write a line or two?

Had a very nice time at the meeting in Willimantic, Jan. 9th. Hope sister that injured her knee at the meeting is feeling better.

Tuny Ann: Don't use up all of that thread until I see you.

I will stop now before my letter gets too long and give someone else a chance. RIVER VIEW (Club No. 1.)

PAINTING EMBROIDERY DESIGNS

Dear Editor and Cornerites: I wonder if you ever tried painting your embroidery designs with crayola? I have and it is a real help. If you buy your pieces already stamped or stamp them yourself or if you are able to draw flowers and foliage and birds on your linen, then color the desired color with crayola. Be careful not to go over your out-lines, then lay your work on a padded surface face down and press with a hot flat. When you have outlined the foliage and flowers and added a few veins you will have a real colorful piece of work and quickly done.

Yellow Daisy: I have written a good many suggestions to the Corner on window plants and outdoor plants. If your plants don't grow I would suggest that you get some plant food from a reliable florist, of which there are several, and follow directions, or get Stim-u-plant from the hardware store. I have not used any plant food. If you use good soil in potting your plants and have sufficient drainage and keep your plants clean it is all you can do. If you cannot give them sunny windows don't try to have anything but ferns and palms. Grow strawflowers outside next summer and gather them for winter cheer i. e., decorate your ferns with them and fill wall vases with them. They keep bright for over a year and then you can put in new ones.

I have at present a number of geraniums, begonias, wallflower, abutilon and lobelia in bloom, and nicotines and heliotrope and other geraniums and begonias budded.

The carmine prima donna and calla lily begonias are the most showy of the specie, but geraniums and abutilon are the standbys without any enemies whatever. Only give water when they are dry. They will look better if you spray them occasionally.

Old Fashioned Mother, Little Sister, Doris, and Buddy: Come on it's time you wrote a letter.

CANTERBURY BILL

PET HOBBIES

Dear Social Corner Members: When I got up this morning and found what a really cold day it was I thought now I have a fine excuse for not doing the family wash; it's too cold to hang out clothes, and I'll use today to do the odds and ends that I have wanted to do for a long time. No day need ever be wasted, rainy or otherwise. Sometimes those days are the most interesting of all. I have discovered things at that time that I had forgotten I owned. When I first moved out from the city one of my friends said: "Oh, don't you get dreadfully lonesome?" "Lonesome!" I said. "Why, I'm never lonesome. I don't have time." It had never occurred to me that anyone could think of such a thing.

I wonder how many of our members has a pet hobby, and if they might not make interesting reading for the rest of us? I once knew an old lady who made a collection of small pitchers. She had a specially constructed rack for them and it was interesting to have her tell you where each one came from and the story connected with it. An aunt of my husband's collected postcard views of lighthouses, some very beautiful ones, from all over the country. Another man I know takes pictures of beautiful and unusual doorways. He has a rare collection. I believe everyone should have something of especial interest to themselves.

One of mine is dogs. We have four. You know the old saying, "A poor man has one, a poorer two and a very poor one has three dogs and a fiddle." We have all but the fiddle—one a 15 year old shepherd, almost entirely blind and very deaf; the other a lively fox terrier, who constitutes herself the old dog's body guard. They make the rounds of the place together. Sometimes the terrier gets in a hurry, the old fellow is so slow and blundering, and comes back to the house first. Then I always say: "What have you done with brother?" She will look so guilty and then go to find him. She coaxes him along by taking him by the side of the mouth gently with her teeth and he will trot along behind clumsily, probably mostly by a sense of smell.

IN MEMORIAM

Here lies the body of Amassa Crump,
Waiting the summons of the awful trump.
Amassa was not learned in city ways,
He dwelt in old Kentucky all his days.
When he had reached the age of fifty-one
He made a journey on to Washington.
There on a morning he arrived quite well
And took a room in a first class hotel.
At 10 p. m. Amassa Crump desired
He should be called at seven, and retired.
Before he got into his bed, alas!
Colonel Amassa Crump blew out the gas!
When they essayed to call him at seven,
Amassa Crump was, we all hope, in heaven.

Wishing the editor and members a very pleasant and successful new year, and thanking the Corner Member who so thoughtfully sent me the pretty calendar, I remain.

WINTER ROBIN (Club No. 6).

STILL BE THANKFUL

Dear Social Corner Friends: Thanks to a Social Corner member for the dainty calendar; the cheery landscape with the little rowboat on the water reminds us the storms and cold of winter will soon pass and summertime with all its happy outdoor life will be with us again.

To many perhaps the sunshine of former days with loved ones seems hopelessly of the past, but it is not wise to dim the light we still might have, not right to sorrow as if without hope. With so much gone how much still remains.

We should not be unappreciative of all the kind, thoughtful acts of other friends, nor selfishly ignore their efforts to comfort and care for us. "Strengthen the things that remain."

The loved ones wanted you to be happy, they liked to plan and do things for your happiness and for the comfort and happiness of other friends.

Now they are gone, do some of the things they would if they were still here, whether you are interested or not keep doing something to give help and cheer to others and interest and contentment and resignation will return to you in time. Make a list of the best things you have left, the things you would hate to lose now. What has come to you of loss and trouble was just a part of your work—just what we were here for.

Thirty-two Thanks, and much sympathy, too, to you. Love is never lost and can never be taken away from us, and you will always have him in your thoughts and happy memories just as he was and no harm or trouble can ever come to him now—a beautiful life though so very short. No, we do not know each other excepting through our letters in the corner. I have two children but your description is not right for me in any other particular.

With love to each one of the corner.

MARJORY.

WILL BE MISSED GREATLY.

Dear Editor and Sisters of Social Corner: Happy New Year to all. I am rather late, but the year is young. Many thanks to Social Corner member for my pretty calendar. I appreciate it very much. Had just put away last year's potted plants. Also wish to thank Bee for her card. Everything is about the same. How sad about Jennie Bonney. I knew her, also her father and mother. Such a tragic end to a noble character, also Kitty Lou. I didn't know her only through her writings. I always looked for her name. She certainly knew things and will be missed greatly. I would like to pass along a prayer. Make me too brave to lie or be unkind. Make me to understanding, too, to mind the little hurts companions give—and friends, the careless hurts that no one quite intends. Make me too thoughtful to hurt others so. Help me to know the inmost hearts of those for whom I care, their secret wishes, all the loads they bear, that I may add my courage to their own. May I make lonely folks feel less alone and happier ones a little happier. Yet may I for forget what ought to be forgotten and recall, unfailing all that ought to be recalled, each kindly thing, forgetting what may sting. To all upon my way, day after day, let me be joy, be hope. Let my life sing. TAFTS.

EXPECTS TO DO BETTER

Social Corner Members: It is just about a year ago that I wrote, so I would start 1928 right, but that was as far as I got. Now 1929 is here and I hope I do a little better this year, but guess I must be related to that fellow called "Ben Puttin' Off."

Phuller Phun: How are you? Your pen will be getting rusty. Better get busy, we miss your letters.

Tish: How's your ear? Don't listen to too much "scandal" and you'll be O. K. How is my friend, Dr. H. these days?

Wasn't the snow just lovely today. I got right out in it as much as I could and tonight I've got the cold chills a-coming on.

We will certainly miss Kitty Lou's helpful letters as she knew everything and anything anyone could ask her. She was the first one to get me in the Social Corner.

I wonder if any of the other sisters did such a foolish thing as I did. I took a hi-faluting name last year, changing my other one, and now I cannot remember what it was. So once more I am going to ask our kind editor to please give me back my old name as it was good enough about eight years ago.

Hope the sick ones are on the road to recovery and sympathy to the sisters in sorrow. BY JINGO.

NEGLECTED TO SEND IN NAME

Dear Editor: May I join your Corner? I shall not be able to attend many of your meetings but would like to be one of you. I live out in the wilderness with my little family and I think I know one of your big family. I know Balsam Fir, I think.

This morning a man rapped at my door and to my surprise he had been in town and found some of his friends throwing away some articles which he thought my children could wear. He carried them four miles to me. What a ray of sunshine it made in my heart this dreary day.

I trust the sick are much better, the well are happy and that I may be one of your large circle. MAZE

(You have neglected to send in your real name and address. Please do that and your name will be added to the Social Corner list.— S. C. Editor)

MORE INTEREST SHOWN AT MEETING

Dear Corner Friends: I for one am pleased to see how each one is trying to do his part to help keep our Social Corner page full. I mean to add my bit if it isn't of much interest it will help to fill a space.

What a nice company we had out to our January meeting of Club No. 2. Good entertainment, good food and plenty of it, so that the sale of food after dinner helped to pay all outstanding bills and put a little back in our reserved funds. It made me feel as if all interest in the corner meetings wasn't gone. We surely made a full day and I hope that as we started the New Year to stay and visit for the afternoon you will carry it out for the year. It gives the hostess and helpers a chance to visit after dinner work is over.

We missed Joan, also Viva, who are most always present. Was pleased to see Silver Locks from New London, also Club No. 6 Visitor, Clara B. and Fat Emma. Do come again. We try to be our name and have a good time.

I by chance caught this cake recipe over the radio last November, tried it and we liked it. It keeps good a long time if closed up.

Glorified Fruit Cake: From station WJZ—Delicious and cheap to make; one-half cup melted butter or substitute; 1½ cups unsweetened applesauce; (tart apples); 2 cups of pastry flour; or flour of your choice; 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 teaspoon (level) soda; in apple sauce beat in 2 teaspoons baking powder; in flour, also the cornstarch and 3 tablespoons dry cocoa in flour; 1 level teaspoon allspice, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup chopped nut meats, 1 cup seedless raisins, can put in 1 egg or not; it isn't called for. I used egg as I don't think eggs hurt any food when used. Try it and report. Mine was fine.

I want to thank all who helped to make our dinner and day a success, also want to thank Social Corner member for my calendar. It's nice to be remembered.

Don't forget if no other notice that our next Social Corner day of Club No. 2 is the second Tuesday of February, the 12th.

Here is a little poem for our minds for the new year:

Bless be the tongue that speaks no ill,
Whose words are always true,
That keeps the law of kindness still,
Whatever others do.

Bless the hands that toil to aid,
The great world's ceaseless need,
The hands that never are afraid,
To do a kindly deed.

CALLA LILY (Club No. 2).

A LOVER OF WINTER

Dear Editor and Members of the Social Corner: I am sorry I was not able to be with you at your last meeting, and will not be able to attend the next one either. I shall think of you and hope to be with you before spring. I am going to try and write once in awhile. In the meantime probably some of the members will call on me.

I have enjoyed watching the snowstorms, both Sunday and today. The winter season would not be complete without snow and ice. It always gives me food for thought, for it brings sweet memories to my mind of days long gone. The real good times that I so much enjoyed in my youth, for I was dearly fond of winter sports. How we looked forward to our usual sleigh-ride parties. There is nothing more thrilling than ice skating. What a real beautiful sight, to see a group of young people with all their colors on, a clear sheet of ice, and the weather good and crisp. It reminds me of a few stanzas by Whittier, "The Frost Spirit."

"He comes, he comes, the Frost Spirit comes!
You may trace his footstep now
On the naked woods and blasted fields and the brown hills wither'd brow.
He has smitten the leaves of the gray old trees where their pleasant greens came forth,
And the winds which follow wherever he goes, have shaken them down to earth.

He comes, he comes, the Frost Spirit comes! and the quiet lake shall feel
The torpid touch of his glazing breath, and ring to the skaters' heel:
And the streams which danced on the broken rocks, or sang to the leaning grass,
Shall bow again to their winter chain,
and in mournful silence pass.

He comes, he comes, the Frost Spirit comes!—let us meet him as we may,
And turn with the light of the parlor-
fire his evil power away:
And gather closer the circle round,
when that firelight dances high,
And laugh at the shriek of the baffled fiend as sounding wing goes by!"

Nonesopretty: You said you would not promise but you would try. Will you try?

Best wishes to all the shut-ins and those that are ill.

LEOCADIA (Club No. 4).

MANY USES FOR BOTTLE BRUSH

Social Corner Editor and Sisters: As I read Prairie Chicken's resolution in last week's paper I decided to try and do the same.

What cold weather. Monday (today) is quite cold. The children and I have been sliding down hill this afternoon. We stayed out until they got cold and then had to come in where we had a nice warm fire. When I am dressed warm I just love to be out in the snow.

E. L. M.: Glad you liked them. I certainly do. I have 10 new nair. Have made up that cloth I got in panty dresses. They're awfully cunning on her.

Milky Way: Did you receive your package O. K? I got mine Saturday. I am sorry that I will not be able to attend Club 6's meeting Tuesday. I am entertaining our Community society at night so I have to dust up a bit. It really is more work cleaning up after than it is before but we always have a good time so it is worth the work.

I attended a Christian Endeavor meeting at the church upon the hill last night and had a very enjoyable evening.

H. P. of M. Street, Norwich: Heard you were coming down. What's the matter? Cold feet? We have a warm fire. So don't worry.

Idaleane: Many, many thanks for the numerous articles. They have certainly had a good time with them.

I find that a bottle brush kept near the sink is very handy especially good for vases, canning jars, as well as milk bottles. And then you would be surprised to find many other uses for it.

Sumac: What a grand time you must have with 11 autos. Are your children all boys? Take an auto and drive over sometime.

If it's not too late I wish to thank all the sisters that sent me Christmas cards.

Here is a recipe for Brown Betty which I have tried and we like it. 3 cups chopped apples, 2 cups bread crumbs, 1 cup brown sugar, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-4 cup water. Chop apples fine then mix bread crumbs with the melted butter. Mix sugar and cinnamon together. Butter a baking dish and put a layer of bread crumbs, then a layer of apples over this, sprinkle half of the cinnamon and sugar, then another layer of crumbs, apples and sugar and spice, then pour the water over all and on top put the rest of the bread crumbs. Cover closely and bake 45 minutes in moderate oven, removing cover the last few minutes to brown. Serve with sweetened cream.

Wishing all the sisters and the editor a happy New Year.

Uncle C: Don't forget to read this. Hear you have been looking for one.

RAVENA (Club 6)

RECIPE FOR OATMEAL DROP CAKES

Hello Social Cornerites: It has been quite a while since I wrote to the Social Corner and thought it about time that I sent in a few lines. It is snowing hard and looks as if we are going to have some deep snow.

I want to thank those that sent me cards at Christmas if I'm not too late.

Sumac: You ought to be able to go riding now as you said the children had a dozen automobiles. I guess I won't see you again until spring as we have all burrowed up even to the old Lizzie.

White Tulip: I guess my curiosity is satisfied now. Why don't you come down?

I am sending my recipe for oatmeal drop cakes which are very good. Cream 1-2 cup fat, add 1 cup sugar and work until creamy. Add two well-beaten eggs, 1-4 cup milk, two cups oatmeal, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1-4 teaspoon salt, mixed and sifted and add 1 cup raisins. I grind them up which I think is better. Drop by teaspoon on a buttered pan. Bake in oven not too hot.

Wishing all a prosperous New Year, will ring off.

BROWN EYES

YOUNG MISSES DRESS CARELESSLY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am going to add a few lines. In perusing Loretta's letter, I quite agree with her. The careless way young misses dress! It is not only thin shoes, but dresses up to the knees, with stockings not overthick, and I have asked: "Have you got on stockings?" They looked like the flesh. Of course they are long.

I often think what our mothers would think. I have in mind a hood my mother made. It was of maroon, line1 with pink, and covered my ears. Nowadays girls go with nothing on their heads in winter. I am sure they could not coast as I used to, for I could enjoy it very much. For, well clothed, the coldest weather did not deter me from staying out hours.

Jennie: I was pleased with description of Christmas long ago. The saying is "necessity is mother of invention." Many years ago a neighbor and I used to have a Christmas tree. One year at her home, the next at my home. Always Santa Claus was there to the delight of the children. Now those same children are married and I am a grandma. The youngest of the (that time children) seven is now 53. How time flies! It waits for no man. My neighbor has long gone to the great unknown. Her daughter writes to me and informed me I was the only friend of her mother's living. Yes, so many of my dear ones are gone, too.

Dear editor, I am wishing you and sisters a year of prosperity and happiness. TROTTIE.

MARK SULLIVAN'S BOOKS

Dear Social Corner Friends: Those two volumes of Our Times by Mark Sullivan make very good reading, especially for people of middle age. Volume One is called The Turn of the Century and Volume two America Finding Herself. Our village library obtained the first some time ago and just recently has acquired Volume two. It was my good fortune to get the last promptly and it almost seemed like living my life over again to read it. The pictures, too, and cartoons are illuminating. It seems droll to think of Roosevelt, "leading exponent of the strenuous life," being caricatured for so long as a dude. I had well nigh forgotten our language contained that word, it is so long since I had heard it. There is much in the book about Upton Sinclair's novel, The Jungle, which created such a sensation on its publication. It hit the meat packers, and hit them hard. I well remember reading this book when it came out and it was a long time before I enjoyed sausages again! Mary's poor little overworked lamb was offered to the public in this doggerel:

"Mary had a little lamb,
And when she saw it sicken
She shipped it off to Packingtown
And now it's labeled 'chicken'!"

The pure food bill was introduced and vigorously pushed about this time. Dr. Wiley's name becoming a household word.

Mr. Dooley is much quoted and he did hit the nail on the head in his inimitable way. Quite a lot of space is given to the rise of the trusts, the reign of Mark Hanna, Roosevelt's policies, and so forth. During Christmas week of 1898 Edwin Markham, a school teacher of Oakland, Calif., improved his vacation by finishing a poem he had begun some time before, and for which his inspiration came from viewing the famous painting by Millet, The Man With the Hoe. I have had this poem in my scrap book for some years, and have read it many times, but I never dreamed that it caused such a commotion in the country when it appeared until reading about it in this book. It certainly created a sensation. The poem and discussion of it were given foremost places in newspapers, ministers preached on it, lecturers lectured on it. There were many answers to it, both in rhyme and prose, and of course there were parodies galore. It is needless to say that the ubiquitous William Jennings Bryan filled much newspaper space with his sentiments regarding it. The author, obscure before, stepped into the limelight almost overnight. Many pages are devoted to the old-time one-room schools with the overworked "gad," the once popular autograph albums and appropriate verses for some and old-time favorite songs. Glimpses of the beginnings of aviation are also given and in fact there seems to be something which will appeal to every reader.

Thanks to a Social Corner Member for my attractive calendar. My sympathy is extended to those in trouble and I send best wishes to you all.

PEN AND INK.

TO WARM THE SHOES

Dear Editor and Social Corner Family: We cut a small soapstone in two, lengthwise, and shaped like a foot with flat bottom to fit our shoes. Soon as we arise in the morning we put them on the back of the stove. While we are dressing they warm and we slip two of them into the shoes. They take the chill off of them. Put into my pair it results in warm feet all day. Make a small hole in each stone and hang on wire hook behind stove. Us old folks have whims. I thank the sender of the calendar and respond to the roll call J. E. T here. Hope all our Social Corner folks have a happy New Year and prosper all through 1929 and our editor lots of pep and endurance. Remembering all my old friends. Old timer and writer J. E. T.

AN OLD-FASHIONED CHRISTMAS TREE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Want to wish you all a happy New Year. May it prove the best you ever have had.

First, wish to thank a Social Corner member for my lovely calendar. Assure you it is much appreciated.

I wonder how many made New Year's calls. I intended to, but the weatherman said no, so I used the phone. What a blessing a telephone is in stormy weather.

Please accept thanks for all the beautiful Christmas cards I received. So varied and lovely. And I appreciate the love and good fellowship that prompted sending them.

Nemo: Your precious letter received and it was darling of you to write me. I could just see you as I read it. Am glad you had such a pleasant Christmas and hope you may have many, many more.

As I looked at our Christmas tree my daughter had trimmed with lovely ornaments and electric bulbs of all colors with the gifts underneath, it brought back memories of Christmas trees my father trimmed for us as children.

He would labor for weeks before Christmas getting things ready. He would cover English walnuts with gold leaf, drive a peg in the nut for a stem, also would have bright red apples with bits of gold plastered on them, popcorn and little red berries strung on string and draped on the tree, also cookies. The tree would be set on a large table at least 4 feet by 4 feet.

This would be covered with moss for grass with princess pine for tiny trees. The roads and walks would be of fine sand, then he would build tiny houses and there was always a parade ground with both infantry and cavalry of tiny tin soldiers (father was a veteran of the Civil war) ;also little carriages and people driving about.

The effect was wonderful, at least to us children. Oh! how we did wait for Christmas. Our presents were not as elaborate as the gifts of today, but I know we appreciated them much more, as they were usually made by father and mother and meant hours of work and contriving and love.

Red Rose: Am so glad it was the right thing. Wish I could have met with Club 5, but Club 1 meeting the next day it was impossible.

Crimson Rambler: I think you are the busiest person in the Corner. You do so many kinds of work. Those fingers must be busy every moment and am sure the result is something lovely. Hope your sick one is better.

Soma and True Blue: Your description of your trip was splendid. I could just imagine, could see it myself as I read your letters.

Evelyn Burr: Please write some more, you write so well and I do enjoy reading your letters.

Sevilla: Received your nice card and hope you will soon be able to attend the meetings.

Mary Gusta: Was glad to see your letter as I know by that you are much better. Get well fast, we missed you.

Miranda: Think and speak of you often and did appreciate your letter. Grace said you wrote it yourself. Hope you may soon recover and be able to return home to your dear ones.

Lavender: Your beautiful photo is on the piano top and gets a great many compliments. How good of you to give it to me. I just love it.

Necia and Selinda: Accept sympathy. It is so hard to lose our dear ones.

Marigold: Hope you are over your fall. Wish I could phone you.

E. L. M.: Would like to arrange so as to attend your meeting tomorrow, but fear I cannot.

Joan: Where are you. We miss you and your music. May B's daughter join me of meeting you. Am so glad you spoke to her. It is sweet to be remembered.

I, too, shall miss Kitty Lou's letters. I met her personally. She was a very gracious person and her hands were busy all the time we were there. She made Jennie and I a pretty nosegay, also served us tea and cakes she had made earlier in the day.

SNOW BEAUTIFIES SURROUNDINGS

Dear Social Cornerites: Winter is really here at last. This morning when I looked out of the window the sky was covered with a thick gray blanket, and before I had finished dressing the flakes were falling in a quiet businesslike way.

"If this keeps up," I said as I swept a path to the milk bottle, "there's going to be some shoveling to do." But the snow was as light as thistledown and one flourish of the broom sent it swirling in clouds off the back piazza.

Soon small flakes gave way to the big feathery variety. Snow was making fast. In a short time the ground was covered several inches. Twice I swept a path to the ashcan and then gave up. My more energetic neighbor tried to keep a clear path to the street, but her efforts reminded me of the old lady who tried to sweep back the ocean with a broom.

In the country snow is a thing of beauty, but city snow soon becomes sordid and grimy. But it came down so fast that for a little time even in the city its whiteness was preserved. It settled softly on my wisteria vine, outlining its curiously twisted stems. It balanced itself deftly on my clothes line and snuggled in among the green of the cedar Christmas tree which my next door neighbor had found too large to go in the house and which he had set out in the yard. The snow gives it a kind of tucked-in appearance; a comfortable look as if it really belonged there. I was rather distressed when all through Christmas week the tree lay forlornly on the ground. It seemed too bad not to use it in any way, so when after Christmas my neighbor decided to set it in the yard I was delighted. Not having a crowbar, he had to make a hole with a stick. As it was not very deep I supplied him with pieces of old bricks which he pounded in at the base of the tree until it stood up firmly. At present it is the only live green thing I can see out of doors, and as it is near my kitchen window I can feast my eyes on it as I work. I thought the sparrows would make a rendezvous of it and gobble up its white-veiled blueberries, but being city sparrows they probably don't know a cedar tree when they see it, and, though they come hopping all around the yard in search of crumbs, never a bird has alighted on the tree.

When it was snowing hardest the two next door small boys came whooping down their back stairs. One was armed with a shovel, the other with a dustpan. For a few minutes they had a glorious time making paths even where not needed; but they soon tired of it and having thoroughly mussed up the clean white earth blanket they disappeared.

While washing my breakfast dishes I watched the tremendous volume of black smoke as it billowed out from the big chimney of the apartment house not far away. Caught by a current of air, it writhed and twisted and lashed about as if it were the tail of some angry dragon. Somewhere in the cavern under the building an attendant had opened the mouth of the beast and was repeatedly thrusting an iron bar down the monster's red-hot throat. But that was only a preparation for the meal that was to come, and when the attendant ceased his torture and had fed the fiery maw, the creature became quiescent.

On Monday my neighbors washed, and some of the things are still on the lines. What a joyous, lively, jazzy thing a washing now is compared with that of a few years ago. Then white "undies" hung ghost-like beside mournful black stockings; and the "petticoats," starched until they were as stiff and prim as the spinster who wore them, while they might have done a stately minuet to the tune of the wind, would have been scandalized at the fox trot that the little pink silk lace trimmed "French panties" are doing on the line over in my neighbor's yard. It takes such a little puff of wind to set them dancing. In days gone by so many pallid underclothes and sad colored stockings hung on a line might have had a depressing effect on one. But now a washing hung out reminds me of a flower garden—shirts the color of blue ageratum, lavender asters, and the first pale green leaves of spring. Handkerchiefs of every tint, some with white centers and bright borders like shirley poppies, smocks in which every color of the rainbow runs riot like seeds grown from a packet of mixed colors and varieties. Florists tell us that flowers whose colors would ordinarily "swear" at each other can be successfully used in one bouquet if sufficient white is used, and unconsciously my neighbors have followed out this basic principle and introduced enough white into the design to make a satisfactory whole.

Speaking of flowers reminds me of the new seed catalogues. Mine have just come. I have only just glanced into them but have seen enough to set me to dreaming of next summer's garden. The colored pictures of roses in Dreers Garden book makes one wish for a fat purse. To spend cents where one would like to spend dollars, "there's the rub." Some evening I shall sprad the catalogues on the dining room table and gloat over their contents while I write my orders for the things that I just can't do without. Hard lines when all the descriptions are all so alluring.

Am reading a few books in my spare time. Have just finished Annie Bosworth Green's "Lambs in March," which I found interesting. It is not a novel. Have begun "On Wandering Wheels," a travel book, and think I shall like it. If you ever read "The Stump Farm," a story of a modern pioneer woman, you will doubtless thereafter be more content with your own lot, even if you have thought it was hard.

I have enjoyed the leetters you have written, especially the travel letters and those of Washington, and from Quid Nunc, especially. Lately most of my traveling has been done by proxy. I wish Naomi would write about old-time Ledyard and vicinity, especially if she can remember stories of the early inhabitants. Do try to think of some.

Best New Year's wishes to all.

Sincerely,
THE FRIENDLY VOICE.

RULES FOR THE COMPLEXION

Dear Corner Sisters: There are two rules for the surface care of the average complexion. One is to keep the skin scrupulously clean by the facial tubbing with soap and water every night. The other is to see that the skin is oiled and to remove atmospheric dust at least once a day with a cleansing cream.

But a rule what is equally important has to do with diet. Fruits, vegetables and raw salads are beauty foods. They furnish mineral salts that are necessary to health. They can be eaten in sufficient quantities to satisfy the appetite. Carrots and spinach can be so cooked that they are deliciously appetizing. Tomotoes are fine cleansers for the intestinal tract. Pears will correct constipation, in mild cases, and constipation is the cause of many complexion ills. The citrus fruits are worth more than cosmetics.

When the skin is sallow the beauty-wailer should take the juice of a lemon in a glass of water before breakfast every morning. Grapes are blood builders. They also act upon the powers of digestion. Apples are the best food in the world, and many women don't eat an apple from one year's end to another.

It is all right to play around with sweet smelling creams and lotions, but your skin can't live on them. They allay the effects of the ravages of sun, wind and atmospheric dust, but they don't supply life-giving forces to the cutaneous structure; only food can do that. At least once a day a woman should eat a green salad. A pint of milk a day will put roses in pale cheeks.

Best wishes to all.

WEEPING WILLOW.

CHATTY LETTER FROM U. C. E.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Just another chat with you all at the beginning of the new year. First I wish to thank the one who sent me the nice calendar. It is nice to be remembered by our friends, no matter in what way it may be. What a lovely time we had the 5th and such a fine dinner and entertainment.

Calla Lily: Glad to have you with us. Our meeting never is complete without you.

Golden Glow: Missed you very much.

Hilltop: Hope you keep well the rest of the winter.

Miranda: Glad to hear that you are improving. Cheer up. You have my sympathy. Hope you will be well again soon.

Nespa: Wish I lived near you. Come over some time.

Clarabee and Fat Emma: Hope that train didn't run off the track, and hope we meet again soon.

Bumblebee: That ride was much appreciated by us both.

Am sending recipe for

Gingersnaps: Heat one cup molasses until a scum rises, stir in one teaspoon soda, pour while foaming into one cup sugar; add one egg, one teaspoon ginger, one tablespoon vinegar, flour to roll thin, stir lightly.

MANY FRIENDS IN THE CORNER

Dear Corner Sisters: Before the month goes I want to wish you all a happy New Year. May it be a fine year for the Corner, also.

I have this week received a picture of Kitty Lou, an enlargement from a snapshot, which I prize. It has occurred to me that some of the other sisters might like to obtain one. If there are any such and they will communicate with me through the Social Corner editor I will try and see what can be done about it. I know she had many friends in the Corner and I do not think the expense would be much.

I was glad to see so many letters in last week's page and hope that many of the writers who are heard from too seldom will rise to the occasion and help to keep the page filled.

With best wishes to all.

ORLEANS.

REMEDY FOR CHILBLAINS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I want to thank the member who sent the pretty calendar. It is such a cheerful scene to look at.

I wonder if any of the sisters have tried this remedy for chilblains: Mix salt and butter tether and rub on the affected spots.

Quid Nunc: Your story of Chippery Dodge was most entertaining.

ANNE D. (Club No. 4)

CLUB NO. 4 TO MEET JAN 23 AT MOOSUP

Dear Editor: Snow on the ground at last; I noticed the lovely new moon and a very bright star overhead, while the sky toward the southwest was tinged with pink. I fancied the weather would change, and here it is. If this letter escapes the waste basket we will note that about Jan. 20 the earth will be passing into the sign aquarius the water bearer) which is the eleventh (month) of the sodiac, and the negative pole of the air attraction (or element). The ruling planet of this period of time is Uranus, which governs electricity, happiness and pleasure. Aquarius corresponds to the legs and ankles in the human body. The colors are salmon pink, nile green and sapphire blue. The tribe is Dan, meaning a "judge." People born in this period of time usually possess a keen intuition and are able to judge human nature very correctly. They also have a faculty for absorbing and retaining knowledge. April and August are favorable months for Aquarius born and Saturday is the auspicious day. For business transactions and other important affairs, the week beginning May 27th and the week beginning Oct. 14th are said to hold the best vibrations for Aquarius subjects. The gem is carbuncle.

Aunty No. 1: Your poem was fine.

Glow: Have not been to Norwich since last spring.

I wish to thank "Member" for calendar. Mine was in electric blue, with a dear little child in an open door. I greatly admired The Bulletin calendar this year. I

U. S. STEEL LED MOST POWERFUL BULL CONTINGENTS IN MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)—Under the banner of their old time leader, U. S. Steel, some of the most powerful bull contingents on the stock market launched a buying movement today which sent about a score of important issues up 3 to nearly 15 points. Steel was bid up to a new record for all time at 180 1-2, up more than 8 points.

Their most spirited efforts, however, failed to dissipate the uneasiness caused by the announcement last night of a rise in brokers loans to near the December record, and nervousness was aggravated during the day by increases in bankers' acceptance rates and a firmer tone in time money. About a dozen important issues receded 2 to 6 points and trading, while showing considerable expansion over recent sessions, fell short of the 5,000,000 share mark. Sales totalled but 4,939,500 shares, although the tape recorded a number of individual transactions of from 5,000 to 23,000 shares.

The bullishly inclined were disposed to regard the increase of $71,000,000 in brokers loans as largely offset by the reduction in member bank borrowings. Call money was in unexpectedly abundant supply, renewing at 6 per cent. for the first time in a week, and funds were available at less than that in the "outside" market. Bankers were somewhat puzzled by this development, and failed to see any underlying improvement in the credit structure, pointing to the sustained firmness of time money.

While the federal reserve authorities are known to look askance at any record-breaking speculation at this time, Wall street believes that the reserve institution would hesitate to raise its rediscount rate for a time, as such action would undoubtedly bring a flow of gold from London and embarrass the Bank of England.

The day's news was rather favorable, the weekly mercantile reviews stressed the splendid condition of the steel industry, and Republic Iron and Steel, the first of the large steel companies to report earnings for the full year 1928, published a very favorable statement. Fallonshee Brothers declared an extra dividend of 25 cents. A development of importance in the oil industry was announcement that Sinclair had acquired an interest in Vacuum.

Otis Elevator mounted nearly 15 points, and Johns Manville climbed 12, but lost more than half its gain later. St. Joseph Lead sold up about 9 points to a new high, on reports of the discovery of a new ore body. The same interests which have been active in International Nickel were reported to be accumulating this stock. Nickel mounted more than 7 points on announcement that its new frood ore body has been found to be richer than earlier drillings indicated.

The Independent Steels were buoyed up by the strength of U. S., Bethlehem, Republic, Crucible and Vanadium and making substantial headway. With the exception of Greene Cananea, which made an extreme gain of over 7 points, coppers turned heavy, Kennecott losing more than 3. Canadian Pacific lead the rails with an extreme gain of about 6 points and Pennsylvania was heavily bought in expectation that valuable rights will be granted in connection with its new financing.

Utilities were generally strong, American Power and Light, Peoples Gas and General Gas & Electric B mounting 4 to 7 points. Simmons, Motor Products, Standard Milling, Union Tank, Electric Auto Lite, and Sinclair moved up 4 to 7 points.

Allied Chemical and Wright Aero were soft spots, losing about 6 points while Burroughs Adding Machine and General Electric fell back about 4 points were rather heavy, Chrysler and General Motors losing about 2 points each. Montgomery Ward, American Car and Foundry, Goodyear, Columbia Graphophone and Chesapeake and Ohio lost 2 to 3 points.

The commodity markets were steady to firm. Corn gained about 2 cents a bushel in response to further reports of drought in Argentine, and wheat improved sympathetically. Cotton was dull and moved in a narrow range.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, with sterling slightly firmer.

Burgess Bedtime Story

The Final Proof

A proven fact none can deny;
'Tis wasted effort e'en to try.
—Farmer Brown's Boy.

Farmer Brown's Boy was trying to convince a neighbor whose chickens had been stolen by a Fox that the thief was neither Reddy Fox nor Mrs. Reddy, who lived up in the Old Pasture. He had shown that Mrs. Reddy could not be the guilty one, because her footprints in the snow were much smaller than those of the thief. To this the neighbor agreed. He then tried to show that Reddy Fox could not have been the thief, because the trail of the latter, while it led up to the Old Pasture, did not go near Reddy's home, but crossed the Old Pasture, and therefore must have been made by a strange Fox.

But Farmer Brown's Boy could see that the owner of the chickens was not wholly convinced. "It may be," said he, "that Reddy Fox has another den."

Farmer Brown's Boy shook his head. "Nothing of the kind," said he. "I can show you the footprints of Reddy in and out of his old home up there. He is still living there. Furthermore, if you will come up with me, I can absolutely prove to you that Reddy Fox has had nothing to do with the stealing of your chickens. It has been done by another Fox, a strange Fox."

"I haven't time now," said the neighbor, "but if you will tell me what that proof is I guess it will be enough. Why are you so sure that these tracks were not made by Reddy Fox?"

"If you will study these tracks carefully," replied Farmer Brown's Boy, "you will find that each foot has the right number of toes."

The owner of the chickens looked puzzled. "Of course," said he. "Why shouldn't they have?"

"They should have, and they do have," replied Farmer Brown's Boy. "But if Reddy Fox had made those tracks the print of the right fore foot would lack one of the forward toes. Of course, that doesn't show in dry snow, but I can show it to you where the snow was damp and there is a clear print of the foot; and I happen to know that Reddy lost a toe recently. Somebody set a trap up in the Old Pasture and Reddy lost a toe. Now you will always be able to tell when Reddy Fox is around, if you find a good print of that right fore foot. Now, are you satisfied that the Foxes up on our place have not been stealing your chickens?"

The owner of the chickens grinned at the earnestness of Farmer Brown's Boy. "Yes," said he, "I'll have to admit that I am. There is no getting away from this final proof of yours. So I'll say no more about setting traps up in the Old Pasture. I'll just do my best to get this strange Fox."

"All right," said Farmer Brown's Boy, "that is fair enough. You see, I rather like those Foxes up there in the Old Pasture and as long as they do no real harm I want no harm to come to them. I rather think Reddy and Mrs. Reddy know me."

"Well," said the neighbor, "I suppose you can do as you please on your own place, but if I had my way all Foxes would be killed."

Farmer Brown's Boy grinned good naturedly. "It's a good thing you cannot have your way," said he. "If you did have it the Green Meadows would be overrun with Meadow Mice and other rodents. Foxes do some mischief, but they do a tremendous amount of good. Well, I'm much obliged to you and I am glad to have convinced you that neither Reddy nor Mrs. Reddy have touched your chickens."

Lecture at Slater Hall.

Dan McCowan of Banff, Scotsman by birth, Canadian by choice, naturalist photographer by an inherent love for birds and animals and flowers, has few equals in presenting to an audience the fascinating story of the life of creatures that live on the mountain sides and in the green silence of the forest.

His big-game photographs are in demand from all parts of the world, and his contributions to magazines and many newspapers have made him widely known as a student of animal, birds and plant life, whose researches are highly valued by scientists, and whose simple, vivid descriptions are equally pleasing to all—men, women and children.

With ten thousand negatives in his filing cabinet, with bulky notebooks crammed with data pertaining to furred and feathered creatures, with expert knowledge of the history and geography of the region, Mr. McCowan has a remarkable collection of lantern slides and films not only of birds and mammals, but also of the innumerable beauty spots of the heart of the Rockies.

Mr. McCowan will be heard at Slater Hall, Monday, Jan. 21, in his lecture "A Naturalist in the Canadian Rockies".

NEW LONDON BOYS FOUND IN NORWICH ARE CHARGED WITH CHECK FORGERY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 18—Rosario Riparti, 17, 26 Grand street, and Cornelius McCarthy, 17, of 89 Howard street, two of four boys arrested by the Norwich police early today, were brought to New London later and this morning were in the police court charged with forgery. Their cases were continued until tomorrow. The other two boys, who are minors, were discharged. The four youths went to Norwich last night, after having hired a taxicab near the Connecticut College for Women. While in a restaurant their presence attracted the attention of a patrolman and the boys were taken to police headquarters, where it was disclosed that they were implicated in a worthless check transaction. Riparti and McCarthy got possession of a check for $38, purporting to have been issued by Jacob Laserow, of Blackhall, for $35 and the paper was negotiated by McCarthy at a Bank street store. When arrested the boys had a check for a similar amount and two cheap watches.

HOLY NAME DEMONSTRATION WINS STATE ATTENTION

In the current Catholic Transcript, (Hartford), which circulates among the more than 300,000 Catholics of the diocese, a New London event gets this publicity:

The annual observance of Holy Name Sunday by the men of St. Mary's parish, New London, took place Jan. 13, when nearly 1,400 men received holy communion at the 8 o'clock mass. The church was filled to capacity by the men, and the impressive scene of their approaching the altar was one without precedent and long to be remembered in the parish. The success of the affair was attributed to Rev. Timothy M. Crowley, D. D., pastor of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, and the Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan, chaplain of the Holy Name society; a committee composed of President William T. May of the society, Vice-President P. J. Ryan, Treasurer John Burns and Secretary Peter J. Eshenfelder, and to a volunteer committee of 25 which lent its assistance to the society officers. The Holy Name mass was sung by Father O'Callaghan and Father George Clark spoke briefly, felicitating the men upon their wonderful response to the invitations sent out and assuring them that the grace of God would be bestowed upon them as a reward for their sacrifice. After the mass, about 500 of the men formed in procession and led by 20 members of the police force in uniform, in charge of Lieut. James Sullivan and Sergts. Patrick Murphy and James Gaffney, marched to the Mohican hotel for breakfast. Rev. James M. Gillis of New York, editor of the Catholic World, noted radio lecturer, was the principal speaker at the breakfast, the other speakers being Fathers Crowley and O'Callaghan. The last-named, speaking briefly, expressed his gratitude to those whose efforts had made the observance of the day a success. He congratulated the men upon their splendid showing and said, "Our Lord must be greatly pleased with you this morning." Father Crowley, in his brief remarks, decried what he termed the "indifference" of those of the Catholic faith towards the attacks of their critics and called upon them to adopt a more militant attitude. Dr. Gillis, in opening a highly interesting address, said that he thoroughly agreed with Father Crowley, urging an aggressive campaign against the assaults of those bigoted and prejudiced persons who were inclined to heap abuse and ridicule upon those of the Catholic faith. Seated at the speakers' table during the breakfast, as guests of the Holy Name society, were: William T. Lonergan, president Joynt division, A. O. H.; Francis LeBlanc, faithful navigator, Fourth degree, K. of C.; Harry May, grand knight, Seaside council, K. of C.; Julian D. Moran, president St. John's Literary society; James Watterson, president Young Men's Catholic club, and Arthur Keefe, church trustee.

MONTVILLE YOUTH FOUND SLEEPING ON FLOOR IN HALL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 18—Patrolman Timothy C. Sullivan in making his rounds on State street early this morning discovered the entrance of the office building, 56, unlocked and, making an investigation, found Arthur Peletier, Montville youth, asleep on a floor of one of the halls. Peletier was taken to police headquarters and today when he was given a lengthy questioning proved himself to be a degenerate. Instead of being released, he will be in the police court tomorrow on a technical charge of vagrancy.

Property to Brothers

Nathan Pumerantz, proprietor of a tailoring business on Green street and owner of an apartment house, corner of Montauk and Willetts avenues, today filed a deed in the office of the city clerk, transferring equally title in both the business and the residential property to Pumerantz's brothers, Benjamin and Harry Pumerantz.

Edward J. Cooley, chief probation officer at New York, has requested the New London police to institute a search for Arthur C. Cabral, who, it is believed, is in this city.

A Buick sedan, owned by William D. Harris, which was stolen from its place of parking on Church street Wednesday night, was recovered last night when found abandoned in Topsfield, Mass. The New London police were informed today of the recovery of the auto.

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL OF SIMON L. EWALD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 18 — The funeral of Simon L. Ewald, former well-known New London merchant, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence, 320 Mohegan avenue, and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Chester H Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. The bearers were Lewis F. Crosby, George Prest, Edward S. Nellan, Walter Lewis, Hugo Greishaber and Walter Barrett. Burial was in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Burial in Willimantic

The funeral of Mrs. Grace Newell Manchester, wife of Charles F. Manchester, was held this morning at 11 o'clock at 15 Masonic street, the services being conducted by Rev. Charles F. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. The body was forwarded to Willimantic, where burial was in Willimantic cemetery this afternoon.

George A. Gavitt

Funeral services for George A. Gavitt, who died Tuesday in Niantic, were held this afternoon at his residence in Main street, the Rev. Charles Eldridge officiating. There was a large attendance of mourners. Burial was in Union cemetery.

Roy C. Perkins, Jr., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Perkins, 529 Main street, died early today at Lawrence-Memorial hospital.

Edward Loomis, of 35 West Colt street; Mrs. Robert Hart, 60 Federal street; Ensign Richard Burke, U. S. Coast Guard; John Gillighan, U. S. Coast Guard; Miss Josephine Spinnato, 83 Woodbridge street; Roland E. Smith, trawler Canada, and Raymond Thomason, U. S. Coast Guard, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Collector of Taxes Hibberd N. Alexander today issued a release of warrant against Patrick Smith. A warrant calling for the sale of Smith's property because of taxes not having been paid was issued recently, but since that time payment with interest has been made.

Joseph Hardy, a stranger, was in the police court today, charged with intoxication, and he was sentenced to 30 days in jail. Hardy, who was arrested last night on State street by Patrolman William Riordan, was liberated from the county jail only yesterday morning and at once proceeded to become intoxicated.

FORMER PRESIDENT MARSHALL RESIGNS AS CHAPLAIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 18—Benjamin T. Marshall, former president of Connecticut college, has tendered his resignation as captain in the 192nd Regiment, Field Artillery. He was chaplain of the regiment and his retirement is due to the fact that he will be unable to perform his duties after he leaves the city.

SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION FOR POLICE CONTINUED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 1—Acting Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer this afternoon delivered the second in a series of addresses to the members of the New London police department. The officers assembled in the police court room at 4:15 o'clock. Attorney Boyer addressed the assemblage about an hour, during which time he pointed out matters in relation to the duty of any officer, his utterances proving both beneficial and instructive.

William G. Day, hospital apprentice, second class, U. S. N., is spending ten days leave with his parents of 17 Henry street. He has completed his two months' military training at the Naval Training station at Newport, R. I.

Acting Street Sergeant William Graham is again confined to his home on Williams street by illness. Officer Graham resumed duty earlier in the week after being incapacitated for several weeks, but after two days of duty was compelled to return home. Patrolman Frank Philopena is the latest officer to be stricken by illness, he reporting for duty tonight, but a severe cold necessitated his returning to his home on Henry street.

ANDREW DOOE DIES WHILE RESTING AT SHAW ST. HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 18—Andrew Dooe, a watchman and a resident at 199 Shaw street, died suddenly this evening at the home of Elisha Stanfield, of 12 Shaw street. Death is believed to have resulted from a heart attack, but Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman is conducting an investigation. In the pocket of the clothing of the dead man was found an envelope, the address of which was not altogether legible for it appeared to be "Andrew Deal, 199 Shaw street." Later the last name was deciphered to be "Dooe."

The dead man had been walking along Shaw street about 6:30 apparently on his way to his home. When he approached the house at No. 12 he entered and requested permission to rest, stating that he had suddenly become ill, but that he thought he would be relieved by a brief rest. While seated in a chair, the man suddenly collapsed and expired. Stanfield did not realize that the man had died, but hastened to the street and at the corner of Bank and Shaw street he found Traffic Officer Thomas Cavanaugh to whom he told the facts. Officer Cavanaugh hastened to the house and found that the man had died. Medical Examiner Kaufman was notified and after examining the body ordered it removed to an undertaking establishment. Dooe had been employed as watchman at the Plant estate, Groton.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

The Home Towners, a great screen revival of George M. Cohan's great stage success, is coming to the Broadway theatre tomorrow for a run of four days. The cast has many famous recruits from the speaking stage, including Richard Bennett, Doris Kenyon, Robert McWade, Robert Edeson, Gladys Brockwell, John Miljan, Vera Lewis, Stanley Taylor, James T. Mack and Patricia Caron.

And what is equally important, there is something to say. No playwright of our day is more deft in dialogue than George M. Cohan, and Warner Bros. adapters. Addison Burkhart and Murray Roth, have kept all the charm of the original. Bryan Foy, who is one of the really great directors of the day, is responsible for Warner Bros.' latest triumph.

The Home Towners is a genial, heart-warming, chuckling play—recounting the adventures of two middle-aged chums, the young lady to whom one is engaged, and her family. Robert McWade plays P. H. Bancroft, the small-town pal, who hears that his millionaire crony is engaged to marry a Big Town young woman. Bancroft at once assumes that she and her family are hoodwinking his friend, and comes post haste to Manhattan to set things right. Instead, he sets things decidedly wrong, and it is only after much uproarious maneuvering that he straightens out the mixup he himself has made. Robert McWade marvelously interprets the same part he played in the original stage production. Don't fail to see The Home Towners.

Palace Theatre.

A continuous performance today completes the Palace theatre's great Winter Carnival show which has been playing to packed houses at every performance since the show opened on Thursday afternoon.

Those who recall the last Spring Carnival unanimously agreed that this Winter Carnival show is better by far than the last one. The vaudeville, particularly, has brought much good comment and it was assembled with much painstaking efforts by the Palace management. Besides the individual offerings of each act, they all combine at the finish to give a hilarious afterpiece in which they all contribute their share for the merriment of the audience.

The feature picture, Broken Barriers, featuring among a large and well-known cast Helene Costello and Gaston Glass is just one of those photoplays that we all like to see. It is interesting and holds your attention from start to finish.

Starting Sunday night for three days the Palace brings back, to satisfy public demand, Lillian Gish and Ronald Coleman in their greatest starring triumph, The White Sister.

The White Sister, an Inspiration production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, has been acclaimed one of the most significant films ever made. The story was taken from the famous novel by F. Marion Crawford and screened entirely in Italy and northern Africa.

Rome, Naples, Sorrento, Tivoli, and even Mt. Vesuvius were some of the "locations" used, and the result, according to critics, is the most beautiful production yet made.

Besides Miss Gish to interpret the thrilling story, the cast includes Ronald Colman, who is featured with the star; J. Barney Sherry, Gail Kane, heroine of many Broadway successes, and a thousand others drawn from the ranks of European players.

The associate feature on this same program will be Lila Lee and a large cast in The Adorable Cheat, and it's an adorable picture.

Eating Breakfast in the Sky.

Back and forth swept The Question Mark between Los Angeles and San Diego. Every so often it took on fuel. Only 15 feet directly above The Question Mark flew a fueling plane. From this plane dangled a thin rubber hose. While the planes come at 75 miles an hour the pilot of the Question Mark reached out, grabbed the hose, thrust it into the tanks and took in gallons of fuel. Roaring over a 60-mile circuit above the Imperial Valley they broke the record for re-fueled flying, having been in the air 150 hours, 40 minutes and 16 seconds. It was an amazing achievement for the Fokker monoplane—but how about the pilots and passengers? They had to have fuel also—and what did they have? The larder was stocked at the start with roast chicken, but soon the swinging ropes conveyed Shredded Wheat and oranges to the hungry pilots and passengers. Shredded Wheat and oranges—vitamin B and vitamin C. And why Shredded Wheat? Because it is light, full of concentrated nutriment, and ready-cooked. They didn't have to make a fire to cook it. And why oranges? Because they are rich in vitamin C—the vitamin that is necessary to maintain normal health, vigor and stamina. Shredded Wheat and oranges—a combination for endurance and daring. They might have flown across Europe on such fuel-foods. It is doubtful if a breakfast food ever before reached such an altitude—and who can say that Shredded Wheat did not contribute to the breaking of the world's record for sustained flight?

Moving Pictures at Y. M. C. A. Sunday.

Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come, the eight reel moving picture feature will be shown at the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. on the coming Sunday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, and the public fourteen years and over are invited. Younger persons are not expected.

This beautiful and impressive picture is based on the gripping story by John Fox, Jr., of the Cumberland mountains, and Richard Barthelmess and Molly O'Day are among the participants in the picture story. It is a touching tale of a mountain boy who just had to be a man, and fought for a man's sized results in a man sized way. This story has always been attractive and highly helpful and leaves a fine impression.

The men and women of the city are specially invited to attend this picture service. A brief and timely talk will be given and appropriate music furnished.

Rev. Alexander H. Abbott will give a brief message at the service.

Breed Theatre.

The two fisted, rough and tumble Captain Flagg of What Price Glory, Victor McLaglen, again gives what is said to be a remarkable performance in the title role of The River Pirate, Charles Francis Coe's story of the modern buccaneers of our river and ocean fronts. McLaglen, according to the author, is his ideal of the piratical sailor Frink, as he pictured him in writing the story.

The River Pirate is to have a four day showing at the Breed theatre beginning tomorrow night. Lois Moran and Nick Stuart have the leading romantic roles.

Next Week at United Congregational Church

Charitable circle of King's Daughters will meet at 4 o'clock in the junior department rooms of the church school to tie quilts. Those attending are to bring a basket supper, after which the annual meeting will be held.

Junior guild meets on Tuesday evening at 7:30, with Mrs. W. H. Dawley, 51 Lincoln avenue. Dolls are to be dressed and members are asked to bring with them scissors, needles, etc.

The executive council meets in the pastor's study on Wednesday evening at 7:30.

All members of the parish are urged to be present at the Community house at 6:30 on Thursday evening, for the annual supper and meeting of the church.

World Friendship Speaker

Announcement is made of a community meeting for Sunday evening, Jan. 27, at the United Congregational church, arranged by the public meetings committee of the Woman's Crusade of the W. C. T. U., and at which the speaker will be Mrs. Jeannette Emrich, chairman of the committee on World Friendship Among Children. Mrs. Emrich will speak on "World Friendship."

Mrs. Emrich has had an experience that makes her veritably a citizen of the world. She has lived for 12 years as a missionary in Mesopotamia, a Y. W. C. A representative in France during the World war and as director of case work in Near East Relief in Constantinople in 1921. She has also traveled extensively in Asia and Europe. In her service as chairman of the committee on World Friendship Among Children she is doing a work that will extend into the years to come, and her message is full of interest.

BOY REVERSES THEORY AND BETTERS POTATOES

BURLINGTON, Vt., (AP)—Because he did an unusual thing, Maurice A. Holbrook, 16-year-old 4-H club boy, protected his potatoes from blight this year while those of his neighbors suffered.

In the midst of a light steady rain, which promotes blight, he went into the field and dusted the plants with bordeaux.

"People told me it would wash right off, but did it?" the young experimenter remarks. "The next week showed the results. Potatoes were dying right and left, but mine were not touched. Now, when I sell a bushel of potatoes I can say, 'Mister, these spuds won't rot!' "

Ocean Transport Aids South.

ATLANTA, (AP)—Direct shipment to European markets from southern ports will increase the south's export trade in fruits and vegetables, federal agricultural officials say. There is an increasing foreign demand for American grapefruit, high quality oranges, and peaches. Pecans, lettuce and celery are in strong demand.

NEW RECTOR OF ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH TO ASSUME DUTIES

William Banfield, an officer of the vestrymen of St. Andrew's Episcopal church has received word that the new pastor Rev. and Mrs. E. J. Norris and daughter, Kathleen, hope to arrive at the rectory by Tuesday, January 29. Rev. Mr. Norris will fill the vacancy caused when Rev. Rees Jones accepted a call as pastor of a Danielson church.

Rev. Edwin J. Norris was educated at a private school and at Armstrong college of Science, Newcastle, England, and took his divinity course at Emmanuel college, University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, Canada. He was ordained deacon and priest by the Rt. Rev. Jervois A. Newnham, D. D., bishop of Saskatchewan.

Rev. Mr. Morris became incumbent of Melfort, Sask., 1906-1907, rector of Lindsay, Sask., 1907-1912; rector of Langham, near Saskatoon, Canada, 1912-1914. In these parishes he was instrumental in building one rectory and three churches.

In March, 1914, Rev. Mr. Norris received a call to become rector of Holy Innocents, Leichburg, Pittsburgh and while there a new brick rectory was built. In 1919, Bishop Whitehead invited Rev. Mr. Norris to assume charge of the Atonement church, Carnegie, Pittsburgh and while there he was the means of a new rectory, costing $10,000 and a project for a new church costing $50,000, which is being erected.

The continued illness of Rev. Mr. Norris' youngest daughter, Bertha, forced his resignation in 1924 of the Carnegie church. He went to the healthy woods and pines of New York state with the hope of prolonging her life, but it was too late. Since Mr. Brown's coming to Springfield Centre, N. Y., nearly five years ago, the congregation has increased, the Sunday school has prospered, a considerable sum of money was raised for improvements and $1,500 was added to the endowment of St. Mary's church here.

During the World war, Rev. Mr. Norris' three sons enlisted. Edwin was with the famous Canadian regiment, the Fighting Fifth, was wounded in 1915 and killed in action at the Somme offensive, Sept. 1916, aged 19. He was decorated for bravery. Another son, Louis, was with the American medical corps until the armistice and Prilip, another son, was in a training camp in Washington. Another son, the youngest, is an engineering student at University of Pittsburgh.

TROLLEY COMPANY BUS AND TRUCK COLLIDED

A Connecticut company bus, operating between Norwich and Putnam, and driven by Paul McGuinness of 366 Central avenue, collided with a Mack truck operated by E. J. Dufresne of Jewett City at 9.20 o'clock Friday morning at the intersection of North Main and Fourth streets. The large bus, traveling in a southerly direction, was following the truck and as the two cars approached the intersection the truck, it is said started to turn to the left to go into Fourth street. The bus attempted to pass the truck at the same time and both came together, the bus being caught being caught between the truck and a telephone pole on the easterly side of the street. The body of the bus was damaged, but the seven passengers in it escaped injury. The truck was also damaged.

K. B. SEWING CLASS MET WITH MISS MOLLY CARROLL

The K. B. sewing class of Auxiliary No. 18, A. O. H., met at the home of Miss Molly Carroll, 36 Boswell avenue Thursday evening. Despite the inclement weather a large number was present. Plans for the Valentine party to be held were discussed and the majority of the evening was spent in making lampshades. Miss Carroll was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Wallace, in serving luncheon of assorted sandwiches, pickles, olives, cakes and coffee. The next weekly meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Margaret Walsh, upper Boswell avenue.

Weekly Card Party.

The weekly whist and pinochle party of St. Mary's Memorial church was held Thursday evening with fifteen tables in play. The first prize in pinochle was won by James Johnstone with a score of 7590 while Miss Barry was awarded second prize with a score of 7540. Miss Eileen Krause won first prize in whist with a score of 51 and Edward Sullivan was second with 46. Frank Rochette was scorer in whist while Andrew LeBlanc in pinochle. Joseph Donnelly was in charge of the sale of tickets. These weekly card parties, which are proving very successful, are being used to pay for charitable work in the parish.

Guild Entertained.

The Ladies Guild of St. Andrews' Episcopal church was entertained at the home of Mrs. William Crowe, Jr., on Boswell avenue Thursday afternoon, with a large attendance. Regular business was transacted by the newly elected president, Mrs. Charles Erwin. Following the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed with refreshments being served by the hostess.

The Home department of the Third Baptist church held a chicken pie supper at the home of Mrs. Harry Conklin of Prospect street on Wednesday evening at 6.30 o'clock with fourteen members present. The menu consisted of fruit cup, chicken pie with biscuits, mashed potatoes, mashed turnips, creamed onions, cranberry jelly, olives, pickles, relish, rolls, pumpkin pie and coffee. Mrs. Conklin was assisted by Mrs. Elmer Mulkin and Mrs. William Sweet in preparing the supper. Those present included Mrs. Burdick, Mrs. Quinley, Mrs. Savage, Mrs. James Spicer, Mrs. Valentine Sebastian, Mrs. Miner Smead, Mrs. William Sweet, Mrs. Elmer Mulkin, Miss Ida Baker, Miss Gladys Upton, Mrs. Irving Larkin, Mrs. Harry Brothwell was a guest of the ladies. On Thursday afternoon the ladies met in the chapel and tied a bedquilt.

The Bachelor Girls club met at the home of Miss Agnes Casey of Boswell avenue on Tuesday evening. During the evening the girls worked on fancy articles and Miss Dorothy Conklin gave instructions in bead work. Miss Linda Mowry taught crocheting and Miss Doris Lund gave embroidery lessons. After the work hour was over a social time was enjoyed and Miss Casey served a dainty luncheon. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Dorothy Conklin.

TAFTVILLE

H. A. BOENIG COMMITS SUICIDE BY HANGING

Herman A. Boenig, aged 49, committed suicide by hanging, his body dangling from a beam in the cellar of his home on Merchants avenue, being discovered Friday morning by his 12 year old son Antone. It is believed that he performed the act Thursday evening, after he had been reported missing since Thursday morning. He had been employed in one of the local mills, and his disappearance caused many of the village residents to organize a search for him which proved fruitless.

Mr. Boenig had acted queerly for several days, and he had also been suffering from illness, as he left his work Thursday morning on that account. No one had seen him enter his home during the day, and he may have waited until evening before going to the house. Upon discovery of the body, Constable Paquette was notified and he in turn called Medical Examiner C. C. Glidersleeve, who gave permission for its removal.

The deceased had been a resident of Taftville for a number of years. He was born in Germany. Mr. Boenig was of a retiring disposition but had many friends who are extending their sorrow to the bereaved family. He is survived by his widow and the following children Herman, George, Gertrude, Anna, Mildred, Raymond Antone, Catherine, Robert and Herbert.

ABOUT $1,690,500 NEEDED FOR TWO YEARS STATE HOSPITAL MAINTENANCE

Prohibition has resulted in no decrease in the number of inebriate cases which come to the Norwich state hospital, according to the annual report made by Superintendent E. S. Burdsall to Governor John H. Trumbull, for the superintendent says in his report that:

"Inebriates come to us in as large numbers as before prohibition and prove quite a problem." The report reveals that 37 of the mentally afflicted patients admitted for the first time during the year ending June 30, 1927, were of this classification, and that the number increased to 62 the following year.

"They return to their homes and to their old environments at the expiration of the period for which they were committed," the superintendent continues. "Many of them again become the victims of the bootlegger of alcohol and finally are recommended to our hospital for the second or third time. At the time they are discharged they are in excellent condition mentally and physically and there appears to be no reason why they should not refrain from the use of alcoholic liquors, and probably would were not intoxicants so easily obtained."

Women patients have outnumbered the men in both the past two years, although a gain in the year ending June 30, 1928, nearly evened the figures. There were 1,147 women and 1,114 men in the institution June 30, 1927 and 1,172 women and 1,164 men on the same date of the following year. Thirty-three men and four women inebriates were admitted in the year closing with the last day of June in 1927, and 53 men and nine women of this classification for the period ending June 30, 1928.

The lengthy and detailed report treats with all phases of the institution ranging from registration—2,138 on June 30, 1928, as against 2,035 for the same date in 1927—to the egg production of the hospital farm.

"While we have about the same number of laying hens on hand now that we had two years ago," it is reported, "we have increased egg production by 5,484 dozen in the same length of time. This increase is due principally to the general improvement in the quality of the flock and through trapnesting and careful selection of the breeding stock."

Improvements Suggested.

Improvements suggested by the board of trustees of the institution include: Erection of a new ward building for 125 additional patients; preliminary sewage treatment; kitchen improvements; coal-handling machinery; electric ranges in three of the wards; window guards in several of the buildings; an incubator; and new roads about the grounds. The trustees estimate that $1,690,500 will be resulted for maintenance during the next two years, based on a per capita cost of $6.30 a week for 2,500 patients.

The financial report lists the total of all expenses for 1927-28 as $1,073,161.83, as against $708,410.32 for the preceding period. The difference is explained by an expenditure of $374,024.18 in 1928 for new land and buildings, whereas only $28,522.75 was expended for this item in 1927. Gross current expenses during 1928 were $726,113.93, sales and earnings totaled $25,976.28, leaving net current expenses of $699,137 65.

DEMURRER OVERRULED IN AUTO ACCIDENT SUIT

Tony Josdovski's demurrer has been overruled by Judge C. L. Avery in the suit of Bendicta and Karzimiez Olubowic of Colchester vs. Lawrence Croncowitz of Hebron and Tony Josdovski of Colchester. The demurrer was brought on the ground that the proximate cause of the injuries complained of was the permitting of the car of the defendant, Lawrence Croncowitz, to negligently or carelessly strike the automobile of the defendant, Tony Josdovski and thereby causing it to strike the plaintiff's car.

Benedicta Olubowic is suing for $400 and Karzimiez Olubowic for $1,000 damages for an automobile accident on Oct. 24, 1928 on the Colchester-Hartford highway.

MISSIONARY'S GRANDSON TO BE AT CENTRAL BAPTIST

Rev. Alexander Hanna of Rangoon, Burmah, will be the preacher at the Central Baptist church on Sunday morning. Mr. Hanna is the grandson of the great pioneer missionary, Adoniram Judson, and is carrying on in Burmah the work begun over 100 years ago by his distinguished grandfather.

"The Revival That Norwich Needs" will be the pastor's topic at the Central church in the evening at 7:30 o'clock. The service will be opened with a community sing from the gospel hymn book under the leadership of Fred J. Maples and the choir.

The public will be welcome at these meetings.

CHRIST CHURCH PARISH TO MAKE GOOD REPORTS

The parishioners of Christ Episcopal church will have presented to them the splendid reports of the different guilds of the parish at their yearly meeting soon to be held. Just four years ago, the present rector, Rev. C. M. Budlong, was called to become the director of the parish. His first official act was to extend to the people of Norwich an invitation to attend in Christ church a united service for all the community. The building was filled to the limit and Rt. Rev. Chauncey B. Brewster, Bishop of Connecticut, made the address.

For the four Lenten seasons the services were well attended and some very fine preachers within the Episcopal church were guests of the rector and parish at these times. At the high festivals, such as Christmas and Easter, large congregations enjoyed the hearty and reverent services and the fine music by the choir and organ.

The well-established Woman's auxiliary has done such splendid work and the interest and new members are increasing.

The Parish Aid society does its work by helping along some particular proposition that no other organization undertakes.

St. Agnes' guild has for its special object the care of the altar linens and choir vestments and with a real interest of many of its members the work has been done in good shape. The altar flower committee is ever wide awake and many beautiful flowers have been placed in the church at service time.

The church school four years ago put on new life when the new school system of lessons was adopted and the morning hour established for its session. Some teachers' training classes have been held from time to time and Miss Forsythe, the head of the religious education in Connecticut, compliments the school on its fine work and exhibitions each spring, being one of the best in the diocese.

St. Vincent's Young Men's society of 26 members was started four years ago with only six fellows. Several of them since the beginning have missed very few services. Their special work is serving at the altar and to be lay readers for extra occasions. The guild is a part of the diocesan and also national organizations of acolytes.

The Girls' Friendly society, established here three years ago, has grown to 50 members and has done much to hold the interest and devotion of the young women in the parish, diocese and national groups. Some hundreds of dollars have been given to help their own parish work. Mrs. Dimick, the diocesan president, is delighted with their spirit and results. They have become much interested in the City Girls' council work and entertained the committee one evening in the parish room.

The boys and young fellows enjoy their basketball teams and since the rector three years ago encouraged the baskets being put up, and a new stage built for entertainments and the parish dining room created the parish rooms have been alive with many a jolly party and good times. Several changes have come about by removals from town and death, yet the well-attended services and spirit among the loyal devoted ones starts 1929 off with new hopes and inspirations.

MADE PERMANENT RECEIVER FOR CHELSEA FILE WORKS

Judge C. L. Avery in the superior court here Friday confirmed William J. McBurney as permanent receiver of the Chelsea File Works, Inc., of this city and set four months from Jan. 25, 1929 as the limit for presenting claims. Mr. McBurney has been acting as temporary receiver. He is given authority to continue the business four months. George P. Chrest and Louis A. Holbrook being named as appraisers.

C. V. Will Harvest Ice

Approximately 18,000 tons of ice will be harvested this winter by the Central Vermont railway for use in cars and stations along the line, C. E. Donaldson, supervisor of bridges and buildings and in charge of harvesting operations, announced today. Ice harvesting began Thursday at East Alburg on Lake Champlain and will be completed in about three weeks, it is expected.

SHOWED PICTURES OF McALL MISSION IN FRANCE

On Friday afternoon, the missions department of the Women's Federation of Park Congregational church met in the parlors of the Osgood Memorial parish house, having as guests the Norwich Auxiliary of the American McAll association.

In the absence of the chairman, Miss Edith M. Biles, the devotional exercises were led by Miss Alice W. Cogswell. For the program, Miss Alexandrine Trumbull, president of the McAll auxiliary, presided. Mrs. Channing M. Huntington, secretary, read the report of the last meeting, and Mrs. S. H. Howe, the treasurer, announced that the usual amount had been raised for the support of an orphan, and the pledge in memory of Miss Charlotte Gulliver had received additional contributions.

Rev. George T. Berry, field secretary of the McAll association, reviewed the work of the mission in France, from the small beginning on Jan. 17, 1872, when Dr. McAll opened the first building in Paris.

The talk was illustrated with colored slides, showing the missions that had been opened in widely separated districts, the children in attendance, and glimpses of the occupations of the people. In the agricultural districts of Brittany, the women were shown at arduous labor in the fields, and Dr. Berry bespoke the sympathy of American women, stating that hard work is necessary, for there are two million more women than men, in France.

The missions at Lille, Roubet, Rouen and Nantes were shown, the latter showing a remarkable growth from the first attendance of 16 families, to 1,000 at the farewell dinner to the director. At Saint Quentin the Sunday school has grown from six, to 250 children. The southern stations at Marseilles and Nice were noted, but the greatest work is done on the river boats, for of the 30,000 communes in France, about one-half are on the rivers. The boats, with small apartment for the pastor and his family, and a large chapel, have reached one million, atheists or communists, who have come on board. One interesting phase of work has been developed since the war in establishing summer colonies in the mountains, near the sea, or in the country near the cities, where children from the slums are given a chance to recuperate, or working girls may have a brief vacation. Many of these are in renovated army barracks, but some fine country estates have been purchased at nominal cost from owners who have become too impoverished to maintain them.

The talk closed with a view of the beautiful memorial made by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, commemorating the landing of the American troops at Saint Nazaire: the tall, slender column, capped with the soldier arriving on the back of the eagle, stands in bold relief against the background of the sea.

TOUR IN AUTO ARE HURT AT CENTRAL VILLAGE

CENTRAL VILLAGE, Jan. 18—Four young persons were badly injured about 8 o'clock here tonight, when the Chevrolet sedan, in which they were riding, apparently skidded on the icy highway and overturned. They are Ida Tracy, of Plainfield, with a broken nose and bruises about the face; Webster Wainwright, Canterbury, bruises about the elbow; Frank Tures, Black Hill, fracture of the left leg, and Leo Pelletier, Plainfield, multiple cuts on the hands.

The machine, driven by Wainwright, had passed through Central Village from Canterbury and was making the boarding house corner, just above the new cement bridge under construction on the Plainfield highway, on the way to Moosup. It is understood that the wheels of the machine caught in the trolley tracks and with the none too favorable driving conditions skidded, overturned and the occupants were thrown out.

The injured were taken to the office of Dr. James L. Gardner, Central Village, where they were treated and later returned to their homes. The machine is a total wreck and was towed to a local garage. The corner where the accident occurred is a bad one, and was only recently widened by the state highway department.

Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Chatterton celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday in Attleboro, Mass., where they have resided for nearly half a century. They were married at Whitinsville, Jan. 16, 1879. Mrs. Chatterton was born in Danielson in 1859.

DIVORCES IN NORWICH AND GROTON SUITS

Two divorces which were on the uncontested list were granted by Judge C. L. Avery in the superior court here Friday.

On the grounds of a statutory offense committed in West Haven, Valentine Lawrence Loppert of this city, a supernumerary policeman, was granted a divorce from Estelle Gagnon Loppert when it was brought out in court that the defendant, on June 16, 1923, was convicted of a statutory offense with Clarence Slater, in West Haven and given six months in jail. The husband was also given the custody of three children. The couple was married Aug. 28, 1923.

On the grounds of desertion alleged since July 16, 1924, Mabel G. Saldana of Groton was freed from Victor Saldana, of parts unknown. They were married March 12, 1921, and the petitioner was given the right to resume her maiden name, Mabel Gonnella.

The suit of Ida Ritchie Holmes vs. Simon J. Holmes of Occum and Baltic went off the list.

ASSIGNMENTS FOR TRIAL IN SUPERIOR COURT

The following are the court cases assigned for trial in the superior court in this city before Judge C. L. Avery:

Tuesday, Jan. 22, Adelizzi vs. Fish; McVane vs. General Roofing Co., Inc.; Sarah Cochran vs. Luxor Cab Co., et al; Anna Counihan vs. Luxor Cab Co., et al; Jean Counihan vs. Luxor Cab Co., et al; Mildred Counihan vs. Luxor Cab Co., et al.

NORWICH TOWN

COMMUNITY TREE PICTURES PLEASE LOCAL RESIDENTS

Norwich Town friends have this week been receiving post card photographs of the Community Christmas tree on Norwich Town green, in its holiday attire, which comprised about 200 electric light bulbs, etc. The pictures were photographed by John R. Baynes, a resident of Elm avenue, nearly opposite where the permanent tree stands. Although taken about dusk, Rock Nook Home, the Congregational church and Johnson home, situated in that location are discernible. The large star at the tree top showing 20 white lights is especially conspicuous while the remaining bulbs show plainly the general effect. There are three different views.

Sand Appreciated.

It was greatly appreciated by pedestrians as well as motorists, Thursday afternoon, when the force of men under direction of Foreman Ernest Gadbois, for the state highway department, shoveled a thick coating of sand on the glib ice which covered the highway. In places residents either sprinkled ashes or sand on sidewalks, thus making travel a little more safe. Toward night the ice had begun to soften up from fog and rain so that later in the evening the gutters were running a steady flow of water. Somewhat slippery Friday morning, nearly all the main streets in Norwich Town were minus snow by night time.

Because of the perilous traveling Thursday evening, the annual meeting of the First Congregational church corporation was postponed until next week. Late in the afternoon, officials deemed it advisable to notify members of the parish who expected to be present, so the meeting was called off.

A former Norwich Town young man John H. Durr, has been located in Bellefourche, South Dakota, for the past eighteen years, not eight, as incorrectly stated in this column, Friday morning.

Moving to New Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Aldrich are moving this week from Wightman avenue to their new home on Lee avenue. Since their marriage, about two years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich have made their home with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanton W. Brown. The new home of Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich was lately erected on the property formerly owned by the late Lyman Lee. It is located at the top of the hill, near that recently built for Mr. and Mrs. James Mara, who with their family are already occupying their new home, having moved from Tanner avenue.

"The Changing Congo," is the subject of a stereopticon lecture, to be given in Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church Sunday evening. This lecture includes 62 beautifully colored slides. It is the story of the great work of the missionary, Rev. John Springer in carrying the gospel to two large tribes in the heart of Central Africa. The lecture, to be given by the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter, will be the figst lecture shown with the new stereopticon machine which the pastor received as a gift at Christmas. The machine will be operated by Ralph Smith. The lecture is public.

POETRY

Winter Loveliness

Give me the bleak, white silence of the fields,
Where winter skies hang heavy overhead.
Self-conscious with their loveliness, that steals
Across the earth where sacrament is shed.

I seek the green, grave faces of the pines
That murmur like a distant rolling sea,
And not their heads, and speak in secret signs
Which makes them seem more mystical to me.

Give me the bleak, white stillness, soft and thin,
For winter's beauties never can be lost,
Dear snowflakes have a resurrection in White altar flowers again at Pentecost.

—Peggy Reid, in Detroit Free Press.

White Magic

Now lies a hush of whiteness on this land
Where Winter with a delicate pure hand
Has painted beauty on the commonplace.
The trees are turned to ghost-white coral groves
As still as stone. Here no bird moves.
And round the garden is a wonderland
Of frosty filigree more magical
Than things Cellini wrought.
The cornfield is an ivory colonnade
Where sparrows' rendezvous is made
To glean the pearly grain. Behind a caul
Of fronded weeds' hoar-lace
Crouches a polar-rabbit sought
By silent-footed fox.
The rich warm bosom of the field
Now following for next year's yield
Is housed with drifts of gleaming snow,
And all this loveliness of silvered quietude
Brings to the troubled heart earth's old beatitude.

—Alta Booth Dunn, in Christian Science Monitor.

GUATEMALAN GOVT. FORCES ARE SUBDUING THE REBELS

Government Forces Have Reoccupied Parts of Two Cities Seized by the Revolutionists—The Rebels Are Being Subjected to a Terrific Artillery Bombardment—Airplanes Using Bombs and Machine Guns Have Demoralized the Insurgents.

GUATEMALA, CITY, Jan. 20—(AP)—Government forces today reoccupied parts of two cities seized by the revolutionists and were subjecting the part of Mazatanango still held by the rebels to a terrific artillery bombardment.

Airplanes using bombs and machine guns in cooperation with the infantry yesterday were said to have demoralized the insurgents, many of whom were seen to fall. These combined forces yesterday recaptured much of Mazatanango, including the railway station, and early this morning subjected the remainder to a violent artillery attack.

In the city of Salama the rebels in the northern part handed over their arms after their leaders had fled before the advance of loyal troops, which reoccupied the section without resistance. The cities of Quezaltenango and Totonicapan are negotiating for the surrender of the rebel leader Marciano Casado who has released the forces under his command.

The government dominates the situation and the republic is rapidly returning to normal.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Jan. 20—(AP)—Unconfirmed reports today stated that five Guatemala departments in the western section were in revolt with General Fernando Morales leading the revolution. The foreign office here had no details.

MEXICAN TROOPS GUARD THE GUATEMALAN BORDER

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 20—(AP)—Additional troops have been assigned to guard the Guatemalan border to prevent the passage of arms and ammunition for the revolutionists. President Portes Gil has proclaimed strict neutrality.

YOUTHFUL BRIDES NOT LONG IN WEDLOCK

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP)— Based on the marital experiences of 75 girls who obtained marriage licenses before they were 16 years old, in New York in 1925 and 1926, the women's City club issued today a "Study of child and youthful marriages in New York county."

Nine of the 75 never lived with their husbands at all, the report shows, and five of them returned immediately to the homes of their parents. Fifteen lived with their husbands two months or less, and 20 a year or less.

From reading their applications for the annulment of their marriages, compilers of the study were startled to learn how short a time most of the girls had known their prospective husbands.

"One had known her husband 'a few hours'", the report states. "Two others one day, another two days, two more 'a few weeks' more than half in the group had known the men they married two months or less."

Another fact brought out by the study, according to the report, is that a minority only of the child brides were foreign born.

"A characteristic of child marriages everywhere," the report says. "is the considerable number of much older husbands to whom the young brides are mated. These older men, ashamed to whom the young brides are mated. These older men, ashamed to be recorded as marrying girls who are so young, frequently record themselves as much younger than they really are. But on the basis of their admitted ages, there were among the 75 husbands of the child brides two men of 40, one of 32, three of 30, and two of 29."

AL. SMITH TO SPEND VACATION IN FLORIDA

Accompanying him were Mrs. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Kenny, close friends of the Smith family. They traveled in Mr. Kenny's private car attached to the Havana special, which left the Pennsylvania station at 3:20 p. m. John J. Raskob, democratic national chairman, was to join the party at Wilmington, Del.

The former governor said he was "getting away from politics" and had no idea of seeing southern political leaders while on his vacation. He and his party planned to spend six weeks with Carl Fepy, at Sarasota, Fla.

The observation platform of the private car was banked with flowers and among the 400 persons who were at the station to tell the former governor and members of his party goodbye were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Francis Quillinan, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith. It was said that the private car would be returned this week to take the rest of the Smith and Raskob families to Sarasota.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 20—(AP)—Miss Frances Porter wants $250,000 because she says Conkie P. Whitehead, millionaire Atlanta sportsman, ruined her stage career and humiliated her by declining to become her patron and husband.

A suit filed yesterday in Fulton superior court came as a sequel to differences between the Atlanta millionaire and the dancer aboard his yacht in Havana harbor last November.

False imprisonment in Havana, slander, and fraud were alleged in the suit, delineated by an account of the harbor altercation, stories purportedly by Whitehead and Miss Porter's charge that he had promised to get her on the stage in New York and marry her as soon as he was divorced.

Mrs. Julia Murphy Whitehead has a suit for divorce pending against her husband, charging excessive intoxication.

ACCIDENTAL ELECTROCUTION OF SOLDIER AT HONOLULU

BOSTON, Jan. 20—(AP)—Word was received here today of the death by accidental electrocution January 7, of Private Jeremiah Herlihy, U. S. A., attached to Schofield barracks, Honolulu. His body is on its way to the home of a sister, Mrs. Annie Scanlon, of Charlestown, Mass.

Herlihy was carrying a piece of iron pipe which came in contact simultaneously with an overhead high tension wire and an iron porch rail.

DIED FROM INJURIES RECEIVED WHILE BOXING

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 20—(AP)—William Paul died today from injuries received last night during a boxing bout at the Y. M. C. A. He was boxing with "Chuck" Agnew, Queens university athlete, and was knocked down, striking his head violently on the floor.

RESENTS REFLECTION ON COURAGE OF BUFFALO BILL

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 20—(AP)—The Milwaukee Journal said today that Gen. Charles King hopes to silence for all time what he terms "mendacious and malicious" reports reflecting upon the courage and heroic acts of William F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody.

The 84-year-old retired United States army officer, a veteran of the Indian wars under whom Buffalo Bill served as chief scout when King was a lieutenant of the Fifth cavalry, plans to go to Washington Jan. 26 to fulfill his mission, the newspaper said.

In an interview, General King said he will appear before the Society of Veterans, Indian Wars of the United States, to make a record of his personal knowledge of the feats of Buffalo Bill. He was aroused, he said, by statements made in a book by Richard J. Walsh, which said "Buffalo Bill had a few of the adventures invented for him later by press agents." It said there was "even doubt that he killed the young chief, Yellow Hand."

"I will present before the society such a defense of Cody that it will silence for all time the mendacious and malicious reports," General King said.

"I saw Cody close in on Yellow Hand, saw him fire a shot which tore through the Indian's leg and pierced his pony's heart, bringing both man and beast to earth."

INVESTIGATING DEATHS OF A YOUNG COUPLE

COLUMBUS, Ga., Jan. 20—(AP)—Detectives of Phenix City, Ala., and Columbus, Ga., today merged efforts to throw light on the deaths from gun fire of Miss Ella Mae Fountain, 20, Columbus, and J. W. Edmunds, Jr., 25-year-old son of a wealthy Phenix City property owner.

Investigators theorized that the couple either were shot by a jealous man, or that it was a case of murder and suicide on the part of young Edmunds. The first difficulty was encountered, however, in statements from parents of the principals that they did not even know the slain pair were acquainted.

When found not far from a roadside near the Georgia line in Alabama early Wednesday, Miss Fountain was dead and Edmunds seated, dazed and mortally wounded, beside her. He died Saturday night in a Columbus hospital, about 24 hours after the shooting was believed to have occurred in an automobile rented here by Miss Fountain Tuesday afternoon.

TROUBLES OF GOVERNOR JOHNSTON OF OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 20—(AP)—Oklahoma tonight awaited the next chapter in the fight to remove Gov. Henry Johnston from office on impeachment charges. Writing of that chapter was expected with the reconvening tomorrow of the state legislature.

Five impeachment charges, voted by the lower house of the general assembly late last week, were expected to be transmitted by a house committee tomorrow to the senate, which will sit as the impeachment court.

Acceptance of the impeachment articles by the senate automatically would suspend the governor from office, senate leaders said. In that event, W. J. Holloway, lieutenant-governor, would succeed to the chief executive's chair pending the impeachment trial of Governor Johnston.

Five additional articles of impeachment, returned by the house investigating committee which last week called many witnesses in its inquiry into official acts of Governor Johnston, remained before the house for action.

BRISTOL, Jan. 20—(AP)—An overheated stove in a closed store caused a fire which spread to four other stores in the Mink building, on Main street here, resulting in $10,000 loss tonight.

The fire broke out in the shoe shining parlor of John Simos, spread to the shoe repairing shop of John Lascari, to the barber shop of Dominick Francovilla, the fruit and confectionery store of Tony Provinzano and the Economy Auto Supply company. The shoe shining parlor, repair and barber shops were destroyed. The other two places were damaged by smoke and water.

TURKEY HAS RATIFIED KELLOGG PEACE TREATY

ANGORA, Turkey, Jan. 20—(AP)—The assembly has unanimously ratified the Kellogg pact for renunciation of war and the government has instructed its ambassador at Washington to sign the pact.

Foreign Minister Tewfik Rushdi Bey was so anxious for Turkey to be the first country to sign after ratification by the United States senate that he rose from a sick bed to encourage the urgent vote of the assembly.

PESHAWAR, India, Jan. 20—(AP)—Prince Khalullah, son of Inayatullah, former king of Afghanistan, and members of his family, arrived in Peshawar from Kabul today in airplanes of the royal airforce.

ATHENS, Jan. 20—(AP)—Following upon serious flooding in other river basins the Struma overran its banks today and inundated a large area of cultivated land. The inhabitants were evacuated from the affected district. Three villages are threatened.

NOWATSKY AND WIFE TRAPPED IN FIRE

Fred owatzky, veteran newsdealer, who is over 80 years old, and his wife were trapped in a fire at their home 60 Washington street, this (Monday) morning about 3.30 o'clock, and were cerried out suffering severely from shock and burns, to be hurried to Backus hospital in the police patrol wagon.

The fire was said to have started in Nowatzky's room and was discovered by a boarder in the house who gave the alarm and tried to get Mr. Nowatzky out but was driven off by the dense smoke. When the firemen arrived there was a fierce blaze at the rear of the first floor and smoke was pouring from the windows and front door. A ladder was run up to a bay window on the side from which a stream could be directed on the blaze and as soon as the firemen could get through the smoke they succeeded in finding Mr. and Mrs. Nowatzky. Mrs. Nowatzky was brought out first and was wrapped in a blanket and placed in the police patrol wagon. Mr. Nowatzky was found immediately afterwards his clothing apparently partly burned and he was bleeding from cuts on the legs. He also was place in the patrol wagon and the two victims were rushed to the Backus hospital.

WESTERLY MAN KILLED BY SHOT AT NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Jan. 21—Santo Caccione was shot while he lay in bed in the second floor of his wooden frame house, 505 Marion street and died almost instantly. His assailant is reported to have been Louis Gencarrelle residing on Oak street, who had a fight with him early in the evening and threatened his life. Westerly police and Lieut. George H. Champlin are holding Gencarrelle and state that the shot was fired from an embankment near the house. In Gencarrelle's possession was fuond two shells and a shot gun believed to have been used by Gencarrelle.

MAY MARK NEW ERA IN HISTORY OF R. C. CHURCH

ROME, Jan. 20—(AP)—The forthcoming settlement of the Roman question may mark a new era in the history of the Catholic church in that the pope will have an undoubted right to propose the candidacy of the Papal state for admission to the League of Nations. Tentative moves in that direction in the past have been blocked by the lack of purely defined boundaries.

Since the League of Nations by its covenant is bound to consider the admission of any applying entity on the basis of answers to the questions, "Has the state well-defined frontiers?" and "Has the state a stable and established form of government?" it appears that the Papal state once its boundaries are delimited would be sure of admission since the answer to the second question is that its government has functioned for nearly 2,000 years.

If admitted to the assembly of the league the delegates of the pope might be expected to find places on committees dealing with social and humanitarian problems. And it is even within the range of possibility that a representative of the Holy See some day might sit beside the representative of the kingdom of Italy at the council table of the league.

The Papal state would be the smallest unit in the League of Nations, having only a few thousand inhabitants. Salvador, with a population of only about one and a half millions, already has a representative on the council of the league.

The pope would have the advantage over other chiefs of state in being able to summon as his representatives the nationals of other countries than Italy or of his own restricted domain.

THREE MEN INJURED WHEN PLANE CRASHED IN LANDING

WILMINGTON, N. C., Jan. 20—(AP)—Three men returning from a search over the Brunswick river marshes for four missing boy hunters, were seriously injured here today when their plane crashed in landing, but tonight it was said that all probably would recover.

The men were Capt. Fred Kreuberg, former German flying officer, who suffered a fractured skull; Deputy Sheriff Carl Cook, whose back was broken, and Otto Schmidt, who suffered internal injuries.

No trace of the missing party of hunters was found after long sweeps over the marshland and the plane had abandoned the search when it fell at the Wilmington airport.

Members of the lost party, for whom little hope is held now, are: Jesse Huggins, Randolph Huggins and Fred Engle, as well as Elliott Huggins, all of Wilmington.

HUGE QUANTITIES OF MILK DUMPED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Jan. 20—(AP)—Nearly 100 farmers, fighting Chicago milk distributors for higher prices, today seized and dumped 3,500 pounds of milk from a train at McHenry, Ill. A marshal and deputies who were summoned were booed by the farmers.

Men in 10 automobiles seized two trucks belonging to the Model Dairy company of Chicago at Fox River Grove, and dumped the milk. Between Cary and Crystal Lake, Ill., a tank car belonging to the Model company was seized and 19,500 pounds of milk destroyed.

The Lake Zurich Dairy company announced today that it has signed contracts with producers agreeing to pay $2.85 per hundred pounds as demanded by the producers. The former price was $2.50.

Liner President Garfield On Reef

At the North End of the Bahama Island Group—Passengers Taken Off.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP)—E[illegible] one passengers of the world [illegible] ship President Garfield tonight [illegible] safe aboard the Munson liner Pan-America after a rescue from their own ship, which ran aground early today on Matanilla Reef at the northern tip of the Bahama Island group.

They were taken off the President Garfield along with their baggage and the liner's mail cargo and transferred to the Pan-America in small boats. The transfer was completed at 7:45 tonight, about 12 hours after the liner had run aground. The Pan-America then proceeded toward Nassau, for which she was bound.

The officers and crew of the Dollar liner remained aboard as the wrecking tug Warbler sped to their assistance from Jacksonville, Fla. The liner was hard aground, but was not taking water and was believed in no immediate danger.

Word of the rescue of the passengers came first from Robert E. Duff, operating manager in New York for the Dollar line, and a short time later from the Radio Marine corporation, which was in direct communication with the Pan-America.

First word that the President Garfield, which left New York Thursday on a round-the-world cruise, was in trouble came at 7:25 this morning with receipt of an SOS message. The Pan-America, which also left New York Thursday, reported that she was nearby and was on her way to the aid of the stricken vessel. A naval tug also was dispatched from Charleston, S. C., and the wrecking tug put out from Jacksonville, Fla.

Later messages allayed somewhat the fears first felt when the SOS was broadcast by stating that the ship was not taking water, the sea was calm and there was no apparent danger of her sinking.

The Pan-America then reported herself alongside the President Garfield and shortly after came advices that the passengers were being transferred. Then the message saying they were all safe aboard the Pan-America.

Mr. Duff said the passengers would be landed at Nassau and cared for by the company until they decided where they wished to be put ashore or arrangements could be made for them to continue their world cruise.

PRINCE CYRIL PAYING FIRST VISIT TO THE U. S.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP)—Traveling as "Mr. Cyril Sokolski," Prince Cyril, brother of King Boris of Bulgaria, arrived on the liner Berlin today for his first visit to the United States.

The prince, not yet thirty, was accompanied by Professor Max Rabes, of the University of Erlangen in Bavaria. The professor said that the visit of the prince had no official significance and that his time would be devoted to a study of the country and its industries, particularly the automobile business, in which the prince is especially interested.

CHARGED WITH BEING AN ACCESSORY IN ROBBERY

MIDDLETOWN, Jan. 20—(AP)—Salvatore Santoro, 22, of 30 Abbott avenue, Waterbury, was arrested by State Policemen Pettingill, and Rinaldi tonight and charged with being an accessory to the robbery of Gus Mastras, lunch wagon operator, here last Thursday night.

They are accused of having supplied the revolver which Edward J. Gravelin, 19, and John Roach, 19, both of Waterbury, are alleged to have used when they held up Mastras and robbed him of $22.

POSSE SEARCHING FOR FOUR NEGROES IN ALABAMA

UNION SPRINGS, Ala., Jan. 20—(AP)—Four Negroes tonight were being sought by a large posse from here in connection with the slaying of J. F. Barbaree, special deputy law enforcement officer and the wounding of J. J. Bradham, city marshal, here late today.

The officers had arrested the quartet on charges of violating the prohibition laws but when ordered into the car two of them grappled with Bradham and disarmed him, then shot Barbaree before he could pull his gun. The Negroes, taking Barbaree's pistol, fled.

Five Deaths From Navy Gig Collision

Officer, Day Corps Officer and Three Enlisted Men Were Drowned Off Balboa.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—(AP)—The drowning of one naval officer, a pay corps officer and three enlisted seamen off Balboa, Canal Zone, when a navy gig collided with a barge, was reported late today to the navy department.

The gig was returning from Balboa to the destroyer tender Whitney and after striking the barge, towed by the canal tug Mariner, sank immediately.

The drowned men were:

Capt. Ralph Griswold, commanding officer of the Ninth destroyer scouting squadron, and Chief Pay Clerk Arthur S. Wrenn, both of Washington; Coxswain Fred W. Swelnberg, of West Orange, N. J.; Seaman Herbert D. McDowell, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Fireman Earl D. Tibbeits, of Haverhill, Mass.

The gig was that of the Whitney, whose commanding officer reported the collision to the navy department.

The bodies of Captain Griswold and Chief Pay Clerk Wrenn later were recovered, a second radio message to the navy department reported.

Captain Griswold was a native of Pennsylvania and was appointed to the Naval academy from Massachusetts. During the World war he was in command of the Kroonland, engaged in the transport of army troops to France, and for this service he was awarded the navy cross.

The widow of Chief Pay Clerk Wrenn is Mrs. Marian M. Wrenn, who lives at Fall River, Mass.

CHANGE IN OWNERSHIP OF SOUTH'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 20—(AP)—Thomas J. Hamilton, president of the Augusta Chronicle Publishing company and editor of the Chronicle, the south's oldest newspaper, tonight announced the sale of the paper, to Harold Hall and William Lavarre, New York newspaper men. The Chronicle was founded in 1785.

Lavarre, a native of Richmond, Va., and a graduation from Harvard university led several expeditions in exploration of South American jungles, one of which resulted in the discovery and development of the Alluvian diamond fields of British Guinea.

For the past seven years he has been connected with the New York Times Publishing company. His interest in newspaper work began while a student at Harvard, when he was editor of the Harvard advocate.

Hall was named business manager of the New York Telegram and Scripps-Howard newspaper, in May 1927. Since its foundation the Chronicle has been published as a weekly, semi-weekly, tri-weekly and finally as a daily.

JOSEPH CAILLAUX HAS UNDERGONE OPERATION

PARIS, Jan. 20—(AP)—Joseph Caillaux, former premier and minister of finance, underwent an operation today for the removal of broken bones in his nose, injuries received in an automobile accident January 10.

Although his condition was said to be satisfactory it was added that he needed a complete rest and medical attention for several days.

It is regarded as a strange coincidence here that Marshal Foch, former Premier Georges Clemenceau, and M. Caillaux, the three Frenchmen possibly most widely known during the war period, should be confined to their rooms at the same time, ill, ten years after the period of their greatest activity.

FAMILY OF FOUR WAS KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 20—(AP)—A father, a mother and their two sons lost their lives this afternoon when a railroad train struck their automobile on a grade crossing near Montrose, Ontario, a few miles from Niagara Falls, Ont.

The dead: Frank Bretti, 47 years old, his wife Frances, 42, and their sons John, 17, and Joseph, 7.

Samuel Mancuso, driver of the car, suffered a broken leg and head lacerations.

Mrs. Bretti and her two sons were killed instantly. The father died on the way to the hospital. All lived at Niagara Falls, Ont.

NOVELIST LEONARD CLINE WAS DEAD FIVE DAYS BEFORE FINDING OF BODY

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP)—Leonard Cline, novelist, and short story writer, was found dead late today in his West Side apartment. A medical examiner said he had died about five days ago of heart disease.

The novelist's body, clad in pajamas and lying on a bed, was discovered by two tenants of the building who opened the apartment door after receiving no response to their knocks.

Cline apparently had not been seen since last Tuesday night when he gave a party in his apartment. Miss Helen Todd, agent for the building, told police that during the party Cline had complained to her of his heart.

Miss Todd added that the author came to New York about a month ago from his farm near Willimantic, Conn. She said he told her that he was unable to work at his farm because of worry about financial obligations. He was writing for the magazine "Time" in addition to working on his manuscripts, Miss Todd said.

Cline was 38 years old. Among his novels are "God Head," "Listen Moon" and "Dark Chamber."

The author's widow, Mrs. Katherine G. Cline, of Detroit, Mich., was notified of his death.

CLINE HAD SHOT AND KILLED FRIEND IN MANSFIELD

ROCKVILLE, Conn., Jan. 20—(AP)—Having fallen into obscurity after a brief moment of fame which followed the publication in The Nation of his article, "The Fordizing of a Pleasant Peninsula," Leonard Lanson Cline, novelist, poet, essayist and short story writer, who was found dead in his New York apartment today, moved into the limelight again in the spring of 1927, when he shot and killed his friend, Wilfred P. Irwin, on his, Cline's farm, at Worm Wood hill, Mansfield, near here.

In the following September, he was tried for the murder. When he pleaded temporary insanity due to intoxication, he was allowed to plead guilty to a charge of manslaughter and was sentenced to one year in the Tolland county jail, at Toland, and fined $1,000. For good behavior, he was released the following October. He returned to his farm and lived there with his friend, Van Emple, the artist, until last month, when he went to New York.

Cline wrote his last two books, "Listen, Moon" and "Dark Chamber," in the jail. He had started "Listen, Moon" in the jail while awaiting trial.

Cline was twice married. His second wife was the daughter of William J. Gridley, of Detroit. There are two children, a girl, 13, and a boy, 11.

Cline was a graduate of the University of Michigan and had been employed on various important newspapers. While a correspondent for the Baltimore Sun he wrote a series of articles on the Mer Rouge, La., flogging trials which brought him considerable prominence apart from his literary prominence. He was the author of a collection of poems and of the play, "Daisies Won't Tell," which was produced in New York by Sam Harris with Pauline Lord as star.

The Mansfield farm, which Cline and his wife purchased in December, 1926, is still in his and her name. It was learned from neighbors tonight that Cline had left it quietly a month ago. Up to that time, little had been seen of him. Every shade in the small farmhouse is drawn and the place has the air of an abandoned spot.

DRY LEADERS REQUEST FUNDS FOR ENFORCEMENT

Appeal For Increase of $25,000,000 Proposed in an Amendment to Deficiency Appropriation Bill—Bishop Cannon Attacks the Position Taken by Secretary Mellon That the Proposed Increase Was Inappropriate at This Time—Senate Today Will Vote on the Nomination of Roy O. West as Secretary of the Interior.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—(AP)—Public appeals by three prominent dry leaders for the proposed $25,000,000 increase for prohibition enforcement has added a new complication to this controversy in the senate and new sest in the already protracted debate is anticipated.

Before getting to the prohibition question again, however, the senate will vote at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow on the nomination of Roy O. West, of Chicago, as secretary of interior.

All of this is adding to the tangled senate situation which daily is growing more foreboding for the long pending cruiser construction bill. The naval measure is the last of the important propositions of President Coolidge still unacted upon and administration leaders are beginning to show some concern over its outlook.

Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas, the father of the eighteenth amendment, threw new fuel on the prohibition fire yesterday when he read into the record an attack against the position taken by Secretary Mellon that the $25,000,000 increase for dry enforcement in an amendment to the first deficiency appropriation bill was inappropriate at this time.

The attack was made by Bishop James Cannon and Eugene L. Crawford, chairman and secretary, respectively, of the board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal church South, and by Bishop Thomas Nicholson, president of the Anti-Saloon league.

It gave new hope to Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, the author of the $25,000,000 increase which had lost administration support in the senate following the announcement of Secretary Mellon. What effect the dry leaders' pronouncement will have on the attitude of senate administration drys, however, is problematical.

Regardless of the vote on the $25,000,000 prohibition increase leaders believe at least that the proposal of Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, for appropriation of $250,000 to be used by a presidential commission in a study of prohibition will be adopted.

President-elect Hoover has indicated very clearly that he intends to order such an investigation and this $250,000 is intended to meet the expenses of the proposed commission.

After two days of debate behind closed doors, the senate will resume again in secret session tomorrow its discussion of Mr. West's nomination. Friends of the secretary are confident of obtaining his confirmation, but the republican independents, led by Senators Norris, of Nebraska, and Nye, of North Dakota, are waging a stubborn fight against him. Opposition is based principally on the previous connections of Mr. West with the Samuel Insull Power Utilities interests.

The house, with its stringest rules limiting debate, has gone steadily ahead on its work this session and sees the end of its legislative tasks by adjournment on March 4, but the senate situation is growing more complicated. Friends of the bill to authorize the construction of 15 new cruisers and an airplane carrier insist that the protracted debate upon the West confirmation and on other matters is aimed to delay the consideration of this naval measure.

The republican independents and Senator King, democrat, Utah, are prepared to open an assault on the cruiser bill, but so far they have been busy on other matters. Denying a filibuster against the naval measure, they point out that all debate so far on this bill has been consumed by its proponents.

BISHOP CANNON SENDS TELEGRAM TO MELLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—(AP)—Elaborating on his recent telegram to Secretary Mellon urging the proposed $25,000,000 prohibition enforcement increase, Bishop James Cannon Jr., chairman of the board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, today in a statement said the dry law's enforcement should not lag because of the lack of a more adequate program "than is possible with present appropriations."

In his telegram Bishop Cannon objected to the stand of Mr. Mellon who has opposed the increase. The bishop in today's statement said he was "in full accord with what I understand to be Secretary Mellon's position that a larger appropriation should be made to the department of justice to enable it to handle more expeditiously indictments against prohibition law offenders."

"Indeed I am inclined to favor the creation of a system of minor federal courts," the bishop's statement continued, "which shall have jurisdiction over violation of prohibition laws, custom laws, Mann white slave act, Harrison narcotic drug act, income tax and internal revenue laws, indeed of all minor criminal violations of federal status.

"Moreover, I heartily approve the proposal of Senator Glass to appropriate $250,000 for the work of the commission proposed by President-elect Hoover. But these appropriations for the department of justice and the survey commission would not in my judgment minimize the desirability and the importance of placing at the disposal of the secretary of the treasury the proposed additional sum of $25,000,000 to be applied as he may determine after careful consideration.

"The proposed commission will probably not report for several months. The people whom I represent believe that enforcement should not lag in the meanwhile for lack of more adequate enforcement program than is possible under present appropriations."

SALVATION ARMY CONTEST HAS BEEN TAKEN TO COURT

LONDON, Jan. 20—(AP)—Writs have been served individually upon Chief of Staff Higgins and the seven commissioners who signed the requisition for summoning the high council of the Salvation Army. The writs require them to attend high court here tomorrow for an injunction against appointment of a successor to his ojce.

The high council intends to ask for adjournment until Friday in order to give them time to prepare an answer. If this is granted it is clear that the work of the high council which plans extensive changes in the government of the organization, will be greatly protracted.

A development of the week end was the telegram sent to Mrs. Bramwell Booth at Southwold by one of the oldest and most esteemed divisional officers, Lieutenant Cowham of the Southampton area. He appealed to the Booth family to desist from legal proceedings on the ground that they are contrary to scripture and to the Armya own regulation, which positively prohibits settlement of disputes within the Army by recourse to the civil courts. So far as is known the Booth family is ignoring this appeal.

STEWART CONFIDENT OF DEFEATING ROCKEFELLER

CHICAGO, Jan. 20—(AP)—Apparently confident of victory in his fight with John D. Rockefeller Jr., for control of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, Colonel Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board, returned here today from New York.

"I am well pleased with the result of my trip to New York," he said as he stepped from the Twentieth Century Limited. "I went there on business connected with the internal affairs of the company but I met many people with whom I discussed the annual meeting."

Colonel Stewart refused to comment further, but the Herald-Examiner tomorrow will say that sources close to him believe the battle for proxies, which will come to a climax at the board meeting on March 7, will reach during this week to Europe and England where blocks of stock sufficient to swing the directors' election are held.

HENRY FORD BUYS ANOTHER ANCIENT ENGINE HERE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 20—That Henry Ford, automobile magnate, philanthropist and educator has again purchased an old-time manufacturing engine in this locality was revealed Saturday by his eastern agent, William W. Taylor of Sudbury, Mass. The most recent purchase in this vicinity is of an old Green horizontal engine that has been in the plant of George J. Kirby at Mansfield Hollow for half a century. The engine, which was built in Providence, R. I., in 1855, is now being dismantled by local workmen and is to be shipped about the middle of the coming week to Dearborn, Michigan. There it will be set up in the museum or "machinery college" erected by Mr. Ford for the general interest of all and the education of young machinists.

The engine was first used at Atlanta, Ga., in 1879 to furnish power for the Cotton exposition. At the close of the exposition it was purchased by the late Monroe M. Johnson, who built the Mansfield Hollow mill which was operated in the manufacture of cotton sewing thread for years. The Johnson business and property was bought by the American Thread company in the early '90's. The plant remained closed for about 25 years until purchased by Mr. Kirby for the manufacture of jewelry and optical goods. The plant has continued to be operated for that purpose by Mr. Kirby with the exception of some years during the World war when Mr. Kirby manufactured ammunitions.

Mr. Johnson, who retired to this city after the sale of the plant, had purchased the Greene engine to furnish auxiliary power in the event that the natural water supply ran low in the summer. He had never had occasion to use it however. Under Mr. Kirby's ownership the engine was used for a short time to furnish power for the work of deepening the channel of the river in the rear of the mill to provide an increased supply of water. The machine has been idle since this work was completed. The engine is in good shape and a valuable asset to the Dearborn exhibition, according to Mr. Taylor, who added that this type of engine is very rare at present. The Greene engine is of the reciprocating platform type with wide cross heads, single cylinder, 125 horse power with a fly wheel weighing over five tons. The fly wheel is set in a bed 17 1-2 feet in length and five feet wide. Mr. Taylor, who, with Mr. Ford, negotiated the purchase of two old Brown horizontal engines from the Holland Silk company, over half a century old, and also one of the first Edison electric light generators from the same plant, states that he is still in the market for old types of machinery for Mr. Ford's ownership.

Handing down a decision that a motor vehicle operator must exercise consideration of cars directly in the rear of him and that a hand signal alone as a precautionary measure is not sufficient, Justice of the Peace Frank H. Foss allowed Mrs. Genevieve Goodwin of Westford damages of $58.20 against Mariano Generoso of this city, Saturday. The civil case followed a collision of cars on Main street, near the Capitol theatre building on Monday, January 7, the machines being driven by Generoso and Howard F. Goodwin, husband of the plaintiff. Generoso gave a hand signal that he was to make a left turn just about the time that Goodwin, who was following in the rear, sounded his horn to signal that he was about to pass. It was testified that Generoso pulled his car slightly to the right. Goodwin assumed this gave him a clear road and started ahead when Generoso turned sharly to the left. The plaintiff had claimed damages of $100 but the amount awarded covered the bill for repairs as presented. The witnesses were Mr. Goodwin, his son Ralph and Louis Zalcek, Police Officer Roderick Lariviere, Generoso and Walter Caron.

Probate Judge Valentine L. Murphy presided over his first hearing, since taking office, Saturday morning on the petition of Joseh Allegro of Ivanhill street to revoke the order of the court for the commitment of his nine-year-old son to the Mansfield State Hospital and Training school. The town of Windham was represented by Attorney A. T. Kelley and Miss Elizabeth Anderson of the Welfare bureau, while Attorney S. B. Harvey represented Allegro. On the grounds that it was mentally defective, the child was committed to the institution last July. Allegro alleges that his child is sufficiently capable mentally as not to require confinement in an institution and his petition to the probate court was to bring custodian of the boy to be supported by him without town assistance. Judge Murphy continued the case for one week to allow further investigation.

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 20—The annual banquet of the co-ed members of the senior class of the Connecticut Agricultural college was held at the Nathan Hale hotel Saturday night with over 40 of the fair students and their guests attending the traditional event. Miss Grace Fowler of Shelton, president of the senior co-eds presided. Professor and Mrs. Grace E. Lamson and Captain and Mrs. Thorton D. Chase were in the receiving line.

The co-eds and their guests present were: Miss Catheryn Wilkinson of Ansonia, Andrew Parks of Bridgeport; Miss Dorothy Tomkin of Ansonia, George Giessler of Lawrence, Mass.; Miss Margery Wildman of Oakville, Leonard Osterling of West Hartford; Miss Lydia Bronson of Waterson, Charles Anderson of Middletown; Miss Selma Oeterman of New Haven, John Thulin of Waterbury; Miss Grace Fowler of Shelton, Bertrand Harrison of Bristol; Miss Maura Gorman of Thomasville, Loyall Bachmann of Shelton; Miss Grace Kierstead of Hartford, Stewart Joslyn of Chester; Miss Eva Bogan of Shelton, Donald Cumming of Ridgeeld; Miss Edith Coughlin of Wethersfield, William Dingee of Ridgefield; Miss Irene Baxton of Bristol, Charles Smith of New Milford; Miss Hazel Barbour of Ansonia, John Towers of Manchester; Miss Dorothy Nay of Norwich, Edward Graham of Norwich; Miss Marian North of Berlin, John Schread of Bridgeport; Miss Margaret Spencock of Warehouse Point, Alton Brown of Stafford Springs; Miss Charlotte Fellows of Norwich; Russell Anderson of Cromwell; Miss Alice Hall of Tolland, John Sullivan of East Hartford; Miss Gertrude Palmer of Middletown, Vernon McDonald of Hartford; Miss Dorothy Geess of Waterbury, Corwin Hawkins of Hartford; Miss Lucy Flagg of New Haven, Carl Geissler of Storrs.

JEWETT CITY

BREAK IN STATE HIGHWAY RECALLS AN OLD TUNNEL

JEWETT CITY, Jan. 20—Warden E. J. Jodoin was notified Sunday morning of a dangerous hole in the Voluntown state highway, near the north approach of the Slater bridge, Jewett City. The warden set up the necessary danger signals to warn night and day traffic and will at once communicate with the state highway department. Probably not one in ten of the people living in the borough are aware of the fact that the waste gate canal of the Slater mill pond passes through a tunnel under the road, crossing at right angles with the thoroughfare. For many years before the great flood here, in 1886, this tunnel approximately 8 feet square, did the double duty of waste gate canal, also to carry sufficient water from the main pond, to operate the wheel in the one-time old stone grist mill, that stood on Slater avenue, a few feet south of the present residence of Walter A. Richardson, superintendent of the textile division of the Fisk Tire Co. This mill was razed by the Slater mills more than a quarter of a century ago. The 200 feet of ditch that carried water to its old overshot wheel, was filled in and has passed out of memory. Nevertheless, the half century old and more tunnel is still in existence, which fact was called to mind today when the borough highway department discovered that the hole in the state road was caused by some of the stones in its great vaulted roof having worked loose and fallen, followed by the heavy trap ballast and cement of the roadway. When the new dam was built, 43 years ago this year, its waste gate was constructed so, that should occasion ever require it, the old tunnel would still be available. Not once since that long time of close to a half century has high water in the pond ever demanded the opening of these waste gates to relieve the pressure on one of the finest model granite dams in the state.

Built by the then well known Flint Co., its construction was completed under direction of the late Thomas Morrison, an engineer of unquestioned genius and skill. Some called to mind Sunday the great traffic loads that every twenty-four hours are carried over this old time tunnel. It was forecasted that the state road department, first of all, will today (Monday) send men into the old viaduct from its open end, to ascertain if other stones in the arched roof are showing signs of working loose.

A 12 foot plank was dropped into the hole in the street, down through the sluice-way until it rested on the stone floor.

Fifty years ago the village boys, many of whom (far removed from the boy class now) are alive today, when the water was drawn off the grist mill ditch used to penetrate with fear and trembling this long, dark, dripping vault. Down among the seams in the stone floor and close up to where little tricklings of water found a passage way under the bulkhead gates, the boys were always sure to secure by the aid of candles, a couple of pockets full of small and very slimy eels.

REFORM SCHOOL FOR YOUTH LEADER IN SHOOTING-UP

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Jan. 20—Judge John T. Barry held a session of the juvenile court Saturday morning in the town hall. After hearing the various stories of some 20 minor witnesses young Secula was committed to the Connecticut School for Boys, at Meriden.

The so-called "kid gang warfare", with several previous outbreaks of importance, culminated in the jam of a few weeks ago, when, as has been proved, Secula handled a 22 calibre rifle with results that narrowly missed being serious. Three boys of the opposing faction received bullets from the rifle which was discharged by Secula. The stories told by the 20 boys witnesses at the juvenile hearing are not known. Judge Barry said that there appeared to him no alternative but decisive action, in this, the first of a determined movement by the town and state officials to call a halt on the reckless actions of irresponsible local minors.

At various times since the faction feud semed to need official consideration, Frederick H. Wyant of Norwich, representative of the Connecticut Humane society, has visited the borough. As the result of his investigation, a formal report was made to Prosecuting Attorney Richard J. Dudkowski.

Post Cards from California.

Friends in town have received handsome souvenir post cards from Mr. and Mrs. Alex McNicol, dated at Mount Wilson, California. Mr. McNicol tells of a trip last Monday which proved of especial interest. The Mt. Wilson trip included a climb of 6000 feet and a visit to the observatory. The party also listened to a lecture and inspected the great Mt. Wilson telescope. Mr. McNicol reports that he peeked in but didn't see Jewett City anywhere.

ELEVENTH RYS CHILD—AND ANOTHER BULLETIN BOY

The Rys family holds the record at present in this town, of having the largest number of children. An addition of a brand new boy Saturday makes a total of eleven children—six girls and five boys. The oldest are twin girls, aged fifteen. Two of the Bulletin delivery routes are covered by two of the children, assisted by a few of the others, as occasion requires. Saturday three little Rys boys 5, 6 and 7 years old, trudged in with the week's paper money, proud as punch because the new baby was a boy!

Winter temperature records of recent date received a new entry Saturday forenoon, when for more than an hour the mercury hung at 62 degrees in the shade. Six inches of snow that fell Wednesday morning was gone Saturday noon. The Quinebaug and Pachaug rivers showed a few inches raise Sunday. The Dorrville pond showed open places at noon, with several inches of honeycombed snow-topped ice still remaining.

Included among those ill during the week just passed, Daniel F. Finn, Thomas Grey, John E. Phillips, Earl S. Hiscox, Henry Yeglard and Leslie Hyde, were in bed, with medical attendance necessary.

Arthur Shea and Charles Collins, students at Holy Cross college spent the week-end at the former's home.

STAFFORD

Mrs. Frank Jones is spending a week with her sister Mrs. George Lewis in Westfield, India.

The Boy Scouts met last week at the Baptist parsonage.

Mrs. Lambert Ferry and son William of Brimfield, were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Mpnro Dimmock and Mrs. Shaw.

There are a number of cases of influenza hereabouts.

Mr. Latham and her daughter Mrs. Clara Jenkins are ill at their home.

The W. T. C. U. meeting which was to have been held at the Methodist church last Sunday evening was postponed until January 27th.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Turner were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Selah Walbridge and Mrs. Sarah Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rhodes are ill at their home.

GOSHEN

Very pleasant was the old time fiddling contest held in Grange hall, Lebanon. All would like to hear the players again, and some of them have said they would like to just try that over once more.

The present mild weather with the hum of honey bees, brings to mind when on two occasions 25 years ago on January 20th, peep frogs were heard.

A curiosity at Maple Hill farm is a house plant, a petunia with 24 pink trumpet blooms which has blossomed continuously all last summer and since it was transplanted indoors. All it seems to call for is, "give me plenty of water."

Several from this place attended church services in Colchester, Sunday.

It was a reminder of old times during the last light snow to hear hounds following hot on a fox trail.

COLCHESTER

TWO LOCAL LEGISLATORS ON IMPORTANT COMMITTEES

Colchester's new representatives were appointed the past week to some of the important committees in the state legislature, Representative Samuel Freedman is on the public health and safety, as well as the sale of land committee. Representative Samuel P. Willard was appointed to the incorporations and the state library committee.

Miss Cora E. Carrier, teacher in the Hartford schools, and Miss Evelyn R. Strong, teacher in the Newington schools, were at their homes on South Main street over Sunday.

The first harbingers of spring, the seed catalogs, are already being received by local people.

Harold Gunning, of Hartford, former local resident, is reported seriously ill with pneumonia. Mr. Gunning is a well-known driver on the Hartford-New London bus line.

A number of Colchester people motored to Lebanon, Saturday evening to witness the Bacon academy-Lyman Memorial high school basketball game.

Mrs. George Smith and daughter, Miss Agnes Smith, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., were visiting friends here, Sunday.

Miss Eunice M. Seyms, teacher in Gilead schools, was at home over Sunday.

Leslie F. Leffingwell received word Saturday of the death of his brother, Everett K. Leffingwell, at his home in Windham Center.

A steadily increasing number of Colchester residents are confined to their homes suffering from severe colds, grip and bronchial and nasal afflictions. The sudden weather changes from freezing winter to spring-like temperatures are the cause of the growing number of cases of minor maladies.

Louis M. Minsk, student at Wesleyan university, spent Sunday with his parents.

Dr. E. M. Clifford, of Hartford, visited over the week-end with his mother and sisters here.

Miss Annie Alpert, of Norwich avenue, has been awarded three books during the past year in the "Uncle Jed" letter-writing contest conducted weekly by The Norwich Bulletin.

NORTH FRANKLIN

Mrs. John Carney, of Willimantic, spent a day recently with her mother, Mrs. T. H. Ward.

Mrs. Fannie Hoxie spent Saturday with her daughter, Mrs. Gladstone Shaw, of Norwich.

Mrs. L. Kellner, the nurse, entertained at dinner for Mrs. Lua Stiles Wednesday, Mrs. F. A. Rockwood, Miss Ella R. Hoffman, Mrs. Fred Hoxie, Mrs. Ella Gager and Mrs. Fred Race.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rogers and son, Philip, and Miss Betty Browning called on Miss Lydia Johnson, Friday.

Fred Clarke has returned to his home in Willimantic after spending several weeks with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Clarke.

Mrs. Frank Rockwood, Miss Ella R. Hoffman, Mrs. Fred Hoxie and Mrs. Fred Race attended the recent gathering of S. C. club 1, at Willimantic.

BEAUTY AND UTILITY ARE COMBINED IN THE NEW FORD

The new Fordor Sedan is impressively smart yet sturdy and substantial. An unusually comfortable car because of its wide, deeply cushioned seats, generous room between front and rear seats, transverse springs and Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers. Finished in a choice of beautiful two-tone color harmonies.

WHEN you see the new Ford, you are impressed instantly by its trim, graceful lines and air of sturdy strength. Its very appearance is a reflection of the alert, capable performance of the car. Without being extreme, it has struck a new note in automobile designing.

A particularly interesting feature of the new Ford is the way beauty has been combined with utility. This is found in the length, width and height of the body, the size and shape of the radiator, the position of the gasoline tank in the cowl, the outward flow of the body, the design of the welded steel spoke wheels, the shape and position of the full nickeled headlamps, the sweep and curve of the heavy full crown fenders.

Everything has been planned for service

When a thing perfectly fits its uses, it is pleasing to the eye. Every part of the new Ford has been designed and built not only to be attractive, but with a very definite thought of the work it has to do.

Even in the very little things you can see evidence of quality of material, careful workmanship and quiet good taste. The upholstery is of woolen material, rich and luxurious, yet long-wearing.

Attractive colors add to beauty of the new Ford

Every one of the new Ford body types is available in a choice of several beautiful two-tone color harmonies with attractive striping. This is an unusual feature in a low-price car.

The finish is pyroxylin lacquer, selected for its enduring qualities. It is not affected by heat or cold, is not easily marred or scratched, and polishes to a beautiful luster. Once a month at least your car should be washed and polished.

The beauty of the Ford is not of the outside only, but extends deep down into every part—even to those hidden parts which you may never see. In the eyes of the engineer and technical man, the mechanical beauty of the new Ford is one of its greatest features.

The practical beauty of a fine machine

There is beauty, for instance, in the fine steel forgings which are used everywhere in the chassis of the new Ford where there is a possibility of wear—in the manner in which electric welding has been developed to give increased strength without increased weight—in the simplicity of the cooling, lubrication, ignition, and fuel systems—in the extensive use of ball and roller bearings—in the simple operation of the fully enclosed six-brake system—in the close limits of accuracy maintained in the manufacture of important parts—in the way the engine develops its speed, acceleration and power without sacrificing reliability or economy.

To the man who drives his automobile many thousands of miles every year and who looks to it for continuous service at low cost, this mechanical beauty is of more importance even than beauty of line and finish.

For it is a reflection of simplicity of design, quality of materials and careful workmanship, which are the three fundamental factors in motor car performance.

There is indeed no greater tribute to the value of the new Ford than the simple, homely phrase which you hear so often from Ford owners, experienced garage mechanics and all who know and understand the workings of an automobile—"It is a sweet mechanical job."

The new Ford Business Coupe has been especially designed for professional men, executives, salesmen—for all who use an automobile constantly for business use. Handy package space behind seat and unusually large rear deck are welcome features.

A REAL ACCOMPLISHMENT.

President Coolidge has reason to be pleased with the ratification of the Kellogg pact renouncing war and to feel, as announced from Washington, that it will grow upon the people of this country after it has become operative.

This is action which is bound to stand out prominently as a feature of his administration. It displays a stand in behalf of peace, the adjustment of international disputes by other means than war and sets an example which can be followed in the future even as war has been followed in the past.

It is another outcome of the World war. That great struggle set up a world wide cry for the prevention of anything of the kind in the future. Such was contrary to the practices of the past, for it has been the habit to restore and rebuild fighting machines just about as soon as possible after a war, and proceed to increase them in anticipation of the next.

Following the greatest of all wars sentiment was crystallized against it. It was time to halt in the minds of the people and turn in the other direction. This has been repeatedly manifested since then. It was reflected in the Washington conference where the first move for armament limitation was successful. It was again displayed at Locarno in the understanding reached by the nations of Europe. It was hoped that it would prove sufficiently strong at Geneva to accomplish further armament limitation but before that the nations of the world have joined hands in calling for the renunciation of war.

Let this be considered with all its limitations, but it will have to be admitted that it is a move in the right direction. It is in accord with world thought. It reflects the sentiment of the people and it indicates that we have come to a turn in that long road to war.

In many an effort the hardest work is in abandoning an old for a new policy. We have taken a conspicuous part in this effort for peace. We recognize the desirability of such a treaty and believe that through such a start the goal is bound to be obtained if such a thing is possible. Turning thought into the right channel is bound to be effective and Mrs. Coolidge is justified in believing that the future will strongly back up the action which has just been taken.

PROTECTING THE PUBLIC.

It was only a few weeks ago that the interstate commerce commission announced the abandonment of its policy to require railroads to equip their systems with automatic control systems, by which trains could be brought to a halt even though the engineer was not complying with orders or signals.

This change of view after large expenditures had been made in installing such devices was occasioned by the belief that the railroads could make better use of the money for the prevention of deaths at railroad crossings. Recognition was given to the fact that more people were being killed at crossings than were being killed by train collisions, and the commission felt that the railroads could be left to deal with the safety problem of its rails without guidance from the commission.

It wasn't to be expected that such an announcement would mean that there need be expected no more train collisions. Not even the railroads expected that, but it is bound to be noted that it was not long before a rear end collision and the involvement of a third train in the wreckage occurred at Aberdeen, Md., not long after the change became effective. It was one of those wrecks that a train stop ought to have prevented. It occurred on a system where accidents are not frequent but there is never any telling when the human agent is going to fail. In the short time that has elapsed since the commission's change of view, it would have been impossible to have equipped that section of road, so that the accident would not necessarily have been prevented had the old decision held, but it is inevitable that such a crash should raise the question as to whether the commission should have displayed a readiness to let up in the move for the safety of the traveling public.

As for the crossing fatalities there is no question as to the need of checking them, but that is a case where accident or no accident rests with the portion of the public that is using the highway, while those on the train have nothing to say as to whether they stop or be crushed.

AMERICAN LUMBER.

Many will be the pleas for tariff changes before the congressional committee at Washington, for each and every one is entitled to be heard for the sake of getting whatever advantage is due through such a protective measure. Naturally it will be expected that each and every industry will present good and sufficient reasons for any action that is sought.

Among others, an effort is being made to have the tariff on lumber substantially raised. The idea is to help the American product instead of that from other countries, some of which is now being imported into this country.

This is bound to raise the question as to whether this country is in a position to supply the lumber requirements of its people. In various ways we have been informed that the lumber supply of this country was dwindling at a rapid pace, that inroads were being made into it that threatened a serious situation a few years nence and that there should be a greater conservation of the supply and increased efforts in behalf of reforestation.

Possibly the shutitng out of foreign lumber would result in a stimulation in interest in the production of the American article. There are many states which might do far more than they are doing toward supplying the timber needs within their borders. Huge expenditures are made every year for the transportation of lumber that is brought into this state. Connecticut has land on which much more lumber could be produced than is being done at the present time, and the same is true of many other states.

That too little interest exists in this industry in states where it might be stimulated is well known. Efforts to bring about an improvement are showing some results. There is a growing interest in forestation and acres which have produced little or nothing in the past are now being employed for the growing of trees. It is a business which requires time to produce a crop but the chance for development is good, although not getting all the attention that it deserves.

COUNTRY CEMETERIES.

It isn't always at this season of the year that the neglected cemeteries make their greatest impression. It is, however, at this time that it is necessary to get the ear and action of a legislature if anything is going to be obtained in the way of legislative relief, and it is noted that a member of the Ohio legislature has introduced a bill which, if enacted, will give the townships the right to levy a tax of not more than a half mill for the purpose of caring for cemeteries conveyed to the trustees.

Cemetery neglect can be found without long search. It is the common rather than the uncommon thing. Those who were interested in their upkeep in other years lie therein or have gone elsewhere and as time goes on they go from bad to worse in the matter of care. The small country cemetery deserves far different treatment than it gets. The expectations were that succeeding generations would do their part and make it unnecessary to provide for definite action. This has been recognized and overcome in the development of modern cemeteries where funds for perpetual care are established, but that still leaves the cemeteries filled with briars and brush standing as disgraceful pictures of what in many cases is thoughtless neglect. It may make no difference to those who have gone but it doesn't show the right degree of respect, and the Ohio plan seems to be to make it somebody's business to rectify the situation. It is a matter which concerns everyone quite as much as some of the purposes for which taxes are collected and more than others. There's no chance that the country cemeteries will ever get any greater attention than they need and deserve.

AUTOS AND TROLLEYS.

Enforcement of all kinds encounters plenty of trouble. This is being experienced in New Jersey at the present time where new laws governing the automobile are being tried. New Jersey has introduced some drastic changes in the interest of safety and it evidently intends that they shall be respected.

Among the provisions is that which requires an auto to be brought to a stop when a trolley car is discharging or taking on passengers. It hasn't been the practice and there is an inclination to disregard it. There are those in New Jersey, like others in Connecticut, who seem to think that they ought not to be molested in their use of the highway in such manner and at such time as they like. Thus when one driver refused to stop as passengers were getting off the electric car he was reported in the interest of the new law. When he refused to pay any attention to three legal calls to appear in court he was "fetched" and fined for each refusal to appear as if a separate offense.

New Jersey believes that its automobile laws are good ones. It is disposed to be as reasonable in its interpretation as any other state but it will not tolerate defiance of them. Such is the right attitude if the laws are ever going to amount to anything. Those who disregard the trolley passengers, honk them out of the way or rush to the left side of a trolley in order to pass have been the cause of many accidents and fatalities and of course the cause of the legislation that has been enacted.

The New Jersey provsion is no different than that which has been long since established in other states and it affords no more protection than the trolley public is entitled to get.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

This is one of the seasons of the year which puts the faith in thermometers to a severe test.

Probably it would be useless to talk prevention to those who go forth "to set the world afire".

With college classes making plans for commencement this new year is already showing speed.

The man on the corner says: The kindness of January doesn't make us forget the reputation of February.

Now it remains to be seen what the success of the defeated democratic presidential candidate is going to be as a book agent.

Those who have put their cars up for the winter may be encouraged to get them out immediately by the cent drop in the price of gasoline.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Bake a square loaf of bread about 40 minutes in a moderate oven.

Bake all baking powder breads in a very quick oven 15 or 20 minutes.

Gingerbread requires the coolest oven of all.

Fruit cakes require from three to four hours in an oven at the temperature of 240.

To restore a curdled custard, beat it rapidly with a Dover beater, then pour it from one vessel to the other.

Use bread one day old for sandwiches and French toast.

Fruit cakes may be steamed two hours and baked one hour. All pastry must go into a hot oven.

A diet for the sick is not a normal diet. It is not suited to the well nor to children.

Maple syrup may be used in place of sugar and water in baking apples. The flavor is delicious.

A little ammonia in the water when washing very greasy dishes takes a lot of unpleasantness from the job.

Woodenware should not be placed near the fire todry; as it will crack.

Lacquered copper will keep in good condition if rubbed occasionally with a cloth dipped in kerosene.

Do not add salt to potatoes until they are almost boiled if you wish them to be white and floury.

Dates are valuable food for the entire family and should be given to the children as well as the adult.

If both hard sauce and liquid lemon sauce are served with plum pudding they add much to the flavor of the pudding.

Dip the measuring cup in cold water before measuring molasses or thick syrup. The syrup will pour much more easily.

Always keep a jar of silver polish near the sink. When washing dishes it is a simple matter to rub over any piece of silver that may need to be cleaned.

Copper often may be cleaned beautifully by rubbing all over with a cut lemon dipped in salt, then rinsing thoroughly with clear water and polishing with a soft cloth or chamois.

NEWSPAPERS AS FUEL

One thrifty housekeeper converts old newspapers into fuel, and here is how she does it: She puts newspapers into a tub, half fills it with water and weights the papers down with a large stone. Then she fills the tub to the top with water and leaves it until papers are thoroughly soaked and quite pulpy. She then molds the newspapers into compact balls and places them in the sun to dry out.

The balls become solid as wood and burn nicely in a stove or fireplace, giving out intense heat.

She always has large quantities of newspaper balls on hand, for she likes them better than real fuel, because they are so clean to handle.

WHIPPED CREAM

A teaspoon of granulated gelatin soaked in one teaspoon of water, then melted over hot water, if added to one-half pint of whipped cream, will keep it firm until served.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

The White of an egg applied to a burn or scald is most soothing and will cause the burn to heal quickly.

Brown flour is much richer than white in bone and blood forming material.

Backaches and footaches and headaches are responsible for most of the wrinkles and worry squints and tired, listless faces among women. Body aches give that hard edge to the voice and make women feel 45 when they are barely past 30. Many of the tired aches could be avoided if women would take a little less care of their houses and a little better care of themselves.

In general, the dry shampoo is advocated for removing excess oil from the hair when one has not the time to use soap and water for the purpose. Girls whose air becomes very oily only a few days after it is washed find the dry shampoo a great boon, as it does away with the necessity of washing the hair more often than is good for it. Greasy hair does not take a wave well, but it is not always convenient to have a wet shampoo before the marcel. The dry shampoo solves the problem economically and quickly.

TINFOIL LAMPSHADES.

Tinfoil in silver, green, yellow and rose covers the large circular bowls which form the standards of the new table lamps. The tinfoil catches reflections from the lamp above it, and when the lampshade is made in a contrasting color a charming shaded effect can be obtained.

NEWSY LETTERS

A woman, famous for her interesting letters, keeps a series of large manila envelopes in her desk, each having the name of a correspondent. Every time she sees an item that would interest one of them, she clips it and sticks it into his or her envelope until her next letter.

HAT CLEANING

Women can keep their felt hats immaculate if they brush them daily and once a week go over them with a cloth dipped in some good cleaning fluid. Brush the nap carefully when dry.

GROWING PLANTS

In these days of overheated houses the bowl of water containing growing bulbs or plants is beneficial as well as pretty. The evaporation of the water takes some of the dryness out of the atmosphere.

WILL NOT HARM THEM.

You need not wait until the last minute to mix up the dough for hot biscuits. Mix them in the morning and keep them in an ice box until ready to bake. They will be just as light and good as if mixed in a hurry at the last minute.

CREAMING SUGAR

Before creaming sugar and butter together for cake or frosting pour boiling water into the mixing bowl and let it get thoroughly heated. Pour out and dry bowl quickly. Put sugar and butter into the heated bowl and you will be surprised how quickly it will cream.

DICTATES OF FASHION

The vogue for wearing gayly colored frocks has become so strong that the dark dress is conspicuous by its very rarity.

Imported gloves of tissue-like kidskin, daintily stitched and with modest little cuffs are very delicate and attractive.

The skirt of a green velvet dress has its yoke cut with inverted scallops, with the deepest points reaching well down on the left side.

Resort shoes are often of shantung and crepe de chine, plain, printed or embroidered; linen, block printed or embroidered, and printed wool challis.

Metropolitan displays attest to the popularity of the tulle frock, favoring black tulle with graduated chenille dots, or black with white dots.

Replacing somewhat the dominating pin tucks used to adorn simple one-piece crepe frocks is the fagoting so largely used last summer.

Checks in silk and cottons in white with bright color contrast or color harmonies are particularly fashionable among novelties in fabrics.

At the southern resorts they're wearing shoes either matching the costume in color or fabric, or carrying out a scheme of color and fabric contrast.

Two-piece dresses have been taken over by the sports mode and the plain little morning dress of one-piece style has come into significance as a smart herald of the day.

A jersey dress having a blouse of chartreuse, oranges or flame color with a black skirt, or a lavender blouse with skirt or purple, is doubly attractive because of its lines and blending of the color combination in trimming details.

The turban is firmly established in the mode, both for day and evening wear. A very new model is developed in wool angora and is shaped to fit the head as closely as an aviator's cap, which it strongly resembles.

The shoulder scarf that has long been popular for sports now expresses itself in more brilliant version for formal wear. In sequins, brilliants or gold lace it makes a stunning accessory for evening occasions.

WOOL AND COTTON COMBINED

There is a growing tendency on the part of designers to use wool and cotton or linen in the same costume, in an alliance so smart that cotton is lifted completely out of the house dress class.

This combination provokes the interest, as it is new and clever. A favorite method in the sports ensemble wool material and a blouse of cotton or linen. Printed linen also is used as though it were silk for the blouse and lining or trimming of jersey jackets.

TRIM AND BECOMING HOSIERY.

To wear becoming hosiery is quite as important as the becomingness of the hat. A trim fit is absolutely necessary, and this is attained by wearing full-fashioned hosiery. When selecting stockings, make sure they are long enough to be comfortable, and there must be sufficient width above the knee to insure a snug fit without any strain. The full-fashioned stocking will give the desirable snug fit at the ankle.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Colored clothes should be washed before very soiled if their delicate tints be retained.

Save soap scraps, put them through a food chopper, and use them for soap chips.

If you use a small brush or whisk to sprinkle water on the clothes, you will be able to use hotter water and in consequence the clothes will be more evenly dampened and can be ironed much sooner.

When white clothes become discolored, soak them over night in a solution of cream of tartar and water, one teaspoon to a quart of cold water. The next day wash in the usual way and they will be as white as when new.

FRESHEN RUBBER APRONS

The rubber apron is the latest article of utility to disguise its function in radiant colors and ruffled trimmings. Even the pockets are skilfully hidden by applqued motifs.

As rubber deteriorates rapidly under certain conditions, it is wise to give your rubber aprons special care. Never wear one if you intend to spend a lot of time hovering over a hot stove. Intense heat makes rubber soft and gummy, so that the material is likely to stick together in places and tear when you try to smooth it out. Don't hang a rubber apron near a stove or radiator pipes. Avoid sharp hooks, too, as the material tears easily.

When a rubber apron becomes soiled, it is a simple matter to wash it. Lay the apron on a clean flat surface and sponge both sides with soap suds and tepid water. Wipe with clear water of the same temperature, then with a dry cloth. Under no conditions should you attempt to iron a rubber apron. If you are in a hurry to wear it after washing, talcum powder will hasten the drying process.

HEATING MILK

Before heating milk, rinse the pan out with hot water. Then put the milk in it. It is not nearly so apt to scorch and the pan will be easier to wash.

RIB ROAST

If you buy a rib roast, have the butcher cut the rib end off so that you can use it for soup. If left on and roasted with the rest of the meat, it is largely wasted.

AN ECONOMY MEASURE

If you wish to use only a little bit of lemon juice, don't cut the lemon in half, but make a small incision in the end and squeeze out the amount of juice required. The lemon will keep for future use with this method.

SALAD GREENS

Wash all salad greens thoroughly as soon as they come from the market. While dripping, place them in a cheesecloth bag and place it in the coldest part of the icebox. When ready for service they will be crisp and fresh.

CONCERNING WOMEN

There are 52,214 more women than men in Greece.

Suffrage for women in Cuba is receiving the support of President Gerardo Machado y Morales.

At the School of Oriental Studies in London, Eng., some of the most difficult of the African languages are taught by Prof. Alice Werner, a graduate of Newnham college.

One-fifth of all women employed in the manufacturing industries in the United States are foreign-born.

Women are now admitted, for the first time, as members of the Welsh society of Philadelphia, oldest chartered club in America.

The next ruler of Bhopal, rated the second Mohammedan state in size in India, will be the daughter of the Nawab of Bhopal.

Senorita Ortuzar, the new consul for Chile at Hull, is the first woman to be appointed a consul in England.

CLEANS EYEGLASSES

If a drop or two of ammonia is placed on a clean cloth and the cloth rubbed over eyeglasses they will shine.

DAMPENED CHAMOIS

About once a month use a dampened chamois instead of a duster on the furniture. It will make a tremendous difference.

RECIPES.

Cheese-Drop Biscuit: One cup flour, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 3-4 cup water, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon grated cheese, 1 tablespoon butter. Blend the butter and flour with the tips of the fingers, first having mixed the salt and making powder with the flour. Add the water and grated cheese and drop on a buttered sheet. Bake in a hot oven for 12 minutes. This amount will make 12 biscuits.

Oyster and Bacon: If you prefer your oysters cooked in a different way, try them with bacon, like this: Drain a five-ounce can of oysters and arrange them in shallow, buttered, earthern scallop dishes. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika. Lay thinly sliced bacon on top, sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and set in hot oven till bacon is crisp. This makes four servings.

THE SUNSHINE SCHOOL A HEALTH BUILDER

By Philip S. Potter, M. D.
Berkeley, Califorinr.

The Sunshine School was established as an integral part of the public school system of Berkeley for the purpose of caring for the tired-out, pale, nervous and undernourished children for whom the regular school curriculum would be harmful. It was also for those children who at some time or other had been in immediate contact with a tuberculous member of the family, and because of their condition furnished fruitful soil for the development of the germ in their own bodies.

The school is not a separate school, for these children should not be considered "sick" children and segregated. Their quarters are located on the first floor in one wing of a regular school and consist of class rooms and two sleeping rooms furnished with 60 beds, for these children must have two sleep periods of an hour each. In addition they have one rest hour on the sun platform in the school yard where the sun baths are graduated to the individual child by the two city nurses detailed to the school. The sun platform is so divided that the boys occupy one side and the girls the other.

Only children of the first six grades are eligible, and the school is ungraded. Three teachers are in charge of the school work, while the physician and the two nurses watch over the children's health progress. They send home all contagious disease contacts, for this is no place for a contagious disease to get a foothold.

During the school day a pint of orange juice is given to each child in the morning previous to going on the sun platform. At noon a properly balanced lunch is furnished, and at three-thirty in the afternoon a glass of milk and two graham crackers.

Nearly all of the children have averaged a ten pound gain during the school year of ten months. Those who have gained but little in weight have gained otherwise. There have been fewer absences from colds and therefore an increased school attendance. The children have become as brown as Indians, their skin as smooth as velvet, the muscles firm and the appetite increased, many calling for "seconds" at the lunch hour. The pinched look is gone, the eyes are bright and the children are so full of vigor that it is difficult to hold them down in their games at play time.

Aanother advantage of this school is the opportunity of teaching public health to the parents. Not infrequently do they come to the school to consult with the physician on their health problems. When the child's health chart shows a poor progress, the nurse goes into the home. After her visit generally the weight line begins to ascend.

This type of school is a benefit to the children and to the community, and should be in every city where climatic conditions permit it.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 — Rumors drifting out of the congressional tariff-tinkering shop, the house ways and means committee, leave it much in doubt as to what tariff help for the farmer the short session will undertake. Chairman Hawley, Oregon, doesn't seem to expect any. Since he began congressing in the 60th and has been at it ever since, and will continue in the 71st, he ought to know. But does he?

Washington is full of folks interested in the tariff hearings. Judging by those the Bystander has encountered in his wanderings who seem to be here just keeping cases on the committee's work and preparing to plead the cause of their own special commodities if the chance comes, an amazing array of things figure in farm aspects of the tariff. No doubt makers of cook stoves and rubber heels could make a plausible showing for themselves.

Too Many Bananas

There are intimations that when the purely agricultural schedules are reached by the committee signs will not be lacking of a new offensive and defensive alliance. The objective, as the Bystander hears it, will be the raising of the immigration and importation barriers against the succulent and seductive banana.

American orange and apaple growers are represented as deeply alarmed over the extent to which this tropical visitor is invading American breakfast tables. They take no stock at all in that old, once popular song about the lack of bananas. On the contrary, they feel it should be revised to read "Yes, there are altogether too many bananas."

The figures made available when the fruit schedules are reached will be very interesting. It is to be recalled that very vigorous objections were made on behalf of fruit and vegetable growers to inclusion of these commodities under the surplus marketing provisions and the equalization fee machinery of the McNary-Haugen bill last session.

The International Apple Growers' association, through its secretary, R. G. Phillips, filed protests which got into the Congressional Record several times.

"Until this industry asks for government donations and hand-outs, don't force it on us," the memorandum said.

Rumors Only

That, however, had to do solely with the loan proposals of the farm bill. "Too much financing rather than too little," it added, was the trouble with fruit and vegetable production.

When it comes to an upward revision of tariff schedules, however, the attitude of the industries may prove to be quite different. What it will be is not clear from anything of record at the last session of congress.

Cursory examination of the index to the Congressional Record fails to show any mention of the tariff on bananas, so if, as rumored, an apple and orange grower alliance to bar this competitor is forming it has not as yet bobbed to the surface of current tariff history in Washington.

Mother and Daughter Praise Vegetable Compound

Johnson City, N. Y.—"My daughter was only 20 years old, but for two years she worked in misery. She was all run-down, nervous, had aches and pains and no appetite. I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with good results so she decided to try it. Before she had taken two bottles her appetite was better, she was more cheerful and was able to work. I cannot praise your medicine too highly. It is wonderful for mothers and for daughters. It's surely a friend in need."—MRS. L. E. HALL, 223 Floral Avenue, Johnson City, N. Y.

Spooky is Storm Driven

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

True bravery will ever try.
And struggle on with courage high.
—Old Mother Nature.

Spooky the Screech Owl was living in the Old Orchard. You know, he had lived in the Old Orchard for a long time. There was a certain apple tree with a nice comfortable hollow in it which Spooky called his own. Farmer Brown's Boy knew all about Spooky and that hollow. So when the trees were being trimmed and holes filled, Farmer Brown's Boy would not touch that hollow.

Of course, you know that Spooky, like other members of his family, hunts at night. Sometimes, on a dark, gloomy day, he starts out hunting in the middle of the afternoon. This is especially true when food is scarce and it takes a great deal of hunting in order to get enough to eat. This is what Spooky had done on the day when one of the worst storms of the winter started. He had had no luck and he had flown farther than usual in his search for a stray mouse, or an unwary small bird. So he was some little distance from home when the storm started. At first he didn't mind the snow, but presently he discovered that Rough Brother North Wind was blowing so hard that it was difficult to fly and the snow was rather blinding. It was high time for him to be back home. He started. He had to fly right into the wind and, presently, he realized that he was making very little progress. Rough Brother North Wind blew him off his course. In spite of all he could do, he could not reach the Old Orchard. Yet he must reach it. At least, that is what he thought. You see, he didn't think of any other shelter where he could stay until the storm was over.

The snow grew thicker and thicker. Presently, Spooky couldn't tell where he was at all. All he could do was to guess as to his direction and beat and beat with his wings and hope that he was heading for the Old Orchard. Sometimes Rough Brother North Wind would let up blowing for a few minutes and Spooky would gain a little. Then Rough Brother North Wind would howl and roar and blow again, and poor Spooky would be blown off his course.

At last it seemed to Spooky that he couldn't fly another minute. "I'll just have to give up," he said to himself. "I'll just have to give up. I cannot face this storm any longer. I guess this will be the end of poor little me."

It was just then that he saw something big through the blinding snow. He couldn't make out what it was, but there was some big object just ahead of him. Perhaps he could find shelter behind it. So, with new courage, he beat his way toward it. It was Farmer Brown's barn. Yes, sir, it was Farmer Brown's barn. Rough Brother North Wind was howling and twisting around that barn and it was all Spooky could do to keep from being dashed against it. At the time he didn't recognize it as Farmer Brown's barn.

"I'll try to get around on the other side and perhaps I can find shelter there," said Spooky to himself.

It was at that very instant that one wing brushed against something. He discovered that it was a little platform and just back of it was a hole. With all his might he clung to that platform. Rough Brother North Wind did his best to blow him off, but Spooky clung. When he could get his breath he managed to pull himself up and creep through that little hole. Such a relief as he experienced then! He didn't know where he was at first, but he didn't care. You see, he was where Rough Brother North Wind could no longer reach him. He was out of the blinding, driving snow. It was comparatively warm and comfortable in there. Spooky was inside Farmer Brown's barn. Once Farmer Brown's Boy had kept pigeons there and the hole by which Spooky had entered was one of the entrances which had been cut for the pigeons.

What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believes that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of. Low much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches and to break up fevers and colds.

New England Sabbath

Sabbath upon the river and the hills!
And Sabbath-rest among the weary wheels,
That ceased their groaning with a conscious hush.
Sabbath to lives unwound from labor's coil;
One welcome pause between dull sentences
Of week-long prose.

That Sabbath in the air
Which made New England as old Palestine—
An Olivet of every green ascent,
With Kedron of Siloam flowing past,
In windings of familiar streams—how vast
Its depth and height of stillness! Every leaf
Of every tree seemed whispering reverently
Some Hebrew tale or parable. The sky
Came close to earth, as bending to let down
The glory of the New Jerusalem.
That sweet, old-fashioned day has left us now,
With inspirations and with presences
Which never can return. It is a part
Of our lost Puritan inheritance.
Whatever better this new time has brought,
Never again the land shall know that rest,
That inexpressible calm.

—By Lucy Larcom.

The Quiet Life

What pleasure have great princes,
More dainty to their choice
Than herdsmen wild, who careless
In quiet life rejoice,
And fortune's fate not fearing,
Sing sweet in summer morning?

Their dealings plain and rightly
Are void of all deceit;
They never know how spiteful
It is to kneel and wait
On favorite, presumptuous,
Whose pride is vain and sumptuous.

All day their flocks each tendeth,
All night, they take their rest;
More quiet than who sendeth
His ship unto the East,
Where gold and pearl are plenty;
But getting, very dainty.

For lawyers and their pleading,
They 'steem it not a straw;
They think that honest meaning
Is of itself a law;
Whence conscience judgeth plainly,
They spend no money vainly.

O happy who thus liveth!
Not caring much for gold;
With clothing which sufficeth
To keep him from the cold.
Though poor and plain his diet
Yet merry it is, and quiet.

—William Byrd.

Tourists who this year visited Yosemite talk much of the wild currant bush that has made itself a strange home in a crotch high up the trunk of an old sequoit tree. The bush finds a place to grow at a point 80 feet from the ground where this monster thrusts out one of its gnarled limbs. Through the centuries litter has lodged there until enough of it has accumulated to support plant life. Into this some bird dropped a wild currant seed.

Conn. Mother is Proud

Don't let constipation and its attending ailments, such as headaches, biliousness, feverishness, fretfulness, sallow, "broken-out" skin, etc., pull your child down and make her puny, listless and underweight. At the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness, give her a little California Fig Syrup.

Children love the rich, fruity flavor of California Fig Syrup, and it never fails to start lazy bowels quick, cleanse them thoroughly and give tone and strength to them and to the stomach so these organs continue to act normally, of their own accord. It stimulates the appetite, helps digestion, makes rosy cheeks, bright eyes, helps build up and strengthen children.

A well-known Connecticut mother, Mrs. W. B. Cully, 48 Redding St., Hartford, says: "My little daughter, Genevieve, suffered from constipation until I thought it was going to keep her bilious and headachy always. She was losing weight when I started her on California Fig Syrup. In a few days it made a world of difference in her looks and actions. Now I'm proud as I can be of her; she's so ruddy, strong and plump."

Over four million bottles used a year shows the popularity of the genuine. Look for the name "California" on the carton, so you won't get a substitute."

SQUARE UP FOR HEALTH IN MANY COMMUNITIES

Most all of the communities in New London county are carrying on the square meals for health project during this winter and spring under the auspices of the county farm bureau.

Mrs. M. E. Dakin, nutrition specialist, is holding training schools in the northern and the southeastern section of the county. These schools are for two leaders from each group. Mrs. Dakin will give them instruction and they in turn will pass it on to their own local groups; the home demonstration agent attending the local meetings.

This work will be done with four meetings a month apart.

This method of carrying on the work is entirely different from the general method of conducting food work. Due to lack of time on the part of the specialist to meet each group, this year all the food work is being done by leaders.

The following is the schedule for the four training meetings in each section.

Tuesday, January 29, Norwich; Wednesday, January 30, Mystic, Grange hall; Tuesday, February 19, Norwich; Wednesday, February 20, Mystic; Thursday, March 28, Norwich; Friday, March 29, Mystic; Tuesday, April 23, Norwich; Wednesday, April 24, Mystic.

NOTED BAPTIST LEADER WAS SPEAKER HERE

Rev. Alexander Hanna, D. D., grandson of Adoniram Judson, one of the most renowned of Baptist missionaries, was the preacher Sunday morning at the Central Baptist church and in the evening he spoke at the First Baptist church in New London.

Dr. Hanna is a nephew of Mrs. David A. Pitt, wife of the pastor of the Central church and was entertained while here at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Pitt.

Dr. Hanna has spent 14 years in Zurma where his grandfather was a pioneer missionary. He is now the only remaining member of the Judson family connected with the work in Burma. For several years he has combined the duties of president of Judson college and pastor of the English speaking Baptist church in Rangood. Dr. Hanna is spending a year of furlough in America, making his home in East Northfield, Mass., where he is active in connection with the Mount Herman school for boys founded by Dwight L. Moody.

EVERYMAN'S CLASS HAD CHARGE OF EVENING SERVICE

At Trinity Methodist church, following was the order of service for Sunday evening worship, under the auspices of Everyman's class. Robert Gray, soloist.

Stanton; offertory solo, "Refrained Thine Own from Weeping," Sullivan; hymn, No. 407; sermon "A Full Grown Man," Eph. 4:13, Rev. Joseph Cooper; hymn, No. 408; bepediction, postlude, March from Faust, Gounod.

H. Dwight Richardson is organist and Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham is choir leader.

For Fighting on High Street

Charged with engaging in a fight on High street about 3 o'clock Saturday night, Jacob Tempchin, 54, and Joseph Uzialko, 34, were arrested by Officers Pounch and Vuono and brought to police headquarters. Tempchin had a cut over the eye and Uzialko a cut in the top of his head which Dr. Louis T. Cassidy sewed up with several stitches.

One minute over half an hour has been added to the length of the day, as was very noticeable Sunday afternoon.

NEMROD GROTTO TO OCCUPY ITS FINE NEW HOME ON CLIFF STREET

Nemrod Grotto, M. O. V. P. E. R., is to enter upon a new and important stage in its history with its regular meeting this (Monday) evening when it will occupy for the first time the new Grotto home at 68 Cliff street, the former Zebulon R. Robbins residence.

This fine piece of property has been secured for the Grotto home through the formation of the Nemrod Building corporation, which purchased the building and the large plot of land which goes with it. For several weeks now members of the Grotto have been putting in many busy days and nights doing the work that was necessary in making some changes and improvements in the building to adapt it to the uses of the Grotto. This has included carpenter work in changing two rooms over to make a lodge rooms, paper hanging, painting, wiring and re-arrangement of the steam heating system. Among the Nemrod Grotton membership were found men in each of the trades who have given unstintedly of their time and labor to carry out the plans and when the regular Grotto meeting is held in the lodge room this (Monday) evening the members will find the building ready to receive them. A smoker to follow the business meeting will make the initial gathering in the new home.

The lodge room, to seat about 70, is on the second floor and has been made by turning two rooms into one. On the same floor is the directors' room and off the lodge room are the cloak room and candidates' room with two toilets, one of which is provided with a bath and shower.

On the main floor of the building a ladies' room is provided at the front and there are also a men's room, a pool room and kitchen with pantry and candy closet.

A large picture of the late George N. Chappell, the first monarch of Nemrod Grotto and its secretary for many years, has been hung in the main entrance hall.

On the top floor there are several rooms which can be adapted for general uses and a section of the cellar is to be finished off to provide another pool room.

It is in the future plans to build an addition of the rear of the building 40x60 to provide a large hall with bowling alleys in the basement.

The officers of Nemrod Building corporation are the following: President, Henry F. Gee; vice president, John M. Morton; secretary, Louis Brown; treasurer, J. L. Rush; assistant treasurer, Russell E. Crowell; directors, the officers and Nelson J. Ayling, Earl Mathewson, Elkin Smith, Harold H. Kramer, Fred G. Thumm, Everett S. Peckham, Raymond Grady, Harold Jensen, Joseph Wellington, Elmer E. Johnson and Harry Rosenberg. The house committee consists of Mr. Rosenberg, Mr. Wellington and Mr. Crowell and the building committee is Mr. Morton, Mr. Wellington and Mr. Rush.

The next big event for the Grotto is the grand monarch's ceremonial which is to be held here Feb. 16 and is to be made notable by the attendance of Grand Monarch Derthick of Brooklyn, N. Y. The cast for the degree work is to be supplied by Hejaz grotto of New Haven and assistant in the stunts is to be given by Monker grotto of Norwalk. Invitations have been sent to all the Grottoes in Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts and some in New York to attend the ceremonial and join in the parade for which a number of the Grottoes are to send their patrols.

SOAP SCULPTURE EXHIBIT AT SLATER MUSEUM

Slater Memorial museum has now on free exhibition a group of about 75 pieces of sculpture in soap selected from the 4,000 pieces entered in the fourth annual competition for the Proctor-Gamble prizes which were recently exhibited at Anderson gallery, New York. This exhibition includes sculptures entered by professionals and amateurs. There are several prize pieces. They will be shown from Jan. 21 to Feb. 4th. New York, California, Michigan, Connecticut, Indiana, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Oregon, Idaho, Washington, New Jersey, Illinois, Minnesota, Ohio West Virginia, Mississippi, North Dakota and Shanghai, China, were represented among the winners of the Proctor-Gamble prizes which were awarded by a jury including Huger Elliott, director of educational work of the Metropolitan Museum, Lorado Taft, Gutzon Borglum, Museums, art associations, libraries, art schools throughout the country have asked to be included in this year's circuit and there are ten groups of this sculpture traveling from city to city. Alfred G. Pelikan, director of the Milwaukee Art institute, says the medium of white soap for carving has proved of great value to developing a better appreciation and understanding of the plastic art. Thousands of boys and girls all over the country have been thrilled over their imaginative creations in three dimensions. John Cotton Dana, director of the Newark museum, says the exhibition of small sculpture in soap, giving opportunity for hundreds of artists to exhibit and offering prizes for talent is one of the most progressive and democratic methods devised by American business for encouraging American artists.

The exhibition will be open from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. on week days, from 2 to 4 p. m. on Sundays. Entrance is through Slater museum.

Large Audience at Y. M. C. A.

The spacious gymnasium of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. was again filled Sunday afternoon with several standing during the service.

After the scripture reading, prayer and hymn the attractive moving picture feature "Little Shepherd of Come" was shown in eight reels and made a fine impression.

Rev. Alexander H. Abbott of the United Congregational church made a brief and interesting address, telling about the picture and drawing several helpful lessons therefrom. Mr. Abbott held the close attention of the large and appreciative audience. Emery H. Davis acted as chairman of the meeting and Hugh Kinder furnished suitable music for the occasion. Gerald Payne operated the picture machine.

Next Sunday at 3.30 o'clock Gene Stratton Porter's beautiful story "The Harvester" will be shown in seven reels.

MOOSUP MAN SUES FOR $10,000 DAMAGES

Jerry A. Brouillard of Moosup is the plaintiff in a suit brought in the superior court for $10,000 damages against Michael Levine and the Max Gordon and Son corporation because of injuries Brouillard received on Oct. 25, 1928, when an automobile in which he was a passenger was struck by a machine driven by Levine.

The machine in which the Moosup man was a passenger had stopped on the Norwich-Montville road when it was hit by the Levine car and driven forward about 60 feet, it is claimed. Brouillard was knocked unconscious and sustained injuries which he claims are permanent. The Moosup machine, which belonged to Blanche Brouillard was driven at the time by Lionel R. Gauthier.

Colchester Student Editor.

Ernest E. Mintz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin A. Mintz, of Colchester, has been appointed editor-in-chief of the "Blackboard," the monthly publication of the students of Bay Path Institute, Springfield, Mass. Mr. Mintz is also librarian of the Men's Glee club and manager of the senior department basketball team. He is taking a business administration course.

JEWISH COMMUNITY UNITES FOR PALESTINE DRIVE

An organization meeting for the United Palestine Appeal was held Sunday evening at the Hebrew institute on Fairmount street, with attendance that included representatives of every local Jewish organization and United Palestine drive contributors in order to carry out a successful drive for 1929.

Dr. Louis I. Goldberg, of New Haven, regional director of the Southern New England Zionist bureau, was the principal speaker, addressing the meeting upon the importance of harmony in the Jewish community, and advance contributions of $2,200 towards the quota of $7,500 were announced by the different committees.

The mass meeting for the United Palestine Appeal is to be held next Sunday evening at the Community house. Two organizations which had arranged for meetings that would conflict with this time, have shown their fine spirit of unity by agreeing to make a change in their meetings. The B'nai Brith is to postpone its annual banquet to Feb. 10 and the Workingmen's circle is to hold a meeting with the national directors in the afternoon instead of in the evening.

It was announced that the principal speaker for the mass meeting will be Maurice Samuel, the well-known lecturer and the author of "You Gentiles" and "I, the Jew." One of the stars of the Moscow Art theatre, "Habimah," Miss Cahyele Grober, will entertain with Yiddish folk songs and Chassidic, or pietist, melodies, accompanied at the piano by Fola Kadison.

The following officers were elected: Chairman, Rabbi Joseph N. Rosenberg; vice chairmen, Michael Levin, Abraham Cramer; treasurer, Rabbi Max Stamm; secretary, M. I. Silverman; board of directors, David N. Gordon, Abraham Strom, Jacob R. Slosberg, Samuel Taylor, Harry M. Land, Simon Bloom, Morris Sussman, Oscar Silverman, Jacob Wechsler, Israel H. Mandel, Isaac Beckerstein, Philip Silverman, Aleck Silverman, Joseph Reichman, Max Hanover, Abner Schwartz, Dr. S. M. Goldberg, Louis Pollock, Joseph Schwartzburg, Mrs. J. N. Rosenberg, Mrs. Alex Pasnik, Mrs. Abraham Abelman, Mrs. Michael Levin, Miss Leah Bloom, Miss Rivy Rosenberg.

OBITUARY

Benjamin Padzieski

Benjamin Padzieski, World war veteran, of No. 102 Roath street, died at 5:15 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Rutland Heights U. S. Veterans' hospital, Rutland, Mass. He had been receiving treatment at the hospital for about two and one-half years. Mr. Padzieski was born in Poland 33 years ago, but had lived the greater part of his life in this city, where he was married to Miss Helen Wisneske, about six years ago. He is survived by his widow, and three brothers, living in Poland. Mr. Padzieski was a member of St. Joseph's church, and had been employed at the J. B. Martin Co. mill in this city before entering the Veterans' hospital. He was well known in this city and his many friends learned of his death with profound sorrow.

Frank J. Foote

After a brief illness, Frank J. Foote, 38, of Trading Cove, Montville, died Saturday morning in Bridgeport, where he had been working. Mr. Foote was taken suddenly ill a few days previous to his death and was taken to a Bridgeport hospital where he expired at 3 o'clock Saturday morning.

Mr. Foote was a native of Norwich and was the son of Joseph and Mary O'Donald Foote of Washington street. He was educated in the public schools here and about 14 years ago he was married to Miss Ida Haack at St. Patrick's rectory. He had lived in Norwich and Trading Cove all of his life, at the latter place since he was married. Mr. Foote was a polisher by trade.

Surviving him are his wife, his parents and two daughters, Anna and Margaret, and a son, Frank, all of Trading Cove. He also leaves three sisters, Mrs. William Donohue, of New York, Mrs. Edward Belair and Mrs. Blatherwick, of Hartford, and a brother, George Foote, of Brooklyn. He attended St. John's church, Montville, and was a member of the polishers' union in this city. News of his death was received with sincere regret by his many friends.

Mrs. Frank B. Antz

A telegram was received in Norwich Sunday announcing the death of Rosina Sevin, 91, widow of Frank B. Antz, formerly of Bozrah, and well known in this city, at the home of her grandson, Samuel Antz, in Baldwin, L. I., Saturday morning. Mrs. Antz was born in New York city, the daughter of David and Rosina Sevin and in her youth came to Bozrah, where she lived until her marriage with Frank B. Antz. She then returned with her husband to New York, where she has since lived, but always returned to Fitchville for the summer months to visit with her sister, the late Mrs. Josephine Allyn, until her health failed, a few years ago. Mrs. Antz is survived by two grandsons, Douglas Antz, of Freeport, L. I., and Samuel Antz, Baldwin, L. I., a granddaughter, Rosina Antz, Baldwin, and four great grandchildren. She was a sister of the late N. Douglas Sevin and of the late John F. Sevin of this city. The death of Mrs Antz will be regretted by the older residents of the city, among whom she was well and favorably known.

HOURIGAN POST DANCE WITH PATRIOTIC CEREMONIES

Between 300 and 400 persons attended the first annual dance given Saturday evening at the Wauregan hotel by Richard E. Hourigan post, No. 894, V. F. W., which proved a decided success. A delightful dance programme was furnished by Taumm's Hilltop orchestra and at 9:45 o'clock the ceremony of posting the colors was carried out, with the salute to the flag by all, and the selection on the bugle by Emil Lavigne. The affair was attended by representatives from every veterans' organization in the city. The post is indebted to the Wauregan hotel, which donated the use of the hall, the merchants for programme advertisements and those who purchased tickets. The hall was attractive with American flags and the post colors.

INSTALLED PASTOR AT FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH

Rev. Carl Storek was installed as pastor of the First Lutheran church, Franklin street, at a special installation service at the church Sunday evening, performed by Rev. William Meyer of Waterbury, president of the Connecticut conference of Lutheran churches, assisted by Rev. Prof. Christian Krahmer of Wagner college, Staten Island. A large number of parishioners were present at the service, which was given in English and German and during which greetings were brought by Rev. Mr. Wagner from the Connecticut conference. He also spoke forcefully on ministers' duties.

At the conclusion of the service, which was given in a very impressive manner, Rev. Mr. Storek addressed the assemblage with words of appreciation and expressed his hopes for a long and continued useful ministry to the church as well as to the community. Rev. Mr. Storek said that the First Lutheran church has enlarged its programme and tasks. The United Lutheran church has left the entire field of Norwich and vicinity to the First Lutheran church, which expects to take care of it in the German as well as English language. The First Lutheran church is anxious, he said, to cooperate with the Swedish Lutheran church and other churches located within the city limits in the most cordial way.

The order of the exercises for the day began with the regular morning service at 10:30, with a sermon in English by the pastor and one in German by Prof. Krahmer. With the service concluded the new church council members were installed, the new ushers introduced and the new members greeted. This was followed by an enjoyable social hour in the basement of the church, when a delightful programme of music was provided by the Maennerchor orchestra and dainty refreshments furnished by the Ladies' Aid society were served by young women of the church.

In the social hour Prof. Krahmer was presented a gift from the Ladies' Aid society, the presentation being made by Mrs. Gustav Thumm, and at the evening service he also received a gift from the church council. These gifts were given to Prof. Krahmer, in appreciation for what he had done for the church while it was without a pastor for a period of eleven months. On several occasions he acted as supply pastor at the church. Rev. Mr. Meyer, at the installation service, also read a letter with greetings from Dr. Ellis Burgess of Pittsburgh, president of the Pittsburgh synod, to which Rev. Mr. Storek belonged before entering upon his pastorate in this city.

Rev. Mr. Storek obtained his spiritual training at Luther seminary, St. Paul, Minn., and at Wartburg seminary, Dubuque, Iowa, from which he graduated. After completing his course at the latter seminary Rev. Mr. Storek took a post-graduate course at Chicago seminary and later was in charge of a mission at Toledo, Ohio. He has held pastorates at St. Paul church, Sterling, Ill., and at St. Johns Evangelical Lutheran church at Natrona, Penn., from which he came to this city after several years service. The only reason for his coming to Norwich, Rev. Mr. Storek said, was because of his desire to unite the two Lutheran churches at Natrona. In order to open the way for the merger of the two churches it was necessary for the pastors of the two churches to resign to allow a neutral minister to take charge. For that reason he has changed pastorates.

While pastor of the Natrona church Rev. Mr. Storek was a greatly interested in boys work and as a result organized a Boy Scout troop. Rev. Mr. Storek was also teacher in a teachers training school at Tarentum, Penn., for Sunday school work, and was co-editor of a church paper of the Pittsburgh synod. Since his ordination as a minister in 1911 Rev. Mr. Storek has been engaged in bi-lingual work.

Report of Stolen Automobile

A report was received at 8 o'clock Sunday evening at local police headquarters that a Velie sedan, Reg. N-3094, had been stolen in New London early that evening. The sedan is a 1925 model and is painted blue.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Miss Marian Lenhert, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was the week end guest of Miss Phyllis J. Brewer, of 168 West Thames street.

Steamer Adriatic, on which Prof. Thomas G. Brown, of Otis street is lecturer, reached Funchal at the week end.

Miss Alif Stephens, of Pinehurst will go to Boston Tuesday for several days' stay.

Norwich friends learn that the wedding of E. Winslow Williams, now of Lancaster, Penn., and Miss Burrowes, of Jacksonville, Florida will take place Saturday, Feb. 2nd.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Carpenter of Newton street have been in New York since Thursday, on their way south for a visit with their daughter.

NORWICH TOWN

METHODIST PASTOR'S WIFE CONDUCTS SUNDAY SERVICES

Helen Haviland Potter took the place of her husband, Rev. George Warren Potter in the pulpit of the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church, Sunday morning and preached on the theme "Come—Tarry—Go". Rev. Mr. Potter is confined to his bed by illness. Mrs. Potter is an ordained deaconess of the Methodist church and a graduate of Blakeslee training school connected with the school of theology at Yale. Under the direction of Mrs. Lewis Aldrich the Junior Choir sang an anthem "Father Divine," Stanton W. Brown taught the pastor's class of young men in the church school.

The Junior Epworth league meeting was led by Margaret Phillips and Norma Rose. The meeting was in charge of Florence M. Bennett, superintendent.

"Seeing Good In All Men" was the topic at the C. E. meeting, in charge of Mrs. William Weaver and Lewis Aldrich. Dr. James H. Floyd, the scheduled leader, was called last night to New York by the illness of his wife.

"The Changing Congo" was the subject of the stereopticon lecture given in the evening by Mrs. Potter, again substituting for her husband. Among the 60 slides shown were some most interesting. Ralph Smith operated the stereopticon machine. The junior choir sang the anthem, "Now the Day is Over."

The assistant Cubmaster took charge of the Wolf Cubs, Saturday morning on account of the illness of the Cubmaster, Rev. Mr. Potter. There was an attendance of 17. Following the opening ceremony the Cubs went outside and enjoyed crows and crabes and streets and lanes. After the game period the cubs went inside again and a number passed tests. Ellis Bentley completed his first star tests and was awarded the star. Those passing test were Clarence Smith, Walter Kelley, Culver Floyd, Charles Browning, Frederick Ross, Ellis Bentley, John Browning and John Gallagher.

NURMI DISPLAYS BRILLIANT SPEED AS HE SETS THREE NEW RECORDS

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP)—A trifle more bald than when he left here nearly four years ago and with a little less spring in his strange hitching stride, Paavo Nurmi, Finland's phantom of the tracks, has made a successful start on his second campaign of record breaking in American indoor meets. Three unofficial world's marks fell before the pace of the Finnish marvel in his first race of the new tour at the Brooklyn college games last night when he outdistanced a fair field to win a special event at the odd distance of 2,000 yards.

At the end, Paavo led Ove Anderson, another point winner for Finland in the Olympic games, by fully 100 yards. The time was 7:43 2-5, more than two seconds better than the best previous mark, made by Nurmi in 1925. Times were taken at six points along the route and two besides the final one went down as new records. At 2,500 metres he was timed in 6:58 and at 1 5-8miles the watch snapped at 7:23 2-5. Neither is a standard distance.

As the fractional times indicate, four years have taken something from his speed at shorter distances. Paavo no longer can run a mile in 4:12, but his vague plans seem to show that he is going out for new and longer worlds to conquer. His next start probably will be at the William C. Prout Memorial games at Boston next Saturday but just what he expects to do there is unknown. The taciturn Finn and his silent American representative, Hugo Quist, have said little about his plans, but the indications point to races at two miles or more, winding up with a shot at the one hour record, set by Bouin of France 15 years ago.

Last night Paavo started at a slow pace and was more than 15 seconds behind the world's records for the first two fractional distances for which recognized marks exist, 2,000 meters and 1 1-4 miles. Then he consulted his wrist watch which guides his pace and let out a few notches. He was only eight seconds behind the mark at 1 1-2 miles and kept coming closer to the records up to the finish.

Perhaps more interesting from an American viewpoint, was the showing of Gus Moore, young Brooklyn Negro who holds the national cross-country championship. For more than a mile he followed in the wake of the peerless Paavo, matching stride for stride, a yard or two behind. In the last six laps the race began to tell on him and he dropped back rapidly, finishing a poor third. But meeting Nurmi should be a good lesson for Moore and better things may be expected of him in future races.

Bob McAllister, the "Man of Destiny" of the Olympic sprinters, and Phil Edwards of New York university, leading middle distance runner of the Canadian Olympic team, provided the other highlights of the meet. McAllister by a victory in the sprint series and Edwards when he finished third in the historic Brooklyn college thousand.

The flying cop made a long stride along the road to a comeback which brought him from retirement, when he downed Karl Wildermuth of Georgetown. Jim Daley of Holy Cross and Jimmy Pappas, formerly of Princeton, in two out of three races. The 100-meter event marked McAllister's first triumph indoors over Wildermuth and he made it more complete by repeating in the 100-yard race where Wildermuth finished last. At 75 yards the Georgetown boy's early speed was too great and he won before McAllister's finishing burst got under way.

Edwards, making his first start of the year and only recently recovered from "flu," lost the 1,000 by poor judgment. The others allowed him to set the pace and he set a slow one, seeming content to hold the lead instead of going out to kill off the opposition. The result was that at the finish he got a stiff challenge from Sam Martin, Boston A. A. star, and while he was trying unsuccessfully to fight it off, a dark horse, James Kennedy, of Georgetown, came up to beat them both at the tape. Martin was second by inches while Edwards was a foot or two farther back.

PIRATES BEAT N. Y. AMERICANS IN VERY ROUGH ENCOUNTER

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP)—In a game which started smoothly but developed into one of the roughest seen here in some time, the Pittsburgh Pirates took the measure of the New York Americans by a 2 to 0 count in a National Hockey league game tonight. Fourteen penalties including two majors were called in the game.

All of the scoring took place in the second period.

Hib Milks opened the action just nine seconds after the start getting a long drive past Worters on the first shot. The New York goalie lost the puck when it bounced high in the air from his pads and it dropped behind him into the net. Frank Frederickson scored the second near the middle of the frame, making a brilliant individual dash to beat Worters.

Just after he scored, Frederickson collided with Leo Reise and had to be taken from the ice with a bad cut on his right cheek. Five stitches were required to close the angular gash made by Reise's stick.

MEHLHORN ESTABLISHES RECORD FOR 72 HOLES

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 20—(AP)—"Wild" Bill Mehlhorn, established a world's record on a 72 hole par course here today to win the annual El Paso golf tournament, making the remarkable score of 271.

Bobby Cruickshank came in second with 277; Tony Manero and Al Espinosa were tied for third place with 278; Harry Cooper was fourth with 280 and Al Watrous was next with 282.

BACON TAKES CLOSE GAME FROM LEBANON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

LEBANON, Jan. 20.—The Bacon Academy basketball team defeated the Lyman Memorial High school team in a close game at the Lebanon town hall, Saturday evening by a score of 18-16. The game was a fast one from start to finish. The winning basket was scored in the first half, since 11 points were made by each team in the last half. The high scorers of the evening were Polakevich and Abel, each of them making 12 points. If the Bacon Academy boys win the return game to be played in Colchester next Saturday evening, this will be the fourth consecutive year that they have defeated the Lyman High school team.

GUARDSMEN TAKE ONE-SIDED GAME FROM S. KINGSTON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 20.—In the series of Saturday night basketball games this season at the state armory on Dixon street in the double header the basketball team of Battery E, 243rd R. I. C. A. C. (H. D.) defeated the South Kongston team by the rather one-sided score of 59 to 21. In the preliminary game the Battery Seconds were also victorious over the Stonington High School Seconds by the score of 22 to 14. Dancing followed the games until midnight. The scores and lineups:

CHRISTNER MAY SPILL THE BEANS FOR SHARKEY

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(AP)—K. O. Christner, the big rubber tire man from Akron, Ohio gets a chance this week to throw a monkey wrench into the machinery set up for the Jack Sharkey-Young Stribling bout at Miami Beach Sept. 27. He battles Sharkey in a ten round match in Madison Square Garden this Friday night.

Christner, the slightly bald slugger, is in a perfect spot. He jumped into national prominence with his surprising defeat of Hansen, who was being groomed at that time to succeed to the heavyweight throne Gene Tunney vacated. Christner's pile-driving right made Knute forget all about his heavyweight aspirations at least for some time to come.

Now the Akronite gets his first Garden "shot" against the Boston sailor and many experts believe he is most likely to win the heavyweight title.

The chances are William F. Carey and his Garden associates will not rest easily until after this battle is over. If then. The Garden is promoting the Stribling-Sharkey affair and a defeat, or unimpressive showing by Sharkey would be inconvenient to say the least. The Boston sailor will be making his second start since he recovered from a leg injury he suffered last fall. In his first bout after he returned to the ring he appeared to little advantage in outpointing Arthur Dekuh, giant New York Italian, at Boston.

Fistic followers, however, have established hi mas an overwhelming favorite to win from Christner. They figure he has too much at stake to falter against an unknown. There's his $100,000 guarantee for the Stribling fight, for instance.

COUGARS COME OUT OF SLUMP TO BEAT TORONTO

DETROIT, Jan. 20—(AP)—The Detroit Cougars emerged from a slump in whic hthey dropped three games and ained one tie by scoring a 2 to 1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs in a National Hockey league game here tonight.

The Leafs presented a tight defense and the Cougar passing game was almost ineffectual but George Hay and Carson Cooper made up the lack by scoring single handed. Hay opened the scoring in the middle of the first period when his hard shot beat Lorne Chabot. The Maple Leafs attacked viciously in the second period and in less than four minutes Bailey tied the count on a pass from Cox.

Cooper again gave the Cougars the lead when he hooked one in from the side later in the same period.

The defensive strength of the teams was about equal. Dolson having 29 saves to 26 for Goalie Chabot of the Leafs.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

The following are the rules for selecting teams for the Connecticut Interscholastic basketball tournaments March 15 and 16, for Class A and B at Yale university and for C and D schools at Storrs:

1—A team must have won at least six games in or above its group.

2—Only teams played in its group will be considered.

3—Entire season's record must be presented.

4—No games played after March 2 will be counted.

5—Games won in the A and B class at home count 5 points.

6—Games in the C and D class at home count 3 points, away 4.

7—Teams will be selected in order of highest percentage.

Chapman Tech quintet, present leader in the Eastern Conn.-Western Rhode Island Interscolastic conference, meets the two last-place teams this week, the Academy Tuesday night and Stonington Friday, at home and away, respectively. This looks like clear sailing for Tech.

If the Academy had any hope at all of getting to New Haven for the Yale tourney it vanished Saturday night with the lacing at the hands of Torrington. It was the worst drubbing that an Academy court team ever got.

ACADEMY PLAYS THREE STIFF GAMES THIS WEEK

The Academy will attempt to recover some of the prestige lost Saturday night at Torrington in three games this week. Tuesday night at New London in a conference game the "Domesticated Wildcats" tackle Chapman Tech, present leader of the league and possessing a record of ten victories in eleven starts this year, being unbeaten against scholastic competition; Friday night at the Y gym against Rockville High and Saturday night against Pratt High of Essex at Essex.

Pratt fell a victim to the Academy last Monday by two points, 19 to 17 and the locals will have to step to repeat down in the country town. Rockville and the Red and White should make a fairly even go.

The team is still very raw and needs a lot of work before it can compare with most of the teams on the schedule.

OIMEN SETS NEW SKI RECORD FOR GARY, IND.

GARY, Ind., Jan. 20—(AP)—Casper Oimen of the Norge Ski club, Chicago, won top honors with two graceful record breaking leaps at the Ogden Dunes club ski meet before 18,000 spectators today.

Oimen won first place in the class A contest with a jump of 166 feet, which beat the old meet mark by 38 feet.

Guttom Paelsen, also of the Norge Ski club, won first place in the Class B competition with a 162 foot jump.

TORONTO WOMAN WINS BAHAMA GOLF CROWN

NASSAU, Bahamas, Jan. 20—(AP)—Ada McKenzie of Toronton; former Canadian champion, defeated Marie Jenney of New York, former Metropolitan champion, 4 up and 3 to go in yesterday's finals of the women's golf championship of the Bahamas.

In the semi-finals Miss McKenzie defeated Miss Higbee 7-5, and Miss Jenney defeated Miss Sherwood 2-1.

The outstanding feature of the play was Miss McKenzie's exhibition of consistent golf throughout the tournament. In the Jenney-Sherwood match the latter was five up on the first nine, but Miss Jenney put on a comeback that won the match for her on the 17th green.

PENN AND COLUMBIA AR E FAVORED IN COLLEGE LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—&—Given two weeks to look over the field, the experts have nominated Pennsylvania and Columbia to fight it out for the eastern intercollegiate basketball league championship. By more or less general consent they've decided that the other four members of the circuit might as well quit now so far as title consideration goes.

The experts have been known to be wrong—and not solely within the memory of the oldest inhabitant either. A tany rate, Yale, Dartmouth, Cornell and Princeton have taken no steps to retire gracefully from the championship fight and leave the field to Penn and Columbia.

Lindsey Increases Lead.

The game scores of today's block:

Knox: 203, 189, 206, 153, 210, 202, 165 total 1358.

ACADEMY SHOWS LITTLE, IF ANY, BASKETBALL AGAINST TORRINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

TORRINGTON, Jan. 20—Norwich Free Academy's basketball team went down to decisive defeat before Torrington high's powerful quintet here Saturday night, 51 to 11. The local boys always were ahead, leading 24 to 8 at the half and increasing their margin in the final two quarters. Norwich scored but three points, on foul shots, after intermission. Torrington was simply too good for the green Hose City five.

Torrington used its second team a great distance of the way. Donahue, a left guard, was the leading scorer for the home team with seven field goals for 14 points while the three Norwich field goals were scored by Barber, Dickerman and Fagan.

This was Torringtons eighth victory in nine starts while for Norwich, it was the second defeat in four games.

STUDENT COUNCIL TRYS TO OUST COACH BAGSHAW

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 20—(AP)—A deadlock which can be settled only by Dr. M. Lyle Spencer, president of the University of Washington, made doubtful the status of Enoch Bagshaw, whom the student body's governing board has virtually dismissed.

Although the board of control insists that its action is final, the faculty athletic committee, which heretofore has passed on all matters affecting coaches, says Bagshaw is head football coach and will remain in that position until the expiration of his contract three years hence.

The committee last night attempted to affect a compromise, to which Bagshaw agreed, unde rwhich an assistant backfield coach would be selected by the board and added to the staff.

The board refused to compromise, appointed a committee to confer with Dr. Spencer, another committee to draw up a resolution setting forth its grievances against the coach and named Smith Troy, president of the student body, to confer with a lawyer as to its next legal step.

Under normal circumstances, the student board, through its graduate manager, employs, pays and removes coaches, the faculty athletic committee approving all its actions. When differences arise the president of the university effects a compromise.

But in this instance there were no signs of compromised.

Arguments over Bagshaw arose before he ever was employed. He was brought here from Everett high school, 30 miles north of Seattle, where he taught school. His supporters then pointed to the championship football teams he was producing year after year and to his record as a stellar Washington halfback. His opponents said a high school coach was not a university coach and that he was too strong an advocate of straight football that wins by punching drives while more open formations were the coming style.

Coaches who have worked with him and football players who have played under him are his chief supporters. Outstanding among them are George Wilson, the first half back of all-American calibre Bagshaw produced and Chuck Carroll, all-American halfback last year.

His opponents, led by every student member of the board of control say that he is not popular on the campus or with the fans and does not inspire high school players to come to Washington.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

The Cooks, those of the New York Rangers, Bun and Bill, have a younger brother in "Bud", who is stepping right along in the hockey world.

He is now connected with the Oakland, Cal., sextet.

Pete Latzo, the fighter, used to be a ball player.

He's a second baseman.

Tris Speaker is thinking of taking him south with his Newark Bears for a tryout this spring.

Only one player on both the Academy and Torrington failed to score Saturday, but they were too many players and points on the Torrington side?

CAREY DISPLACES SCHAAF IN COLLEGIATE SCORING

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP)—While Joey Schaaf, Pennsylvania's high scoring ace, was idle this week, Paul Carey, Princeton's sophomore flash, went into the lead for individual scoring honors in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball league. Carey has compiled 25 points on five field goals and 15 fouls. A point back of him is his teammate, Ernie Dikovics, and Fred Linehan, Yale's center. Mike Miles, Tiger guard, is fourth with 22 points and Schaaf, last week's leader, fifth with 21.

Carey has a wide lead in foul goals with 15; Dikovics, Miles and Schaaf each has tossed in nine field goals for leadership in that department, while Miles and Deyer, of Yale, are tied. Each has committed ten personal fouls, the high-water mark.

DESCHAMPS ELECTED CAPTAIN OF TRINITY BASKETBALL

HARTFORD, Jan. 20—(AP)—Norman Deschamps a member of the junior class has been elected captain of the Trinity college basketball team. Deschamps was elected just before the Worcester Tech game at Worcester Saturday night. He is a regular guard on the varsity and he succeeds Ernest Hallstrom, who was elected captain at the close of last season and then forced to drop out of school because of ill health.

KAPLAN TO FIGHT M'GRAW AT WATERBURY

WATERBURY, Jan. 20—(AP)—Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of Meriden, former featherweight champion, and Phil McGraw, of Detroit, tonight signed for a ten round bout at the Waterbury state armory, January 31. The bout was scheduled early last summer and again in the fall, but Matchmaker Anthony Paolillo, of New Haven, was forced to postpone the match indefinitely. Matchmaker Paolillo will promote the bout in this city for the Wooster A. C.

INDIANS AND REDS IN TIE IN CAN-AM LOOP

BOSTON, Jan. 20—(AP)—The Springfield Indians and the Providence Reds shared the top of the Canadian-American league standing today with 23 points apiece. Both teams have played 20 games. The Boston Tigers spurted during the week, tying Springfield and defeating Philadelphia last night, and nabbed in third place. Last week the Boston sextet occupied fifth place in the standing.

Philadelphia and New Haven were tied for fourth place in the six-club circuit and Newark was still at the bottom of the list, where it has been most of the season.

LA FLEUR WINS ANOTHER RICH PRIZE FOR FRANCE

NICE, France, Jan. 20.—&—Arthur Vell-Picard's staunch five year old jumper, La Fleur, is making a collection of the Riviera's racing prizes while his aged owner lies ill in bed. La Fleur won the Grand Prix de Nice today after capturing the Grand Prix De Monte Carlo last Sunday. Today's race was over a three and three-quarters mile course and was worth $20,000 to the winner. La Fleur beat seven rivals in easy fashion, leading his stablemate, Saint Bernard, by two lengths at the finish. Colombo, owned by Rene Grillet was third. La Fleur was at 7 to 5 in the betting.

ITALY EXPECTS TO PROVIDE KEEN TENNIS OPPOSITION

MONTE CARLO, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Baron Henri De Morpurgo served notice on the tennis world today that Italy intends to repeat her Davis cup success of last year when the Italians reached the interzone finals. Morpurgo, ace of the Italian Davis cup team, defeated Jacques Brugnon, one of France's musketeers, in the finals of the hard court tournament, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2. De Morpurgo never flashed better tennis on European courts. He simply smothered Brugnon. Italy's Davis cup chances are further enhanced by the improvement in the play of De Stefani, another member of the team. De Stefani reached the semi-finals of the hard court tournament despite the fact that some of the greatest of European players were entered.

MILLARD OUTSTANDING STAR IN SWIMMING TOURNAMENT

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Nelson Millard's fine performance in establishing a new intercollegiate record in the 200 yard breast stroke swim at the Yale-Penn meet Saturday was the outstanding event of the third week of competition in the intercollegiate swimming association's campaign. By registering 2.34.2-5 the Yale junior of Rochester, N. Y., cut three-fifths of a second from the old record established by Walter Schott of Williams last March.

Activity in the I. S. A. swimming and water polo race will be discontinued until Feb. 8, because of the mid-year examination periods.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

EAST PROVIDENCE DRIVER TOO SPEEDY TO SUIT LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Jan. 20—Fred L. Haskins, of East Providence, R. I., paid a fine of $100 and costs of $11.96 imposed by Judge Heald in the borough court, Saturday morning, for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. An automobile operated by Haskins ran into a bank near the Scelsa place on the River road, Friday evening. The machine was badly damaged, but the operator escaped uninjured.

Albert H. Brodeur was fined $20 and costs for beating up his ten year old son, George Brodeur. The boy had several marks on his head and neck, alleged to have been made by the father striking the lad with a rope. The father admitted the fault, but said that he lost his head when he started to chastise the boy for numerous offenses which he had recently committed. The arrest was made upon complaint of the Connecticut Humane society, which is now arranging to have the boy committed to some proper custodial agency.

George E. Knapp, a former resident, now of Hartford, was visiting friends in town Saturday.

Register For Silk Mill

Several young men and women have signified their desire to obtain employment in the proposed new silk mill by registering in the office of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company. It seems probable that a new industry can be induced to locate here and the number registered thus far indicate that there will be no difficulty in securing help. The new mill would employ about 50 hands to start with and gradually increase this number to 100. The Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company is interested in getting the new concern, which comes from New Jersey, to locate here.

Mrs. Clarence Glazier is ill with grip at her home on East Main street.

There are a number of cases of influenza in this town and the attendance at the local schools has been considerably reduced in consequence.

STONINGTON

NINA COUNCIL K. OF C. ELECTS JOHN P. LOPEZ G. K.

Nina council, No. 43, Knights of Columbus held its annual meeting in the K. of C. home during the week and elected John P. Lopez grand knight; William L. Shannon, deputy grand knight; Mathew T. Leahy, treasurer; Richard E. Fritz, recording secretary; Frank Mathews, advocate; Jease E. Ponte, chancellor; Joseph De Braggs, warden; Charles J. Farman, inside guard; A. E. Cravinck, outside guard; John Amaral. Past Grand Knight John Amaral presided at the meeting.

The board of relief, James Cooper, Lorenzo D. Fairbrother and David W. Shaw will hold the first in a series of cittings beginning next week to hear and act upon appeals that may be made from the doings of the assessors. Ten sittings are to be held by the board of relief in the new town hall.

Frank F. Dodge, president of the Atwood Machine Co., was chosen a member of the board of managers of Westerly branch of the Industrial Trust Co., at the annual meeting held in Providence on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Bradley left Sunday for Boston and wil skill from that port on a six weeks trip to the Holy Land.

York Estate to Widow.

The will of the late Edward Palmer York, of New York and Stonington on file for probate in New York with Surrogate John P. O'Brien, leaves his entire property to his widow, Muriel Gould York, of 116 East 56th street of New York. In addition to his wife Mr. York is survived by three children.

WESTERLY

SATURDAY NIGHT RAID ON FRUIT STORE FRUITLESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 20—Another moistureless liquor raid was made in Pawcatuck Saturday night in the business section when Stonington town raiding officers were unable to secure any wet goods. The raiding officers visited the newly opened fruit store of Frank Juliano, at 20 Mechanics street. Complaints had been received by the town officials that liquor was being sold there and Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna issued a search warrant, giving it to Patrolman A. R. Sheldon and Constable Albert D. Hill for service. The officers visited the store between 8 and 9 o'clock and made a thorough search of the premises, but failed to find any liquor.

Dr. John Champlin returned to Westerly Sunday night on the Colonial express from West Palm Beach, Fla., after a week's visit. He reported the thermometer at 89 the day of his departure from Florida.

BURGLARS WERE FUSSY IN SELECTING CEOTHING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Jan. 20—Patrolman Robert Kessel was called early Saturday morning to investigate a break in the store of the Westerly Clothing company, Toscano block, 23 Canal street, when it was found that some $300 worth of clothing had been taken from the store. The break was reported by Resident Manager Mrs. Mary Prew upon opening the store Saturday morning. Four suits of clothing and two overcoats, all of the best grade carried were gone. Care had been taken to conceal some of the clothing discarded and apparently there had been taken in selecting the clothing carried away as those articles undesired had been thrown out of sight and the dust covers replaced upon the garment racks. Officer Kessel, in making his rounds about midnight had thrown his spot light into the store and looked about and at that time there was nothing observed to show that goods had been disturbed.

At the rear of the store a window pane was found to have been broken and the catch released, there was a stone offset rear wall above a narrow alleyway and a trellis and shrubs formed a convenient protecting screen to cover up the movements of anyone below. It was but recently that a lot of refuse lumber which had filled the alleyway had been removed and permitted an entrance to the alley. It is the opinion of the police and manager that the work was that of strangers.

John Jordan, sentenced to twenty days in New London county jail the first of the week, was ordered paroled Saturday by Judge William A. Wilcox of Stonington town court and was permitted to return to his Westerly home during good behavior.

Hopkinton Turkeys Second

Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck, returned home Saturday from New York where he obtained second premium on his strain of Narragansett turkeys, raised on his Hopkinton farm. The birds of the winner of first premium had just a little more red in their plumage and Judge Wilcox's birds were just nosed out of first place.

At Boston Meeting

Frank E. Collins of Pawcatuck, has returned, having as a member of Palestine Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., of Providence, attended Friday night, the annual meeting of Aleppo Temple of the Mystic Shrine, held in Boston Garden, North Station, with a record-breaking attendance of 12,000 Shriners. At the boxing and wrestling bouts which followed he saw in action Wrestling Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg, world champion, demonstrate his flying tackle.

Leaves for Newport

Mrs. Michael Curtin returned Friday to her home in Westerly from a stay with her husband, who has been a special policeman at the Fisher building, in process of erection in Detroit. Saturday Mrs. Curtin visited relatives in New London, returning to Westerly and proceeding to Newport to make her home with her son, who resides there.

To Inspect New Station

Plans are being perfected by the commites of Pawcatuck Fire District for the building and equipping of the new Liberty street station for a public inspection of the building and equipment, Wednesday, the reception to begin at 2 p. m. Albert G. Martin of Pawcatuck is the chairman of the committee in charge, with Judge Albert R. Stillman, clerk. At 3 p. m. it is planned to have a presentation of a flag by a patriotic organization. The P. S. Barber Hose company, occupants of the old Liberty street quarters, which will occupy the new station, will have their company reception the following week.

The following transfers have been recorded in the office of Westerly town clerk: Jan. 18. Easement Louise A. Nichols, Mary L. Nichols, Florence C. Nichols, Bertha L. Nichols and Charles H. Nichols to South County Public Service company, rights for electric light and power lines to enter lands of grantors from lands now or formerly of Simon P. Nichols and continuing to lands now or formerly of Harry J. Nichols, crossing the highway.

Jan. 19. Mariano Celico to Mariano Celico and husband as joint tenants and not as tenants in common, land with buildings and improvements on the north side of Oak street adjoining lands of Joseph Gabrielle.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown was confined to his home on Pleasant street all day Saturday by illness. Lieut. George H. Champlin and Officer Robert M. Kessel were in charge of police matters. With the illness of Chief Brown three of the regular department members were confined to their homes by illness, Joseph Owens who is recovering from an illness of a week or ten days and Patrolman John Beede, who was taken ill Friday.

Among the activities of the Westerly police department for the coming year, with cost included in the budget for the police department estimates, is reported that of having the members of the police department take physical training three days a week for half hour periods at the gymnasium of Westerly Public Library, under direction of Instructor Joel P. Sherman, who has charge of a gymnasium class and is coach of Westerly high school baseball team as well as W. H. S. instructor. It is possible that Town Solicitor John Ferguson may address the police department on the subject of their legal rights and duties.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Joseph Fraser

Following an illness which became acute last season while at her summer home, Laconia, N. Y., Mrs. Jane B. Moir Fraser, wife of Town Councilman Joseph Fraser, died at her home, 45 Summer street, Saturday. Born in Dalbeatie, Scotland, the daughter of John and Barbara Brebner Moir Mrs. Fraser made her home in Westerly for the past thirty years.

Out of respect to her husband, Council President Horace E. Burdick Sunday declared the budget meeting of the Westerly town council, scheduled for Monday night, postponed to Wednesday evening.

William Henry Opie

William Henry Opie, 86, died Saturday in Hopkinton. He was a well known resident of the Chase Hill section where he had lived for over 40 years. Mr. Opie was born in England, but came to this country when a young man. He was twice married, his first wife dying many years ago. He is survived by his second wife and six children.

FUNERALS

Mrs. James Dowd

The funeral of Mrs. Kate D. Dowd was held at 8:30 Saturday morning from her home, 18 Chester avenue. The high mass of requie mwas celebrated at 9 o'clock at Church of the Immaculate Conception by Rev. J. F. Vincent, S. M. During the service, Martin H. Spellman sang, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." Burial was at St. Michael's new cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Fr. Vincent. The bearers were C. Leo Higgins, James W. McCormick, Edward J. Butler, Fred Ahern, Philip Dowd and Samuel Bean. Mrs. Dowd, who was Miss Kate D. Glavin, was the widow of James Dowd, who died three years ago, and mother of James E. Dowd, professional at Winnapaug Golf club, whose funeral was held a week ago Friday.

Stanton S. Thompson

Saturday afternoon at Thompson's Corners the funeral of Stanton Sheffield Thompson, was held at his home. There were beautiful floral tributes.

Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor of Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church officiated. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. The bearers were James B. Thompson, Ernest Segar, Charles Segar, William C. Clarke, Ernest Saunders and Arthur Champlin. Burial was in River Bend cemetery.

Sunday guests at Liberty street lockup. Pawcatuck, were three men arrested Saturday night by Patrolman A. R. Sheldon and Constable Hill. Two of the men are understood to have created a disturbance on West Broad street by engaging in a heated argument while under the influence of liquor. The other, a resident of West Broad street, was arrested for indecent exposure. All will be tried this (Monday) morning in the town court of Stonington.

Westerly Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi, is a passenger on the Italian line steamship Conte Biancamino, from Genoa, Jan. 11th, stopping at Naples and Gibraltar, and due to dock this (Monday) afternoon at Pier 95, North River, New York.

BUSINESS AND TRADE MADE STEADY PROGRESS DURING THE PAST WEEK

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP)—Business and trade made progress last week, with practically no developments to mar the bright outlook for the next few months. Metal industries, particularly steel, again led the advance. Wholesale trade made fair progress for this time of year. Owing to the severe weather in various sections, retail trade reports lacked uniformity.

While credit conditions remained far from normal, and an eventual readjustment was generally regarded as necessary, little concern was felt for the immediate future. One economist pointed out that we have witnessed a period of declining business in 1927, when interest rates were low, and rapid acceleration of business in 1928 when interest rates in the past have eventually led to a serious recession in business.

The general view taken of the present situation has been that the momentum gathered by business late last year will keep it at a high level for several months to come, and by the end of that time, bankers hope that some adjustment of the credit situation will have been made, although there seems to be no definite views as to how this will be accomplished. The rates for commercial paper were unchanged last week, although there was a further firming of bankers' acceptance rates. The American acceptance council reported, however, that this form of credit reached unprecedented volume in December, and predicted no serious falling off pending the movement to broaden the acceptance market instituted by the federal reserve bank.

Steel operations expanded slightly during the week, mill operations reaching 83 per cent of capacity at Chicago, and sheet mills at Youngstown, operating at capacity. While orders from the automobile trade showed a little, this caused no apprehension, as the automotive trade is rapidly getting into its unusually heavy production programme for 1929. Orders for railway equipment and heavy construction were large. Republic Iron and Steel company, the first of the larger producers to report earnings for 1928, showed marked improvement in earnings.

The textile industry, while regarding conditions as still unsatisfactory, held its gain. The textile markets generally held steady, although a few concessions to clear out styled goods were noted. There were more buyers in the market for spring needs, and the outlook was regarded as fairly promising. Uncertainty over style trends tended to hold up buying somewhat. Shoe manufacturers reported good orders following the style shows, although further reductions in hides caused some unsettlement in the leather industry. The lumber industry reported that orders are now exceeding activity in furniture. The jewelry industry, however, lagged.

There was considerable speculative buying of grains, wheat and corn reaching the highest prices in several months. The latter was helped by reports of drought in argentine. Cotton markets were quieter. Rubber commenced considerable profit taking after the previous week's sharp advances.

The week's insolvencies fell off somewhat from the high totals of the year end, and made a better showing than in the like weeks of recent years. The movement of freight held substantially above the corresponding periods of last year.

She was born in the same house where she died.

The United States civil service commission is to hold an open competitive examination for clerk and foot carrier in the post office service in Mystic, Conn.

Regular positions with full-time service are seldom filled by direct appointments from eligible registers. Eligibles are first appointed as substitutes and are required to be available to render service whenever needed. Vacancies in the regular force are filled by the promotion of the senior substitutes. The salaries for regular employes range from $1,700 to $2,100 per annum. These positions are permanent during good behavior. Retirement on an annuity is provided for at 65 years of age or in the case of total disability. As the receipt of applications will close on Feb. 1, 1929, they must be filed with the district secretary, U. S. board of civil service, at Boston, on or before that date.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mothers' Study Round Table

On Thursday, Jan. 24, at 3 p. m., the Mothers' Study group of the Woman's City club, newly reorganized under the leadership of Mrs. Edwin V. Ross, will hold a round table in the club room at the Wauregan hotel. Dr. Elizabeth Ingraham, director of the bureau of child hygiene of the state, will speak on "Child Health as Done by the State Department of Health of Connecticut." A goodly collection of slides of Connecticut's children will be used to illustrate Dr. Ingraham's lecture. This meeting is open to anyone interested in child health, regardless of club membership.

Breed Theatre

Those who followed the colorful adventures of the modern Captain Kidd and his youthful lieutenant through the pages of the Saturday Evening Post, story, "The River Pirate," by Charles Francis Coe, were treated to a delightful entertainment at the Breed theatre last night, where the new Fox film version of this production had its first screening. For it is safe to say that none of the host of readers of the daring deeds of Sailor Frink, Sandy, the "Shark," Detective Crisp and Marjorie, failed to see these colorful characters brought to life, when the opportunity was offered to them.

"The River Pirate" is splendid entertainment and is sure to keep the theatre filled to capacity during the remainder of its run. It is the kind of picture that is advertised by those who see it to their friends. Victor McLaglen, in the role of Sailor Frink, surpasses his great characterization as Captain Flagg in "What Price Glory." Lois Moran is delightful as Marjorie, and Nick Stuart as Sandy. Earle Foxe as Shark, and Donald Crisp as Detective Caxton also give splendid performances.

Broadway Theatre

George M. Cohan has written many plays, but never one quite so merrily human as "The Home Towners," which is now to be seen at the Broadway theatre, in the Warner Bros. all-star version. All the breeziness and zest, the witty dialogue, the deft turn of expression and situation, has been preserved in the adaptation of Burkhart and Roth. And Bryan Foy, son of the beloved Eddie, and a veteran in picture direction, has outdone even himself in "The Home Towners."

The cast is an exceptional one, all being stars of the speaking stage, and the story is that of two middle aged cronies who come together after years of separation. McWade is the one who has married and settled down in the home town; Richard Bennett, the other, a man who has invaded the big town, made much money, and now invites his old time friend to come to the city to act as his best man.

McWade suddenly gets the hunch that his friend is being deceived by the young lady, whom he is sure must be an adventuress. In the city he berates his pal with such earnestness that a quarrel ensues; he faces the girl and her family and accuses them of being all that is not considered right; he stirs up such a general squabble that the girl breaks the engagement; her parents and brother threaten action for slander; his wife thinks he has gone mad, and his friend is at wits' end.

"The Home Towners" is a perfect play, perfectly played. It has an infectious gayety that is indescribable—a 100 per cent crockless story about folks who are just folks. Well worth twenty times the price you'll pay to see it.

This production is an all talking Vitaphone feature and you hear as well as see every character in it. In addition to the picture a splendid programme of Vitaphone acts are presented of more than ordinary quality. A delightful evening's entertainment is guaranteed.

Palace Theatre

Ronald Coleman and Lillian Gish returned last night to the Palace theatre with their greatest acting production, "The White Sister," and even though some folks had seen this picture several years ago, they still acclaim it as one of the finest pictures ever made.

When Lillian Gish's greatest triumph, "The White Sister," was brought back to the Capitol, New York, city, recently in response to overwhelming popular demand, the newspaper critics hailed it as one of the few screen masterpieces that had stood the test of time.

The Morning Telegraph said, "The White Sister," starring Lillian Gish and featuring Ronald Coleman, is being revived at the Capitol this week. The picture, which had a long run on Broadway, proved as popular yesterday as it did at its initial presentation and again was proof positive of Henry King's ability as a director of the screen."

The Evening World: "The White Sister" stands the test of time admirably. Packed houses greeted it——The story is quite as thrilling as it was back in 1923, the Sahara desert scenes being particularly hair-raising. And the storm at the end finishes it up with a bang."

On the same programme the associate feature showed Lila Lee supported by a fine cast in "The Adorable Cheat" and this picture combined to make the show one

BROAD ST. APARTMENTS, NEW LONDON DAMAGED BY FIRE SUNDAY EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 20—The apartment house, 171 Broad street, owned by Victor Castaldi, formerly the residence of the late Elias Morgan, was damaged by fire this evening and as a result of the blaze that threatened the structure, several families were compelled to vacate the building. The fire, it is believed, started from an overheated furnace or defective flue, for when discovered about 7:45 o'clock it had reached the partitions and was producing a hot fire. An alarm was sent in from Box 27, corner of Broad and Williams streets, calling out Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and two hose companies, one engine company and one aerial ladder. The flames by that time had broken through the roof and several streams of water were emptied into the burning building. Not until an hour later was the fire entirely subdued. The building, a wooden structure and one of the oldest in the city, was acquired about a year ago by Mr. Castaldi and converted into apartments. The exact amount of the loss has not been determined, but it is believed that it will reach close to $10,000.

DR. WM. D. CRONIN DIES SUDDENLY AT ORANGE, N. J.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 20—Dr. William D. Cronin, about 55, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah D. Cronin and brother of Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin, died suddenly from heart disease early today, at the residence of relatives of Mrs. Cronin at East Orange, N. J. News of Dr. Cronin's death when received in New London caused universal expressions of surprise and regret, for it was not generally known that he had been subject to heart attacks, but in reality the vital organ had been in a weakened condition for a long time. Dr. Cronin is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Cronin and his brother. The latter, who had been in North Carolina, was informed of the physician's critical condition Saturday and started north to Orange. The body will arrive in New London tomorrow.

Dr. Cronin was one of the best known medical practitioners in New London. He was a member of the staff of Lawrence-Memorial hospital and was head of the medical fraternity of the institution.

An automobile, owned by Dr. E. Oliver Winship, a Chrysler 75, was reported at police headquarters Saturday night as having been stolen, but it is believed that the car was taken by acquaintances of the physician for it was found many hours after but a few yards from where it had been parked. Dr. Winship stated that he parked the car at 4:30 Saturday afternoon in front of the Hotel Mohican and at 9:30 he discovered it missing. At 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning the machine was discovered parked diagonally from where it had been taken.

Harry Fardy, 33 Walden avenue, reported at police headquarters tonight that his Velie automobile, carrying Connecticut registration, N-3094, had been stolen from the corner of Mountain avenue and Prest street.

Acting Sergeant of Police Augustus Ray is confined to his home, 63 Fitch avenue.

The state police of Centerbrook, this afternoon requested the New London police to be on the lookout for a Pontiac coach, owned by C. B. Stetson, 122 Washington street, Hartford, stolen at Old Lyme. The car carries Connecticut registration, 26004.

JOSH HUBBARD JABS KNIFE INTO HENRY ELLISON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 20—Henry (Red) Ellison, 37, colored, of 4 Douglass street and Josh Hubbard, 30, also colored of 66 Douglass street, was arrested this afternoon charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. Neither was able to procure a surety on his bond, so they were locked up pending the convening of court tomorrow. Ellison, a laborer and Hubbard, a cook, have police records. Ellison who is about six feet one inch in height appears to have been attacked this afternoon by Hubbard, who wielded a knife, the second time within a year and a-half that the former has been wounded by knifers. Ellison was at his rooming house about 4 o'clock, when Hubbard, who had been drinking, went there and a row started. The brawl continued and the two men went to the yard, evidently to battle. Hubbard pulled a pocket knife and declared that he would "cut up" Ellison and at the same time started after the latter. He succeeded in inflicting a slight flesh wound, but Ellison prevented a further attack by seizing a stone and hurling it at Hubbard, the missle striking Hubbard on the head and rendering his unconscious. The police had been informed of the battle and Ellison was arrested by Patrolmen Elwood Bailey and Lawrence Fardy. Hubbard was arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolman George Laboue. When taken into custody Hubbard had the knife in his hand and although unconscious he had a strong grip on the weapon. Ellison was involved in a fight in a former Negro gambling resort about 18 months ago at which time he received seven stab wounds and nearly bled to death before taken to a hospital.

MRS. JENNIE FOX DIES NOT KNOWING HUSBAND DEAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 20—Mrs. Jennie Fox, 40, of 41 Ocean avenue, died early tiday at Home Memorial hospital, where she had been a patient a week ill with pneumonia. She is survived by three small children and by her mother, a resident of New York. Mr. Fox, a former salesman, died at the same hospital earlier in the week from the same disease. Mrs. Fox died not knowing of her husband's death.

NEED OF DUMPING GROUND WORRYING AUTHORITIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 20—A problem is facing the city of New London regarding the removal and dumping of rubbish. City Manager Holt stated Saturday that at the present time there was only one place available as a dumping ground and that was at Calkins park. An average of 175 cubic yards of ashes and rubbish are handled daily by the city, and since the place on Bayonet street has become unavailable owing to complaints of residents of that neighborhood, a puzzle is confronting the city regarding the proper disposition of this commodity. About twenty men are employed in this work and the average cost per week amounts to more than $600.

City Manager William A. Holt has returned to this city, having attended a convention of city managers at Montpelier, Vt. He arrived here Saturday and stated that the meeting was of a very constructive nature.

The Italian Ladies' Aid society plans to hold a Mardi Gras ball in the Hotel Mohican. Prizes are to be awarded for the best costumes and the judges will be Dr. and Mrs. C. John Satti, Mayor and Mrs. Malcolm M. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Fox, Attorney Lucio deBiasi, Miss Delia Moroney, Mrs. C. D. Talcott, of Talcottville and Mr. and Mrs. S. Z. Poli, of New Haven.

For the annual bridge party of Lucretia Shaw chapter, D. A. R. more than fifty tables have been reserved.

Ten candidates will be initiated by Osprey Rebekah lodge at a meeting Tuesday night in Odd Fellows hall. Recently installed officers will be in charge of the ceremonies. The affair will be under a committee of which Mrs. Frederick V. Kolb is chairman.

LOCAL TOURISTS SAIL FOR TRIP TO HAVANA

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 20—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond P. Smith, of Grenada Terrace, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Catten, School street, Mr. and Mrs. Harold N. Christianson, Parkway and Mr. and Mrs. John MacArthur of Montauk avenue, sailed from New York Saturday for Havana, where they will remain for a few days. The party is expected to return in about three weeks.

Officers of the local Coast Guard force had a dance Friday night on the roof garden of the Hotel Mohican. About 500 were present at the enjoyable affair. Guests from nearby cities were present.

The new fire engine recently purchased by the Pleasure Beach Fire company was delivered Saturday. It was unloaded at Hallam street and members of the department spent the day in making it ready for operation.

The grand list of taxable property in Groton, as compiled by the assessors of the town for the 1928 tax levy is $9,976,812. Property valuation on which a tax will be levied will probably differ from the total arrived at by the assessors, owing to the fact that the board of relief of the town will sit next month for the purpose of making any changes that may be found necessary.

Five pieces of property ordered sold Saturday by Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander, were granted a continuance by the tax department. A calendar for the next month has been prepared to take care of the taxes due on the different properties.

The submarine S-4 will leave this port Monday for Key West, Florida, when it will be subjected to severe tests of safety devices invented for the purpose of rescuing crews of submersibles during times of disaster.

Favor War Memorial.

At the meeting of Ann Rogers Lyon tent, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, held Friday night in Union lodge rooms, the organization went on record as favoring the building of a war memorial as recently suggested by the chamber of commerce. After the business of the evening refreshments were served by Mrs. Mary Thompson.

The Connecticut River Valley Theatre corporation Saturday transfered title to the Garde theatre of this city, to the Thames River Theatre Co., of New York. The two members of the transaction are considered as being under the same ownership and no change of management is expected.

OBITUARY.

William Schall.

Word reached this city Saturday of the death of William Schall, 76, a former resident of Pequot avenue. Death occurred in Surrey, England. The greater portion of the life of the deceased had been spent abroad. However, during his residence here he made numerous friends.

Police Sergeant Samuel Hick has resumed duty after having been ill at his home on Blydenburg avenue, for several weeks.

Mrs. Nora McCrohan, of 15 Konomoc street; Isaac Bacon, U. S. coast guard and John Scuris, Groton, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

The funeral of Ray C., Jr., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Perkins, of 529 Main street was held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of his parents. The services were conducted by Rev. Elmer Page. Burial was in Riverbend cemetery, Westerly.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Timothy Danaher.

Mrs. Nellie Danaher, 54, wife of Timothy Danaher, died Saturday morning at her home, 35 Prest street. She had been ill for the past three years. Besides her husband, Mrs. Danaher is survived by two daughters, Misses Helen and Mary Danaher; four sisters, Mrs. James Robinson, of this city; Mrs. Jere Kelliher, Salem, Mass.; Mrs. Mary Clancy, Monroe, Wash., and Mrs. Nora Goodie of Spokane, Wash., and by a brother, John Abbot also of Spokane. Mrs. Danaher was a member of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, Ladies auxiliary, Ancient Order of Hibernians and St. Anne's assembly.

Dorothy Fenton, aged one month, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. Fenton of 67 Connecticut avenue, died Saturday at the Mitchell ward, Lawrence-Memorial hospital from erysipelas.

Mrs. J. Fornin believes that she has been victimized by one of the meanest types of thieves in existence. She went to a State street store Friday afternoon and with her little child. Rather than leave the child in a stroller when she arrived at the store, Mrs. Fornin carried the baby into the store, leaving the stroller on the walk. When she started to return home, Mrs. Fornin discovered that the stroller had been stolen.

The police signal box, corner of Main street and Willetts avenue, is out of order, but repairs will be made without delay.

Arthur Hamilton, 26, alias Arthur Pelette, a laborer, residing at Montville, was in the police court Saturday on a technical charge of vagrancy, but if the information in possession of the police is true, it is believed that Hamilton will be committed to an institution for he is either a confirmed degenerate, or his acts have been prompted by a mental disorder. Hamilton was arrested early Friday morning when found asleep in a hall of a State street business block by Patrolman Timothy Sullivan. Subsequent revelations regarding Hamilton's conduct resulted when the police investigated the young man's presence in New London and it was what the officers claim they discovered relative to the actions of the young man that caused his presentation in the police court. He was held in bail of $1,000 and the case were continued until Monday. In the meantime Hamilton will probably be examined by a commission to determine his sanity.

Experiments indicate that X-rays may be used to detect dangerous weakness in trees that appear sound on the surface.

DANIELSON

BURGLARS GET $40 IN EVANS BUILDING BREAK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 21—The first burglary in Danielson in a long, long time took place during the early hours of this morning at the Peter Hadjun store in the Evans buildings. The loss, as near as could be checked this afternoon, is between $36 and $40, in money taken from the cash register. Night Officer Laird Winchell discovered the break while making his rounds just before 4 o'clock this morning.

Whoever broke into the store broke out a glass in the door, reached in and turned the spring lock. On discovering the break Officer Winchell called Chief John McFarland and the officers, having awakened Mr. Hadjun, who has an apartment on the second floor of the building, made a checkup. Up to this afternoon nothing definite had been learned as to who might be responsible for the job.

A car that was in the vicinity of the Evans block at the time Officer Winchell discovered the break drove off hurriedly, but the number was obtained and it was established that the presence of the car had nothing to do with the robbery.

Upwards of a year has elapsed since any burglary has been reported here.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Philomene Chenail

Saturday morning at 9 o'clock the funeral of Mrs. Philomene Chenail was held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alma Forcier in Goodyear with services at St. Joseph's church in Dayville. There were many in attendance at the solemn high mass of requiem, the officers of the mass being Rev. Ignatius Kost, Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., and Rev. Joseph Bergin, M. S. The body was entombed at St. Joseph's cemetery. Bearers were Joseph Billings, Eugene Billings, Joseph Lussier, George Sarault, Lafayette Forcier and Valmore Forcier. Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Charles A. LaMothe

At 10 o'clock Saturday morning the funeral of Charles A. LaMothe, who died in a Boston hospital the past week, was held from the home in Dayville with a high mass of requiem at St. Joseph's church attended by many relatives and friends. Rev. Ignatius Kost was celebrant of the mass. The bearers were Rumrill, Wilfred Moulin, William Peche, Arthur Moulin, Armand Foster and John J. O'Neill. Martin T. Burns was the funeral director. The body was entombed at St. Joseph's cemetery.

Mrs. Hermaine Sabourin

Many were in attendance Saturday morning at the funeral of Mrs. Hermanie Sabourin in Wauregan. The funeral was held from the home with services at the Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock. Officers of the solemn high mass of requiem were Rev. John H. Quinn, the pastor, Rev. Philip Massicotte of Moosup and Rev. Raymond Veglard, M. S., of Danielson. The body was entombed in the Sacred Heart cemetery. The bearers were Napoleon Plantier, Jr., Henry Plantier, Arthur Goven, Peter Sabourin, Nelson Gauthier and Ernest Gilbert. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Charlotte Staples Dies

A death at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walter Warren, at Killingly Center during Friday night was that of Mrs. Charlotte Staples, 60. Mrs. Staples had been ill for a considerable length of time. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Warren and was born in Union. In addition to her daughter, Mrs. Warren leaves a sister, Mrs. Frederick Gromo of East Killingly, and a brother, Josiah Warren, of Foster, R. I.

Minor Accident at Wauregan

A minor accident Saturday afternoon was one in which a car operated by Harry Tavinier of Moosup and a Connecticut company bus were in collision on the state highway at Wauregan. No injuries to passengers in the machine resulted from the accident. The accident was checked up by officers from the Danielson barracks.

For operating a motor vehicle in violation of the law Arthur Billings of Dayville was arrested in Putnam Saturday night and will make a court appearance in that city Monday. The only arrest here over the week end was that of Frank Clune, who lives on upper Maple street. He will be in court Monday.

A Warm Day

Thermometers exposed to the full rays of the sun turned in a very unusual record of 65 degrees in Danielson Saturday afternoon. The effect of the spring-like day was like a tonic for the average person after a week of extremely cold weather, rain, fog and snow. In the business section many men went about without top coats. Considered from one angle, it was a great advertisement for southern New England as a winter resort. The mild weather continued through today, though the temperature was materially lower than on Saturday.

Miss Elizabeth R. Woodworth is entertaining her fiance, Henry Dow Marble, of Cleveland, O. Several entertainments have been given in their honor, and on Friday night the teachers of the Danielson graded school, of which Miss Woodworth is the principal, gave a party for them at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Beckett, Maple street. There were games and music and refreshments were served. The teachers presented Miss Woodworth with a mesh bag.

The fact that some very brilliant street lights have been removed from along that section of Main street south of the railroad crossing gives that part of the business section a comparatively dimly lighted appearance, now that the regular street lights are in use again. The powerful lights that have been taken out were put up by the Eastern Connecticut Power company some months ago to demonstrate their brilliancy and with a view to having the borough pass upon the matter of retaining them permanently. The matter never has been before a borough meeting. It so happens that the annual borough meeting comes early in April, and it is possible there may be something in the warning relative to the lights and the re-installation of them.

Motorists have been unexpectedly and unintentionally making kindling wood out of state highway fences all through this section during the past few days. Icy highways may be charged with the damage that has been done, and it is considerable. The old style of post and rail fences do not fare well when an automobile piles into them. All of the trunk lines radiating out of Danielson have newly broken sections of fencing. The replacement cost will require a considerable sum of money.

Next Wednesday evening an indoor track meet to be held at the Community house in Plainfield will bring together amateurs from various towns in the county, including Killingly. The meet has been arranged by Secretary L. Edwin Hill of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. of Danielson.

In case lots, eggs were being quoted at poultry farms in Brooklyn at the week end at 45 cents a dozen, an unusually low price for this time of the winter.

Rev. Harding W. Gaylord, who has been quite ill the past few days, was reported this afternoon as resting more comfortably.

Miss M. J. Mendell will entertain members of the Fortnightly club at her home on Broad street Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Harold B. Atwood is ill at her home on Broad street.

Mrs. Mary Taylor of Worcester was a week end visitor with relatives in Danielson.

Assessors of Killingly have about completed their work, the new grand list to be ready for February 1, when meetings of the board of relief are to begin.

H. D. Graetz of the Yale Divinity school preached the sermon at the morning service at the Westfield Congregational church today. The soloist at the service was Jehu Downes of Wauregan.

State highways all through this section were swept bare of ice and snow on Saturday, one of the warmest January days in years. Fog and rain also contributed to the cleaning up of the highways.

Howard A. Michaelson of Attleboro was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

Though not fully recovered from the severe burns they received some time since, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stetson are making progress toward recovery at their home in Brooklyn.

The Young People's class continued its discussion of Prohibition at this evening's meeting at the Congregational church.

Henry Tewgood, who has been employed in Norwich since early fall, was a visitor here at the week end.

There was a good attendance at the state armory Saturday night at a dance arranged by the service battery.

Deacon Albert C. Greene, who is nearing the century mark, has been ill at his home on North Main street the past few days, and is confined to his bed. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greene of New London and Mr. and Mrs. George M. Greene of Cambridge have been visitors with him.

Edwin P. Lawrence, William J. Young and Russell O. Hammond make up Killingly's board of relief this year. Mr. Hammond is a newly elected member of the board, succeeding Judge James N. Tucker of East Killingly, who declined renomination after serving for years as a member.

William Schofield of the high school faculty has been spending some time at his home in Waterbury recovering from an attack of illness.

The Inter-Church Basketball league, of four teams, is to open its season on the coming Saturday.

PUTNAM

SHORT CALENDAR SESSION OF COURT HERE TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 20—With the closing of the January term of criminal court the Windham county superior court will convene at Putnam Monday, Jan. 21, for a short calendar session of civil business. Judge Edward M. Yeomans who has occupied the bench at Putnam for the past year will preside tomorrow.

Besides a number of civil cases, there is to be heard the following divorce cases; all of which are uncontested: Arthur J. Gallup vs. Florence H. Lathrop; Helen M. Purvis vs. Walter E. Purvis; Albert J. Dragon vs. Florence E. Dragon; Marie P. L. Farrell vs. Matthew E. Farrell.

During the past two days reports have come that the epidemic of influenza has reached Putnam. These stories have been checked with local physicians and it has been learned that patients are suffering with severe cases of pneumonia and grip, but as yet there has been no trace of influenza here. Many in the city are suffering from colds and coughs and are confined to their homes. Local theatres and other gathering places are still requesting their patrons to be exceedingly careful while sneezing and coughing so as not to expose others to their minor afflictions. This practice is a request of the local health officials and is being highly observed by the general public.

Weekly reports from the state health department indicate that surrounding rural communities in this section are still free of the influenza epidemic.

A four stroke fire alarm shortly after noon today brought the members of the hook and ladder company at the central fire station to 12 Bullock street, to extinguish a chimney fire. Flames were raging within the brick linings of the chimney, but were quickly extinguished by chemicals off the apparatus. This is the first alarm received by the fire department in the past two weeks. It is apparent that property owners have adhered to the urgings of Fire Chief R. E. Thurston, by making their chimneys free from collecting soot, which is the major cause of the numerous number of chimney fires which necessitated the attention of the fire department during the past year.

The annual mid year examinations will be given the student body of Putnam high school by the faculty commencing on next Tuesday, Jan. 22. During the past two weeks of the winter term students have been preparing for the forthcoming examinations. At the local high school complete success in the examination results in a student with one seventh of the year's work completed. The examinations will necessitate four days with two hours and a half being devoted to each subject taught at the institution.

As of late, the Putnam police have been securing several store doors, which were left unlocked by the merchants at the close of business. The night officers have discovered this practice taking place in a number of stores in the business section. Investigations by the police officers have revealed that unsatisfactory locking devices are in use on the doors, which give no resistance when the officer latches at night. Capt. Jarvis has called these facts to the attention of the merchants several times, yet the doors are continually being found open. Unlocked doors in many events are the causes of breaks being committed, since they induce wayward persons to enter the stores and steal.

Putnam ice companies have commenced the task of cutting ice on the ponds and hauling it to the storehouses for summer use. Ice, until the thaw of Friday was several inches in thickness. On Saturday when one company began its work amid three inches of water on the surface of the ice, it was learned that the recent rains and raising temperatures of the past few days had reduced the frozen product considerably. However, the presence of the ice has induced the discontented ice dealers to reap their harvest, despite the unsatisfactory weather conditions, which so far have ruined the hopes for an early harvest. Machinery, necessary in cutting and drawing the cakes, has been erected by all city dealers, while additional help has been employed, awaiting the arrival of the next cold wave.

Secenda Rovero of Mechanics street, suffered a partial loss of his finger Saturday, while attempting to adjust difficulties encountered in an electric motor at the Murray estate in Pomfret. Rovero is employed by the Winterburn Electrical company of this city. He was taken to the Day Kimball hospital where the lacerated flesh was removed and the wound dressed. His condition was not serious and he was discharged early today.

Lawrence Phaneuf of Providence spent Sunday at his home on Wilkinson street.

George A. Winterburn of Mechanics street, who recently perfected an electric fur drying machine has been informed by the United States patent office in Washington that original rights on his invention have been recognized by the office and patent processes are now pending. Mr. Winterburn's product is the result of a careful study of the manner in which furs are now cured and dried by dangerous gas heating methods. Recent tests of the apparatus in the laboratories of Mr. Winterburn, have proved that the machine is successful, excelling production, safety and cleanliness marks established by the gas drying fur devices.

Arthur Billings of Dayville was arrested by State Officer Royal V. Scranton of Danielson barracks, early this morning on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquors. Billings was held by the state police for his appearance in police court Monday morning.

WINDSHIELD WIPERS MUST BE O. K. OR TROOPERS WILL ACT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 20—Autoists must be very careful from now on to see that windshield wipers are in perfect condition, otherwise they may be subjected to arrest. Yesterday Troopers from Groton barracks inaugurated a campaign against such offenders with orders to arrest any motorist who was found lacking in seeing that such equipment was in proper order.

GUSTAV SWANSON HAS ARM CRUSHED IN MACHINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 20—Gustav Swanson, 54, of 116 Jefferson avenue, was seriously injured Saturday at 11 o'clock when his arm was crushed in a machine at the Carroll Quality Laundry, 28 Moore court. While operating a washing machine his right hand was caught in the rollers and before the power could be turned off his arm was drawn through the rolls, completely crushing the member.

Michael Cordone, 19, of 526 Crescent street, New York, was arrested at the union station this morning by Special Agent Harold Swanson of New Haven railroad. He was given into the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield.

Awaiting hearing in court are four cases of intoxication, all of the men having been arrested this forenoon. Still another case to be presented is that of a fellow arrested at the union station by Special Agent Jorgerson, charged with vagrancy.

GREENEVILLE

BIRTHDAY PARTY HELD FOR WILLIAM GAUTHIER FRIDAY

A surprise party in honor of the fifteenth birthday of William Gauthier was held at his home on Eleventh street Friday evening with twenty friends present. Mr. Gauthier received a birthday ring from his guests. During the evening many games were played and piano and vocal solos rendered. William Martnicki gave a clever exhibition of the Charleston. Refreshments were served, consisting of assorted sandwiches, cookies, cakes, fruits and hot chocolate. A beautiful birthday cake with 15 candles was in the center of the table. Guests were present from Montville, Jewett City and Westerly.

Mrs. John Quinn Improved.

The many friends of Mrs. John Quinn of Central avenue will be pleased to learn that she is improving rapidly after an operation for appendicitis at a New London hospital. Should the present rate of improvement persist Mrs. Quinn will be discharged from the hospital Thursday.

Miss Helen Drescher, a student at Willimantic state normal school spent the week end recess at the home of her grandfather on Central avenue.

N. F. A. Fans at Torrington.

Among local Academy sport followers who made the trip to Torrington Saturday night for the Torrington-Academy game were Walter Navick, Benjamin Lazroff, Sidney Lazroff, Raymond Harris, Walter Moran, George Morvie, Wilbur Sutthill, Michael Angie, Alexander Arico and William Cimbokis.

MONTH'S MIND MASSES DURING THE PAST WEEK

There were two month's mind masses celebrated at St. Mary's Memorial church last week Thursday at 9 o'clock for William H. Bresnahan and Saturday at 7.30 for Dr. Edward H. Converse. Both masses were offered by Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor and family friends and relatives were in attendance. Mrs. Michael J. Farrell, organist, had charge of the musical program.

Miss Margaret Purdon, a teacher in Waterford, spent the week end recess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Purdon on Prospect street.

Joseph Bray has resumed his duties at the United States Finishing Co., after being confined to his home on Pequot street by sickness.

Sunday, being the third Sunday of the month, was communion Sunday for the Holy Name society and men of the parish of St. Mary's Memorial church, a large number receiving the sacrament at the 7.30 mass, which was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe. Rev. Father Keefe was assisted in distributing communion by Rev. Frederick M. Coholan.

Miss Jane Sullivan has returned to her home on Fifth street after spending the week end at Hartford.

Miss Jennie Suplicki, a student at Willimantic state normal school, spent the week end recess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Suplicki on Golden street.

The Greeneville, N. M. sewing circle was entertained Friday evening at the home of Mrs. William Day on Roswell avenue with one hundred per cent membership attendance. The first period of the evening was devoted to sewing of fancy articles, which was followed by a social hour. Piano and vocal solos, together with radio and Victrola selections were heard. During the evening William Day, violinist gave two selections and sang Sunny Boy. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Alvin Barrows and Mrs. Harry Richmond, consisting of assorted sandwiches, fancy cakes, cookies, wafers, ice cream, popcorn, candies, fruits and hot chocolate. The dining room was attractively decorated in red and white, the circle's colors. The next weekly meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Helige Erickson of Seventh street.

Miss Gertrude Fontaine, a teacher at West Hartford, is spending a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fontaine on Central avenue.

WOULD HAVE ALL TOWNS PROVIDE BOOKS IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

All towns in the state would be required to provide free textbooks in all schools by a proposal made by the state board of education and added to the report of the commission on the recodification and revision of the school laws and submitted, in accordance with a 1927 law, to the commission on revision of the general statutes.

Norwich is one of the towns in the state which does not supply books for its public school pupils at the present time.

Other proposed additions to the statutes suggested by the board include:

Authority to grant degrees in education, excluding honorary degrees, under rules to be adopted by the board. This is designed to give a means of recognition to teachers who do the required academic work for degrees but because of their work are unable to meet the residence requirements of colleges and universities, under which candidates for degrees are compelled to reside at the college for at least a part of their course.

Providing that all children leaving school at the end of the sixth grade and 14 years of age shall first secure a leaving certificate before being engaged in any occupation. Hitherto such certificate has been required for those going into mercantile, manufacturing or mechanical occupations.

Providing for the payment of a state rebate for transporting non-residents to trade schools.

Transportation of elementary, pupils within a town. Such a provision, it is believed, would result in considerable encouragement to towns to consolidate their schools, and such a grant would make up, in part at least the loss in the grant for teachers' salaries which comes in many cases with a consolidation of schools and reduction in the number of teachers.

Providing state aid to towns establishing classes for mentally defective children. Establishment of such classes throughout the state is being encouraged in the belief that in this manner some of the present demands for accommodation at the Mansfield State Training School and Hospital for the Feeble-Minded may be relieved.

More State Aid

The report of the board to the governors calls the "equated pupil" scheme of the codification commission, referred to in the report as "a state equalization fund," one of the "most prominent and debatable issues raised by the report." It has been accepted by the board with a slight change. The plan entails "a minimum educational opportunity as measured by a $70 education per pupil in average daily attendance, exclusive of transportation, kindergarten costs and capital outlay," and would increase state aid grants approximately $2,500,000 a year over the present total.

The board reports as a source of satisfaction to it a reduction of the percentage of teacher turnover in the state from 18 four years ago to 12.9 last year. One factor in this, the board believes, has been the increase in the average salary from $797 ten years ago to $1,660 for 1927-28. Another factor toward stabilizing the teacher force, the board says, is the character of preparation, as "it has been found true that increasing the length of the professional preparation for teaching has tended to make for a greater degree of permancy in the profession." At present, the report says, 85 per cent of the teachers are at least normal school graduates, as compared with a percentage of 68 for this class ten years ago. Ninety-two per cent of the teachers in Connecticut now hold state certificates, the report says.

Meredith's Report

The report of Commissioner A. B. Meredith to the board deals with educational conditions in the state. He points out that in a decade the enrollment of school pupils has increased 26 per cent, from 243,870 in 1917-18 to 307,560 in 1927-28. The average daily attendance for the same period increased from 190,897 to 262,392, an increase of 37 per cent, while the regularity of attendance has increased from 78 per cent of the enrollment in 1917-18 to 82 per cent ten years later. In 1917-18 there were 5,897 elementary school teachers and 1,018 high school teachers, these figures for a decade later being 7,579 and 1,683 respectively. The number of high schools increased from 49 in 1917-18 to 88 in 1927-28, junior high schools from none before 1921 to 13 now and elementary schools have decreased from 1,430 a decade ago to 1,267 now.

Dr. Meredith points out that in the decade ending last year, public school property tripled in value, from $30,000,000 to $90,000,000 and in the same period the expenditures for school current expenses increased 187 per cent from $8,910,000 to $25,600,000. "Much of this striking increase is due to social and economic changes over which those in charge of schools have little or no control and not wholly to a more expensive type of educational service," Dr. Meredith says. Factors in the increase cited are the increased enrollment, particularly in the more expensive secondary schools and the changing value of the dollar, the dollar of 1917-18 being worth 70.2 cents and that of 1927-28 being worth 58.1 cents in terms of the 1913 dollar. On this basis Dr. Meredith places the increased cost due to more expensive educational service at 71.4 per cent or less than half the total increase.

Dr. Meredith presents figures showing that women are not nearly as well paid as men for work as class-room teachers in either high or elementary schools, and that the present trend favors men teaching in high schools and women in elementary schools. The average salary for a man teaching in a high school for 1927-28 was $2,479, an increase from $2,389 in 1924-25, while women teachers in high schools averaged $1,979 in 1927-28 and $1,903 in 1924-25. In the elementary schools, men teachers received an average salary of $1,912 in 1924-25 which decreased to $1,900 in 1927-28, while the average salary of women elementary school teachers increased from $1,443 in 1924-25 to $1,554 in 1927-28.

WHY CHRIST IS ABSENT FROM SOME MARRIAGES

Taking up phrase by phrase of the gospel appointed for the second Sunday after Epiphany, John 2:1-11, which he had just read from the pulpit of St. Patrick's church at the 7:30 mass Sunday morning, the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May gave a plain, practical talk on marriages. The gospel narrated the first public miracle of the Saviour, in turning water into wine at the marriage feast in Cana of Galilee, at the request of His mother. "The mother of Jesus was there, and Jesus also was invited, and His disciples, to the wedding," was the text. Those married thus were signally favored and honored; but every marriage of baptized Christians is similarly honored by the presence of Jesus Christ, His mother and His apostles, since Christ has made of marriage a sacrament instituted to give grace.

Those united at the marriage of Cana naturally were favored, having Christ with them physically, a God present; yet every Christian union can be sure of the Saviour's spiritual presence, of the presence of His mother, channel of graces to mankind, since the marriage ceremony is performed by an authorized successor of the apostles. But there are far too many marriages to which Christ is not invited—cannot be present, since those contracting such marriages are not prepared to receive the sacrament, rush into matrimony lacking the proper motive, could not reasonably expect Christ to honor them with His presence. Marriage, a civil and natural contract, has been elevated by Christ to the dignity of a sacramental contract; while the civil and natural contract may be carried out, the sacramental phase of the marriage may be negatived by the conduct of those who, instead of making of it a time of holy joy, transform it into an orgy of drink and dissipation, of unclean remarks, an occasion at which Christ would never be present, as He was at Cana of Galilee.

To the younger members of the large congregation, the rector spoke of the sacrament of marriage as one to be considered with seriousness and entered into not hastily, but with the same careful preparation their parents had shown, that marriage for them might become a true sacrament, blest by the presence and approval of Christ, His mother and the Apostles, undertaken in a manner certain to result in a worthy and happy married life.

Rev. John J. Reilly assisted Monsignor May later in giving holy communion to a great proportion of the congregation, including the members of the parish Rosary society. Attention was directed to the nearness of Candlemas day, when there will be the solemn blessing of the candles for use in the Catholic home in time of sickness, storm or epidemic, also during the liturgical observances of the church throughout the year.

Under all circumstances the symbol of a glowing candle means much to any Catholic, since it typifies the Light which shone among the Gentiles.

GEN. COLE TO PROVIDE CONVEYANCE FOR GEN. MALONE

The Norwich Chamber of Commerce's letter to Governor Trumbull has brought quick response of the matter of providing military conveyance for Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone when he visits this city on Feb. 18.

Governor Trumbull referred the matter to Adjutant General Cole, who has advised the Norwich chamber that he is willing to provide any conveyance necessary for the convenience of General Malone during his visit to Connecticut.

The governor's letter to the secretary of the local chamber is as follows:

"I have the honor to acknowledge your letter of the 9th advising me that Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone of the Sixth Corps area, Chicago, has accepted an invitation to address the Norwich Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday evening, Feb. 18, and your suggestion that military conveyance be supplied for him. I am turning your letter over to the adjutant general, who would have such matters in charge.

"Very truly yours,

"JOHN H. TRUMBULL."

Adjutant General Cole promptly expressed his willingness to provide any conveyance necessary for the convenience of Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone during his visit to Connecticut. In a letter addressed to the secretary, the general states:

"Your letter to the governor of Connecticut, relative to the visit of General Malone to your city, Feb. 18, 1929, has been referred to me by the governor for reply. You are advised that I shall be very glad to do anything proper to be done, and would suggest that I shall be willing to meet General Malone in Worcester on the evening of Feb. 17, or the morning of the 18th, and to take him in my car to Norwich. I shall be glad to hear from you further on this matter, with other suggestions as you may desire to make.

"G. M. COLE,"
Brigadier General,
The Adjutant General.

SHETUCKET LODGE TO START TRAVELING GAVEL

The newly installed officers of Shetucket lodge, No. 27, filled the chairs at the last regular meeting in Odd Fellows' hall. Noble Grand Eugene Wood presided and routine business was disposed of with dispatch. Through the generosity of several of the members a solid ebony, silver-mounted gavel, suitably engraved has been presented to the lodge. It is enclosed in a handsome case.

This gavel is to be sent out as a traveling messenger of good-will from Shetucket lodge, and is expected to visit eventually most of the lodges throughout the United States and Canada, and possibly some of those abroad. It is now on exhibition in the lodge rooms. The memorial committee has made tentative plans for putting on a minstrel show in the near future if sufficient interest is aroused. A social hour was enjoyed after the meeting with the usual sharp contests between the pinochle and pool sharks.

Palmyra Encampment, No. 3, will entertain Mystic Encampment and Orin Encampment of New London at its next meeting on Thursday, Jan. 24. This is one of a series of meetings between the three encampments which are proving to be very popular with the members. Orin Encampment is to conduct a class of candidates over the burning sands in the golden rule degree, and if they live up to their reputation, the candidates should be kept very busy for a while at least. A supper is to be served the patriarchs and their guests at 7 o'clock. Plans are being made by the entertainment committee for one of the largest attendances of the season.

APPEALS HIS FINE FOR DRIVING UNDER INFLUENCE

Found guilty of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, Zachary J. Joinville, 56, Willimantic, was fined $200 and costs, one-half of the fine being remitted, by Judge Arthur F. Libby, in the city court Saturday morning. Through his counsel, Attorney Thomas M. Shields, Joinville took an appeal.

On complaint of Attorney V. P. A. Quinn, of Occum, the accused was arrested on North Main street on the evening of Jan. 11, after he had driven his machine from Occum to Norwich from one side of the road to the other ahead of Quinn's car, it is alleged. According to the complaint, it is understood that Mr. Quinn's machine was forced off the road onto a sidewalk on account of the manner in which Joinville drove his car.

In court Joinville was very truthful in his testimony, admitting that he had had about a third of a pint of liquor at his home and two more drinks in Baltic on the day he was arrested. The case had been continued twice to Saturday since it was originally presented on Jan. 12.

CONTINUANCE IN CASE FOR CORONER'S FINDING

Pending the finding of Coroner Edward G. McKay, the manslaughter case of Meyer Filan, 16, of Yantic, was again continued to Feb. 22, when it came up in the city court Saturday morning. He was released under bonds of $2,500. The accused was the driver of the machine, which struck and fatally injured Miss Jennie Bonney, of Harland road, at Norwich Town on the night of Dec. 21.

R. I. REDS RUN CLOSE RACE WITH LEGHORNS

Apparently zero weather and below does not seem to have any effect upon birds that have been properly bred and have constitutional vigor and pep, for the birds in the Storrs egg laying contest have come through the eleventh week with the highest production since the contest started last November. The total production for the week was 4206 eggs or a yield of 60.1 per cent., which is 67 eggs more than last week's production. The grand total to date is 42,325 eggs or an average of a little better than 42 eggs per bird.

All through the week it has been up and tuck between Charlescote's Reds from Sherborn, Mass., and Lowry's Leghorns from West Willington, Ct. Charlescote's pen had four perfect days of ten eggs each, two nines and an eight, while Lowry's pen had three tens and four nines; thus they made a total score of 66 eggs each and tied for first place. Second place went to the entry from Granite Springs, N. Y., with a lay of 65 eggs. Hanson's Leghorns from Corvallis, Ore., and Tolvonen's Leghorns from Girard, Pa., tied for third place with 62 eggs each. Rhode Island Reds entered by Clarence E. Lee of Spencer, Mass., and White Leghorns entered by St. John's Poultry Farm from Oronogo, Mo., captured fourth place with 60 eggs each.

There was only one change among the leading pens this week. In the Red class Charlescote's pen has moved into fourth place.

The old saying was that the male wasone-half of the pen. The new saying is that the male is the most important part of the breeding pen. The desirable qualities to seek in the male bird are health, vigor, early maturity, and size a little better than medium for the breed. Be sure that the comb is bright red and full. The plumage color of the male should be one that is representative of the breed, and the appearance of the bird in general should impress one as being robust and carrying the qualities one desires.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties:

White Rocks—E. A. Hirt South Weymouth, Mass., 482; Granite Springs Farm, Granite Springs, N. Y., 364.

White Wyandottes — Ebenwood Farm, West Bridgewater, Mass., 599; The Locusts, West Cornwall, Conn., Conn., 518.

Rhode Island Red—John Z. Labelle, Ballouville, Conn., 570; Homer R. Rowell, Groveland, Mass., 558; F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass. 542;; Charlescote Farm, Sherborn, Mass., 541.

Changing Block Island Light.

The lighthouse service has announced plans to change the characteristic of the Block Island southeast light station about April 16, 1929 to flash green every three and seven tenths seconds with a flash of three-tenths of a second duration with a 50,000 candle-power light. During the process of changing the light a fixed white light of 9,000 candlepower will be exhibited from the same location.

Rev. Danforth Will Speak.

Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London is to be the speaker before the Park church men's club when it holds its annual meeting with a supper this (Monday) evening. The New London pastor will speak upon his visit to the Holy Land.

TAFTVILLE

The carnival which is being conducted for the benefit of the Taftville Athletic association opened Saturday evening at Parish hall with a large attendance, many coming from out of town. The hall and the booths were very attractively decorated, and dancing, for which Humphrey's orchestra played, continued until midnight. James H. Troland is chairman of the committee which has the carnival in charge, and Thomas Labbee is secretary. The proceeds are to be devoted to promoting sports sponsored by the athletic association during the coming season.

Joseph E. Heselton, of North B street, spent the week-end with relatives in Attawaugan.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gley and their daughter, Miss Hazel Gley, spent the week-end with Mrs. Gley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Meyer, and family, of Bilgsville.

A special business meeting of the members of the Taftville Congregational church and the congregation was held Sunday morning after the service, with Allan Bogle, chairman of the standing committee of the church, presiding. At the service, the preacher was Rev. William Penner, of the Hartford Theological seminary.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Kean, of Woonsocket, R. I., former residents of South Second avenue, spent the week-end in town the guests of Mrs. Kean's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Israel Chaput, of Boldue lane.

A subscription dance was given Saturday evening at the new community hall in Newent, under the auspices of the Lisbon Community club. Benson-D'Atri's orchestra played for the dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Laramie, of Plainfield, were guests Sunday of Mr. Lamarie's brother-in-law and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Smith and Miss Lillian Laramie, of North B street.

Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault, pastor of the Sacred Heart church, entertained at supper Thursday evening in the Parish hall, the members of the choir and the collectors and trustees of the church.

Robert Spencer, a former resident of Blissville, who has been spending several days visiting friends in town, has returned to his home in Lawrence, Mass.

Present at a social gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Ladd, of Norwich, recently, were Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bogle, of Providence street, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Sharples, of South Second avenue.

A passing automobile ran over a snake on Norwich avenue in front of the No. 1 mill of the Ponemah company. Saturday afternoon, causing a lot of speculation among the local weather prophets as to what the remainder of the winter would be like.

Walter W. Kellner, of Providence street, was a visitor in Franklin on Sunday.

3,400 PRISONERS CROWD CHICAGO POLICE LOCK-UPS

Windy City's Greatest Round-Up of Hoodlums—Every Police Station in the City is Jammed With Suspects—In the Wholesale Arrests Police Hope to Find the Solution of Many Crime Mysteries—Seventy-five Shotguns, Revolvers and Pistols Were Seized in the Raids.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21—(AP)—The city's lock-ups bulged and the police department fanned around in a frenzy of work today as it questioned, photographed and fingerprinted 3,400 prisoners taken in Chicago's greatest hoodlum roundup.

Opened Saturday night, the dragnet was folded up and put away for the time being only because raiding squads reported they could find no more suspects or underworld haunts that needed raiding.

Every police station in the city was jammed with suspects brought in wagon loads until the early hours of today. It was estimated three to four days would be needed to sift the crowd and make the necessary records.

A stream of lawyers began to pour into the criminal courts building with petitions for habeas corpus as soon as the doors were opened, but it soon became evident their jobs were difficult. State's Attorney John A. Swanson recounted judges, before whom petitions were heard, to take no action until police had ample time to investigate all those under arrest.

In the wholesale arrests police hoped to find the solution of many of the crime mysteries unsolved. Of the first 600 examined 225 were found to have records, and one, John Hawkins, had long been sought for the killing of Betty Chambers, hoodlum consort whose body was found about a year ago in an apartment, her head plastered over with adhesive tape.

Few of the prisoners were booked on specific charges, and most of them were held "open" on suspicion. Detectives explained the lack of gang leaders among the number by the fact that they evidently had been informed the raids were in progress and had made for cover.

Seventy-five shotguns, revolvers and pistols were seized in the raids. Only five women were taken in the drives and so the women's quarters of the police stations were given over to the men.

At the afternoon show up the facilities of the new police building in the downtown loop district were so taxed by the enormous crowds of prisoners and relatives, Chief of Detectives John Egan ordered outlying stations to stop sending in prisoners.

One of the women occupied the show up stage alone for a moment. Betty Green, 18, was asked what she did for a living.

"I steal," she answered, somewhat broadly.

Although the police said she had a record as a shoplifter, as did the other women held, no one was able to identify her.

Another of the women prisoners was Juanita Garbordo, 21, who served a prison term for aiding Bernardo Roa and his Mexican companions in escaping from the Joliet jail.

The raids appeared to be having their effect, for only one robbery was reported last night, and the two involved were arrested a short time after.

CHICAGO'S MILK WAR RESULTS IN WILFUL WASTE

CHICAGO, Jan. 21—(AP)—Wanton waste of milk, with the attendant possibility of a shortage of the product, brought residents of Chicago together today in an effort to end the strike of Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana dairymen.

After discovery of kerosene in some of the milk shipped into the city, inspectors were assigned by Health Commissioner Arnold H. Kegal to guard against further pollution.

Highway patrolmen were assigned to guard receiving plants of the larger producers to prevent further violence to farmers attempting to deliver milk, and the Lake county circuit court at Waukegan issued a temporary injunction against the strikers.

Federal action seemed imminent, inasmuch as the interstate shipments of milk were involved. George E. Q. Johnson, U. S. district attorney, announced he was ready to act if any complaints were made to him.

Mayor Thompson said he opposed the increase of 35 cents per hundredweight, asked by the farmers, members of the Pure Milk association. He said it would cost Chicago residents $5,475,000 additional each year.

More than 1,000,000 pounds of milk have been destroyed since the strike started three weeks ago when the larger distributors, such as the Bowman Dairy company and the Borden company refused to meet the new price asked, $2.85. It was the Bowman company which filed the petition for injunction at Waukegan.

It appeared likely that the Indiana farmers and dealers would get together, many of the dealers having signed an agreement to the increase today. Their action was inspired by the 200 members of the Pure Milk association who stopped their daily delivery of 125,000 pounds of milk to the Calumet district dealers.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD MAY RESUME AROUND WORLD TOUR

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP)—Ninety men and women idled away the hours today at a hotel in Nassau, Bahama Islands, waiting for their ship to be freed from a coral reef so that they could continue their journey part or all the way around the world.

The ship was the Dollar liner President Garfield which left here on a world cruise last Thursday and which drove on to the reef yesterday morning up onto the Matanza Reefs, hidden beneath the blue waters of the South Atlantic at the northern tip of the Baka Islands.

An SOS call sent out at the time of the grounding brought aid from the Munson liner Pan America, which left New York on the same day as the President Garfield and which was 200 miles away. Twelve hours after the grounding the Pan America lay alongside in smooth water and passengers were transferred with all their baggage to Nassau.

The officers and crew of 150 stayed aboard the President Garfield as the Pan America steamed away to Nassau with the passengers, who were lodged at the Colonial hotel as guests of the Dollar line.

A salvage tug reached the scene today and found that the President Garfield was still fast but apparently unharmed. The ballast tanks had been pumped out to lighten her and it had been determined that the ship was making no water. Anchors were lowered to keep her from rolling in the swell.

After a thorough examination it was reported to the line offices here that the ship would probably float off the reef of her own accord as soon as she could be lightered. Barges and lighters were dispatched from Florida to permit removal of her 7,000 tons of general cargo. It was believed that with this weight removed the ship would slide into deep water and could pick up its waiting passengers and continue around the world. Of the 90 passengers 11 were booked for the entire journey and the rest for various way ports.

PENN. ROAD TO CO-ORDINATE RAIL AND BUS SERVICE

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21—(AP)—Following the principle of its transcontinental air-mail service program, the Pennsylvania railroad announced today it has adopted plans to co-ordinate rail and bus service.

This service will cover the entire territory served by the company, with the plan going into effect first in sections where the need is considered most pressing.

One of the first steps in putting the plan into speedy operation was the acquisition of a substantial interest in three motor bus companies now operating from Philadelphia to nearby points. These companies were owned by the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co.

When the new plan is in operation passengers may travel partly by rail and partly by bus, using sleeping cars at night and buses for the daylight portion of their journey.

U. S. NAVAL SEAPLANE DESTROYED BY FIRE

TEGUCIGALPA, Jan. 21—(AP)—The total destruction by fire of a United States naval seaplane is reported in telegrams from Trujillo. The plane was one of 19 in the Caribbean port attended by a mother ship. One sailor was burned.

PRESIDENT-ELECT HOOVER STARTS SOUTHWARD TRIP

HOOVER SPECIAL EN ROUTE TO MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 21—(AP)—President-elect Hoover traveled southward today through Virginia and North Carolina, bound for a month's rest in Miami—his last chance for a vacation before he enters the white house on March 4.

He intends to make the most of it, too. After his close confinement in Washington during the last two weeks and the conferences with hundreds of office seekers and advisers, the prospect of quiet, lonely days in the Florida keys, fishing for Barracuda, sailfish, and other aristocrats or more humble inhabitants of the Gulf stream, hold the strongest appeal for Mr. Hoover.

His most precious baggage is the deep-sea tackle which he bought in California before embarking on his South American trip, and a new rod which has been presented recently to him.

The president-elect is expected to disappear on a fishing trip of several days' duration as soon as he gets through with the first round of visitors in his new home. He may return to Washington about Feb. 25, and he may not appear there until the day before his inauguration—that is a question which Mr. Hoover has not yet definitely decided.

The special train of nine cars made fast time over the Atlantic Coast line. No special stops were on schedule outside those necessary for operating, but all along the way people were watching for his train and hoping for a chance to greet him. Two hundred or more persons were gathered at the station at Richmond, Va., and Mr. Hoover came on the platform of his private coach to greet them.

MISSIONARY KILLED BY WAHABI TRIBESMEN

BASRA, Irak, Jan. 21—(AP)—Henry Bilkerd, for fifteen years with the American Presbyterian mission in the Near East, was killed from ambush by Wahabi tribesmen today. Charles Crane, former American ambassador to China, who was in the same automobile escaped uninjured.

A second automobile carried J. O. Crane, a brother of Charles and Charles Jones, a valet. They were about half way to Kowlit when without warning nearly 100 tribesmen hidden in the desert scrub, opened fire. A bullet entered the shoulder of Mr. Bilkerd and hit the spinal cord. He was a native of Kalamazoo, Mich., and came here four years ago after eleven years on the Persian gulf.

TO FORCE THE CRUISER CONSTRUCTION BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—Senate leaders decided today to force the issue on the cruiser construction bill which its proponents insist is in the throes of a filibuster.

An informal understanding was reached by the leaders with those in charge of the appropriation bills to permit the naval measure to come before the senate upon disposition of the pending deficiency appropriation bill and to allow time for a real test of strength.

This program, tentatively agreed to today at a conference of party leaders, temporarily dispenses with the usual practice of allowing supply bills full right of way in the senate regardless of the regular "unfinished business."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Ger., Jan. 21—(AP)—The Zeppelin construction works are formulating plans for a world flight by one of their craft next summer by way of Siberia, Tokyo, California, Lakehurst, N. J. and Europe.

ROME, Jan. 21—(AP)—Arnaldo Mussolini, brother of the premier, today declined the offer of a journalistic syndicate to make him their candidate for deputy in the coming elections. In a letter to Deputy Amicucci, secretary of the Fascist Journalists association, he reminded him of his similar decision in the last elections.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 21—(AP)—The Liverpool Cotton association moved to combat American success in the continental trade today by permitting trade in cotton futures two years ahead. An extraordinary general meeting decided unanimously to permit such trading up to February, 1931, thus doubling the facilities for futures trading.

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 21—(AP)—A party of former German imperial army and navy officers gathered at Doorn house yesterday to present greetings to their former chief, the former kaiser, who will celebrate his 70th birthday next Sunday. They assembled in the castle hall at 10 a. m. for divine service, which was attended by the former kaiser and his consort.

GEN. BOOTH STEADILY IMPROVING IN HEALTH

LONDON, Jan. 21—(AP)—As if in answer to hopes of the reform element in the Salvation Army that Bramwell Booth would withdraw the injunction suit preventing the high council from electing a successor to him as general, the international headquarters of the Army tonight gave out a bulletin signed by two physicians and stating that the deposed commander was steadily improving in health.

All possibility of electing a new general this week disappeared today when the chancery court granted an adjournment until Friday to permit the defendants to prepare their case. While the injunction was directed against the high council, only Chief of Staff Higgins and the seven commissioners who signed the call for the council meeting, were served as individual defendants.

There has been no sign that Bramwell Booth has any intention of withdrawing the suit. The medical bulletin was issued over the signatures of Drs. John Weir and Ernest Wardlaw Milne who signed a similar bulletin issued about ten days ago and in which they declared that the general would be ready to resume his work within a few months. Today's announcement said:

"We have examined General Booth today. The result of our examination has justified our previous report. His progress has been more than maintained and this, in existing circumstances, must be considered encouraging."

AUTOPSY SHOWS CLINE DIED OF HEART TROUBLE

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP)—Leonard Cline, novelist, who was released from jail last July after serving a term for manslaughter and whose body was found in his Greenwich Village studio yesterday, died of heart trouble, an autopsy disclosed today. There were no suspicious circumstances surrounding the death which occurred five days ago, said Dr. Thomas Gonzales, who performed the autopsy.

Cline was last seen alive Tuesday night at a party where he was host. At that time, said Helen Todd, agent for the building where the novelist lived, he had complained about heart trouble. He came to New York about a month ago from his farm near Willimantic, Conn., where in the spring of 1927, he shot and killed his friend, Wilfred Irwin, advertising man, after a party. Cline maintained the shooting was accidental, but he was indicted for first degree murder. During his trial he pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced to a year in jail. He was released after serving ten months.

PRISONER KILLED IN ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21—(AP)—A violent effort by two manacled prisoners to escape from a moving elevator in the Hall of Justice building today as they were being taken to a courtroom, ended with the death of one and the probable fatal wounding of a deputy sheriff who frustrated their break.

John Hawkins, a convict who had been brought here from San Quentin prison, was killed, Deputy Sheriff A. R. Jones, who killed him after one of the convict's bullets had pierced his chest, is believed to be dying.

Zeke Hayes, a fellow convict, was shot through the shoulder by Jones in the wild fusillade, and John Pope, a Negro elevator operator, who grappled with Hawkins, was slightly wounded. Another deputy sheriff, Tom Higgins, and a bail bondsman, John Cochran, escaped the bullets.

The fatal encounter occurred after Hawkins and Hayes had been removed from their cells to appear in a superior court to answer to robbery charges.

NORTHCOTT DECLINED TO CROSS-EXAMINE WITNESSES

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Jan. 21—(AP)—Gordon Stewart Northcott, charged with the murder of three boys, declined to cross examine witnesses in his trial here today "in my present physical condition." The 22 year old defendant-counsel, who dismissed his lawyers to take over his own case, had conducted cross examination until today in the case through a knowledge of law gained from correspondence courses.

Northcott's failure to question witnesses came at the time Dr. I. D. Nokes, dental anatomist of the University of Southern California, took the stand and identified as human, a tooth found at the defendant's Wineville chicken ranch.

Northcott took little interest in the proceedings. Earlier in the court session he had failed to obtain a continuance on the ground of illness when physicians examined him in court and found him "not physically incapacitated."

46 RECRUITS JOIN RANKS OF MASS. STATE POLICE

BOSTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—Forty-six recruits from the school of instruction joined the ranks of the state police today after exercises held in the presence of Governor Frank G. Allen. Diplomas were presented the new state patrolmen by Alfred E. Foote, commissioner of public safety, after the men had gone through a long drill in horsemanship, jiu jitsu, motorcycle riding, and demonstration of traffic signals.

Gov. Johnston Of Oklahoma Suspended

Resolution Notifying Governor of Suspension Was Adopted by the Senate.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 21—(AP)—Sweeping aside comparatively feeble opposition, the Oklahoma senate late today suspended from office, Gov. Henry S. Johnston, in less than a half hour after it had received five articles of impeachment voted last week by the house of representatives.

In the swift moving succession of events, W. J. Holloway, lieutenant-governor, notified Johnston that he was assuming the duties of the gubernatorial office during the period of suspension; the senate resolved itself into a court of impeachment and organized for the trial of the governor, and the house investigating committee which returned the charges resumed its inquiry into the affairs of state departments.

The senate set January 28 as the day for Johnston's appearance before the court.

TESTIMONY AGAINST MRS. DALLETT H. WILSON

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP)—A traffic policeman testified today that both Dallett H. Wilson, lawyer-politician, and his wife, society woman and jungle huntress, told him last March 29 that bullet wounds suffered by Wilson were inflicted by Mrs. Wilson.

The policeman Dominick Scallafini, said that he was called from his post at 57th street and Fifth avenue by Leon Wagman, a lawyer employed by Wilson, and taken to the Wilson offices where he found Wilson, wounded sitting in a chair.

"I asked Wilson who shot him," he said, "and he told me . . ."

Counsel for Mrs. Wilson, on trial for the shooting, was sustained in his objection and the sentence was not finished.

"I walked into another room," the policeman continued under questioning by the prosecutor, "and saw Mrs. Wilson, a revolver was lying on the desk near her. I took the revolver and asked 'is this yours?' she said it was. I took her into the other room and asked Wilson, 'is this the woman who shot you?' he replied, 'yes, that's my wife.' I asked her if she shot him and she said, 'yes.'"

Among other witnesses were a stenographer and a telephone operator in the Wilson offices who told of their knowledge of the shooting. Goldie Honig, the stenographer, said that after she had gone with Wagman to get a policeman, she found Mrs. Wilson with the telephone operator and that the huntress said she had either shot or killed her husband, Miss Honig could not remember which.

Wilson, who spent two months in a hospital after the shooting, testified when the trial opened last Friday that the shooting occurred during an argument over financial matters in connection with his separation from his wife and that he believed it accidental. He was shot twice, once in the shoulder and once in the back, an inch and a half from the spinal column.

Mrs. Wilson is at liberty under $10,000 bail. She was an apparently interested spectator during the court testimony, dressed in a fashionable gown with a white gardenia pinned at one shoulder.

The prosecution rested its case late this afternoon and adjournment was taken until Wednesday because State Senator Elmer Quinn, her lawyer, is a member of a senate committee meeting in Albany tomorrow. Senator Quinn told reporters that he might call on Mrs. Wilson to take the stand in her own defense but that no other defense witness would testify.

BOYS BREAK FROM JUNIOR REPUBLIC AT LITCHFIELD

LITCHFIELD, Jan. 21—(AP)—For the first time in the history of the Connecticut junior republic at Litchfield, a wholesale "jail break" was engineered early this morning and self government among the boy inhabitants of the establishment temporarily broke down. Famed for its revolutionary methods with wayward and misunderstood boys the institution has had surprisingly little trouble with group departures of its inhabitants. Today, however, eight inmates of the boys' guard house were released by a boy guard who crept out of his quarters late at night, obtained the key to the jail and departed with his friends. Strangely enough, 11 other boys also inmates of the guardhouse, for some minor offense refused to leave.

ENTIRE DEPT. CALLED OUT TO FIRE IN ALBANY

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 22—(AP)—(Tuesday)—A fire, which resulted in the calling out of the city's entire fire department, broke out in the south side here shortly after midnight and threatened an entire city block occupied by three story buildings. The flames had gathered considerable headway when discovered.

The fire spread quickly to six buildings located at Madison avenue and South Pearl street, just south of State street, one of the city's main thoroughfares. Firemen, after a hurried survey, believed loss would be near $500,000 unless the blaze was checked within an hour. One of the chief buildings in the fire was the three story brick structure occupied by the Sons of Italy.

FIRE IN THE BUSINESS SECTION OF EASTPORT, ME.

EASTPORT, Me., Jan. 21—(AP)—Fire, discovered late tonight in a large two story wooden business block, threatened to wipe out the entire business section of the city. The block contains nearly a third of the business establishments of Eastport. A 30-mile northwest wind and near zero temperature hampered firemen to such an extent that a hurried summons for aid was sent to Lubec, five miles away.

THREE CHILDREN IN ONE FAMILY DIED OF PNEUMONIA

BRIDGEPORT, Jan. 21—(AP)—Three children, all less than two years of age, in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Nosa, died here yesterday and today from pneumonia, following influenza. Their funerals will be held tomorrow afternoon. The health department reported 374 new cases for Sunday and Monday.

West Confirmed As Sec'y Of Interior

Vote Was Reported as 54 to 27—Followed Three Days of Discussion.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—Roy O. West, of Chicago, was confirmed as secretary of the interior today by the senate by an overwhelming vote after three days of discussion of his nomination in secret session.

The vote was reported as 54 to 27, but there were many conflicting reports on the actual number of ballots received by West, the range being between 52 and 55. The consensus of those emerging from the smoke-filled chamber when the doors finally were opened was that 54 to 27 was the result. Only a majority was necessary.

Republican independents who opposed the nominee because of his previous connections with the Samuel Insull power utility interests, made a determined last-minute effort to have the proceedings, including the roll call and the committee reports, made public. But they failed by close votes.

Senators Deneen and Glenn, republicans, of Illinois, who conducted the case for West before the senate, closed the argument today after Senators Blaine, of Wisconsin, and Nye, of North Dakota, had made another assault.

Appointed last August by President Coolidge to succeed Secretary Work when he became chairman of the republican national committee, Mr. West's nomination was sent to the senate early in December. He appeared at open hearings before the senate lands committee and received a vote of 9 to 4 for confirmation there.

A number of democrats joined with the republican majority in the vote for confirmation. Senator Deneen recalled the testimony of West before the lands committee that the nominee had sold his investments in the Insull companies at the time he was appointed to the cabinet. He said that over a period of 26 years West had invested about $67,000 in the Insull stocks, which were sold for about $118,000.

Testifying before the lands committee, West said that his law business for the Insull companies had been only of a "casual" nature.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, was one of those leading the spirited attack. Complaint was registered against the action of West in participating as a member of the federal power commission, in the hearing on a petition by the Cumberland Hydro-Electric Co., a subsidiary of the Insull companies, for a license to develop power at Cumberland Falls, Ky.

On behalf of West, it was recalled that he had consented to withdraw from participation in any cases coming before his department involving the Insull companies.

The final efforts to get the whole proceedings into the open provoked another of the many rows the senate frequently indulges in over how contested executive nominations are to be considered, but the two-thirds necessary to break the practice of secrecy in the consideration of nominations was not available.

After the vote on confirmation two other votes were taken before the doors were opened. The first was on whether the roll call on the West nomination should be made public. This failed. The second was on a motion to make public the majority and minority reports of the land committee. Although the hearings before the committee were public and the testimony was published, the senate stood firm against publication of the reports.

TO TEST THE VALIDITY OF PRESIDENTIAL POCKET VETO

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—The validity of a presidential pocket veto of legislation at the end of any session except the concluding session of a congress is to be decided by the supreme court.

Since adoption of the constitution this has been a disputed point and the court announced today that it would pass upon the question in a case affecting a group of Indian tribes in the state of Washington.

The decision is expected to be a controlling factor in the controversy over the Norris Muscle Shoals resolution which was enacted last session but which was never signed by President Coolidge.

On the question of legislation becoming a law without the signature of the president, the constitution says:

"If any bill shall not be returned by the president within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same bill shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the congress, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law."

The controversy has developed over the construction to be placed upon the word "adjournment." Attorney generals repeatedly have advised presidents that the end of any session of congress constitutes an adjournment in the sense in which this word is used in the constitution.

NEW STRUGGLE FOR THE THRONE OF AFGHANISTAN

LONDON, Jan. 21—(AP)—Three kings of Afghanistan—one present and two past—are gathering their forces for a new struggle for the throne of that turbulent country.

The difficulties of communication are giving rise to sinister rumors of what is happening in the dynastic struggle but according to advices received at Peshawar and Delhi, in India, the situation does not appear to have greatly changed in the past few days.

Habibullah, who was called "the water boy" before his forceful seizure of the title of king, is still in control of Kabul while the deposed Amanullah seems to be strengthening his hold in the Kandahar region. Inayatullah, the unlucky king-for-three days, is on the way to join his brother at Kandahar.

A struggle for supremacy between Kabul and Kandahar is in prospect.

BRITISH STEAMER IN NEED OF IMMEDIATE ASSISTANCE

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 21—(AP)—The British steamer Teesbridge, which sailed from Cowey, England, on January 9 for Philadelphia, is in need of immediate assistance at latitude 46.31 north and longitude 45.00 west, according to a wireless message from Cape Race received by C. H. Harvey, marine and fisheries agent here this morning.

The position places the steamer about 450 miles east of Cape Race.

SEC'Y MELLON REPLIES TO BISHOP JAMES CANNON, JR.

Informs the Bishop That It Would Be Unwise to Place $25,000,000 in the Hands of Any Executive Office to Use With "Unlimited Discretion" to Enforce the Prohibition Law—The Secretary Emphasized the Fact That the Federal Courts Are Unable to Try All the Cases Prepared Under the National Prohibition Law.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—Emphasizing that the federal courts are unable to try all the cases prepared under the national prohibition law Secretary Mellon today wrote Bishop James Cannon, Jr., that it would be unwise to place $25,000,000 in the hands of any executive office to use with "unlimited discretion," to enforce the prohibition law.

The secretary's letter was in a reply to a telegram from Bishop Cannon, Bishop Thomas Nicholson, president of the Anti-Saloon league, and Eugene L. Crawford, secretary of the board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal church south. They had urged Secretary Mellon to reconsider his action of declining at the present time an additional appropriation of $25,000,000 for dry law enforcement.

Secretary Mellon said that in his opinion it would be unwise to place so much money at the disposal of any executive official because the safeguards which should surround the expenditure of public money could not be provided under such circumstances. He added that it would tend to break down the safeguards of the budget system and said it would violate a fundamental principle of government.

The secretary declared he believed that more would be lost than gained if a fundamental principle was violated for the purpose of accomplishing immediately some improvement in the prohibition or any other field. He also said that the Harris amendment would make the money available only for the prohibition bureau and that the customs and coast guard services would need strengthening to accomplish the purpose desired. He added that there are now pending 21,000 prohibition cases in federal courts with no relief in sight.

The secretary's letter read:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of your telegram of January 18th in which you suggest that the appropriation of $25,000,000 for the prohibition bureau as contained in the so-called Harris amendment to the first deficiency bill be made available so as to expend as the secretary of the treasury may determine and in which you also suggest that the seal on the part of the secretary of the treasury to secure adequate enforcement may well be questioned if he refuses the opportunity offered by the Harris amendment.

"As I pointed out in my letter of January 12th to Senator Warren, prohibition enforcement does not rest solely upon the bureau of prohibition, but its success depends largely on the cooperation afforded by the coast guard, the customs service and the border patrol, and, what is even of more importance on the possibility of bringing to trial cases prepared by the prohibition bureau and ready for trial.

"What I endeavored to point out in my letter to Senator Warren is that the Harris amendment makes the additional funds available to the prohibition bureau only and restricts the uses by that bureau, with no discretion in the secretary of the treasury. There are now 21,000 liquor cases pending in the federal courts and causing congestion with no relief in sight.

"The customs service needs additional guard in the principal ports and the border patrol needs strengthening, while in so far as the coast guard is concerned, Admiral Billard is at present undertaking a survey as to the ships needed to replace a number of destroyers whose usefulness has been pretty nearly exhausted, and is prepared to recommend an increase in the commissioned personnel of the coast guard.

"The Harris amendment would not make funds available for any of these purposes, nor could the additional money provided be used for the educational purposes which you emphasize in your telegram.

"Under these circumstances, can it be fairly said that an appropriation of $25,000,000 made with these restrictions would of itself constitute an intelligent and effective means of promoting prohibition enforcement.

"I note that in your telegram you suggest that the restrictions be removed and that $25,000,000 be made available to the secretary of the treasury to spend as he sees fit.

"This, of course, is not the Harris amendment now pending in congress, and aside from the fact that it would make no provision whatsoever for relieving the congestion in the courts, which today constitutes one of the major problems in the field of prohibition enforcement, I want to suggest whether you consider it good practice to place so vast a sum in the hands of a public official with unlimited discretion as to its use? It makes no difference whether that official be the secretary of the treasury or some other chief of an executive department of government I do not believe that adequate protection of the public interest and the proper safeguards that should always surround the expenditures of public funds can fairly be said to have been provided for if an appropriation of this character is made.

"Such a program would break down the safeguards of the budget system, and the effective and proper control which congress exercises over the expenditure of public funds. I think that upon second consideration you will realize that this is not a minor question but a fundamental one, and that in the long run, whether in the prohibition field or in any other field of government, infinitely more is lost than gained if for the sake of accomplishing immediately a purpose, no matter how desirable, a fundamental principle of good government and sound practices is violated."

SENATOR BLAINE'S VIEWS OF THE PROHIBITION LAW

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—Tales of the stringent laws of Puritan days in New England and racy stories of "dry voting" legislators who were intoxicated when they voted for prohibition bills filled the record of the senate today as Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, talked for nearly three hours while the advocates of the naval cruiser bill stood by impatiently.

Senator Blaine made an extended attack upon laws which he said invaded a person's right to liberty. He declared it was impossible to make sinful and criminal certain acts of the individual by legislating them to be so.

During his discussion he told a story of a prohibition enforcement official in Wisconsin who, when a member of the state legislature, was taken home in a taxicab after voting for a prohibition bill because Blaine declared, "he was not able to get home any other way."

He termed the prohibition law "the most vicious system of tyranny" and declared that the Cossacks under the Russian czar and the black and tan English troops in Ireland were "no more to be detested than the spies and agents ingrained upon the American system."

"Rome in her balmiest days," said the senator, "was infested with 10,000 spies and became a decadent nation for a thousand years. Any government that must depend on force is a weak government."

Senator Blaine declared he did not agree with all the criticism of Secretary Mellon's enforcement to the law.

"I don't believe Mr. Mellon has impartially enforced the law," he said, "I don't believe he can enforce it."

MADE FALSE REPORTS OF LIQUOR SAMPLES

BOSTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—Dr. George H. Bigelow, state commissioner of public health, whose department was charged by the Boston police with irregularities in the analysis of samples of seized liquor, today announced the dismissal of William Crawford, of Medford, a junior state chemist. One of the reasons given for the dismissal was the making of false reports of liquor samples.

COM. WHALEN HANDLES TRAFFIC AT TIMES SQUARE

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP)—Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen wearing a white carnation in his buttonhole, led 400 of his most elegantly groomed cops into Times Square tonight and gave the populace—those blase New Yorkers who will stop the traffic any time to gather round a fallen horse—a free show.

While the flashlight guns boomed, and reporters with police cards stuck in their hatbands scurried hither and yon, the police commissioner in person set out to untangle New York's theater district traffic jam.

The performance took on many of the aspects of the parades Mr. Whalen used to put on when he was Father Knickerbocker's official glad-hander—and the crowd loved it. Thousands turned out to see it, with the result that, while motor traffic was miraculously speeded up, the going on foot was more like election night than just an ordinary Monday. The only difference was that the pedestrians all had to stay on the sidewalks.

It was an unusual sight—a good show—to see taxicabs traveling at 30 and 35 miles an hour right across town, on 42nd street, at 8:30 p. m. Now and then individuals in the slowly moving, but highly entertained, mob or pedestrians would give vent to lusty cheers.

Theater managers all over the district reported a vast improvement in the punctuality of their audiences. Under Commissioner Whalen's "stagger plan," musical comedies rang up their curtains at 8:30, and straight dramatic shows at 8:50. One manager reported that his audience was all in the theater at least 10 minutes earlier than usual.

They towed out 22 cars, said a report received by Commissioner Whalen at 9 o'clock. A checkup of license numbers revealed that not one of the 22 belonged to a resident of Manhattan. The owners will get their cars by applying to the police. They'll also get summonses.

The result was that streets that usually are about 50 per cent usable for moving traffic were as open as country roads when the theater crowd began to move in.

Then no empty taxis were permitted to go cruising through the district between 7.30 and 9:30 and veritable lanes of patrolmen were on hand to see to it that the pedestrians moved only with the traffic lights. There was no jay-walking and no sprinting across in front of moving traffic. The result was that the automobiles had a chance to move—and did. There was apparently no speed limit.

HOUSE VOTES $1,750,000 FOR U. S. COAST GUARD ACADEMY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—The Hoch bill to authorize an appropriation of $1,750,000 for the United States Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn., was passed today by the house. It now goes to the senate.

The bill would provide that the sum appropriated be used for the construction of buildings on a site to be acquired by the government without expense. The city of New London has offered to donate a site overlooking the Thames river for the academy's new buildings. The present buildings are temporary barracks in old Fort Trumbull constructed during the early history of the republic.

AIRPLANE QUESTION MARK NARROWLY AVERTED CRASH

MIDLAND, Texas, Jan. 21—(AP)—The record breaking army endurance airplane "Question Mark" came within five feet of crashing into a fence when low hanging fogs forced it to land three miles from Midland airport this afternoon on its flight to the Atlantic coast.

WILLIMANTIC

Office 824 Main Street Telephone 1181-2

HARTFORD EDITOR TO ADDRESS CONG. BROTHERHOOD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 21.—Maurice S. Sherman, editor of The Hartford Courant, has been secured as the speaker for the regular January meeting of the Congregational Church Brotherhood to be held next Thursday evening in the church house. It was announced today. Mr. Sherman was secured by Earl J. Arnold, chairman of the program for the meeting. The subject that Mr. Sherman will use is to be announced within a few days. The supper which precedes the program will be served by the Ladies' Aid society and Harry W. Standish will lead the singing. Mr. Sherman was born in Hanover, N. H., where he secured his early and preparatory education in the public schools. He then entered Dartmouth, graduating in 1894 with a degree of Bachelor of Science. He went to the Springfield Union in July of 1894 to enter the sporting department. Later he was transferred to the city staf and shortly thereafter was assigned to cover the important post of reporting municipal building and court ehous news. He later became city editor, then news editor and finally managing editor. While holding the latter position he did considerable editorial writing and subsequently took complete charge of the editorial page. He became editor in 1912.

Following the death of Charles Hopkins Clark of the Hartford Courant, Mr. Sherman was appointed editor of that paper on September 28, 1926. Already recognized as a most instructive speaker in Massachusetts, he was urged to appear before many groups in Connecticut, and he has been liberal in meeting these requests. Members of the Brotherhood have been privileged to invite guests for the meetin.

The death of Leonard Cline, novelist and former newspaperman in New York has brought general recollection here of the sensation created by his arraignment for murder in the Tolland county superior court following the killing of his friend, Wilfred Prior Irwin at Cline's farm on Wormwood Hill, Mansfield, in the spring of 1927. Interest in the case, owing to Cline's rising fame as a writer, spread throughout the eastern and middle west states. Over three days were spent in selecting a jury to try the case. When the actual trial was about to get under way the sudden announcement was made that the charge of murder in the first degree had been amended to manslaughter. This modification of the charge was accepted on a plea that Cline had suffered from temporary insanity due to intoxication at the time of the shooting. Upon completing a one year sentence in the county jail and paying a fine of $1,000, Cline returned to his farm in Mansfield and remained there with his friend, Van Emple, an artist, until last month when he went to New York.

A group of business men met at the chamber of commerce offices this forenoon and then made the first of a series of visits to industrial plants in the city with an inspection of the Willimantic Silk, Inc. The series of visits have been arranged by the industrial committee of the chamber of commerce. The group this morning were guests of General Manager John F. Ahern, of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company, owner of the mills in which the new silk concern is located. A stop was made in the office of the company on the first floor of the west mill. An inspection was then made of attractive floor space on the second floor and the group then proceeded to the fourth floor where they found 60 looms in operation. Space has been made ready on this floor for the installation of an additional 60 looms that are expected to be delivered within a few weeks. The floor spaces being offered for rental in No. 1 and No. 2 floors have been decorated in brilliant white and otherwise made ready for immediate occupancy. Another group will visit the plants Tuesday forenoon. Members of the Rotary club will inspect the industry following a short meeting at noon, Feb. 5.

FUNERALS

Daniel E. Foley

Services for Daniel E. Foley were held this morning with a high mass of requiem in St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Dennis F. Moran, of South Coventry, was celebrant. Hymns were sung by Mrs. Mary Mathieu and Mrs. Emma Doyle with Mrs. E. R. Portelance presiding at the organ. Burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery, where Rev. Father Moran conducted a committal prayer. The bearers were: William Hines, John Hines, James Hines, Warren Guinee, Edward Foley, Jr., and Robert Hines. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Bros.

Everett K. Leffingwell

Funeral services for Everett K. Leffingwell were held at the home in Windham Center at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Frederick C. Williams, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, officiated. Burial was in the Linwood cemetery, Colchester. Arrangements were in charge of the J. C. Lincoln company.

WEDDING

Sweet-Bicknell

Miss Elizabeth May Bicknell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bicknell, of 50 Meadow street, and Arthur L. Sweet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sweet, of Milford, Mass., were married at St. Paul's Episcopal church Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. F. C. Williams, the rector, officiated. They were attended by Mrs. Anna Knapp of North Windham, sister of the bride, and Reginald Sweet, of Milford, brother of the groom. Little Miss Faith Sweet carried the bride's veil. The bride was attired in white georgette with a veil caught up with a wreath of pearls. She carried white carnations. Her matron of honor wore orchid georgette with head band to harmonize and she carried sweet peas. Over 100 relatives and friends attended the ceremony and many of these were guests at a luncheon served at the bride's home. Mr. and Mrs. Sweet are not on a wedding tour.

In line with preparations for a busy spring program at the Nathan Hale hotel, Manager Charles E. Mayo announced today that the annual convention of the Connecticut State Federation of Woman's Clubs would be held here starting Tuesday, May 14. Headquarters will be established at the hotel by the federation president, Miss Emily Plumley, of Glenbrook. PENDLETON HILL

THE LATE EDWARD P. YORK FAMOUS BANK ARCHITECT

Edward Palmer York of New York and Stonington, who died recently, was internationally known as a bank architect, ranking high among the best. He was a grandson of Luther Palmer, a son of Harriet Wells Palmer York and a nephew of Robert Potter Palmer. He spent considerable time in his childhood and youth at the Palmer homestead. His mother was well known and much beloved. His father was Hiram York, a nephew of Miss Ruth York, a lifelong resident of this place. Mr. York had made his mark in the world largely through his own unaided efforts. A graduate of Cornell, he received special training at the office of McKim, Mead & White, and then established for himself the firm of York & Sawyer of New York. A number of years ago he won by competition the Federal Bank building in New York. Less than two weeks before his death he had attended the opening of a new bank, happy in the appreciation of the large number of people present at this ceremony. The week of his burial he was to tave attended the opening of his latest building at Vassar college. Mr. York's beautiful estate on the hill in Stonington is evidence of his discriminating taste and culture. His passing is a distinct loss professionally and socially. Mr. York was a beloved child of our own hill both through his paternal and material ancestry. He was a millionaire by his own efforts. He leaves his wife, Muriel Gould York, and three children, Clarinda Wells York, June, and Edward Palmer York, Jr.

The voice without a cold

Let Daisy tell you: it's the voice without a cold that is the voice with a smile. And this is how she avoids 'phone that they won't be down to work.

Right after every exposure, if she feels shivery, or has wet her feet, or gets that warning tickle in her throat or nose, she takes GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. She doesn't wait; not Daisy. She has learned to carry the handy white box in her purse for just such emergencies—and for headaches, too. So she nips the cold while it merely threatens, and avoids grip and flu and other serious ills which often begin with a cold.

Remember, there is only one BROMO QUININE. So it is a wise precaution to emphasize GROVE'S, when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

DANIELSON

FORMER ELMVILLE MAN DIES AT FAIRHAVEN, MASS.

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 21—John I. Bryant is dead at his home in Fair Haven, Mass. He was 79 years of age. It was from this town that Mr. Bryant went forth as a boy of 15, to serve with the union armies in the last year of the Civil war, and it was to this town that he returned two or three times each year for more than half a century to rest and enjoy the scenes of his youthful days. His last visit here was during the past fall.

From an orphaned boy with practically no prospects in life, Mr. Bryant won high place for himself in the affairs of Bristol county, Mass., and a close personal association with the late Henry H. Rogers, Standard Oil multi-millionaire and benefactor of Fair Haven.

Mr. Bryant was born March 1, 1850 at Bandon, County Cork, Ireland, and was brought to this country by his parents when he was but three years of age. The straitened circumstances in which his parents found themselves a few years after their arrival in this country required that he go to work in a New Bedford mill when he was but nine years of age and at 12 he found himself an orphan, both his father and mother passing away within a short time of each other. Left with no home he and his little brother were committed to an orphanage and it was from this institution that he wa staken out to work on the Dexter farm at Elmville, now the Keegan homestead.

During the quarter of a century that Mr. Bryant was chairman of the board of county commissioners of Bristol county, Mass., and with supervision over its charitable institutions, he ever had in mind his own lot as a child, and was unceasing in his efforts for improved conditions within them. He was a familiar figure about the state house in Boston, where for several years he waged vigorous battles—and he was a vigorous and convincing battler—against state control of county institutions. First elected as a county commissioner as a democrat in 1900 in an overwhelmingly republican county, he held the office continuously thereafter up to the time of his death, and usually received the nomination of both parties. In more recent years he has been allied with the republican party.

Mr. Bryant was a close personal friend of Henry H. Rogers, and at his instance served for some time as assistant superintendent of streets of Fair Haven. This, and other arrangements with Mr. Rogers, gave him close supervision over Mr. Rogers' many benefactions to that city.

Mr. Bryant always told with delight of how, as he described it, "I lied my way into the United States service during the Civil war and am proud of it!" He was only 15 years when he presented himself for enlistment, but claimed to the recruiting officer that he was 18 and made him believe it. "I never have been sorry for that," Mr. Bryant would say. Mr. Bryant served a full three year term as a member of the Third artillery, then re-enlisted for another three years. He served in the south, on the Indian frontier, the Pacific coast and in the Blue Ridge mountains, where he helped drive out moonshiners and outlaws.

After being honorably discharged from the service with the rank of first sergeant he returned to Fair Haven and learned the stone mason's trade. He was first elected to public office in 1887, when he was made a member of the board of selectmen in Fair Haven, and held a place on the board for many years.

Mr. Bryant was a man of particularly keen mind, a man with marked oratorical ability and, above all, scrupulously honest.

No Burglary, Wife Took Money.

It develops after all, that there was no burglary at Peter Hadjun's store in the Evans block Sunday morning. Chief John McFarland has quite clearly established that, and so announced, after re-checking all of the facts in the case and unearthing more information about the matter. It now develops that Mrs. Hadjun took the money out of the cash register upon closing the store, her husband not being present at the time and she not wishing leave the money there. She did not take out the change, which was found undisturbed after the supposed break. The broken glass in the door is accounted for by the fact that a man, more or less under the influence, was seen wobbling about in the doorway of the Hadjun store just prior to Officer Laird Winchell discovering the break, and it is believed that this man accidentally broke the glass leaning against it.

Funeral of Matthew Beauregard.

Military honors were paid Matthew Beauregard at his funeral in Waurega this morning. The funeral was held from the home, with services at the Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock, Rev. J. H. Quinn being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. A delegation representing Leo J. L'Homme post, American legion of this town, was in attendance, for Mr. Beauregard was a World war veteran, having been in the naval service. The bearers, all formerly in the naval service and in uniform, were Edward Burns, Wilfred Joyal, Walter Aubin and Adelard Beauregard. Burial was in Sacred Heart cemetery. Rev. Fr. Quinn conducting the committal service. Taps were sounded by Joseph Messier. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Judge's Salary May Be Increased.

It is forecast that a resolution will be introduced at this session of the legislature to increase the salary of the judge of the town court of Killingly from $1,000 to $1,200. It is understood that attorneys here generally favor the proposal. In the town court of Killingly the judge also is required to do the clerical work, which takes much more of the time of the judge than does the hearing of cases in court. The majority of town and city courts have a paid clerk as well as a judge. In addition to the keeping of the records there are various other obligations that require time resting upon the judge, who also because of his official position is excluded from taking certain classes of cases that otherwise might be handled by him. In view of all of this, the feeling appears to be among the members of the legal profession that the proposed increase of $200 is well deserved.

Increase in Poultry Flocks.

The prospect is for a further increase in the number and size of poultry flocks in Killingly, Brooklyn and other nearby towns during the late winter and early spring of this year. Numbering thousands of members now, it would be interesting to know what a census of flocks would show, as to numbers, in May or June. Incubators at poultry farms within a dozen miles of Danielson will produce scores of thousand of chicks in the early part of this year. All of this is indicative of the growth of the poultry industry in northeastern Connecticut and of the very large sum of money invested in poultry plants and flocks.

News Briefs.

There was but one case before the town court this morning, that of Frank Clune, charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. Judge W. Fenner Woodward imposed a sentence of 30 days on each count, but suspended execution of the sentence.

Some members of Killingly grange were in Putnam this evening to witness the joint installation ceremonies for newly elected officers of Brooklyn, Putnam, Woodstock and Thompson granges.

Under the auspices of the Wesleyan circle, a fellowship supper has been arranged to be held at the Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday evening, and there is to be a program.

W. E. Bitgood, J. M. Mellor and Sidney P. Marland went afishing through the ice, the place a state secret. As trophies they brought home two pickerel well worth talking about. Mr. Mellor had one that weighed 4 1-4 pounds, Mr. Bitgood one that weighed in at 3 pounds and one ounce. They had other smaller ones in number.

On Thursday evening of this week at the Westfield Congregational church Rev. Harding W. Gaylord will begin his series of studies of the Book of Job.

Members of the Order of the Eastern Star are to have a bridge and whist party at the home of Mrs. Walter Anderson, Broad street, Tuesday afternoon.

Judge James N. Tucker of East Killingly for years has kept a daily weather record, and he calls attention to the fact that so far during January there has been, at East Killingly, a variation of 61 degrees from the minimum to the maximum temperature, a range unequaled in January in his memory, he says.

PUTNAM

ELEVEN CASES OF INFLUENZA ARE REPORTED IN PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 21—There are eleven cases of influenza in Putnam according to a statement issued this morning by City Health Officer Peter A. Gardner.

Throughout the city today warnings have been posted urging residents to use every possible precaution to avert contagion. Of the eleven cases reported only three were of a serious nature. The health department is today preparing to nip the disease in the bud, but can do so only with the cooperation of the people within the city.

Watch is being maintained over the children enrolled in the public and parochial schools, in an effort to check any spread among the students within the city.

City physicians are today treating scores of their patients for grip colds and a number of pneumonia cases. It was reported today that many cases have been termed influenza, but in reality are only severe cases of grip, and while careful treatment is necessary to avert more severe stages of the disease, there is no cause for general alarm within the city.

THEATRE CORP. DENIED MOTION TO SET ASIDE $10,000 VERDICT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 21—Judge Edward M. Yeomans opened a short calendar session in superior court at Putnam this afternoon to settle a number of cases assigned to trial list, that have been lingering. Judge Yeomans denied the Putnam Theatres corporation a motion to set aside the verdict awarded Charles Briere of Killingly, by a jury in a $10,000 damage suit in superior court in this city about a month ago. Briere alleged that he was dealt an unnecessary blow by a Danielson policeman employed by the Putnam Theatres corporation and was permanently injured by the force employed by the officer. In payment of his damages the jury awarded Briere $7,000 damages, which was ordered carried out by the judge.

This afternoon Attorney E. L. Darble of Danielson attempted to prove that Briere's injuries were not permanent and that he was paid for wages he would not have earned if he had been able to work.

Judge Yeomans carefully considered the plea of the Danielson attorney and at once denied the motion of the argument, offering no reason.

Unless mortgages held on the old state armory on Livery street, which is part of the estate of the late William St. Onge are paid by May 1, foreclosure proceedings will take place by the Cargill Trust company and subsequent mortgage holders on the property.

In court this afternoon before Judge Yeomans, J. Dyer Potter, treasurer of the Cargill Trust company, testified that Mr. St Onge's wife and sole beneficiary endorsed a note on the property before delivery to the Cargill Trust company. There is due on the property about $8,778.55, with accumulated interest due Jan. 1, amounting to $318.30.

After hearing testimony of bona fide read estate appraisers, Judge Yeomans awarded a decision in favor of the plaintiff granting a limitation of sale until May 1, 1929.

The First National bank of this city, now a defunct institution appeared before Judge Yeomans against Leon H. Hamilton and others upon a claim for foreclosure of a mortgage held by the bank on property in South Woodstock, known as Stone Bridge dancing pavilion. Appraisers testified that the property has a resale value amounting to about $1500. Mr. Coffin testified that George French, formerly of Woodstock, purchased the property and gave a note to the bank. Since then the bank has been paying insurance on the former dancing palace but there is still a total of $3,384.08 due on the estate. Judge Yeomans gave the plaintiff a limitation of sale until February 25.

Many other civil cases of less importance were heard before Judge Yeomans during the short calendar session today. Following the close of the short calendar, a number of uncontested divorces were heard, decree being awarded in each case.

Arthur J. Lathrop of Killingly was awarded a decree of divorce from his wife Mrs. Flora H. Dunham Lathrop of Killingly today on grounds of desertion. Lathrop was represented by Attorney Harry E. Back of Danielson. He testified that his wife was jealous and many arguments over his conduct led her to leave him. After deliberating on questions asked him by Judge Yeomans, Lathrop admitted that he attempted to win back his wife's favor and tried to induce her to return to him. John J. O'Neill of Dayville and Sheriff Charles E. Ayer also of Dayville testified that the defendant had not returned to her husband since their separation. Upon this testimony Judge Yeomans granted the divorce on grounds of desertion. Lathrop testified that no children were born of his marriage.

Danielson Woman Given Divorce.

Mrs. Helen M. Purvis of Danielson appeared in superior court this afternoon seeking a divorce from her husband Walter E. Purvis of Danielson, on grounds of intoxication. Mrs. Purvis testified her husband's excess use of alcoholic beverages is alleged to be the cause of her poor health conditions and recent illness. In her direct testimony she revealed the fact that her husband's use of intoxicants caused a depression in his express business to such an extent that she was forced to assume control of the business and employ drivers to carry out her work. Margaret C. Hayes of Providence, who nursed Mrs. Purvis back to health testified that on several occasions she had seen Mr. Purvis return to his home intoxicated. Upon receipt of this testimony Judge Yeomans awarded Mrs. Purvis the decree on the grounds of intoxication, and also awarded her custody of her three children.

Divorce Granted Webster Man.

A. L. Dragon of Webster, Mass., formerly of Killingly was awarded a decree of divorce from his wife, Florence E. Montgomery, on grounds of desertion. Dragon testified that his wife became intimate with other men and when he remonstrated, she left with one of her friends for parts unknown, and has never signified her intentions of returning. Sheriff Chas. E. Ayer testified that until recently the wife of Dr. Dragon has been living in Goodyear. A number of witnesses, most of whom resided in Webster were ready to testify in behalf of the defendant, but the decree was granted, before these were called to the stand. Dragon was represented by Attorney Arthur G. Bill of Danielson.

Captain William J. Jarvis of the local police is to leave for Palmer, Mass., Tuesday morning, where he will endeavor to link William J. Farrell of Akron, O., with the state trade school break, committed on Thanksgiving morning. Captain Jarvis was informed by the police of that city this morning of the arrest of Farrell. In the prisoner's possession was a small coupe, a number of tools and other stolen property that indicates he devoted his attention to tool shops and garages. Capt. Jarvis feels certain that Farrell's arrest will throw some light on the trade school break, since investigations by the police have revealed that the person or persons who entered the school came from Ohio. In his possession Capt. Jarvis has a pair of overalls, which were purchased in Ohio, and some tools.

Since the school was entered, the safe cracked and $200 in cash stolen, nearly three months ago, the police have been unable to obtain any definite clues as to the nature of the break. Since the break was committed Capt. Jarvis has been in communication with police departments throughout the state, asking the cooperation in an effort to apprehend the men who looted the trade school.

Mrs. Rosalie Berthiaume of Van Den Noort street, died yesterday after an illness of a few days. Mrs. Berthiaume was born in Canada on Jan. 2, 1856. She came with her parents to this country at an early age and has since resided here. She was a member of St. Mary's church of this city and was active in a number of the church societies. She is survived by her husband Adolph Berthiaume.

Mrs. Jennie Roy, died this morning at her home on Buck street at the age of 61 years. Mrs. Roy was a native of St. Alban's Vermont, but had resided for the past number of years in this city. She was the wife of the late Frank Roy, who died a few years ago. Mrs. Roy is survived by two sons and two doughters, who reside in Putnam.

Alphone R. Dupre, father of Noel Dupre, of this city, died at his home on Woodstock avenue, suddenly this morning, at the age of 78 years. Mr. Dupre retired early Sunday evening and was in good health, with exception of a slight cold. It was observed that he did not arise at the customary hour this morning, and shortly before ten o'clock Miss Leona Dupre, his daughter, went to his bedroom to awaken him. He did not respond and a physician was summoned. It was learned that the elderly gentleman had died several hours before, death being due to heart disease.

Mr. Dupre was born in St. Victorire, Canada. He has resided the greater part of his life in Putnam.

Miss Edith Goyette of School street is confined to her home, suffering from an attack of grip.

Jos. Michel of Grove street was injured Sunday evening when a car in which he was riding went from his control and capsized on the Providence highway. Mr. Michel was thrown through the top of the car, escaping with bruises about the arms

WESTERLY

SANTO GACCIONE SHOT—LOUIS GINGERILLA IS HELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 21—An autopsy was performed on the body of Santo Gaccione, 43, fatally shot while he lay asleep in bed with his wife and infant in a second floor front room of his home 4 Marion street, Monday at 1 a. m. The autopsy was held Monday at Westerly hospital, to find the bullet which the police claim caused the man's murder. At the police station before being lodged in a cell, Louis Gingerilla, 34, residing at 88 Oak street, his alleged assailant, underwent a two hours' grilling by Lieut. George H. Champlin and Officer Robert M. Kessel, who placed him under arrest and by Medical Examiner Dr. Michael H. Scanlon. Held as material witnesses at the police station are John, or Giocono Groccia, residing downstairs in the house with the murdered man and Fred Grabrielle, who was in Gingerilla's company just previous to the shooting.

Although the shot was fired about 1 a. m., it is claimed that the sound of the west-bound passing Quaker express on the tracks of the New Haven road deadened the sound and the residents of the neighborhood did not hear the report of a gun. Fruitless efforts of the occupants of the house in calling a physician after the shooting, delayed police notification and it was not until 1:55 that they arrived at the house, but at 3:15 p. m. Gingerilla, Groccia and Gabrielle were under arrest at Westerly police station.

A telephone call from the house of a neighbor on Oak street was the first word received by Lieutenant Champlin. He notified Examiner Dr. Scanlon and with Officer Kessel he went to the home of Gaccione, where they found his lifeless body in bed and covered with blood. The suspicion of Gingerilla's complicity was first caused by a telephone call which he gave the police about 10:30 Sunday night. Lieutenant Champlin and Officer George L. Madison went to the Marion street home where they found that a fight had occurred in which Gingerilla had his right eye blackened and he had torn a handful of hair from Gaccione's head. As one latter refused to press charges, the police left without making arrests after Gingerilla had been started to his home, junction of Oak and Tower streets. With this in mind the police went to his house where he was found lying on a couch with his cap, overcoat and felt boots on. Lieut. Champlin and Officer Kessel was admitted by Gingerilla's wife who unlocked the door and who disclaimed all knowledge of her husband's movements, as she said she had been asleep. He was handcuffed and taken to the police station.

At the conclusion of his examination Gingerelli denied that he had any connection with the murder and claimed he had remained asleep at his home since the time that he was first sent home. These statements were later contradicted by himself and others living in the vicinity and the police began weaving the chain of evidence by which Gingerilla is charged with murder, the first felony of the kind committed in Westerly in a period of over thirty years. Medical Examiner Scanlon informed State Attorney General Charles P. Sisson in Providence of all the facts in his possession and by order of the attorney-general the body was taken to Westerly hospital and Drs. M. H. Scanlon, C. Grant Savage and Miss Parker, R. N., clerk and witnesses completed the autopsy at 4:27 p. m., while Lieutenant Champlin informed the Westerly coroner, Town Solicitor John Ferguson, who held his inquest with Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell present.

At an early hour Monday afternoon Inspector McCaffrey of the state board of criminal identification telephoned to have the autopsy delayed that he might have time to reach Westerly that he might have photographs taken of the body before the autopsy. A Massachusetts firearm expert from Boston will be in Westerly Tuesday for investigation of the gun.

The autopsy showed that the bullet had lodged in the right kidney. The bullet was taken out. It passed through the liver, hit the backbone, was deflected upward, hitting thed laphram, cutting the right lung. Medical Examiner Scanlon pronounced death due to an internal hemorrhage from the gun shot wound.

At the home of Gingerilla, corner of Oak and Tower streets, where he lived in the house with his brother and his wife and four small children, the first search revealed a double-barrelled shot gun, the left barrel of which was warm and had a fresh powder smell. Cartridge shells found were taken with the gun. The load of two of the shells was found to be a leaden ball, which the accused claimed he had purchased at the C. W. Willard hardware store with which to hunt foxes and had only fired one last November. The fresh powder smell he claimed was caused from his having loaned it to shoot blackbirds and although in one statement he said that he had been confined to his home for five days by illness, when asked as to the last time he fired the gun last "Last Friday night" and then changed it to Friday afternoon when his attention was directed to the fact that blackbirds could not be shot at night.

As the day dawned police again visited his home and not far from the back door were found two empty shells as if he had broken his gun and thrown the shells away before entering his home. In the broad daylight the hole made just beside the sill of the middle front window of the Gaccione home could be seen where the tors off plastering inside the bedchamber had marked the path of the shot which travelled some twelve feet to enter the murdered man's body, in the wound found by Dr. Scanlon at the small of the back.

Outside the house the clapboard had been loosened when the hole of less than an inch in diameter was made. The shot before reaching the vulnerable spot had passed through two pink spreads, a downy comforter and woolen blanket and through the man's underclothing.

Putting together what evidence was found and the statements of Mrs. Giocona Groccia and her 16-year-old niece, taken to police headquarters at 4 a. m. for examination, the police learned that Gaccione had shown some attention to both women and through an Italian interpreter, that the girl had been invited to the up-stairs apartment recently and offered wine which she had refused. It is believed that a renewal of attentions to the women and the drinking of wine had caused the Sunday night's row to be of longer standing than any arguments which may have preceded it.

Through the interpreter, Mrs. Groccia stated that Gaccione had resided in her up-stairs tenement for 10 or 11 years. She had heard the shot at 1 a. m. and was son after called up-stairs by Mrs. Gaccione to find her husband in his underclothes sitting in a chair, an attempt being made to stop the flow of blood. She asked what the matter was and said the man replied, "All right! All right!" and that was all. After drinking water he fell in the hallway between the kitchen and bedroom; and a call was sent for a doctor. Dr. Harry Crandall was first called and then Dr. R. O. B. Sisco, but neither doctor came, Dr. Scanlon being the first to arrive. He pronounced the man dead.

From the direction taken by the shot in entering the house, it was first thought by the police that an embankment with retaining wall had been the point from which the gun had been aimed, but the direction must have resulted from a gun fired in the roadway just in front of the house with a possibility that the occupants might be scared and the aim had proved more deadly than the marksman had intended.

Gingerilla's story to the police was that both he and the slain man were born in the same town in Italy and had come to Westerly at about the same time and they had got along together very well until there came a time when Gaccione had telephoned him from Kingston, where he had been confined in jail in a civil suit for damages in which a judgment had been obtained in Washington county superior court for his attack upon a French woman, a resident of the neighborhood, whom he had attacked while she was in a delicate condition. Even at this time he said he had helped to collect a fund by which Gaccione was released and that Fred Gabrielle had contributed $260, among other amounts received; release followed. The telephone talk was to the effect that a bomb be placed in the auto of Albert Champlain, known as "Chief Big Horn," residing off Oak street, whom he reported as spreading reports of his relations with women of the neighborhood.

It was to Chief Big Horn, a credited Indian healer of the vicinity, that the accused first went with his injured eye, and confided that Gaccione, who struck him, had placed the bomb in Champlain's auto which was blown up so mysteriously last November, but these facts were not given by the murder suspect to the police and came out only after "Chief Big Horn" had been brought to the police station for questioning. The "Chief" said that even Gaccione himself had given him two cartridges and loaned him a double-barrelled shot gun of his own for a day or two to "protect himself from further trouble." The gun was returned to the owner but the cartridges were kept and remain among the exhibits of the case at police headquarters. Gingerilla said that he had visited the home of Groccia, living downstairs beneath the Gaccione home, Sunday morning and again in the evening and the row started when he went up-stairs to invite Gaccione down and had been struck with the right hand while a Colt revolver had been held in his left. The police believe that the handful of hair found in the upstairs apartment on the table was torn out by the accused at this time and plans for revenge started.

Gingerilla told the police that he had been in Providence county jail several times, at one time for resisting and kicking Police Officer Michael Curtin and that when jumping his bail and during the war at a military camp in North Carolina, he was picked up and brought back to Rhode Island. He declared that he would kill himself before going back to Providence county jail. He told the police that his discharge papers would show the battles he had been in when he finally enlisted and went abroad, a member of the 10th Infantry, of the Sixth division. Showing the little finger of his left hand, he declared that the bone had been grafted there when on the firing line he had been felled from a pine tree by a bullet, but declined to comment on the fact that he was engaged at the time as a sniper and was an expert shot. He said he had a brother who worked in a Worcester, Mass., tannery.

At the Marion street house in the early part of the evening he said that he had taken but a half a glass of wine and resenting Gaccione's attentions to his host's niece, had raised his hands and fought against him. He said the double-barrelled shot gun was purchased by him in Philadelphia three years ago.

Chief Big Horn, questioned several times by the police, stated that he was 43, and came from Jefferson, S. Dakota and had never been arrested until brought into Westerly court by R. I. health authorities.

All those held at police headquarters have been carefully guarded and not permitted to talk in Italian.

FUNERAL OF FRANK W. COY LARGELY ATTENDED MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Jan. 21—Funeral services for Frank Woodbury Coy were largely attended at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon from his home, 53 Elm street.

CAPT. KREUBERG'S INJURIES CAUSE SORROW TO FRIENDS

Westerly and Stonington residents Monday learned with regret of the airplane crash Sunday at Wilmington, Del., when the plane pilot, Capt. Fred Kreuberg, former German war flyer, was seriously injured. Capt. Kreuberg was manager of the Capt. Doweller airport, at one time located near Oxocosset on the Westerly-Stonington state highway. He later went to the Pleasant View field before going south. The pilot sustained a fracture of the skull when the plane made nose over as the wheels touched the ground of the airport after returning from a fruitless search for missing hunters over the Brunswick river marshes. Carl Cook, county sheriff and Otto Schmidt, his companions sustained a broken back and internal injuries respectively.

FALL RIVER'S NEW START.

Not a little interest has been awakened by the action of the city of Fall River in advocating and voting for a city manager form of government. It was the result of the feeling that the city had not gotten the results it should have from the government in the past under political parties. Party politics were looked upon as detrimental and the outcome of the agitation was that the city called for a change. The new form was approved and with the opening of the year it went into effect there being a mayor and a council of four chosen by the people and this group of five empowered to select the city manager. There were no restrictions as to whether he should be from Fall River or elsewhere.

The council has acted and the city manager with a salary of $10,000 a year is a former city clerk of Fall River, one of the leaders of the democratic party for years and a representative in the legislature from Fall River for 16 years. He was chosen by a three to two vote and has begun his duties.

This action whets the interest in Fall River's new government. Having switched from partisan government to the city manager to get away from party politics there will be close attention to note how one of the party leaders of the past is going to break away from the old party machine and past allegiances and set up a model government. The division in the council concerning the choice hardly indicates such an outcome.

Fall River is out for a better city government. It has acted in a way to indicate the belief that it can be obtained by a change in the form of government but by retaining some of those who were influential in connection with the old government. It has been repeatedly contended that it makes far less difference what the form of government is, provided it is not antiquated, than the men who are selected to administer the affairs of a city. If Fall River thought it was taming politicians by changing the form it must be highly entertained by the resort to a political leader for city manager. And yet there is the opportunity for the city manager to prove that his choice was justified and by so doing to justify the action of the people of Fall River in adopting the new form of government.

COASTING RESTRICTIONS.

Appreciation of a good example and good advice is evidenced by the manner in which many cities are setting aside hills for coasting during certain hours and the prohibition of it on others.

Such regulations have been made necessary by the large number of accidents where those sliding down hill have attempted to indulge in the sport along with motor vehicle traffic, either on such streets or intersecting streets. Recognition is given to the fact that different conditions prevail in the present days to those of another generation. Highways cannot be consistently used for the double purpose at the same time without inviting trouble, and that trouble is by no means of a minor character. Life is preferable to coasting and such action as is taken for preventing distressing accidents is highly commendable. Furthermore it cannot fail to be accepted by all concerned in the right spirit and in full recognition of the protection that is provided.

Pleas for care on the part of those using highways where coasting is enjoyed doesn't necessarily fall on deaf ears, but it is impossible to meet all contingencies either by the coaster or the motor vehicle driver. Experience shows that they do not go well together. The risk is too great, but prevention is possible through restrictions and it is less harsh to fix the hours and close certain hills to traffic where possible than to neglect the needed protection and encourage accidents and possible deaths. There are too many highway fatalities without having the number increased by coasting accidents.

CRUISER LEGISLATION.

The impression grows that if the cruiser bill were to be voted upon today it would be approved. While it has its friends it also has its opponents but the opposition is devoting its chief endeavors at the present time to keeping the measure from coming to a vote. It is playing for advantage, hoping that enactment can be prevented or, what is next best, that certain provisions of the bill can be changed so that either the full number will not be authorized, or that construction work can be called off under certain conditions.

The result of this opposition is to bring about a delay in the vote. Either by dallying or by a compromise it is hoped to change the bill.

Efforts are being made to create the impression that through the enactment of such a bill for the increase in the number of cruisers, this country would be placing itself in a false light before the other countries because of its recent ratification of the Kellogg pact renouncing war.

Such will have little effect upon the bill. While we have renounced war and believe the treaty is an excellent thing, we have not renounced the right of self defense and if we are going to be able to protect ourselves we must have an adequate equipment for doing so. We are progressing toward a better and more permanent understanding among nations. We most certainly have not reached the stage where we can afford to discard our first line of defense, or to perceptibly weaken it. We can no more fail to keep our cruisers up to requirements than our cities can think of refusing to add young men to their police forces.

If there was nothing before congress except the cruiser bill there would be less attention paid to the methods that are being applied, but in the plan for delaying action thereon there is automatically delayed action on other measures. Time that is wasted in prolonging debate and trying to talk a measure to death cannot be employed in dealing with other measures except by the last minute rush and that is seldom satisfactory.

RADIO CONTROL.

Consider the number of radio sets in the country and the number of people who get their entertainment from these sets and it will be possible to get some idea of the number who are more or less interested in the action of congress concerning the radio commission. The question at present is whether it is going to be retained for such services as it can render in regulating broadcasting or whether it is to be supplanted by some other controlling agency.

No one doubts the fact that the radio commission has faced a hard task. It has been trying to overcome real difficulties. Improvements have been seriously undertaken and while good results have been obtained in certain respects they have not been as successful in others. There has nevertheless been many snarls untangled and it is the belief of Commissioner Caldwell that the life of the present commission should be allowed to lapse and the work of regulatory in the future be turned over to the department of commerce.

That, it will be remembered, is where it was before it was placed in the hands of the commission. When it was determined by the courts that the department did not have the authority that was needed it was decided to put the matter of licensing and regulating in the hands of a commission. Opposition was raised to such a method but it was finally agreed upon as a means of relieving the situation and to test out the merits of such a plan. Commissioner Caldwell doesn't believe in the permanency of the commission idea. He figures that about 85 per cent. of the work has been done and that a department of the government should wrestle with what remains.

Ordinarily commissioners are disposed to have their jobs continued. Mr. Caldwell appears to be an exception. He evidently looks at the situation as it exists without regard for the fact that his job is at stake. Such being the case his advice is thought to carry weight, but this, like a lot of other business, ought to be taken care of at the present session of congress.

DRIVEN TO ACTION.

Spectacular was the manner in which the police department undertook the rounding up of every crook within the city. It was unusual because it was in such contrast to the past and it attracted attention for the same reason. Evidently it is intended to convey the information that new policies are in force and expression is given to it through deeds rather than words.

There have been cities, including Chicago unless memory fails, where the method of dealing with gunmen and other criminals has been to order them out of the city. Instead of this Chicago believes it is preferable to know where they are, and when it was possible to gather in 3,000 persons and 75 shotguns and pistols it was a job that can be looked upon as an effective answer to the 192 robberies and the killing of four persons during the week.

New York has put the strong arm method into effect and Chicago has evidently been won over to its merits. Gunmen have been running wild in the latter city and when robberies average 17 a day there's reason to believe that the time was ripe for such police action. Chicago was forced to act.

The question now faced is as to the effect of the wholesale raid and the time during which this increased vigilance on the part of the police is going to be maintained. Tolerance of the lawlessness has been responsible for the increase and because of it the job of correcting the situation and giving proper protection to the public has become all the greater. The regrettable part of such demonstrations is that they are soon over and old conditions quickly return.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The hopes of the leemen rise and fall in direct opposition to the thermometer.

We all have our rights, but there are a lot of people who totally disregard them.

The man on the corner says: About time someone got an advance tip from the groundhog.

Isn't it about time that we learned of the effect of this cold winter, or is it a warm one, on the Georgia peach crop?

The plea of Congressman Tilson for the continuance of Coolidge economy ought not to fall on deaf ears in the house.

Before any further progress is made on a toll motor road across New England, it ought to be declared that there can be no billboards on it.

If someone would only convince the mosquito that it could make a good living corraling flu germs, humanity would feel more tolerant toward it.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—The Connecticut congressional delegation have continued to help legislation "step lively" during the past week. Even though an extra session in early April is practically decided upon, there is a determination that all possible business shall be cleared up before March 4, and Connecticut is doing its level best to help accomplish it. But they have taken time, just the same, to poke fun at certain suggestions made in the New York legislature involving Connecticut, and Representative Schuyler Merritt of Connecticut, one of the most influential members of the house, high up on the interstate and foreign commerce committee, is this week receiving many facetious condolences from colleagues and friends. It came about through the introduction in the New York legislature of a bill proposing to take off a slice from New Jersey, a chunk out of Connecticut and then snip off a little from New York and create a new state.

As Merritt's friends view it, the cream of the joke is that the portion proposed to be taken from Connecticut comprises the entire district represented by Merritt, thus making him an outcast from his own state.

When informed of the bill, Merritt sighed with mock seriousness and remarked, "Well, my only hope seems to be that perhaps the Constitution of the United States will stand by me." Senator Bingham remarked that the proposition was new to him, adding, "You see, I haven't had time this week to read the funny columns in any of the papers." Floor Leader Tilson is joshing Merritt pretty hard on being "turned out of his own state by a New York democrat." The interstate commerce committee is taking a hand in expressing mock sympathy, and Merritt chuckles as he accepts their "condolences."

Floor Leader Tilson has had several conferences with President-elect Hoover this week, and Representative Merritt of the Third district has also called on Mr. Hoover during the week, by the invitation of the president-elect. Mr. Merritt said afterwards, in reply to questions, that of course he could not give any details of the conversation but that in addition to its being a courtesy call, he had also discussed with Mr. Hoover a number of measures which are either now before the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, or likely to come before it at the extra session. Mr. Merritt occupies a near-the-top place on that committee and is also chairman of one of its important sub-committees.

Representative Freeman has secured increase of pension to the amount of $50 each for the following Connecticut women: Elizabeth S. Butler, widow of Roswell Butler, Norwich; Jane D. Chapman, widow of William H. Chapman, Emma J. Gardner, widow of Samuel K. Gardner, both of Mystic; Norah B. Rathborn, widow of Charles H. Rathborn, New London.

Representative Freeman is pressing the interest of Philip K. Dewire as postmaster at New London. Mr. Freeman and the town committee recommended some time ago, that Dewire, now acting postmaster, should receive the presidential nomination, and expect it will be forthcoming at an early date.

Representative John Q. Tilson has been made a life member of the Civil Legion, a national organization composed of war governors, members of congress and others who, in authorized civil capacities, served in the World war. Accompanying the letter notifying Colonel Tilson of his election to the Legion, was a certificate with the inscription: "In recognition of his membership in the Civil Legion and his honorable and loyal service to the United States during the World war as a member of congress from the Third district of Connecticut."

Some idea of the demands made on congress to spend the people's money and increase taxation was made clear today when in a talk with Republican Floor Leader Tilson, the director of the budget, General Lord, said: "If all the bills now before congress calling for appropriations should be passed, the budget would be exceeded by more than one billion dollars."

Many of the bills call for authorizations of expenditures in the immediate future, and some are continuing, but all would be authorized and an obligation either in the present year or those immediately following. Needless to add that but few of such measures can be passed under the present budget system.

Senator Bingham is urging passage of a bill to provide standards for civilian flying, and provide for annual examinations and rating of flying schools. "Young America desires to acquire wings," said the senator, in presenting his bill, "but it is a perplexing problem how to obtain a course of instruction, how to obtain training that will qualify him to fly with safety and so make him of a potential value to the nation.

"The potential pilot, and there are thousands of them, is left to pick, hit or miss, an institution that may or may not qualify him for a career or a vocation in aeronautics." Mr. Bingham added that many aviation schools were trying to meet the requirement and he believed they would rejoice in the bill he offrs.

President-elect Hoover is finding that many of his old-time friends who shared the dangers of the Boxer war, are now looking him up and "talking over" those perilous days. One such caller this week was a former newspaper correspondent, Oscar K. Davis, who was stationed at Tientsin during the uprising, and to whom Mr. and Mrs. Hoover offered shelter during the bombardment. It was a sort of perilous hospitality that the Hoovers had to offer, but nothing happened beyond a shake-up of the house that sent little things flying. Davis paid high tributes to the bravery and poise of Mrs. Hoover, as well as to the president-elect.

Mrs. Coolidge does not let her high official position as "first lady of the land" interfere with her membership in the Senate Ladies' Tuesday luncheon club, composed of women now or formerly wives or daughters of senators. Mrs. Coolidge motors, whenever possible, Tuesday at noon, and takes her place at the long table spread in one of the senate office building rooms. If it is a basket luncheon, as sometimes is arranged, she brings her share of good things from the white house larder. Moreover, as some of the senatorial ladies enjoy displaying their own samples of "what I cooked myself" it is hinted Mrs. Coolidge may bring some of her own cooking, although no one would venture to make such an assertion, any more than they would venture to quote her distinguished husband, regarding what happened at the white house private table.

The only discernible difference in her Tuesday luncheons programs since Mr. Coolidge became president, is that Mrs. Coolidge now foregoes attendance in the senate gallery, immediately following the luncheon, as was her former custom, followed also, when Mr. Coolidge was vice-president. Somehow it has never been regarded as quite ethical for wives of presidents to occupy what is known as "the president's pew" in the private gallery, except on specific and rare occasions, and Mrs. Coolidge has followed that custom, even though she frankly admits she misses both the debates, and the opportunity to informally "mix" with friends, and be an on-looker, just as are other people.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 — The anti-war treaty row in the senate, before the pact was ratified, Jan. 15, developed a number of surprising slants; but it remained for Bingham of Connecticut to draw on his own unhappy experiences as a wandering explorer to support his position.

What he wanted, he said, was assurance that the treaty not only left the general right of self-defense unimpaired, but, further, that it does not "in the slightest degree interfere with our right to defend the lives and property of our citizens in any part of the world."

The tall, very distinguished looking senator from the Nutmeg State explained that at various times he had been under suspicion while abroad that his exploration or research mission really camouflaged a Washington engineered bit of espionage, designed to dig up military information. Sometimes, he said, it was honestly believed in the country involved that hidden treasure was the real objective of American enterprise.

Military Shadows

Once, Bingham said, his headquarters "in the interior of one of these foreign countries"—he didn't say which one—was surrounded by soldiers on charges of university authorities in that country that he was planning to steal ancient art treasures. There was no evidence, nor was it necessary.

"Senators will realize that it is only in very few countries that a man is considered innocent until he is proven guilty," the nutmegger said.

That set off Bruce of Maryland against "a presumption of a coming prohibition program" embodying a similar reversal of the rules of evidence and urged "by our friends, the prohibitionists."

Norris of Nebraska was seated just in front of Bingham and beside Borah of Idaho. The echoes of the special committee action, repudiating the so-called forged documents purporting to show huge payments from soviet Russia to Norris and Borah, had not yet died away.

A Lucky Break

"I would like to suggest that it is a very fortunate thing for the senator from Idaho and myself that we were not down in that country just the other day, where we would not have any right to defend ourselves," Norris said to Bingham, and the senate got a good chuckle.

Bingham came back with the idea that if more senators had business dealings or did scientific exploration in foreign countries "they would appreciate the importance of doing nothing to tie our hands in defending our citizens." He added that he had "seen things happen in foreign lands that made me ashamed of my country." That had been, however, under a secretary of state less anxious "to protect Americans abroad" than Secretary Kellogg.

Now all of this, and more, very, very much more, was part of the senate debate on the anti-war pact.

HOME SWEET HOME

There was an ominous odor in the new apartment. Gregory Spaulding sniffed guiltily as he hung up his coat. Chops, probably; pork chops, beyond a doubt; medium chops, cooked slowly and hygienically; then cooked still more slowly; then, in desperation, shoved into the oven to keep warm and dry out to crisp toughness. How late was he, anyway?

"Ten minutes of 7," announced Gloria grimly. "Dinner ready three-quarters of an hour ago. Why couldn't you have let me know?"

"Well—you see, dear—as it happened—"

"Oh," said Gloria, "that explains everything. And on a night when you have to dress to go out, too."

"I'm sorry, honestly. You see, really I—it happened that—"

"You'd better eat while you're telling me. Though what you'll find to eat I don't know. And what you'll find to teell me I can't imagine. I warn you in advance that you were not detained at the office; I telephoned there long ago."

"Oh no. I started all right. But on the train I met Ed Wheeler and we got talking about business so—"

"You rode past your station?"

"Not at all." Gregory raised his head and spoke with dignity. "I wouldn't do anything so stupid. Quite the reverse. I got off at 53rd street." Gloria made a futile effort to puncture a well-done baked potato.

"That's only four blocks the other side of 57th," she commented.

"Just so. But you see how it happened. I always used to get off there, and it was only last week we moved. Habit, you know—"

"You mean to say that you forgot we had moved?"

"Exactly, my dear."

"Gregory! Surely you didn't—"

"I did. You see, I was still thinking about business. I not only walked all the way to the old place, but I didn't realize I lived elsewhere until I noticed that my key didn't fit."

"I have heard of dumb people—" began Gloria. She broke off, and stared at her husband. She caught her breath. Her lips twitched.

"Don't!" pleaded Ggerory. "Get mad if you please, but don't laugh. And don't look so pitying. It could have happened to anybody." Gloria laid her head quite frankly on the table and rocked with merriment.

"Let's push along," suggested Gregory sheepishly. "I'll just about have time to dress as it is," he added.

"Hey, Gloria. Know anything about my tuxedo? I saw it in here yesterday."

"It hasn't come yet. I took it around to the presser yesterday, and he promised he'd have it here by noon. I even called him up when it didn't come and he said there's been some mistake. I'll be here any minute; the boy was just leaving when I called."

"That doesn't mean a thing. I believe I'll give him a ring myself." With the stiff glory of his evening shirt trailing off into limp ends where it should have encountered the dark formality of tuxedo trousers, Gregory sought the telephone.

"Hello. Yes, this is Mr. Spaulding speaking. That's right, the tuxedo. I don't care; I've simply got to have it. What's that? Twice, you say? Just a minute." He turned from the telephone.

"Oh, Gloria. He says the boy brought it up twice, but there was nobody some."

"He's crazy. I haven't moved out of here since noon." Gregory turned obediently to the instrument.

"She says you're crazy," he reported. The receiver howled in his ear for some time.

"All right, all right," he broke in. "I understand now. You've got the old address. We just moved, and I guess my wife forgot. Send it up to 5310 Penwood and there'll be an extra half-dollar for the boy."

Chuckling, he turned from the telephone and took two swift steps toward the bedroom. The door slammed hastily in his face.

"That's all right, dear," he called. "I'm in no hurry. But some time you'll have to open that door."—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

General Grant.

Mr. Editor: There is a certain something about any man who becomes prominent and a leader among men, for they must have arrived through the exercise of the three Pe—pluck, push and perseverance. And these are the things that we all find necessary in this life. As we study the life of our great union general, U. S. Grant, it comes back to us with added force for he surmounted difficulties that other men would have deemed impossible. He was born in Point Pleasant, Ohio, April 27, 1822. And died at Mount McGregor, near Saratoga, N. Y., July 23, 1885.

Here we have the name of a great American who was the 18th president of the United States, a man of such determination that he was "unconditional surrender," a man of such tenacity of purpose that the immortal Lincoln had said at one time to General Benjamin F. Butler that Grant was the most determined man he had ever seen for when he takes a place he hangs on to it, as thought he had inherited it.

How many can recall the fact that Grant smoked 24 cigars the second day of the battle of the Wilderness May 6, 1864? This in itself may be a rather trivial thing to recall, but it serves to show the severe nervous strain he was laboring under. The veterans, who have fought under him, and have seen him, can bear me out when I say he was a strict disciplinarian, and was as ready to enforce discipline on himself as he was to demand it from others.

It is said that at one time he was pacing up and down the dock at City Point, smoking the inevitable cigar. A colored sentry saw him but did not recognize him. He told him it was against orders to smoke there. Grant said, "Are those your orders?" And he said: "Yes, sir." And Grant in reply said: "They are very good orders" and he then threw the cigar away, for he said: "Orders must be obeyed."

How many can recall the story of the surrender of the man in gray, General Robert E. Lee? This shows the thoughtful side of Grant. I am sure this story will interest the few remaining boys in blue. It was told by Grant himself, and these memoirs were, you will remember, published by the Henry Bill Publishing Co., of Shetucket street in your own beloved city of Norwich. This story is rather long to give in detail, but the salient points only will be given.

"When I left camp that morning, I had not expected so soon the result that was then taking place. And as a result was in rough garb. I was without a sword, as I usually was when on horseback out on the field. And I wore a soldier's blouse for a coat with shoulder-straps of my rank to indicate to the army who I was.

"When I entered the house I found General Lee. We greeted each other and after shaking hands took our seats. I had my staff with me, a good portion of whom were there during the entire interview. General Lee was dressed in full uniform, which was new and was wearing a sword of considerable value. No doubt the sword that had been presented to him by the state of Virginia. In my rough traveling suit, the uniform of a private with the straps of a lieutenant-general, I must have looked strange beside Lee, so handsomely dressed, six feet high and of faultless form. We talked of old army days our conversation grew so pleasant that I nearly forgot the object of our meeting. Finally Lee called my attention to what was the object of our meeting and what terms I proposed to give his army. I told him that I wanted his men to lay down their arms and not to take them up again unless they were exchanged, and Lee suggested that the terms should be in writing. General Parker, my secretary, brought writing materials. When I put my pen to the paper I had no idea what to put down, but I did know what was in my mind. And I wanted to express it taht there would not be any mistake in what I meant and as I wrote on, the thought occurred to me that the officers had their own private horses and effects. That was of vital importance to them but no use to us. And it would not do to degrade them by taking away their sidearms. The much talked of surrendering of Lee's sword and my handing it back, is just fiction.

There was no premeditation, and it did not occur to me until the moment I wrote it down. When he read over that part of the terms about sidearms, horses and private property of officers he seemed quite pleased and said this will have a very happy effect upon my army. General Lee and I separated as cordially as we had met, he returning to his own line and both sides went into bivouac for the night at Appomattox."

You old soldiers will recall that many enemies of Grant, for in this world there are bound to be such, went to Lincoln and asked him to get rid of Grant. The president said: "I can't spare that man because he fights." This covers the man for he had a tenacity of purpose and didn't know the meaning of the word surrender. He held but one idea, and that was too win.

I recall what was perhaps the greatest parades ever held in this country April 27, 1891 when that magnificent mausoleum was dedicated, and which was to be his last resting place, on Riverside Drive, New York city overlooking the historic Hudson river. It is 300 feet above the level of the river. And here he sleeps beside his beloved wife who died Dec. 14, 1902.

I was moved to write this for I recall him when I as a boy was living in Norwich. Of him it can be truly said:

For thou art Freedom's now and fames
One of the few, the immortal names
That were not born to die.

A Wise Bird

Mr. Editor: Referring to a news item in The Bulletin, dated Jan. 17, this writer as a "poultryman" would say there is nothing wonderful in the New Britain woman's Plymouth Rock hen laying an egg the size of a robin's. It would not only be a wonder, it would be a mystery to find a robin laying an egg as large as a Plymouth Rock.

In the same Bulletin your Colchester correspondent gives us an interesting new item which reads, "Native eggs are bringing 55 cents per dozen in Norwich stores. Several of the Colchester grocers are only paying the farmers 40 cents per dozen for eggs." When one considers the high prices the poultrymen pay for grain, cod liver oil, buttermilk, tobacco, worm capsules, iron pills, etc., or even the cost of a single chicken supper (the advertisements read) 35 to 50 cents per head, not including breakfast or dinner, and then exchanging a dozen fresh eggs for 40 cents or an admission to the movies, the poultrymen would seem to be making money in thimblefuls. The New Britain woman's Plymouth Rock hen, like Barkis, "is willin'" and has a clear title to be allowed to live and perpetuate her species, as she is fully living up to the poultryman's maxim, "An egg a day keeps the hatchet away," and unless some of the learned professors whose graceful forms adorn the newly erected chairs of eggology in our agricultural schools, can prove that her egg-producing mechanism has petered out, it is only reasonable to assume that the Plymouth Rock biddy is laying small eggs through sympathy.

YOUR HEALTH

THAT LAZY, SLUGGISH FEELING ACCOUNTED FOR

By Prof. G. Vivian, Detroit, Mich.

Most people take breathing as a matter of course, thinking it is something that will take care of itself. This attitude can be understood in the younger generation, because nature is kinder to them. They run, jump and exert themselves in their sports and recreations, and they are of necessity compelled to breathe deeply.

As we grow older and are engaged in the problem of working for a living, we stop competing in sports and no longer enjoy our former recreations. Consequently, we never breathe as we were meant to breathe, that is, deeply. We are satisfied with shallow breathing that brings a modicum of air into our lungs. Our chests become smaller, our lungs are in danger of disease, our vigor is lost. Why?

Let us see what happens when we breathe. Venous blood laden with poison from the body enters the heart and is carried to the lungs, where it is purified by contact with the air. Obviously, if shallow breaths are taken, only a limited amount of air will be available. As a consequence, the blood is not thoroughly purified and the poisons are again taken through the body by the arteries. This accounts for that lazy, tired, sluggish feeling, dizzy spells, loss of vigor, etc.

Whereas, if deep, full breathing, through the nose, is practiced, especially where the air is fresh and pure, then a maximum supply of oxygen is available in the lungs, the poisons are carried away, and the blood is oxidized and purified. You will feel like a different person and will be exhilarated by this simple exercise.

Try this prescription at no cost to yourself. Breathe deeply and really live.

WEIGH WHAT YOU DESIRE

If you over-weigh, the cause may not lie in over-eating or under-exercise. It may lie in a fault in nutrition which modern research has discovered. And which science now corrects.

The method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. And many of the people you envy—with slender figures, new vivacity and health—will urge you to adopt this way.

The use of Marmola does not require abnormal exercise or diet. In every box you will find the formula, also the reasons for results. You will know just why your weight comes down and why every effect is helpful. Learn the facts, and do it now. Do so by asking your druggist today for a $1 box of Marmola.

Spooky Makes Himself at Home

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Who would his health and vigor keep Shou'd get his full amount of sleep.
—Spooky the Screech Owl.

Never in all his life had Spooky the Screech Owl been more thankful. You see, he had almost given up hope of finding shelter from the snow and wind, when he had actually been blown against Farmer Brown's barn and had accidentally discovered one of the little doorways which had been cut for pigeons away up near the roof. No pigeons were kept in the barn now. Spooky had hung on with all his might and finally pulled himself up and through that little doorway. Such a long breath as he drew then! It was warm in there. Rough Brother North Wind could not reach him. He was out of the wind and out of the snow.

For a few moments Spooky sat quietly just inside. He was trying to get his breath. Also, he was trying to adjust his eyes. You see, he had been more than half blinded by the snow. Spooky's eyes are made for seeing in the dark. Of course, he cannot see in absolute darkness, but he can see in darkness that you and I cannot see in. So after a few moments Spooky flew over to a rafter high up in the roof.

"All I want now is to rest and sleep," thought Spooky. He forgot that it was a long time since he had had anything to eat. He forgot that there was such a thing as hunger. Rest and sleep were the two things that Spooky wanted more than anything else. This was a wonderful place for both. He fluffed his feathers out and shook out the snow that had been driven into them. Then he settled himself into a comfortable position, and almost as quickly as you could wink your eye he went to sleep.

Spooky slept nearly all night. That was because he had been so thoroughly tired by his fight against the wind and the snow. The truth is, had he not found that refuge when he did, the storm probably would have been too much for Spooky, and he would have died out in it. So he slept and slept, and it was not until morning that

"That was a mouse," said Spooky under his breath

Spooky awoke. Strange sounds awoke him. His eyes flew open in startled surprise. For a moment or two he couldn't imagine where he was. Away down below him there was a stamping of hoofs. Farmer Brown's horses were impatiently awaiting their breakfast. Farmer Brown's Boy was moving about down there. He was getting hay and grain for the horses and cows and doing his regular morning work. He was whistling, for when he is working Farmer Brown's Boy delights to whistle. Spooky could see all this very clearly, for up where he was the light was dim, whereas down below it was not so dim.

Outside the storm was still in progress. Spooky could hear Rough Brother North Wind howling around the barn door and entered snow blew in with him. But inside that big barn it was as if there were no such things as storms. It was warm and comfortable.

Spooky suddenly became aware that he was very, very hungry. It seemed to him just then that never had he been quite so hungry. "If only I had something to eat," thought Spooky. "I would make myself at home here. Yes, sir, that is just what I would do. I guess I'll have to do it anyway, for I am certainly not doing out in this storm now. But I do wish there was something to eat in here."

As if in answer to that wish, Spooky heard a squeak. It was a faint squeak, but those wonderful ears of Spooky's heard it. Such a change as came over Spooky then! He turned his head in the direction from which that sound had come and his eyes were very round and big.

"That was a mouse," said Spooky under his breath. "That was a mouse."

Just then there was an answering squeak. Spooky half lifted his wings and leaned forward to hear better. "Another mouse," he muttered. "I certainly am going to make myself at home here."

NO CRIMINAL BLAME IN AUTOMOBILE FATALITY

No evidence of criminal negligence on the part of Walter Davis of Black Hall, driver of an automobile which fatally injured Mrs. Charlotte B. Larrabee, wife of Benjamin R. Larrabee of Waterford, was found by Coroner Edward G. McKay of Norwich in his investigation of the accident, according to a report given from the coroner. The accident occurred the evening of Dec. 17 on the Niantic road at Jordan Village, Waterford. Mrs. Larrabee died at the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospital in New London where she was taken after the accident, death being caused by a fracture of the skull and laceration of the brain.

The coroner's report states that it was raining and there was a heavy fog when the accident occurred. Mrs. Larrabee was walking along the road with a raised umbrella held over her head. It was estimated that the Davis automobile was brought to a stop about 40 feet from where Mrs. Larrabee was struck.

SHOWS WAY MRS. LESTER SIGNED CODICIL IN THE HOSPITAL AT TROY

Dr. Stanton P. Hull of Troy, N. Y., final witness here Monday afternoon in the probate court hearing before Judge Nelson J. Ayling gave a graphic recital of the way Mrs. Frances Dawley Lester signed the codicil to her will under which Dr. Thurman A. Hull, a brother of the witness, is a substantial beneficiary.

Nieces and nephews of Mrs. Lester, who formerly resided in this city at 26 Warren street, are contesting the codicil on the ground of undue influence and the mental incapacity of Mrs. Lester, when she signed the codicil on July 12 last in the Samaritan hospital at Troy. She died in the hospital ten days later.

Dr. Stanton Hull is clerk of Van Renssalaer county. He testified that his first acquaintance with Mrs. Lester was about 15 years ago when he was called to attend her in a Troy hotel after she had had pneumonia and had been attended by his brother, who had gone away to a convention. The next he could recall seeing her was on July 5, after receiving a telephone message on the 3rd from Edward Jacoby at Bridgeport that Maude Parker Jacoby, a favorite niece of Mrs. Lester, was seriously ill in a hospital in Bridgeport. On the 5th the doctor said he and his brother went into Mrs. Lester's room at the hospital where Dr. Thurman Hull told her he had a letter from Fannie Wright containing a check for $750. Mrs. Lester signed the check. Dr. Thurman Hull said to Mrs. Lester: "Maude Parker is married." She responded, "To that man? I hate him," to which Dr. Hull replied, "Yes, to Edward Jacoby." Then Dr. Hull went on to say, "And that is not the worst of it, Fannie. Maude Parker is dead and Mr. Jacoby wants to know what arrangements are to be made."

Wanted Probate Judge

Mrs. Lester's answer to this was, "I want a probate judge," the witness said and she put her hands on Dr. Thurman Hull's shoulders and said she wanted to take care of him and others who had been good to her and she didn't want Ed. Jacoby to get it. Dr. Thurman Hull said to her: "Fannie, what do you want to do?" to which her reply was that she wanted to divide Maude Parker's share into eighths, "one to Fannie Wright, one to May Ross, one to Dr. Walker and the rest to you."

The witness also told of going to Mrs. Lester's room on July 11, when his brother, Attorney John H. Taylor and Don Taylor were in the room. He told of Mr. Taylor taking a pad and asking Mrs. Lester questions, one of them being "how old are you" to which she answered that it was none of his business. The witness said his brother and Taylor then left the room and he heard Mrs. Lester tell Attorney Taylor what she wanted done, mentioning that she wanted Fannie Wright, May Ross, Dr. Walker, each to have an eighth and Dr. Thurman Hull to have five-eighth.

Signed the Codicil

On the next day, the witness testified, he met Dr. De Friest at the hospital and the doctor gave Mrs. Lester an examination. He told of being in Mrs. Lester's room later in the day while Attorney Taylor, Dr. De Friest, and Miss Russell, a nurse were there. Dr. Martin and Miss McLaughlin, another nurse, came in and Miss Russell left the room. Attorney Taylor, the witness said, read the codicil to Mrs. Lester, who said that was what she wanted and she signed it with Dr. Hull's fountain pen. The witness said he held her hand to steady it from trembling. Dr. Martin, Dr. De Friest and Miss McLaughlin then signed as witnesses, Attorney Taylor took the codicil and they left the room.

When Attorney Charles L. Stewart, who is counsel to the contestants of the codicil, took up the cross-examination of Dr. Hull he had the doctor illustrate with Senator Lawson of Brooklyn, associate counsel with Mr. Stewart, just how he held Mrs. Lester's hand at the time she signed the codicil.

The hearing began at 11 o'clock in the common pleas court room and is to be continued this (Tuesday) morning. Dr. Thurman Hull has as his counsel Attorney Frederick H. Wiggen of New Haven and Attorney E. E. Hall of Boston, the former conducting the examination of witnesses and presentation of the cage in court. Attorney Arthur M. Brown and Andrew B. Davies appear for the executor of the will, Dwight L. Underwood.

Excluded From Court

When the hearing opened Monday morning, Attorney Stewart at once requested the court to exclude Doctors Hull from the court room while other witnesses were testifying, inasmuch as his witnesses had been treated that way in the previous hearing. The two doctors thereupon retired.

Attorney Taylor was the first witness called. He gave testimony relating to the way the will was signed, which was substantially in accord with what has already been told of the testimony of Dr. Stanton Hull.

Dr. Thurman A. Hull was called to the stand by Attorney Wiggen. After testifying about his various positions, he said that he had known Mrs. Lester for the past 18 or 20 years, being introduced to her in Troy by Miss Mary Ross, with whom Mrs. Lester stayed oftne during her visits in that city. He testified to treating Mrs. Lester about evedy year, when Mrs. Lester visited Troy, and that he was her personal physician.

The witness told of Mrs. Lester inviting him and his wife to spend vacations with her, which was done on several occasions, once at Kennebunk, Me., and the other time in this city.

In June, 1928, the witness said, Mrs. Lester telephoned him, in which she stated that she was very much upset relative to her eyesight and that she was afraid she was going blind. Dr. Hull said that she wanted him to come to Norwich, which he did, making the trip by automobile with his wife.

Mrs. Lester met them at the door, he said, embraced Mrs Hull, kissed, and "also kissed me." They went into the house, where Mrs. Lester informed Dr. Hull relative to her eyesight. Dinner was served, with Fannie Wright, the housekeeper, serving.

He said that as he did not think it was his business to examine Mrs Lester alone at that time, he called in Dr. Lester Walker of this city. Both examined her.

Insisted On Trip to Troy.

Dr. Hull said that Mrs. Lester was very insistent relative to returning to Troy, N. Y., with him and his wife, and the result was that she did go back with them. Mrs. Elizabeth Morrison, who was taking care of Mrs. Lester at the time, accompanied Mrs. Lester to Troy. Mrs. Morrison and Mrs Hull rode in front, while Dr Hull and Mrs. Lester were passengers in the rear seat.

Arriving in Troy on June 25, the party went to the home of Dr. Hull, and later that day, following arrangements made by him, Dr. Hull said that Mrs. Lester was transferred to the Samaritan hospital.

Mrs. Lester was very near-sighted, the witness said, and she had a tremor of the hands. According to the witness, Mrs. Lester told him that she did not wish to have anything to do with internes, as they were always asking her questions, which she thought was none of their business.

Dr. Hull said that he told the internes not to bother about taking her history as he would do it, which he did. The doctor said that he gave instructions to the nurses to give her something to keep her mind occupied, such as tongue depressors, a ball of yarn, etc.

Told of Niece's Death.

On July 5, 1928, Dr. Hull said that he told her of receiving word that Maud Parker, favorite niece of Mrs. Lester, had married. This was rather a shock to Mrs. Lester. That isn't all, the doctor said, Maud Parker is dead.

"O Maud, O Maud, I'll never see my Maud again," Dr. Hull said Mrs. Lester wailed.

Mrs. Lester then said that she wanted a probate judge, as "I do not want that Jew to have any of my money," referring to Mr. Jacoby, husband of Maud Parker.

The doctor then said that Mrs. Lester put her hands on his shoulder and said that he and some others had done a great deal for her, more so than some of her relatives and that she was going to remember them in her will. I have taken care of my relatives, she said.

Dr. Hull stated that Mrs. Lester was brighter and better on July 12 and told him she was glad she was going to get her will fixed up. She died ten days later, her condition making a marked change for the worse after July 16. The doctor thought she was not out of bed after that day. The witness testified to the visit of Mrs. Lester's two nieces on July 18th and what he told them of her condition. He drove them to Cohoes and back in an automobile, their conversation on the way referring to the failure of their father to receive his customary check from Mrs. Lester and also about Jacoby who they said had butted in and married Maud Parker against Mrs. Lester's wishes. The doctor said he told the nieces that Mrs. Lester had made a codicil so that Jacoby would not get anything, but the money would go to Mary Ross, Fanny Wright, Dr. Walker and himself. The doctor denied making statements which had been attributed to him by the two nieces in their previous testimony.

The doctor told of writing the history of the case on July 21, after an official of the hospital had told him he could write anything he wanted if he signed his name to it, and after a hospital official had refused to let any change be made in the nurse's notation that the mind of Mrs. Lester was completely disordered.

Paid Expenses of Trip

Dr. Hull denied ever having been given a letter to mail containing a check drawn to Mr. Dawley. Dr. Hull explained the symptoms of exopthalmic goiter which Mrs. Lester had, and this was accompanied by chronic melancholia. She was afraid she was going blind. She was of sound mind on July 12, the doctor said, appearing considerably brighter and being glad that her will was to be made and was in proper mental condition to make a will, the doctor said.

In talking about her relatives to the doctor, he said that Mrs. Lester told him she always had to take care of them, was sending money monthly to Charles Dawley and had given Maud Parker a lot of money. She didn't seem very happy about it, Dr. Hull said as he concluded his direct examination.

On cross examination, Attorney Stewart questioned Dr. Hull about school training and preparation for medical practice, which he began in 1906. He told Miss Allison, superintendent of the Samaritan hospital that Mrs. Lester had the grip and a nervous breakdown. He denied emphatically that he told her Mrs. Lester's was a mental case and he denied that Miss Allison told him it was against the rule to admit patients of this type, but she would waive the rule to admit this case.

Regarding a conversation with Miss Allison about the execution of the codicil he denied telling her he thought he was doing what Mrs. Lester would want to have done and he denied that Miss Allison told him there was considerable talk about the hospital over the execution of the codicil.

The doctor could recall no other private case in which he had written the history. He wrote no history of the Lester case in question and answer form because he couldn't do so, he said.

Denied Having Letter With Check

On June 26 Mrs. Lester gave him a check for $115 to cover the expenses of his trip to Norwich and return. This was the day after she entered the hospital. The witness said he knew nothing about Mrs. Lester taking sugar and water in the belief it was medicine and under the direction of Dr. Lester Walker.

Attorney Stewart brought out that Dr. Hull had the making of a codicil in mind when he told Mrs. Lester of the death of Maud Parker, her favorite niece. Dr. Hull denied at that time that Miss Collins, the nurse, said "Don't do it, doctor." He denied that he requested Miss Collins to remain out of the room, as Miss Collins had testified. It was at this interview with Mrs. Lester that she said she wanted a probate judge and she wanted to divide Maud Parker's share giving one part each to Fanny Wright, Mary Ross and Dr. Walker and five parts to himself. The doctor said he was in the room about 20 minutes at this time during which Mrs. Lester told him what she wanted to do.

Dr. Hull denied that Attorney Armitage said to him he couldn't be a party to this and couldn't put it through for him. He also denied that Attorney Armitage said he had better get three doctors for witnesses if Mrs. Lester was to sign a will. The doctor said that when he tried to get Attorney Armitage the next day, the attorney was out of town. John P. Taylor was the one who told him to get doctors for witnesses, the witness said.

The doctor denied he said to the nieces that he didn't know why the doctors on the case shouldn't get something out of it instead of Jacoby.

Questioned whether a lawyer by the name of Pease had called upon Senator Lawson in Brooklyn since the first hearing, the witness said his brother-in-law named Hall, in Boston, had secured somebody to see Senator Lawson but he didn't know who it was.

Thought It Fatal Illness

At a question from Judge Ayling Dr. Hull answered that he thought Mrs. Lester was in her fatal illness when he told her of the death of her niece, Maude Parker.

Evening of Bridge

Ladies auxiliary of Workmen's Circle Branch 128, of Norwich, gave a very successful bridge Sunday night at B'nai B'rith hall on Shetucket street. Twenty-two tables were in play and prizes were awarded for each table. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge, who were, Mrs. H. Rothman, Mrs. E. Bazer, Mrs. M. Hanken, Mrs. Finkin and Mrs. Arenberg, Mrs. Kivlovit, Mrs. Herman and Mrs. Goldblatt.

CHRIST CHURCH FINANCES ARE SHOWING DEFICIT

That Christ church parish is running behind financially was shown by the report of the treasurer, James M. Sanford, at the annual meeting of the church Monday evening in the parish rooms. The meeting which was largely attended was presided over by the rector, Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong. The financial statement had been prepared in advance and at a meeting of the wardens and vestrymen on January 4th, it was voted that a copy of it be sent to each member of the parish.

Included in the statement is a comparison of income for the past four years. The amount raised from contributions and pew rents in 1925 is shown to be $5,425.31. In 1926 it was $5,906.58, in 1927 $3,000.56, and in 1928 it had dropped to $1,806.06. The report shows that the parish is in debt $10,442.25, and because of the decline in income there were unpaid bills on hand December 31, 1928 of $1,842.26 which includes unpaid salaries of $586.66.

While H. H. Gallup, one of the wardens, was concluding his remarks in the meeting in which it is understood he had voiced the opinion that conditions in the parish indicated that a change was desirable, he was seized with a sudden fainting spell. He was assisted to a seat where he soon recovered, but because of this occurrence no further business was attempted and the meeting adjourned for two weeks.

Among those present at the meeting was Rev. Frederick Budlong, of Greenwich, brother of the rector.

LECTURE WITH PICTURES ON "NATURALIST IN ROCKIES"

A very interesting and instructive talk on "A Naturalist in the Canadian Rockies," was delivered Monday evening at Slater Memorial hall by Dan McCowan of Banff, Canada, under the auspices of the Business and Professional Women's club. Mr. McCowan, who has been engaged in this sort of work for many years and is well versed on the subject, illustrated his address with stereopticon slides. The pictures had been taken by Mr. McCowan and his wife in the course of numerous trips through that section of the country and are some of the finest views of flowers, animals and striking sights in the mountains that have been presented to a Norwich audience. As the pictures were thrown upon the screen Mr. McCowan explained each individual one and in several cases had the audience in an uproar with his witty remarks. The mountain and lake scenes were of especial interest as were the large number of views of the animals, especially the mountain sheep and goats.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS BY PARK CHURCH MEN

Encouraging reports were given by the officers of the Men's club of Park Congregational church, at its annual meeting held Monday evening at the Hugh Henry Osgood parish house. The meeting was preceded by a delicious supper served at 6:15 o'clock, during which a quartet comprising J. T. Hynd, George A. Turner, Robert Gray and Albert Bryon, rendered several delightful vocal selections. There was also community singing led by Mr. Turner.

At the business session the president, Samuel E. Smiley, presided and the election of officers resulted as folows: President, Lyle H. Fillmore; vice president, Clinton A. Atterbury second vice president, J. T. Hynd; secretary Frank W. Clapp; treasurer, Howarth C. Collins.

Following the business meeting a most interesting talk on his recent trip to the Holy Land was given by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London.

MRS. BISSELL CANDIDATE FOR RECORDING SECRETARY GEN.

Connecticut members of the Daughters of the American Revolution will have special interest this year in the election of national officers which will take place at the Continental Congress in Washington in April because of the candidacy of Mrs. Charles Humphrey Bissell of Southington for recording secretary general. Mrs. Bissell's experience and ability in D. A. R. activities have made her an outstanding member in the state organization.

Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart of Ohio heads the ticket for president general and New England has another member in the list of candidates for national office in the person of Mrs. Russell William Magna of Massachusetts, who is to run for librarian general. It was through Mrs. Magna's efficient work and magnetic personality that the necessary million dollars was raised which made it possible to begin the erection of Constitution hall, which is now in process of construction on the valuable plot of land owned by the National society of the D. A. R. in Washington.

Surprise Birthday Party

A birthday party given in honor of Mrs. Agnes Carlson was held Friday evening at her home at 18 St. Regis avenue. Games were played and a very clever dialogue entitled 'Abie' was recited by Miss Iola Shaw. A very pleasing dance novelty was given by Miss Kitty Kelly and ukelele selections by Mrs. Agnes Carlson and Miss Iola Shaw. Miss Winifred Kelly entertained with exhibitions of very clever dancing steps.

Vocal selections were given by Miss Julia Kslazek, Mrs. Malena DeSelles and Mrs. Ethel Crooker.

Later in the evening a very dainty buet lunch was served by the hostess. Mrs. Agnes Carlson assisted by Mrs. Loretta Leonard and Mrs. Charles Carlson. Those present were the Misses Maud Wooley, Eleanor Gadbois, Kitty Kelly, Winifred Kelly, Julia Kslazek, Harriet Williams, Chrystal Whitney, Iola Shaw and Lillian Dyer, Mrs. Ora Spencer, Mrs. Carry Howard, Mrs. Helen Falcone, Mrs. Walena DeSelles, Mrs. Loretta Leonard, Mrs. Ethel Crooker, Mrs. Charles Carlson and Mrs. Mabel Maxone.

Cedar Street Chimney Fire.

At 7.03 o'clock Monday morning the fire department responded to a telephone call for a bad chimney fire in the house at No. 2 Cedar street owned by Herbert Coons and occupied by his family and others. Engine 5, Squad A, Acting Chief Henry Taft and Acting Deputy Chief Brennan responded and 37 gallons of chemical were used to extinguish the blaze.

BRAVES PRACTICALLY ASSURED OF SUNDAY PERMIT BY BOSTON COUNCIL

BOSTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—A permit to play Sunday baseball in this city practically was assured the Boston Braves today when John F. Dowd, chairman of a city council committee appointed to consider the club's application, reported his committee as favorable to granting the permit.

Dowd made the announcement before the city council. He said that the club would have to file a new application, however, signed under oath and specifying prices of admission to be charged and other details which committee considered essential. A report to the council by Dowd's committee could be expected next week, he said.

Another angle of the Sunday baseball question was pursued today by Attorney General Joseph E. Warner. He questioned Orris H. Brusse, treasurer of the Outdoor Recreation league, at the state house this morning and this afternoon in connection with the alleged violation of the corrupt practices act.

During an investigation by the Boston finance commission of allegations of bribery demands made by city councilmen against Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves to assure acceptance of the Sunday sports act in this city, it was charged that a list of contributors to a $30,000 fund raised by the league had been falsified. In the state election, the league sponsored the act which would legalize Sunday sport. It was charged the list actually covered contributions made by the Boston Braves. Brusse had filed the list with the secretary of state.

While the city council and the attorney general were engaged in their respective interests in the baseball situation, a declaration of war against Sunday sports was being made by Dr. A. Z. Conrad, pastor of the Park Street Congregational church, before a meeting of the Lord's Day league. The Lord's Day league had fought the Sunday sports act.

Mayor Andrew A. Cassass, of Revere, announced that he had received "virtual assurance" that the Boston Red Sox would accept his offer to both the Boston American and National league teams to play their Sunday games in that city.

KILLINGLY AND PUTNAM QUINTETS CLASH TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 21—Putnam and Killingly renew their basketball feud here Tuesday night at the local high school gym. The two teams have been rivals since 1902 and keen rivalry will be assumed. Putnam won on the gridiron this season and the Red and White seeks revenge in Tuesday's game. Coach Noyes has one of the best teams in eastern Connecticut, rating second in the Eastern Conn.-Western Rhode Island league. The Killingly quintet has also a good team losing only one out of five encounters, that being to the strong Chapman Tech warriors. Both teams have been looking forward to this game and tomorrow is the night.

Captain Coty will again appear on the lineup for the Putnam aggregation. Young has been Killingly's outstanding player at the forward position this season.

Coach Schofield, who has ben sick for the past two weeks will be at the helm for Killingly again. Both schools will be represented at the gym with cheering fans.

The probable lineups:

Killingly. Slowik rf, Young lf, McKeon c, Seafranski rg, Waldron lg; Putnam, Sabin lg, Bove rg, Shann c, Leo lf, Coty rf.

SITE OF SHARKEY-STRIBLING BOUT HAS BEEN CHANGED

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP)—The battle of the southland between Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling at Miami Beach, Feb. 27 has assumed such proportions that new and more commodious site forced securing of Flamingo Park, Jack Dempsey today wired officials of the Madison Square garden here.

The former heavyweight king, now actively engaged in the promotion of the last fistic spectacle Tex Rickard scheduled before his death, wired that the park will hold an arena seating between 40,000 and 60,000. Dempsey signed a contract with the City of Miami Beach today for use of the site rent free. Rickard's Miami Beach kennel club, where the fight was to be staged as first planned, would seat less than 20,000, Dempsey said. Flamingo Park, in the center of the city, covers 50 acres.

"The arena can be so designed," Dempsey wired the garden directors, "that most remote seats will be closer to ring than the bulk of the ringside seats at the (tunney-dempsey) fight in Chicago.

A. A. U. AGAIN HOT ON TRAIL OF NURMI

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Amateur Athletic union tonight postponed until Wednesday its investigation into charges brought in connection with Paavo Nurmi's scheduled appearance at the Prout Memorial games in Boston next Saturday night.

Daniel J. Ferris, national secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., announced it would be impossible to round up members of the registration committee of the metropolitan association, A. A. U., before Wednesday. Originally the meeting had been called either for today or tomorrow.

The investigation was ordered after Jack Harris, secretary of the committee in charge of Masonic meet here Saturday, declared Nurmi had been "influenced" to change his entry from the Masonic meet to the Prout games.

The A. A. U. plans to question Nurmi in an effort to uncover all angles of the situation and learn, if possible, whether any undue influence or financial inducements were brought into play. Harris has asserted that Nurmi was given a virtual "order" to compete in the Prout games rather than in New York.

The metropolitan association is making the investigation in view of the fact that Nurmi was registered as an amateur by that body.

SUGGS GETS VERDICT OVER JACKIE DONAHUE

FALL RIVER, Jan. 21—(AP)—Chick Suggs, Newport, R. I., featherweight, won an eight-round decision over Jackie Donahue of Boston here tonight.

In scheduled six-round bouts, Sonny Suggs of Newport, R. I., won a decision over Frankie Erne of Boston; Tommy Coyne of Boston knocked out Eddie Salvie of Everett in the fifth round; Joe Servio of Boston won a technical knockout over "Sunny Boy" Liberi of Everett in the second round and Young Brown of Bristol, R. I., won a decision over Young Lefty of this city.

Bittman Beats Herman

GLENDON COACHED CREWS IN DUAL REGATTA

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP)—"Old Dick" and "Young Dick" Glendon, father and son, will match crews in a dual rowing regatta this spring for the first time.

The rowing schedule announced today by Columbia university is headed by a dual regatta with the Naval academy on the Harlem River, April 27. The Middies are coached by the elder Glendon while his son holds forth at Columbia. Their oarsmen will meet in a varsity race and it is as yet unsettled as to whether the competition will include junior varsity, freshman or lightweight crews as well.

A second dual regatta will be rowed on the Harlem, Massachusetts Institute of Technology bringing its varsity, junior varsity, freshman and 150-pound crews here May 18. With these two races, scheduled with a view to giving New York fans more opportunity to see the leading crews in action in Metropolitan waters, the child's cup, Blackwell cup and intercollegiate championship regattas complete the varsity schedule.

For the dual races the home course has been changed back to the Harlem despite its berry crates and other floating hazards. The Eastchester Bay course which was tried last year having proved a failure when the Columbia and Syracuse crews became lost in the fog and were unable to finish their race. The schedule:

May 4 — Blackwell cup regatta (Yale, Pennsylvania, Columbia) at Derby, Conn., varsity, junior varsity, freshman and 150-pound crews participating.

May 11—Child's cup regatta (Pennsylvania, Princeton and Columbia) at Princeton, varsity, junior varsity, freshman and 150-pound crews. Same date—Columbia Freshman Four vs. Choate school at Wallingford, Conn.

May 18—Massachusetts Institute of Technology at New York, Harlem River: varsity, junior varsity, freshman and 150-pound crews.

June 1—150-pound crew in American Henley regatta at Philadelphia. Intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie, date not yet decided.

ACADEMY FACES CHAPMAN TONIGHT AT NEW LONDON

N. F. A.		Chapman Tech
Stevens, lf		lf, McKelvie
Fagan, rf		rf, Quinn
Dickerman, c		c, Snoeski
LaCroix, lg		lg, Chikowski
Barber, rg		rg, Johns

The Academy and Chapman Tech clash tonight in a conference game at the New London Y, one that is drawing a lot of interest all over Eastern Conn. Chapman Tech, at present, is in the midst of one of its best seasons, having won ten out of eleven games, losing only to the Alumni.

Tech leads the league and by its decisive 25 points victory (38 to 13) over Windham last week, stamped itself as a strong contender for the title.

The Academy will be out to redeem itself tonight after the Torrington debacle. The Wildcats have hopes of essaying a complete reversal of form and jumping far up the ladder in the race. At present, the Red and White is tied with Stonington for the cellar position.

Both coaches, Courtland C. Whitney of the locals and Jack Conway of the Whalers, will present their strongest lineups. The Academy will have to curtail Joe Quinn, high-scoring forward, if they would win this evening as he has been running riot so far this season.

A preliminary game will go on about 8 o'clock and this game is expected to draw a large gallery. It's Norwich vs. New London.

NURMI WILL POSITIVELY BE AT BOSTON SATURDAY

BOSTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—After denying that there were any irregularities in obtaining Paavo Nurmi's consent to compete ni next Saturday's Prout memorial meet, James J. Gaffney, manager of the Knights of Columbus track games, tonight said that he had been informed by Hugo Quist, Nurmi's representative that his invitation was the first one the Finnish track star accepted when he arrived in this country several weeks ago.

Gaffney said he talked with Quist, who is in New York, over the telephone this afternoon and that the latter had assured him that he and Nurmi would arrive in Boston next Saturday afternoon, several hours before the meet opens in the Boston garden.

The Boston track official, after describing the amicable feelings which existed between the Boston Knights of Columbus and the officials directing the Masonic track meet in New York next Saturday night, said that he had been told by a member of the latter group that the New York organization did not plan on having Nurmi compete in its meet.

BRUSSE AGAIN GRILLED BY ATT. GENERAL WARNER

BOSTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—Orris N. Brusse, treasurer of the Outdoor Recreation league, was questioned at length today by Attorney-General Joseph E. Warner when investigation of the league's alleged violation of the corrupt practices act was resumed at the state house.

As treasurer of the league, Brusse had filed with the secretary of state a list of contributors to a $30,000 fund raised by the league during its campaign favoring the legalizing of Sunday sports in this state. It had been charged that the list was falsified to cover, alleged defalcations by the Boston baseball club.

Brusse called at the attorney-general's office twice for questioning today. After both visits he declined to discuss the questions asked him by Warner.

The attorney-general, likewise, refused any information. He said, however, that he expected to question Charles F. Adams, vice president of the Boston Braves tomorrow. Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves, had been questioned last week.

ALEXANDER IS SUED FOR DIVORCE ON CRUELTY

LINCOLN, Nebr., Jan. 21—(AP)—Grover Cleveland Alexander, veteran major league pitching star, was named in a divorce complaint filed by his wife Aimee Marie Alexander in court here today.

Mrs. Alexander who charged cruelty, asked for attorney's fees and "suitable alimony," but did not name the amount sought. Alexander's income was not listed.

The Alexanders were married May 31, 1928. Their home is in St. Paul, Nebraska.

Layton Loses to Hoppe

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP)—John Layton, three cushion billiard champion, lost the first block of a 400 point exhibition match with Willie Hoppe today, 50 to 38, in 43 innings. Hoppe scored a high run of six. Layton five.

MALONEY AGREES TO BOX FRIEDMAN JAN. 30

BOSTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, today agreed to start in his 1929 ring campaign against Al Friedman, another Bostonian, in the ten round feature bout of the all-heavyweight show which the Sharkey A. A. plans to stage in Mechanics building on January 30.

Maloney who has been resting since he fought Con O'Kelly in New York several weeks ago, immediately left for his Wauneta training camp.

For his ten round semi-final bout, Matchmaker Sam Price signed Arthur Flynn, of Lawrence to battle Billy Vidabeck of Jersey City. Vidabeck, who was one of Gene Tunney's sparring partners, was expected to outweigh Flynn by a large margin.

FORMER E. L. PITCHER KILLED IN ACCIDENT

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 21—(AP)—Word was received here today of the death in an automobile accident of E. Frank (Fleet) Mayberry, for ten years a pitcher with the Springfield team of the Eastern baseball league. Mayberry's death occurred near Wilson, N. C., but details of the accident have not been received. He completed his ten year term with the club in 1927 but was not with the club last season. He had taught school near Wison in winter months.

BUDDIES DOWN WHITINSVILLE CLUB

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Jan. 21—The Plainfield Buddies went out of their class tonight to defeat the fast Whitinsville quintet, 37 to 26, in a game that had the two hundred fans on their collective toes during almost the entire contest. The Buddies led by Dissinger and Peterson in the scoring battled a close and strenuous first half and then continuing their intensive attack in the last half pulled out in front to win their first game against senior competition.

Owing to the illness of Mercier, Dissinger was pressed into service and his six field baskets together with twelve points by Peterson aided the Buddies materially in winning. The first half was bitterly fought with the Buddies leading their Bay State rivals by a lone point, 15 to 14, at the intermission. Opening the second half with a hard and sustained attack the Buddies swept into a comfortable lead and were never in danger. This game more than all the others of the season marks the Buddies as a real basketball team as the team they defeated this evening is playing teams such as the Boston Clowns, Clinton German Five, Boston Whirlwinds and others.

For Whitinsville Kenney and McGuinness were the star performers both in basket-tossing and in their floorwork. The summary:

Buddies	G	F	Pts

AGGIE QUINTET PLAYS AT MIDDLETOWN TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Jan. 21.—The Connecticut Aggie basketball quintet will face Wesleyan university tomorrow evening at the camp of the Methodists for the first time in two years. Last year the two college quintets were to play but due to the small pox epidemic, the contest was cancelled. The Nutmeggers were to face the Wesleyan five at Middletown in the second game of the year.

The probable Aggie quintet that will face Wesleyan will consist of Ryan and Lamoureux, forwards; Chubbuck, center; Duffy and Osterling, guards. Coach Alexander will have another five consisting of Darrow and Glennon, forwards; Matzkin, center; Flydal and Dall, guards also on hand for the fray.

ONLY ONE SEEDED PLAYER ELIMINATED AT SQUASH

BOSTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—Fifteen of the sixteen seeded players in the first women's national squash racquets championship, which opened here today on the Harvard club courts, were successful in their first round matches. The exception was Mrs. Charles A. Slosson, of Greenwich, Conn., who was defeated by Miss Ellen Brewer, of Boston in an extra game match.

During the day the field was reduced from 64 to 24 players, eight of whom won their second rounds, thus qualifying for the third round. In this last group were four Philadelphia players, Mrs. C. C. Maderia, Miss Elizabeth Ann Page and Mrs. Ruth Hall. Three Boston women, Mrs. George W. Wightman, and Mrs. Lothrop Withington and Miss Anne Boyden and Mrs. Henry Edesch, of Greenwich, Conn., also were able to survive their first two matches.

Play in the inter-city matches was scheduled to start tomorrow with Philadelphia opposing Greenwich.

FUGAZY BIDDING FOR CROWN HELD BY RICKARD

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. Jan. 21—(AP)—Heretofore in the front rank of rivals of the late Tex Rickard in fight promoting, Humbert Fugazy today announced himself a candidate for Rickard's niche in the sporting world, and asked Jack Dempsey to be his partner.

Declaring that Dempsey's success as a promoter apeared assured, the New York promoter arrived here to talk over partnership plans. After a conference, Dempsey said he had declined to consider such a project until after his temporary job of putting on the Sharkey-Stribling bout here February 27. He is acting for Madison Square Garden corporation, whose head Rickard was until his death early this month.

PHILA. COLORED GIANTS AT DANIELSON FRIDAY NIGHT

That the Danielson Town team is stepping out into fast company is evidenced by the fact that Manager Cleveland has signed the Philadelphia Colored Giants for their opponents on Friday night. A game had been originally scheduled with the Knights of Lithuania but this game was postponed to allow the appearance of the colored stars. Little introduction is needed as the Giants are well known throughout Eastern Connecticut, having played the Plainfield Pros several times. The Giants are at present on a tour of New England and are meeting the fastest of the semi-pro teams with much success.

Dundee Is Re-instated.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Joe Dundee, world's welterweight boxing champion, became eligible again today to fight in San Francisco when Charles Traug, of the state athletic commission, withdrew his objections to the fighter.

Dundee was suspended about a year ago after refusing to fight with Ace Hudkins as a result of an argument over the gate receipts in Los Angeles. He was later reinstated but barred from fighting in San Francisco because of Traung's objections.

PLAINFIELD CLASHES WITH BRISTOL ENDEES WEDNESDAY

The Plainfield Pros meet the Bristol Endees at the Plainfield Community house on Wednesday evening in another effort to overcome the seeming jinx that the Endees have over the Pros. The Endees have proved a thorn in the side of the Pros so far this season and a victory on Wednesday would be a very soothing balm to the Pros.

Schmeling Kayoes Corri

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 21—Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, knocked out Pedro Corri, of New York in one minute and two seconds of the first round of a ten round fight tonight. Schmeling weighed 183 1-2 and Corri 195. It was Schmeling's third American fight.

Slattery Knocks Out Mahoney

Lewis Throws Gardini

Stribling Flattens Montgomery

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 21—(AP)—W. L. (Young) Stribling of Macon, Ga., contender for the heavyweight championship, tonight knocked out Sully Montgomery, Fort Worth, former Centre college football player, in the second round of their scheduled eight round battle. Montgomery who weighed 208 pounds, had an advantage of nearly 20 pounds.

Payne Trounces Courtney

Godfrey-Paulino Bout Off

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP)—The Madison Square Garden corporation has abandoned plans for a fight at Havana, Cuba, Feb. 18, between George Godfrey, giant Leiperville, Pa., Negro, and Paulino Uzcudun, of Spain.

Flanagan Kayoes Decker

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Jan. 21—(AP)—Phil Flanagan, of Malden, won a decision over Kid Decker, of Housatonic in a ten round bout here tonight. Jimmy Rossi, of Westerly, R. I., scored a technical knockout over Tommy Holly, of Holyoke in the sixth round of their scheduled eight round bout.

Bruins Buy Myles Lane.

BOSTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The purchase of Myles Lane, former Dartmouth hockey star from the New York Rangers, was announced here tonight by C. F. Adams, vice president of the Boston Bruins. Adams said Lane would play for the Bruins against Les Canadiens here tomorrow night.

Armory Five vs. Woodstock.

The Armory Five of Danielson will play the Woodstock Collegians of Woodstock at the Danielson state armory tonight. The Woodstock team has one of the best league teams and expects to give the Armorians a good go. The probable Danielson lineup will consist of Captain Gale, S. Poirier, B. Poirier, Godreau and Lague.

Hall Wins His Match

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 21—(AP)—J. Gilbert Hall of Orange, N. J., the only out-of-town entrant to play in the preliminary rounds of the Canadian indoor tennis championship tournament today, defeated G. H. Raper, Montreal, 6-1, 6-3. J. M. McDougall, Montreal, defeated W. F. Martin, Montreal, 6-3, 6-2.

Harris Signs With Coast Club.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Joe Harris, veteran major league first baseman who was given his release by the Brooklyn Dodgers several months ago today announced he had signed to play with the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast league. Harris once wore the uniforms of the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Washington Senators.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

MRS. CHAUNCEY ORCUTT DIES AT DAUGHTER'S HOME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Jan. 21—Mrs. Arabel Orcutt, wife of the late Chauncey Orcutt, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Meyers on East Main street today. She was born in Stafford, Oct. 9th, 1849, the daughter of Mary Worthington and Abner Needham. Mrs. Orcutt had been in ill health for several months. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Meyers, of this place.

State Police Investigate.

A Ford coupe operated by Henry J. Champagne and a Chevrolet sedan owned by William Marco and driven by his brother, Mike Marco, were in collision at the junction of East Main street and Willington avenue Sunday evening about six o'clock. The car driven by Champagne was proceeding easterly on East Main street and the Marco car was coming out of Willington avenue. The coupe rammed the side of the Chevrolet damaging the running board, left front fender and the glass in one of the doors of the car. The Champagne car had the radiator damaged windshield smashed and the front axle and steering wheel broken. In the Champagne car were Mrs. Elinor Barr and Mrs. Henry J. Champagne, wife of the driver. Mrs. Barr received a cut on her forehead which is not serious. Wilbur Linkey of Willington was riding with Marco. The occupants of this car were not injured. The state police investigated the matter and both drivers will be in court later.

NEW JERSEY MAN LOSES HOUSE AND BARN BY FIRE

The house and barn owned by S. Gorbich of New Jersey and formerly occupied by Augustus Rose, in the east end of the town of Stafford, was completely destroyed by fire late Saturday night. The reflection in the sky from the blaze attracted a crowd to the farm. The fire was well under way before any one reached the house and the crowd was forced to stand by helplessly while the flames consumed the house, also the barn which was full of hay. The property is located outside the borough and had no fire protection. The only water available was from a well on the farm. The loss is estimated at $5000.

Miss Louise Andrelsky of Hartford spent the week end at the home of her mother, Mrs. Christopher Andrelsky.

Joseph Quinn of Springfield was a week end visitor with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Quinn.

Paul Swanson of Worcester Tech is at his home on Holland road during the mid-year recess.

The citizenship group of the Current Events club is to meet at the library this (Tuesday) afternoon. Mrs. Carrie B. McLaughlin and Mrs. Clifton Sheppard will have charge of the meeting.

"We know our Luckies That's how we stay slender"

EVERY woman who fears overweight finds keen interest in new-day and common-sense ways to keep a slender, fashionable figure. Overweight must be avoided. "Better to light a Lucky whenever you crave fattening sweets."

Toasting does it. Toasting develops and improves the flavor of the world's finest tobaccos. Lucky Strike satisfies the longing for things that make you fat, without interfering with a normal appetite for healthful foods. That's why Luckies are good to smoke. Toasting makes Lucky Strike the healthy cigarette for you to smoke.

Many men who carefully watch their health discovered this years ago. They know that Luckies steady their nerves and do not slow up their physical vigor—prominent athletes have gone on record that this is so. They know that 20,679 physicians have stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

Coast to coast radio hook-up every Saturday night through the National Broadcasting Company's network. The Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra in "The Tunes that made Broadway, Broadway."

Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.

UNSETTLED STOCK MARKET CAUSED BY PROFIT-TAKING IN U. S. STEEL

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The stock market groped about confusedly in the fog arising from the credit situation, but managed to make substantial headway in places, particularly in the copper, rail and merchandising shares.

The market opened with a fairly large accumulation of week-end buying orders, but heavy profit-taking in U. S. Steel, which rose more than 20 points in the last half of last week, aggravated the nervousness over the money outlook and turned the market rather heavy. With a call money renewal rate of only 5 per cent, sentiment improved somewhat, but profit-taking was heavy at the close.

Although call money held at 5 per cent. all day, and bankers saw little prospect of higher rates until money is withdrawn for month-end requirements, time money was firm at 7 3-4 per cent. for the shorter maturities, against 7 1-2 to 7 3-4 last week. The bankers' acceptance market was demoralized by increases in the asking rate by some dealers, while others retained last week's rates.

With the total of federal reserve brokers' loans within $10,000,000 of the Dec. 5 peak early last week, bankers believed the present total must be at a new high record, to be shown when the weekly compilation is published Thursday. The stock exchange reported a slight decrease in the ratio of total borrowings to the value of listed securities as of Jan. 1. This, however, was not regarded in banking circles as presenting the brokerage loan situation in any more cheerful light.

It was pointed out that the chief difference between the borrowings of last November and those of the present seems to be that present borrowings are largely for powerful groups of speculators rather than the public, so that the prospect of reducing the total appears dimmer than before.

The day's news was rather meagre. Calumet and Hecla declared another $1 dividend. North American Co. announced construction budgets for next year of nearly $77,000,000.

For the first time in a week The Associated Press indices lost ground. Although the industrials held steady, the utilities and railroads eased slightly.

Among the high priced shares, Du Pont shot up 30 points to a new high at 349. Motor Products made an extreme gain of about 11 points and Commercial Investment Trust of more than 15.

The coppers were stimulated by further talk of a 17 cent domestic price and merger rumors. Anaconda was under heavy accumulation, making an extreme gain of 9 points to a record price at 127 1-2. Chile, which it controls, mounted over 4 points to a new high. Greene Cananea encountered profit-taking.

Amusement shares surged ahead. Warner Brothers moved up 8 points on reports that it had perfected a device for making talking pictures outdoors, and Loew's gained more than 4 points on denial of rumors that the company was "for sale." Studebaker jumped about 8 points to the highest price in several years on reports that a stock dividend would be paid. Shelly Oil improved on reports that the Fisher interests would be represented on the board.

In the rails, Chicago Great Western issued. Atlantic Coast Line, and New Haven touched new highs for extended periods. New York Central, however, dropped 2 points, and Wabash preferred more than 6.

U. S. Steel sold off as much as 6 points, and closed at 183. (If 5 1-2. Detroit Edison and Industrial Rayon lost 6 and 5 points, while Allied Chemical, Block Island, Goodyear, International Telephone, Johns Manville, Radio and Standard Milling receded 2 to 4 points.

The commodity markets were steady to firm, grains selling higher on favorable foreign news, while cotton held steady in dull trading pending the ginning report.

Foreign exchanges generally were heavy, most European currencies easing, although sterling was firm. The Canadian dollar fell back to 99-13 cents, reviving expectations of further gold shipments from Montreal.

JEWETT CITY

ANNUAL BOROUGH MEETING—ESTIMATE VOTED $37,722

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Jan. 21—The annual meeting of the freeman of the borough of Jewett City was held tonight. Warden E. J. Jodoin presided. John F. Barnett was clerk. The 34th annual report of the board of wardens and burgesses: treasurer, health officer, fire marshal and electric light commissioners were accepted by a unanimous vote. Upon the recommendation of the board of borough government an 8 mill tax was laid to meet current expenses for the coming year. The expenses for running the borough in 1928 were $54,056.13.

The following estimates for 1929 were accepted as presented by the warden:

Assessor $50, streets $5,500, police $2,000, fire department $1,200, street lights $2,600, miscellaneous items $700, garbage $1,500, insurance $750, interest $5,400, water $2,422, election expenses $100, printing $200, David Hale Fanning park $100, clerk and treasurer $600, electric light plant $14,000, borough officials $650. Total $37,722.

FISH AND GAME LICENSES ISSUED BY TOWN CLERK

Town Clerk John Welsh, so far this year has issued the following fish and game licenses:

Resident Hunters

Combination Licenses to Fish and Hunt

George Lillibridge, Joseph Cholewa, Charles W. Whipple, Austin W. Harris, Anthony Chlocki, Peter Minta, Charles Minta, Allen L. Rundell, Charles Ruszenas, Rev. Nicholas Caron, Linwood Page, Charles B. Palmer, James A. Blair, Walter Marshall, Stanley Gunner, John Krenski, Joseph Sajewicz, Ernest Eccleston, William Nolle.

Non-Resident Allen Fishing

Adam Sawicz, Walter Mansau.

Resident Hunters

Fred LeRoux, George Osga, Edward Gromko, Alec Kazakewicz, Frank Zubroski, Joseph Zubroski.

Representatives of the state highway commission were in the borough early Monday morning to look after the break in the state road at Slater's bridge. The Fisk Tire Co. is to make such repairs as are necessary. The waste tunnel will be thoroughly inspected, to make sure that the arched stone roof is stable.

The men's class of the M. E. church is to meet Thursday at the home of Alex McCluggage in Sylvandale.

The beautiful flowers on the communion table Sunday at the Methodist church were from Mrs. A. J. Tinker, in memory of her husband.

Since the list of calendars for 1929 to be seen at E. H. Hiscox's was printed in this column, there have been five additions: Edward J. Farrell, overseer of spinning in Wauregan, has taken an interest in the collection and was glad to add seven handsome prints and water color landscapes. Mr. Farrell was able to get the Vacuum Oil company's issue which comes near to being the top-liner of 60.

The title of the picture is "First Over the Pole."

The issue by William M. McNicol is a reproduction in natural color.

Another is a hand-tinted reproduction from the beautiful painting, A World of Happiness, by Kenyon from the Park bank, Baltimore.

I. Seidman of No. Main street, adds his season's greeting calendar, which among a dozen pictures displayed in accordance with the season's advance, shows in illustrated form the history of the shoe, worn in all countries through the ages. There are 41 pictured.

According to a recent Associated Press report in The Bulletin, a New Britain woman has a Plymouth Rock hen which lays eggs the size of a robin's and with no yolk. This section doesn't support that kind. Mrs. George Moeller last week, furnished a small family customer a dozen, with nine of the 12 double-yolk.

F. L. Kanahan, with all his attention given to white leghorns often picks up among the daily hundred dozen many that are over size, too big for the packing case apartments.

JOINT INSTALLATION ST. JEAN BAPTISTE COUNCILS

The installation of Council Chaplesn No. 152 and Jean D'Arc No. 279 St. John de Baptiste, was held in Rioux hall Sunday afternoon. The installing officer was Eli Vezina of Woonsocket, general secretary of Union St. Jean de Baptiste, his assistant being Mrs. Dugas, of Norwich. The vice president was Mr. DuPerry, of Plainfield and his assistant, Mrs. Cote of Baltic. The honorary president was Desire Dufresne, assisted by Mrs. Henri Beausoleil, of Norwich. Fred Lafreniere of Norwich served as doyen, Henri Brodeau of Wauregan was master of ceremonies, assisted by Mrs. Lida Gingras of Jewett City. Miss Jeanne Rousseau of Jewett City was the musician and had charge of the music. The guard of girls included Rita Couture, captain, Rena Casavant, Irene Ethier, Irene Cyr, Irene Brisson, Rita Ethier, Claire Hamel, Angeline Beaulieu and Catherine Brisson. The officers installed were, for Council Chaplesn: President, Ephraim Sylvester; vice president, George Davignon; honorary president, F. X. Casavant; doyen, Xavier Cyr; secretary, Joseph Couture; assistant secretary, George Lefebvre; financial secretary, Joseph Couture; treasurer, Clovis Casavant; auditors, F. X. Casavant and Louis Beaulieu; master of ceremonies, Archie Despres; first guard, Paul Ramsey; second guard, Paul Freguult.

The officers of Jean D'Arc council are: President, Mrs. Carmelle Casavant; vice president, Miss Delphine Beauregard; honorary president, Mrs. Delia Moran; doyen, Mrs. Olive Blanchard; secretary, Miss Marie Roy; assistant secretary, Mrs. Malvina Vincent; financial secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Lucianna Rousseau; auditors, Mrs. Malvina Vincent and Mrs. Regina LaPointe; mistress of ceremonies, Mrs. Clorinthe Ramsey; first guard, Mrs. Celia Cadieux; second guard, Mrs. Carmelesse Ethier; musician, Miss Jeanne Rousseau. A very entertaining program had been arranged. It was opened and closed with songs by the girls' guard. Rev. P. J. McCabe and Rev. Nicholas Caron made eloquent addresses, as did Henri Beausoleil. There was a dialog by Mrs. Clorinthe Ramsey and Roger Vachon, and another by Mrs. Helena Medick and Anthony Ledoux. Evelyn Caron and Claire Casavant recited, Ephraim Sylvester and Mrs. Agine Sarazin sang solos. Refreshments were served at the Hotel Deville with Mrs. Joseph Couture in charge, assisted by Mrs. Louis Bachand, Mrs. Lacroix, Mrs. Clorincho Romage and the girls' guard. Warden E. J. Jodoin and Representative Lionel Boucher were among the guests. Other present came from Wauregan, Plainfield, Norwich and Baltic.

PLAINFIELD

DR. ELMER E. BENNETT DIES AFTER ILLNESS OF SOME TIME

After an illness of several months, Dr. Elmer E. Bennett died Sunday evening at 6 o'clock at his home on Plainfield street. He was a native of Canterbury and the son of Thomas Bennett and Chloe Ann Fuller, born Nov. 9, 1863. He received his education in the public schools. Feb. 2, 1885, he married Bertha M. Pellett, daughter of John D. and Harriett A. Robbins Pellett. She died two years ago. Dr. Bennett has been a successful veterinary surgeon for 20 years. In 1908 and 1911 he represented the town of Canterbury in the state legislature. He is survived by his son, Arthur, of Canterbury; by two grandchildren; a brother, Albert Bennett, and two sisters, all of Canterbury. He was a member of Plainfield grange, No. 140, a member of the First Congregational church and of the Lincoln club. The news of his death was received with sincere regret by many friends.

Callers in Norwich Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marslayel, Robert Florence and Vic Vincent.

Miss Frances Mathewson of New London spent the week end in Plainfield.

Miss Frances E. Babcock is ill.

The calendar of the First Congregational church was given Sunday by Clarence Winsor. Rev. H. M. Peterson of Boston took charge of the morning and evening service. The Christian Endeavor service was led by Mrs. Everett Dawley; subject, Seeing the Good in Men Everywhere. Motion picture service was held at 7:30. Rev. H. M. Peterson was assisted by L. Edwin Hill and Irving Libby. The following pictures were shown: By Their Fruits, Who Loseth His Life and The Trail Rider, by Jasper.

William Prentiss of Providence spent the week end at the home of his father.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Woodmansee and family are sick with the grip.

Miss Florence Leach of Wauregan, formerly of Plainfield, broadcasted from Boston Saturday evening over WBZ.

The following officers were elected at the annual meeting of the Sunday school: Superintendent, Cecil Butler; assistant superintendent, Ray W. Greene; secretary, Donald Gallup; treasurer, Miss Mary Baldwin; superintendent of primary and junior department, Miss Rose Beaudry; cradle roll, Mrs. Henry Randall; home department, Mrs. John Gallup.

Miss Dorothy Pike and friend, Miss Charlotte Palmer, spent the week end at the home of Miss Pike's mother, Mrs. Eva Pike.

Miss Doris Geer spent the week end at her home.

Wednesday the Ladies' Aid society will met with Mrs. John Kingsley.

LEBANON

There was a large attendance at the burial of Dr. Henry Sweet. Rev. A. G. Littlefield conducted the committal service at the grave. Burial was in the family lot in the South cemetery. There were beautiful floral tributes.

Elmer Pultz has returned from attending the funeral of his sister, who died in Albany, N. Y., burial being at Sherbourne, N. Y.

The Missionary society met with Mrs. Anna Perry Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. David Pitcher and Mrs. William Pultz attended the farm bureau meeting in Norwich Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Geer and daughter, Miss Myra Geer, spent Sunday in Fitchville, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Abel. Miss Myra Geer has a position at Palmer mills, starting work there Tuesday.

Mrs. Clarence Geer has returned from a few days' visit with Hartford friends.

Mrs. George L. Randall and infant son, Paul Holloway, have arrived from the maternity hospital in Norwich.

Rev. A. G. Littlefield took as his text Sunday morning Matt. 5: 46. The communion service followed as there were only a few present the first Sunday in the month, owing to the storm. In the evening there was a union C. E. service at the First Congregational church. Miss Elizabeth Brewster led the meeting. Light refreshments were served.

The K. of P. held installation Tuesday evening at their new meeting place,

CENTRALIZED CITY PLANT FAVORED BY COUNCILOR MAY, NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 21—At the meeting of the city council this evening Councilor May moved to have the municipal working plants of the city centralized, on the ground of economy and greater facility. He said the city was owner of land on Williams and Smith streets which might be developed, doing away with the municipal garage on Jefferson avenue, and the yard on Howard street. He suggested that the land and buildings might be sold, to provide a central municipal station, this move being to avoid carting from one place to another. The matter was referred to the committee on public works for investigation and report. Councilor Fox notified the council that any new business coming from New London to the legislature must be presented by Feb. 1, the time limit. On a report from Councilor May, the council adopted a resolution asking the navy department to name one of the new cruisers after the city of New London.

City Manager Holt, reporting on the contract for holiday lights on the streets of the city, said the Connecticut Power Co. had fulfilled its contract and had given the city 300 more lights than the contract called for. Nine applications for building permits were granted. A resolution expressing the intention of the city to lay a sewer on Ledyard street had its first reading.

The petition of the Crown and Capitol theatres relative to lights on the marquees, were referred to the committee with power.

The council voted to buy two carloads of cement for $832. A contract for repairs to the Ockford hose house was awarded to Thomas Ochlini. His bid was one-half those of the others. The council voted to buy $252.50 of coal for the Hillside home. A request for a statement from the tax collector relative to back taxes collected was asked, with a view to reducing the floating debt of the city.

TAX COLLECTING SYSTEM NOT ALL PROFITABLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 21—It was disclosed today that because the city institutes legal steps to collect back taxes that such procedure by no means insures the collection of the tax in total; for a recent transaction of this nature shows that the city is the loser by about $300. The three building lots on Bell avenue, owned by the estate of George Beck, were sold Jan. 12 at public auction by Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander, for the estate owed the city $700. The lots were purchased by L. E. McLoughlin, local contractor, and all that he paid for them was $190. A deed transferring title in the property from the city to McLoughlin was received for record today at the office of the city clerk.

Hubbard Sent to Jail

Henry "Red" Ellison, colored, a lodger at 4 Douglass street, and Josh Hubbard, also colored, a resident at 66 Douglass street, were in the police court today charged with assault and battery. Ellison was given a suspended sentence of ten days in jail, with assurance from Judge Victor Prince that if Ellison was again presented in the court the sentence would be put into operation. Hubbard, knife-wielder, was sentenced to jail for six months.

Peter Mros was charged with breach of the peace and his case was continued to the 28th inst. Mros was arrested Sunday night by Patrolmen Albert Iverson and Harry Watterson.

Mrs. Timothy Sullivan and infant daughter, of 37 Garfield avenue; Mrs. Mary Elwood, 15 Walker street; Mrs. Emily Brewster, 13 Hill street; Mrs. Stephen Hornitsky, 49 Garfield avenue, and Mrs. Archibald Quaintance, 676 Ocean avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were dismissed today and Sunday.

INDIGESTION GOES—
QUICKLY, PLEASANTLY

When you begin to suffer from heartburn, gas or indigestion, it's usually the fault of too much acid in your stomach. The best way—the quickest way—to stop your trouble is with Phillips Milk of Magnesia. A spoonful in water neutralizes many times in volume in stomach acids—and does it instantly. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know Phillips Milk of Magnesia. And you will never allow yourself to suffer from over-acidity again. It is the standard anti-acid with doctors and has been for over fifty years.

Your drug store has Phillips Milk of Magnesia, in generous 25c and 50c bottles. Full directions for its many uses in every package. Insist on the genuine. A less perfect product may not act the same.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered trade mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

Itching Quickly Relieved

"Almost instantly the itching stopped." That's what most people say after they have used Resinol Soap and Ointment for any kind of itching rash. The soap cleanses and refreshes the skin, preparing it to receive the ointment which soothes and heals. Men like the tonic odor of Resinol Soap for the bath and the Ointment is invaluable for cuts, chafing, etc. At all druggists.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

Crook plays have enjoyed many triumphs but none of the same order as the triumph in "The Home Towners." There is not even the shadow of a crook in all the chuckling, genial course of this 100 per cent all talking version of one of George M. Cohan's most spectacular success.

The home towners, are just people, the sort we all know.

The main characters are two men, now middle-aged, who have been chums from boyhood days. P. H. Bancroft has preferred to marry and settle down in the old home town. Vic Arnold has gone to the Big Town and become a millionaire, and is now, at a rather late date, engaged to a beautiful girl, Beth Calhoun, whose father has invented a bottle washer, and with it some semblance of a fortune. His son, Wally, has a good job in Wall street, and there is no immediate need of augmenting the family income.

Mr. McWade, as Bancroft, is absurdly ingratiating, in his well-meant meddling. He, if we are not mistaken, created the same part in the stage version. Richard Bennett, is convincing as the supposedly ill-guided bachelor, and Doris Kenyon exquisite as his misunderstood and spirited fiancee. Gladys Brockwell, who will be remembered for her moving performance in Warner Bros.' "Lights of New York," plays the wife of the up-state visitor. Each part is portrayed with fine understanding. The photography is unusually beautiful and Byron Foy, in his direction, has left no clue to character unused.

Palace Theatre.

Tonight will terminate the three-day showing of "The White Sister" at the Palace theatre, where the return of this marvelous production has been greeted with fine comment ever since it opened on Sunday night. Lillian Gish and Ronald Coleman are co-starred in this picture and even those patrons who had seen the picture when it was originally released some years ago are loud in their praises.

"There is only one way to learn to act and that is to act!"

So says Lillian Gish, star of "The White Sister," an inspiration production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, now playing a triumphant return engagement at the Palace theatre.

"In the early days of the cinema the players had a better chance to learn technique, because we worked every day of our lives."

The second feature is Lila Lee with a great cast in "The Adorable Cheat" and both of these pictures combine to make a perfect program for Norwich theatre goers.

For Wednesday only the double feature bill is unusually good. The first feature will be "A Woman Against the World" and it's large and impressive cast includes Gertrude Olmstead, Harrison Ford, Georgia Hale, Sally Rand and Walter Hiers. It is solid entertainment from start to finish.

The second feature will show Champion the famous dog star in "The Silent Sentinal" and he is ably supported by well known screen stars. Wednesday night, as usual, is China Nite and it is unnecessary to tell Palace patrons about this weekly event.

For Thursday, Friday and Saturday the Palace offers, again a fine bill of five acts of big time vaudeville and keeping up to the standard set by Manager Lewis, this promises to be even better than the shows of the last two weeks. That will be going some, as the vaudeville shows at the Palace these last two weeks have had everybody talking.

The feature picture will be a drama of circus life called "The Sideshow" and it's cast includes Marie Prevost, alph Graves and others.

Pile Sufferers

You can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Nothing but an internal remedy can do this—that's why cutting and salves fail. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, is guaranteed to quickly and safely banish any form of Piles misery or money back. Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists everywhere sell it with this guarantee.

MAYTAGS NEAR THE SOUTH POLE

The million-dollar Byrd South Pole expedition has reached its base in the Bay of Whales, Antarctica. Hence the Maytags chosen for the expedition are the farthest south that washing machines or any other home conveniences were ever carried before. They are 2400 miles south of the nearest human dwelling.

Equipped with powerful radio broadcasting equipment, the expedition keeps in daily touch with the rest of the world, but what the rest of the world is doing will not be as interesting to the expedition members as the expedition's experiences will be to the rest of the world.

Between the expedition and the South Pole is the great ice barrier, flaunting a fierce challenge to human skill and endurance. The Byrd expedition is better equipped than any other expedition of its kind has ever been. An abundance of food, carefully selected and well preserved was transported to eth base by the ships. There are hundreds of books, tons of candy and tobacco, phonographs, a gigantic cook stove, Maytag Aluminum Washers and many other conveniences to make the stay of two years more bearable.

Before an attempt is made to fly to the pole, much work is to be done. Supply stations will be laid every 100 miles along the 800-mile route which the tri-motored plane will take, and smaller stations will be laid between. Dog teams will transport the material and supplies.

The Maytags will have plenty to do at the base in the Bay of Whales and on the long journey home through the tropics. Their work is to supply clean clothing and bedding for the 55 men on the trip. Sidney Gleason, chief steward of the expedition, wrote: "We have selected Maytag Washers as part of the equipment on the South Pole expedition because of their advanced type, strength of aluminum body and precision of mechanical parts. These qualities are necessary to give maximum efficiency under the trying conditions to be encountered."

Washington Cathedral Representative.

The Rev. Edward S. Dunlap, canon of Washington will deliver an illustrated lecture on "The Crowning Glory of Washington", Wednesday evening, January 23 at 8 o'clock in Trinity church parish room, the Rev. J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity church announced on Sunday. The public has been invited to attend.

Sixty colored stereopticon slides will be shown to illustrate the beauty and grandeur of the great gothic edifice which is rising on an eminence in the national capital to symbolize and stimulate the religious life of the American people.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

POETRY

Paths of Glory

Beneath those rugged elms, that yew-tree's shade,
Where heaves the turf in many a mouldering heap,
Each in his narrow cell forever laid,
The rude Forefathers of the hamlet sleep.

The breezy call of incense-breathing morn,
The swallow twitt'ring from the straw-built shed,
The cock's shrill clarion or the echoing horn
No more shall rouse them from their lowly bed.

For them no more the blazing hearth shall burn,
Or busy housewife ply her evening chore;
No children run to lisp their sire's return,
Or climb his knees the envied kiss to share.

Oft did the harvest to their sickle yield,
Their furrow oft the stubborn glebe has broke;
How jocund did they drive their team afield!
How bowed the woods beneath their sturdy stroke!

Let not ambition mock their useful toil,
Their homely joys and destiny obscure;
Nor grandeur hear, with a disdainful smile,
The short and simple annals of the poor.

The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
Awaits alike the inevitable hour.
The paths of glory lead but to the grave.

—Thomas Gray.

The Stars and Stripes

What nobleness, what glory you declare,
What ideals typify!
Symbolic of a friendship to mankind,
Your banner lights the sky.

Red stripes! Assurance that before the brave
Ignoble wrongs give way;
Emblem for all of opportunity,
The dawning of a day.

White stripes! Recalling words of long ago,
The pure their God shall see.
A wide-flung truth which all the world can prove Brings joy and liberty.

Blue field with stars of white! True brotherhood;
The world in unity;
A pledge to all mankind of helpfulness
And unselfed charity.

Your blended whole checks evil's forward march,
And bids its hosts stand still;
You hold the promise of a world at peace,
"To all mankind good will."

—Arthur S. Hollis, in Christian Science Monitor.

Martha Diatter, 14, of Baltimore, Md., used strategy in escaping from her mother and a dentist's chair. With her mother, Martha started for the dentist's office. Traffic, however, held Mrs. Diatter back as Martha darted across the street to the entrance of the building. Mrs. Diatter followed a minute later and went on the dentist's office, supposing that Martha already had arrived there. Instead, the girl had hidden behind a door at the entrance and when her mother took the elevator she disappeared. Nor was she to be found at home.

Remains of prehistoric animals were recently discovered in excavations in Trafalgar square in the heart of London. The finds were unearthed in digging operations for the foundations of a new building close to the Admiralty Arch, and include limb bones and teeth from the rhinoceros, straight-tusked elephant, bison, giant ox and great cave bear, and the skull and antler of an early fallow deer. Experts believe the fossils belonged to the Pleistocene age, having been found in Pleistocene gravel some 40 feet below the surface. The remains have been presented to the Natural History Museum, South Kensington, and will be available for the use of students, but not exhibited to the general public.

Steam Made Fire Call

A defect in the heater, in the house owned by Max Smotrich at 53 Mechanic street, which allowed the water to boil out and fill the lower apartment with steam was the cause of a call for the fire department shortly before midnight Monday. A tank of chemical was used to deaden the fire in the heater and the fire was dumped allowing the heater to cool. The telephone alarm was answered by Chief Henry R. Taft, Deputy Chief Brennan, Squad A, and Engines No. 5 and 6. There was no damage.

FRIENDS GIVE APPRECIATION DINNER TO COMMERCE CHAMBER SECRETARY

Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the chamber of commerce was given a complimentary dinner and a gift of gold by about 50 business men friends at the Wauregan hotel Monday evening at 6:15, this group of men prominent in the affairs of the city uniting in this way to express their appreciation of his services in matters of public interest in the community.

James L. Case, a former president of the chamber of commerce, presided for the evening, the song leader was John J. O'Rourke, a former secretary of the chamber and Frederick C. Thumm was at the piano.

Toastmaster Case announced the purpose of the meeting to say "thank you" to Secretary Pilcher and called upon a number to speak for different lines of business and civic activity, each expressing warm appreciation of interest shown in many lines of endeavor by Secretary Pilcher and his earnest cooperation in civic enterprises.

The speakers included Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, Arthur M. Brown, president of the Thames National bank, Former Secretary O'Rourke, H. D. Larrabee, former president of the chamber of commerce, Abner Schwartz, former president of the Merchants association, James F. Fleming for the credit bureau, E. O. Rodier, president of the Contact club, William G. Park, general chairman of the Norwich Inn project, Max Hanover and Dr. Hugh B. Campbell.

Secretary Pilcher Speaks

Mr. Case followed their talks by presenting to Mr. Pilcher the purse of gold.

In accepting the gift Secretary Pilcher spoke as follows:

I am entirely at a loss to express the words that will adequately describe my feelings toward you boys here tonight. The token which you have tendered me I am accepting with a reluctancy as I realize that it is the organization I represent that has deserved this act of appreciation rather than your secretary.

As I look around the room I see many familiar faces; faces that are representative of the best thinking in Norwich. You men are familiar too, because during my seventeen months of service I have seen you all in action on the firing line. You are really the ones that should have the dinner and Norwich should be your host.

But in the terms of the old time religion (I suppose you all know what that is) I sometimes ask myself the question, "Has Norwich lost its vision, its faith, and its consciousness?" You hear and I hear a lot of talk about "Why don't they bring in more factories—more payrolls?" Oh! that's the cry! The secretary should be the benefactor and the chamber the coin producer that will roll dollars into the cash register at the expense of some other community. No thought for service to existing industries: No thought for better streets, parks, city government, taxes, transportation facilities, housing accommodations, airports, hotels. No thought for a more progressive and optimistic attitude of public mind. No, just invest a few hundred dollars in an organization called a chamber of commerce and employ a magician called a secretary, and lo, the smokestacks begin to appear and if they don't scramble to get into our town its the fault of the chamber and never the community or its citizens, so let's resign from membership.

Oh, I fully realize that you boys have been playing the game, that you have contributed your best efforts in establishing the many concrete accomplishments recorded to the chamber's credit recently, and I also do not want to give out the impression that a well organized industrial expansion movement would not produce results in Norwich.

What I do want to point out is this:

1. Cities do not just happen. It takes man to build them; you are doing your bit—but what about the 31,570 other citizens of Norwich? Your job is to create a nucleus around which we can build an organization that can double its effectiveness in the future—we need more man-power to accomplish this; the most effective medium is the chamber of commerce.

2. It takes time to get results. Manpower to study and time to study: Industrial situation in Norwich—labor, transportation, cost of living, power, available sites and vacant factories, educational advantages, playgrounds: man-power and time to study: Kind of factories that might profitably locate in this city from an economic standpoint; man-power and time to study: Methods of interesting prospects, methods of advertising city, costs of industrial promotion.

When we can have an intelligent answer to all of these factors understood and sold to the citizens of Norwich, then we will be in a position to more rapidly correct our liabilities and handicaps—and we have them—and promote our assets—and we have these too—and then, and not until then will industrial expansion take the place of disintegration.

What is there for the chamber of commerce to do? That's the foolish question that many of our citizens are asking today. I say foolish because the program the Norwich chamber of commerce has ahead of it, if it were to undertake everything that might be done to improve our city, would be five blocks long. Oh, there's plenty of work to be done. I like Colvin Brown's statement which he made when he addressed the Rotary club recently in Norwich. He said: "As long as there is a margin between what a city ought to be and what the city is, there is work for the modern chamber of commerce". The trouble is, there is plenty to do but not enough support and man-power and time.

You know, there are three kinds of men in a community. There is the "yes" man, the kind of a fellow you find hanging around the polls on election day that for one dollar will vote whichever way the boss says. They are the fellows who are influenced by the leader, that go whichever way the wind blows. Then there is the "not by a darn sight man". He's the fellow who is opposed to everything and anything before he knows what its about. He reminds me of the sailor who landed on an island in a remote section of the world one time and he was immediately approached by an officer who said: "Young man, there is a government here" to which the sailor immediately replied: "I'm agin it". These fellows, you know who they are, are the ones who are always opposed to everything we undertake. Then there is the third class, what I like to term the conservative progressive type. These fellows are the ones that when you present them with a proposition designed to benefit the city, will say, "let's have all the facts; let's give the matter careful consideration; let's determine the right and the wrong of the issue, and if its right we will support it." They are the fellows who, after they have lent their support to an issue, have to go out and work hard in order to sell the entire community on the same idea. They are the leaders in community thought and they are most always the active members of the chamber of commerce.

Based upon a careful study of the situation, conversations with many business men, and comparison with many of our competitors, I am making bold to say here to you tonight that in my opinion the greatest need of Norwich today is a revival of its civic consciousness—an educational program designed to sell Norwich to Norwich and to sell Norwich to the world. This aim will cost money; it will take time and it will require manpower. Now whose job is it? There is no better organization qualified to accomplish this result than your chamber of commerce.

Sometimes members get the idea that when you have hired a secretary you have a chamber of commerce. That's the hardest idea a secretary has to deal with. It reminds me of the old fashioned way of playing football. A friend of mine was telling recently of a game played down south and one of the teams were colored boys. The coach had a habit of using high numbers when calling the play, so one day he called for combination 5384. The play gained but little. Then he called 10946, and they only gained a few yards. So they pulled in a few substitutes off the bench.—A chamber of commerce has to have substitutes too—We can't always depend on the same players to carry the ball. But anyhow after these subs were in, the coach called 50999, and to their dismay the play lost ground. Well, the coach was then seen to approach the bench once more and this time he called out a big husky fellow, black as charcoal, 6 ft. 4 inches tall, broad shouldered and boyish hips, the kind that can wiggle by the tackles here and there. And this big, black boy, the story goes, didn't walk; he just strutted out. The game was on. The coach called 1,644,932 and that nigger just yelled out "to h—— with them figgers, just give me dat ball—interference follow me".

Now, that was the old game of football and it was the old way of running a chamber of commerce. The load was carried by a few and the rest merely followed. Today we play the new game. The players lead the way and the ball follows. We have plenty of interference, too. You fellows have been the players. The secretary has been the coach. A sales event here, an exposition there, some publicity here and there, a survey then, and a revaluation now, and a new hotel to help along, and so it goes. There are in all about twenty or thirty different activities to keep alive in a year. And that's the secretary's job to engineer and facilitate and if he once arrives at the point where he is doing all the work himself you cease to have a chamber of commerce.

Norwich is not a bad city. It has all advantages that would attract desirable industries. We have a cool climate. That's one of the most important factors. We have cheap factory space available and if a concern employing skilled labor was to locate here it would not be long before they would find their labor needs adequately taken care of. We have good transportation facilities. What better can be offered than two railroads out of the city and a boat line to New York. We have the assurance of the co-operation of the industrial agents of these lines. The Connecticut state chamber of commerce, the New England council, and a multitude of other organizations stand ready to assist us.

True, our housing facilities are not as desirable as they might be, but that situation will correct itself just as soon as the need arises. Take it all in all, I think that Norwich has a desirable product to sell to prospective industries. The trouble is that Norwich has not reached the point yet where they believe this themselves. In other words, Norwich is not sold on Norwich. I can cite enumerable instances where prospective manufacturers have visited Norwich during the last 15 or 16 months and have come into contact with an attitude on the part of the citizens that has had a detrimental influence on their decisions. An industrial engineer recently visited Hartford and in conversation with the chamber's industrial committee stated: "My clients specify cities that are not lacking in civic pride and progressiveness. A city may have all of the natural advantages and good manufacturing facilities, but if its citizens are not supporting its progress we do not want to consider it."

Arrangements were negotiated last week providing for an intensive educational campaign to arouse the civic consciousness of Norwich and to create in the minds of its citizens an appreciation of what the chamber of commerce has done and what it can do.

Gentlemen, you have intact the resources of the chamber of commerce of Norwich. Oh, if I could only make you fully appreciate what the power of an organized business can accomplish. Its the most potent force we have available for accomplishing city growth and its natural means of presentation is through the medium of the chamber of commerce.

The trouble is, too often the chamber of commerce and its directors are too afraid to tackle the job that should be done. They are afraid they are going to hurt somebody's feelings. The main question is, "what corrective measures are necessary to advance the interests of Norwich, to place it in adequate competition with other cities of similar size and advantage.

If this means a new airport; if it means a revision of the form of government; if it means a more adquate fire or police department; if it means a better system of education; if it means better streets and sidewalks; if it means better housing facilities; if it means more trains on the railroad; if it means cleaner streets in the business section; if it means the revised city charter; if it means better understanding between merchant and manufacturer; if it means improvement in advertising methods among business men; if it means the promotion of a spirit of good will and friendship among business men in place of antagonism and bitterness towards competitors; no matter what it means, gentlemen, the individual directors of the chamber of commerce are charged with the responsibility of reviewing all the data and when they have once determined the right and the wrong of the question then the chamber of commerce should get behind it forcibly without any equivications regardless of whose involved in the picture, be it manufacturer or politician.

I am grateful to you tonight, and fully appreciate your thoughtfulness, for this little party. Perhaps I am running contrary to your program in offering these remarks. But it is the subject uppermost in my heart at this time and if you will forgive me now I want to ask you frankly,

Do you believe I am right or wrong?

Fined in City Court.

The cases against Joseph Uzialko, 34, and Jacob Tempchin, 54, arrested Saturday evening on the West Side and charged with breach of the peace, were tried in the city court Monday morning. A nolle was entered in the Tempchin case, while Uzialko was given a sentence of 15 days in jail, suspended for six months. It was brought out in testimony in court that the accused engaged in a fight on High street, in which both men received blows over the head with a chair and shoe iron. The melee is said to have been begun by Uzialko.

BURNS PROVED FATAL TO VETERAN NEWSDEALER

Ferdinand Nowatzky, 78, veteran newsdealer, died at 12:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the W. W. Backus hospital, as the result of very extensive burns and extreme shock received in the fire at his apartment at No. 60 Washington street Monday morning. Mrs. Nowatzky, who is now a patient at the hospital suffering from effects of smoke, is in a comfortable condition and is expected to recover. Mr. and Mrs. Nowatzky were trapped in the building after a fire had started in the newsdealer's room from an oil lamp which he was reported to have upset shortly after 3 o'clock about the time he arose to prepare to go to his newsshop on Franklin square. The fire was extinguished by Engine 5, Squad A, Acting Chief Taft, Acting Deputy Chief Brennan and Engine No. 3 and Truck

FERDINAND NOWATZKY

1, which responded to a telephone alarm sent in by Mrs. Mary C. Stanley, a tenant in the house who was awakened by the smoke. A bell alarm was rung in by Mr. Nowatzky's son, Frederick F.

On the arrival of the firemen they were notified that Mr. and Mrs. Nowatzky were still in the building. An effort was made to gain entrance through the front hallway, but this was a mass of flames and prevented the firemen from entering. By putting a ladder up to a bay window Acting Chief Taft got into the building, found Mrs. Nowatzky on the floor and carried her out. Firemen Harry Lieberman and Edward J. Angell then went in and rescued Mr. Nowatzky. The victims were covered with blankets, placed in the police patrol and taken to the Backus hospital.

At 4:10 o'clock the blaze was under control and the recall was sounded, but Squad A remained on the scene until 5:30 o'clock in case the fire broke out again.

Mr. Nowatzky was born in New York city, April 3, 1850. He came to Norwich in 1869 as a barber, entering the employ of the Wauregan house barber shop. For many years he continued in this business, being located after leaving the Wauregan house in 1871 under his own name in the Richards building. He left Norwich in 1876, returning two years later and again opening a business under his own name in the building where Dr. Cassidy's office is now located. From here he moved into the Richards building.

Later he mover to the old Pellett building, where he was located for 15 years, following which he moved to the waiting station of the trolley company on Franklin square. He remained here for some years and then moved to the present store located at No. 265 Main street, where he continued to conduct his newspaper and magazine business until burned out by fire. He then moved to the Thayer building and upon completion of the remodeling of the building burned he moved back to 265 Main street, where he remained up to the time of his death.

In 1863 Mr. Nowatzky first became interested in the newspaper business and for the past 59 years has been actively engaged in this line of work, devoting his entire time to it. He built up many of the newspaper routes in Norwich, was responsible for the placing of numerous newspaper trains to Norwich and vicinity and at one time handled all the Sunday newspapers in Norwich. Mr. Nowatzky used to deliver papers to Block Island, making the trip for a number of years himself. He was known to all the circulation managers and publishers of the east and he was well versed at the selling end of the newspaper and magazine business.

Several of the newspapers, which Mr. Nowatzky sold, have devoted considerable space to him as one of the veteran newsdealers of New England. Thirty years ago the New York Sunday papers did not arrive here until noontime and then Mr. Nowatzky went to Hartford for them every week end. He had to make three changes of teams and arrived in Norwich with the papers about noon. The Sunday papers then sold for ten cents, later they went down to five and then increased to seven and eight and today they are again selling for ten cents. Mr. Nowatzky was one of the pioneer newsdealers to handle The Norwich Bulletin.

Mr. Nowatzky was married on April 3, 1872, his 22nd birthday, in the German Lutheran church to Miss Isabelle Itlie of Norwich, by Rev. Mr. Booth. At that time they took up their residence in a new cottage on the present site of the Central fire station. For the past 19 years Mr. and Mrs. Nowatzky have resided at No. 60 Washington street. Mr. Nowatzky, besides his widow, leaves one son, Frederick F. Nowatzky, of this city, and two daughters, Mrs. John Fairman of Arctic, R. I., and Mrs. Daniel Halliisey, of this city.

Mr. Nowatzky was a veteran newsdealer of Norwich and for nearly 60 years has served the public its morning and evening papers. For many years he was the leading news distributor for this section. It has been his habit to open his news store before five o'clock so that the early risers might secure their papers on their way to work. Even at his advanced age he would arise at 3 o'clock in all kinds of weather to serve his public. Mr. Nowatzky has long been a familiar figure in the business section of Franklin square and his untimely passing will be regretted by his patrons and others who knew him well.

MASONIC TEMPLE CORPORATION ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Masonic Temple corporation was held at 7:30 Monday evening at Masonic Temple, Broadway, with the president, Howard L. Stanton, presiding. Arad R. Manning and Ernest J. Jones were appointed new members of the corporation to fill the vacancies caused by the deaths of Reuben S. Bartlett and George E. Parsons during the past year. TAFTVILLE

Funeral of Herman Boenig

Funeral services for Herman Boenig were held Monday morning at the funeral parlors of Dougherty Brothers on Merchants avenue, followed by a service at Sacred Heart church, at which Rev. Omer T. Mandler officiated. Friends acted as bearers and there were many beautiful floral offerings. Burial was in Lovett cemetery in Versailles.

When Frederick Dugas was fishing last September in the St. Lawrence river he saw a large fish leaping about in the reeds, and managed to get it to shore. The fish, which is about three feet long, was such a curiosity that Mr. Dugas sent it to a taxidermist in Springfield, Mass., and had it mounted. No one seemed to be able to tell the variety in that city, and on Monday all the Taftville sportsmen and experts were called in on the case. The Bulletin representative happened to have a "fish book," and from an illustration the fish was easily identified as a Bony Pike.

The fish has a long snake-like body, resembling at first glance a pickerel or pike, but the mouth is elongated and well lined with teeth. The Bony Pike sometimes attains the length of seven feet, and it is found in the lakes of this country and Canada. A peculiar feature is the skin, which instead of being scaly, gives the appearance of small porcelain tiles laid close together. The scientific name of the fish is Lepidosteus Osseus.

The financial report for the past year of Sacred Heart church was read from the pulpit on Sunday.

At a special meeting of the members of the Taftville Congregational church and the congregation held last Sunday after the morning service and presided over by Allan Bogle, chairman of the standing committee of the church, it was voted to extend a call to the Rev. William Penner, to fill the pastorate made vacant by the death of Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis. Since the death of Rev. Mr. Crowdis the church has had no pastor, but various ministers have supplied the pulpit on Sunday mornings. For the past few weeks, Rev. Mr. Penner has been the preacher at the church. He is a student at Hartford Theological seminary, as is Mrs. Penner.

Y. M. C. A. NOON MEETING AT RADIATOR PLANT

The weekly noon meeting under the "Y" auspices was held Monday at the Richmond Radiator plant at 12:30. Rev. C. H. Ricketts spoke interestingly to the group of employes, taking for his topic, "Our Daytime of Work." Mr. Ricketts spoke in part as follows:

"There are certain reasons why daylight is helpful and why it is the best time to work. Sunlight gives a man certain tone, vigor and strength. Daylight gives a man an attitude toward work that night does not give him, and the right attitude is absolutely necessary if men are to do their best work.

It has been ordained that man should work, and he therefore should work with all of his might while the day lasts, ere the night cometh. I want to do my best while it is my day, and then I can safely leave the results with Almighty God.

I believe that every man who wants to work should have a chance to work, and if he does not have that chance there is something wrong with society somewhere. I also believe that a real man is God's workman, and that God will see to it that his faithful workmen are duly rewarded for their faithfulness.

flu WARNING!

...hands may carry germs home

Guard your family—use the toilet soap that removes germs

THE flu situation is serious! According to official health reports, a million and a quarter new cases of the disease appeared in one week.

But don't fear flu, authorities advise—fight it! Take every precaution against its attack. And, in waging your fight, remember that hands may spread flu just as they carry and spread the germs of other serious diseases.

Our hands can't escape germs. Every day we all must touch things which other hands may have left germ-laden—such as money, telephones, doorknobs. That's why experts are agreed that clean hands are most important.

The precaution authorities urge

Note at right seven protective measures established by the Life Extension Institute. And heed particularly rule number Two—about keeping hands germ-free. It's an important precaution—yet very simple to follow. Just have everyone in your home wash hands often with this purifying toilet soap—Lifebuoy. It removes germs!

This public telephone you touch—your germ-laden hands touch it before yours!

For health's sake, make Lifebuoy a regular habit. Remove germs from hands often; not only in times of epidemics, but always—just as doctors do to protect themselves and patients.

Note its clean scent

The same delightful mild and antiseptic lather that guards health by removing germs—keeps skins fresh and clear by purifying pores. Prevents embarrassing body odors, too.

An innocent-looking school-book—yet it may leave many germs on your child's hands.

Lifebuoy's pleasant, extra-clean scent, which vanishes as you rinse, tells you it gives greater protection. Start using Lifebuoy today as a common-sense health measure.

Don't fear Flu—fight it these seven ways

Rules established by the LIFE EXTENSION INSTITUTE

1 Keep out of crowds all you can.
2 Remove germs from hands as often as possible.
3 Get plenty of rest, sleep, exercise, fresh air and nourishing food.
4 Avoid exposure to chill and wet, especially when tired.
5 Fortify yourself to resist the flu by having a health examination.
6 If you have the real flu don't take "home remedies"—call a doctor.
7 Be careful in convalescence. It is a danger period.

SENATE VOTES $24,000,000 FOR PRESIDENT TO DIRECT ENFORCEMENT OF DRY LAW

Vote in Senate Was 50 to 27—The House Still Must Act on the Matter—Proposal Would Give the Chief Executive Power to Distribute the Money in Whatever Departments of the Government He Might Choose—The Senate Also Voted to Give the President $250,000 to Use in Making a "Thorough Going" Investigation of Prohibition Conditions.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—(AP)—The president of the United States was voted $24,000,000 by the senate today for use in an attempt to enforce prohibition more strictly.

The prospective appropriation still must be approved by the house and President Coolidge and, if this is forthcoming, the expenditures of the money is expected to fall to the lot of Herbert Hoover because of the short time remaining before March 4.

Wide powers would be given the chief executive in the expenditures of the money under the amendment adopted to the first deficiency appropriation bill, it was offered by Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, a dry, and was made available over the protest of Senator Mellon.

The senate also voted an additional $250,000 to enable the president to carry out a "thorough going" investigation, which President-elect Hoover has given outlook to understand he intends to make, also must be approved by the house and Mr. Coolidge.

The only restrictions placed upon the executive in the use of the $24,000,000 would be that he must allocate the money to departments and bureaus of the government which have a part in the enforcement of the dry laws. He would be able to use all or part of the money as he might see fit.

The vote on the Harris proposal was 50 to 27. Sixty three democrats were recorded against the increase, Bruce of Maryland, Kendrick of Wyoming, and Reed of Missouri, while 13 republicans voted with almost the solid democratic membership in its support.

The $250,000 fund was approved without a record vote.

Adopted in the face of strong opposition by Secretary Mellon and divided sentiment of dry leaders and organizations, the senate action on the Harris amendment was the first time in the recollections of congressional leaders, who have dealt with many appropriations, that money has been voted under such circumstances.

The appropriation was approved after a new attempt had been made by Senator Harris to increase the prohibition funds. He carried on his efforts both in and out of the senate. Earlier in the session he asked that an additional $10,000,000 be provided but that, on the proposal of Senator Bruce, a dry, he increased the fund by more than $13,000,000, was rejected.

The most recent attempt of the Georgia senator caused considerable discussion among dry leaders after Secretary Mellon had sent a letter to the senate recommending that the increase be disapproved. Some officials of the Anti-Saloon league asked for the appropriation of the money while others said it was not needed.

While the amendment which would provide the money does not mention Mr. Hoover by name as the president who will use the money, it is all probability would be his lot to use it because President Coolidge has scarcely more than a week to go. The amendment would directed "the president of the United States" to make use of the funds and would permit them to be available until June 30, 1929.

Voting for the increase were:

Republicans: Brookhart, Capper, Cousins, Dale, Deneen, Frazier, McMaster, Norris, Nye, Pine, Sackett, Schall, and Vandenberg—Total 13.

Democrats: Ashurst, Barkley, Black, Bratton, Bruckner, Broussard, Caraway, Copeland, Edwards, Fletcher, George, Glass, Harris, Harrison, Hawes, Hayden, Heflin, Howell, Kendrick, Keyes, Mayfield, Neely, Overman, Pittman, Robinson of Arkansas, Sheppard, Simmons, Steck, Stephens, Swanson, Thomas of Oklahoma, Trammell, Tydings, Tyson, Wagner, Walsh of Mass., Walsh of Mont., and Wheeler—Total 36.

Farmer-labor: Shipstead—Total 1.

Total—50.

Those voting against were:

Republicans: Bingham, Baline, Borah, Curtis, Edge, Glenn, Gould, Hale, Hastings, Johnson, Jones, Keyes, McNary, Metcalf, Moses, Oddie, Phipps, Reed of Pennsylvania, Shortridge, Stanfield, Steiwer, Thomas of Idaho, Warren and Watsons—Total 24.

Democrats: Bruce, Kendrick, and Reed of Missouri—Total 3.

Total—27.

The adoption of the Harris proposal prevented the senate from acting upon an amendment by Senator Jones, republican, Washington, a dry, to provide $250,000 for a publicity campaign in favor of law observance and to greatly increase the field force of the prohibition department.

Senator Shortridge declared the money was not necessary because Mr. Hoover had promised to conduct an investigation of prohibition and said that Congress should await its outcome.

The increase was opposed by Senator Reed on the grounds that he did not favor appropriating money without specifications as to just how it was to be used.

Senator Broussard declared he would vote for the Harris proposal but not for the Jones amendment because he considered it the setting up of "a propaganda bureau."

A declaration by Senator Bruce that Senator Harris had asserted there were fifty bootleggers now where only one religion existed before prohibition, caused Senator Heflin to interpose that there were not "one fiftieth" of the liquor sold now as in the past. Heflin said he had not seen a half dozen men drunk in Washington in several years.

In reply to a statement by Senator Bruce that Paul, the Apostle, approved of liquor for medicinal purposes, Senator Heflin observed that "whiskey could be bought by any senator for such a purpose."

"How does the senator know that?" asked Senator Glass who immediately resented himself to chuckle behind his newspaper while the usually quite senate heard some laughter.

Additional funds for prohibition were advocated by Senator Tyson, democrat, Tennessee, who declared that "this country is dry and wants prohibition."

He declared it would be at least a year before results of a survey would be available.

Tyson said he had a "high opinion" of Secretary Mellon and declared that he had made a "great success" except in the administration of the prohibition bureau.

FOR REPEAL OF THE VOLSTEAD ACT AND 18TH AMENDMENT

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—(AP)—Organization of the Voluntary Committee of Lawyers, Inc., incorporated in Albany, N. Y., was announced today for the purpose of bringing about the "repeal of the so-called Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment."

Incorporators included Henry W. De Forest, Joseph H. Choate, Jr., Arthur H. Masten, Samuel H. Ordway, George W. Martin, Kenneth M. Spence, Harrison Tweed, George Westervelt and Clifton P. Williamson. They constitute the committee of managers.

Included in the board of advisors are: W. W. Montgomery of Philadelphia, W. K. Richardson and C. S. Rackeman of Boston, James J. Winson and Mitchell D. Follansbee of Chicago and Allan McCulloh, John A. Garver, George Zabriskie and Morgan J. O'Brien of New York city.

Three hundred lawyers in New York are giving their approval and support to the organization, the announcement of its incorporation said.

DISSENSION IN RANKS OF THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—(AP)—The dissension in the ranks of the Anti-Salon league over the Harris amendment to increase the prohibition enforcement fund by $25,000,000 was sharpened today when Dr. A. H. Briggs, superintendent of the California league, said at national headquarters that F. Scott McBride, general superintendent who has opposed the amendment, is attempting the impossible in trying to carry the work of legislative representative.

Dr. Briggs said the situation is "interesting," and might become "critical."

He suggested that Edwin C. Dinwiddie, of Washington, who preceded Wayne B. Wheeler as legislative representative, could fill the post well again, and indicated he would be suggested for it.

ROYALIST CELEBRATION FOR FORMER KAISER

BERLIN, Jan. 22—(AP)—About 2,000 royalists tonight celebrated the forthcoming 70th birthday of the former kaiser at a gathering in the "Kriegervereinshaus" under the auspices of the "Upright" organization. They lustily cheered Prince Eitel Friedrich, second son of the former kaiser, and hailed Prince Wilhelm, eldest son of the former crown prince, as "heir to the imperial crown."

The assembly was adorned by many ancient uniforms with profuse arrays of decorations in evidence. There also were many women in the dresses of nurses with Red Cross medals. In the gallery children displayed a large banner reading "Youth faithful to the kaiser."

A military band on the stage played marches and after almost every speech led the audience in singing some song expressing yearning for the kaiser, pledging fidelity to him or castigating the present republican "shame" of Germany.

The former crown prince did not appear. He was not referred to in the speeches and it was his son who was hailed as the lawful ruler of the country. His brothers, Oscar and August Wilhelm, had sent greetings but there was none from the crown prince.

4,357,384 AUTOMOBILES WERE PRODUCED IN U. S. LAST YEAR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—(AP)—A new high production record was set by American automobile makers during 1928.

The total output of machines for the year was reported today by the commerce department to be 4,357,384. This was 50,000 machines greater than the previous record output reached in 1926 when 4,301,134 machines were turned out. The 1927 year's total, due largely to the shutdown of the Ford plant, was but 3,401,326.

Of the 1928 production, 3,826,613 machines were classed as passenger cars, and 530,771 were trucks. The Canadian output for 1928 was also a record, and amounted to 242,382 cars against the previous high record of 204,727 in 1926 and the 1927 output of 175,427.

The December monthly production of automobiles in this country which enabled the 1928 figure to be calculated was 233,135 cars. This was a comparatively small monthly total.

1929 LEGISLATURE NOT UP TO RECORD OF PREDECESSOR

HARTFORD, Jan. 22—(AP)—The 1929 legislature is not keeping up with the record of its immediate predecessor in the matter of getting business before it. This session so far has received 166 pieces of legislation in comparison with 181 on the corresponding date two years ago, but the defection is on the part of the senate which has but little more than half the business the previous session had on the corresponding date

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 22—(AP)—Municipal loans to the amount of 200,000,000 pesos (about $24,000,000), without government guarantee have been contracted in Chile by the National City bank and the W. R. Grace Co. of New York.

SANTO DOMINGO, Jan. 22—(AP)—A treaty relimiting the frontier between Haiti and Santo Domingo was signed yesterday afternoon by the plenipotentiaries of both republics. The agreement is subject to the approval of both congresses.

BASRA, Irak, Jan. 22—(AP)—While British air force machines and armored cars scoured the desert along the Irak-Koweit frontier, Rev. Henry A. Bilkert, American misionary who was slain by Wahabi raiders, yesterday, was buried in the civil cemetery here. Although an active search for the raiders continued all day no trace of them had been found by tonight.

PARIS, Jan. 22—(AP)—The French committee for constructing a tunnel under the English channel met in Paris today under the presidency of Yves Letrocquer, former minister of public works. It adopted a resolution pledging collaboration to the efforts of Sir William Bull, member of the house of commons, to get approval for that project in the English legislature.

CRIMINALS OF ALL GRADES TAKEN IN CHICAGO DRAG NET

CHICAGO, Jan. 22—(AP)—The Chicago police today staged the biggest show in town with a cast of 4,000 characters and an audience of 500 persons.

The audience consisted of victims of thefts and robberies for several months past, the cast included everybody seized in a wholesale three-day round-up of every known police character.

The scene was in a dingy room at the detective bureau with an improvised stage at one end brilliantly illuminated with flood lights. In endless procession across the stage all day long the cast marched.

A police official left no doubt as to the identities of the cast. He recited the record of every man as he appeared, and when there were murmurs from the audience as some robbery victim recognized an assailant, the actor on the stage was forced to pirquet about, remove his hat, display side and front view, and aid in the identification.

More than 100 men with records as robbers were included in the round-up, the police announced. Every police court in the city was flooded with cases as the "show-up" was completed and the prisoners booked or released.

Racketeers, ex-convicts, bad men, drunks, sluggers, hard eggs, stick-up men, pick-pockets and suspicious loiterers, all were included in the round-up and their lawyers fought, crowded and shouted for attention as the cases were called in the various courts. About 1,500 cases were rushed through the courts today. The majority were dismissed for want of specific complaint, hundreds were given continuances, others were booked on charges ranging from vagrancy to robbery. A few were held for further questioning.

One Negro suspect was shot and killed at the detective bureau today after he apparently became insane and attacked a group of policemen with a pocket knife. He stabbed three policemen and was shot half a dozen times before he dropped as more than 100 prisoners cowered in terror about the walls of their cells to escape the bullets. The Negro was Oscar Murro, against whom no charge had been placed.

THREE CONVICTS ESCAPED FROM SING SING LAST NIGHT

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 22—(AP)—Three prisoners escaped from Sing Sing prison tonight shortly before the inmates were locked in their cells.

A short time after a guard saw them climbing a fence outside the prison walls, one of the men was captured a mile from the prison on the New York Central railroad tracks.

Searching parties were organized to hunt for the other two. They were George Price, 25, of New York city, who was serving a sentence of twenty years to life for murder in the second degree, and Frank Hawkes, 25, of Brooklyn, who was serving thirty to sixty years for robbery and an additional five years for carrying a pistol while committing a felony.

The man who was captured a mile from the prison was Roger Evans, 22, of New York, serving a term of ten years for robbery.

Prison officials said they had not determined how the three men made their escape. A guard at the tower at the south gate first saw them attempting to climb a steel fence outside the prison wall. He opened fire with a shotgun and the prison's big siren was sounded immediately to notify guards off duty and the countryside of the escape.

SENATE TO PRESS VOTE ON CRUISER CONSTRUCTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—(AP)—The filibuster threatening the year old cruiser construction bill almost disappeared today as the senate drove ahead with the long pending deficiency appropriation measure which has been standing in the way of the naval program.

On the verge of a return to the naval bill which would authorize 15 new cruisers and one aircraft carrier, senate leaders were confident tonight of their ability to press it to a final vote within a short period. Unwilling to take any chance on a filibuster, they are preparing to keep it before the senate until acted upon.

After Senator Norris, of Nebraska, leader of the republican independents, had passed out word today against a filibuster on the naval bill, which a group he heads is ready to oppose, Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the republican leader, a short while later obtained an agreement to limit debate on the pending proposal to increase prohibition enforcement funds to 10 minutes to each senator.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO MRS. GRACE FULLER

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—(AP)—Mrs. Grace Fuller of Dorchester, Mass., died tonight at the office of a Fifth avenue physician where she was taken when she suffered a heart attack at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. George Payne, of 45 East 9th street. She was 53 years old.

Mrs. Fuller was the wife of Joseph W. Fuller, counsel for the London Guarantee Insurance company. She became ill while dining and was taken to the physicians office by Dr. Payne, who is dean of the education department of New York university.

18 Dead In Collision At Bellevue, Ohio

Motor Bus and an Electric Interurban Car Crashed in Blinding Snow Storm.

BELLEVUE, Ohio, Jan. 22—(AP)—A blinding snow storm which engulfed a motor bus and an electric interurban car was blamed tonight for a crash which claimed 18 lives and injured 14 others.

The collision occurred when a bus operated by the Greyhound company between Toledo and Pittsburgh was struck squarely in the center by an express electric car of the Lake Shore Line, en route from Norwalk to Bellevue, at a double grade crossing a mile and a half east of here.

Edward Butler, of Cleveland, driver of the bus, who was not seriously injured, said he pulled to a stop at the icy crossing, looked about but failed to see anything. He drove upon the crossing at the instant the interurban, traveling about 35 miles an hour, reached it.

The interurban crashed on top of the bus and then fell across it in a ditch, smashing the machine into a mass of twisted steel and splintered wood and pinning nearly all of the passengers underneath.

Passengers and members of the crew of the electric car frantically dug into the wreckage to extricate the dead and injured. Passing motorists made improvised ambulances of their machines and the four ambulances in Bellevue made repeated trips. Scores of volunteers worked in the snow. It required four hours to remove the bodies of the dead, four of them women. The 18th body could not be removed until the New York Central Railway responded to calls for jacks and a wrecking crew to remove the battered wreckage.

There were few coherent stories of the tragedy, but passengers on the electric car agreed that it was rolling along through the snowfall at a fast clip when without warning there was a rending crash. The bus was torn nearly in two and the interurban hurtled into the air from the force of the impact, its bulk settling down fairly atop the wrecked bus.

Passengers on the electric car escaped with shocks and minor injuries but nearly all those on the bus were pinned in the debris. The exact number of passengers on the bus was not learned, but it was believed that there were few who were not accoounted for on the list of dead and injured.

The dead men were taken to the three Bellevue undertaking establishments, where identification was slow because of the mangled condition of some of the bodies. The injured, of whom two were in a critical condition, were taken to Bellevue hospital.

The interurban left Norwalk at 12.40 p. m., and was due at Bellevue at 1:10. The bus left Toledo at 11:15 a. m., for Cleveland.

The crossing where the crash occurred is one of the most dangerous in northern Ohio. The interurban picked up speed on the straightaway which is twice crossed within a mile by state highway number 20.

ANACONDA MINING CO. TO DOUBLE CAPITALIZATION

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—(AP)—Stockholders of the Anaconda Copper Mining company today were called to a special meeting on March 14, to vote on doubling the capitalization to $600,000,000, divided into 12,000,000 shares of $50 par.

The company also announced minority Chile compny stockholders had been offered a plan for exchange of their holdings into Anaconda stock on a basis of 73 Anaconda shares for 100 Chile shares. Anaconda already holds a majority interest in Chile Copper. Unissued Anaconda stock will be used. Chile has 4,415,497 shares outstanding.

NICARAGUAN OUTLAWS KILLED U. S. MARINE

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 22—(AP)—Marine headquarters were advised tonight that Priv. Everett A. Rector had been killed in action by outlaws. There was no mention of other casualties and no details of the combat.

The brief message was brought in by messenger. Rector was killed northeast of Yali in the department of Jinotega. It is presumed that a marine patrol encountered the outlaws in the jungle far from a telegraph line.

Miami Tumultuous Ovation To Hoover

Upwards of 75,000 Persons Packed the Streets to Greet the President-Elect.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 22—(AP)—President-elect Hoover and Mrs. Hoover were accorded an ovation by 75,000 Floridans and Florida visitors who packed the streets to greet them today during a brief public appearance after their arrival from Washington.

A tumultuous greeting was given the president-elect and his party as their automobiles moved through the thronged streets of Miami and Miami Beach to the estate of J. C. Penney on Belle Isle, where Mr. Hoover will make his pre-inaugural home.

To the roar of 75,000 throats was added the din of a dozen bands and drum and bugle crops stationed at points along the route the president-elect's party followed to the Penney estate, while overhead airplane motors droned an incessant roar punctuated with the sharp detonations of aerial bombs and the throaty blasts of whistles of steamships and yachts in the harbor.

As the president-elect and Mrs. Hoover left their nine-car special train at the station they were met by Morton Milford, editor of the Miami Daily News and a member of Governor Carlton's staff, who extended them an official welcome to Florida.

He told them of the governor's regret that he was unable to extend his welcome and greetings in person, while Mayor E. G. Sewell of Miami extended the greetings from that city and Mayor Louie Snedigar of Miami Beach gave a welcome on behalf of that municipality.

In a procession of 34 official automobiles, the Hoover party made its progress through Miami's crowded business section to a receiving stand erected on Bayshore Boulevard, where during a pause Mayor Sewell presented Mr. Hoover with a giant key to Miami.

Two complete fishing outfits, ready for use by the president-elect also were given him at the receiving stand.

Flowers were presented to Mrs. Hoover by Girl Scouts as the motorcade moved toward its destination. As it moved across the causeway to Miami Beach airplanes droned overhead and coast guard boats, yachts and steamers in the Bay of Biscayne sounded a salute with their whistles.

At the Miami Beach city hall, the respects of Mayor Snedigar and the residents of this resort were proffered to the Hoovers through the medium of a floral key. Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion and promoter for the Sharkey-Stribling fight, to be staged here, paid his respects to the party here.

On their arrival at the Belle Isle residence and estate of J. C. Penney, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover were greeted on behalf of Mr. Penney by Burdette G. Lewis.

On the Penney estate the president-elect will spend an undetermined period as the guest of Florida, with occasional fishing voyages aboard the "Amitie," house boat of Joseph H. Adams, who owns the neighboring estate, and on the Patsy, another and smaller craft which has been placed at his disposal.

CONNECTICUT BANKERS TO SUPPORT ROCKEFELLER, JR.

HARTFORD, Jan. 22—(AP)—Connecticut bankers will lend their support to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in his battle for control of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, at the annual meeting on Feb. 9. Officials of banks of the state doing a large volume of trust business, announce that proxies of their holdings in Standard Oil of Indiana, which total more than 3,300 shares, will be given to Mr. Rockefeller, Jr., rather than to Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of directors of the oil company, whose resignation was requested by Mr. Rockefeller sometime ago in connection with the senate investigation of federal oil leases. The majority of 3,300 odd shares are held in trust accounts in Hartford banks.

PLANE QUESTION MARK HAS ARRIVED AT SHREVEPORT, LA.

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 22—(AP)—The Question Mark, army endurance plane, arrived here at 2:55 p. m., today after a flight from Midland, Texas.

SIX DEPARTMENTS SEEK ADDITIONAL APPROPRIATIONS FROM LEGISLATURE

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, Jan. 22—At a meeting of the appropriations committee immediately after the general assembly had adjourned for the day, six departments, the first of a series to apply for additional appropriations aggregating close to $900,000 to meet deficits were represented. State Comptroller Salmon and Deputy Comptroller Edward Wilkins asked the committee to recommend an additional $3,800 for their department.

The state board of education, through Education Commissioner Albert B. Meredith, asked $97,155; the teachers' retirement board, announcing a deficit in the pension fund, asked, through Dorothy Shanley, its secretary, $110,000, the biggest item considered today; the state park and forest commission, through Assistant State Forester Walter O. Filley, asked an additional $10,000 for acquisition of land for the Schaghticoke Indian reservation at Kent and $500 for additional running expenses; Motor Vehicle Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel asked $15,000 and the state athletic commission, through Ellen M. McLaughlin, secretary, wanted $9,980.

After an executive session, it was reported "several of the requests" were granted, among these were the comptroller's. The others were not disclosed.

The committee made public the list of other deficits, hearings on which are to be held tomorrow and Thursday.

These are, according to the days they will be heard:

Wednesday — Military department (quarter-master general), $22,175; state water commission, $4,500; state department of health, $34,250; state agencies and institutions, $101,145.

Thursday—Connecticut agricultural experiment station, $18,000; Long Lane farm, $10,060; state farm for women, $22,600; board of education for the blind, $3,000; child welfare bureau, $53,000; commissioner on domestic animals, $150,000.

Friday—Court deficiencies: Common pleas—Fairfield county civil, $4,570; Fairfield county criminal, $1,600; Hartford county, $2,500; Litchfield county civil, $375; Litchfield, criminal, $1,000; New Haven, civil, $2,000; criminal, $5,000; superior court—Fairfield county $24,220; Hartford, $43,350; Litchfield, $4,100; Middlesex, $3,000; New Haven, $15,480; New Haven at Waterbury, $13,420; New London, $9,700; Tolland, $5,000; Windham, $11,500. Reporter of judicial decisions, $500.

In the House

In the house a 45-minute session was held with adjournment to the next day at 11:15 a. m.

Among judgeship resolutions was that appointing Henry H. Pettis deputy judge of the Norwich city court; also Cornelius Costello, judge, and Charles F. Willard, deputy judge, town court of Groton.

Under suspension of the rules the house passed and at once transmitted to the senate, where it was also passed, a validating bill for an issue of $295,000 school bonds by the town of Norwich, dated Aug. 1, 1928, upon which the first interest falls due Feb. 1, this year. House Leader Johnson, of Manchester, stated that these were bonds in which the first series falls due three years from date of issue.

7 SHIPS IN DIFFICULTY IN HOWLING NORTH WEST GALE

American Tanker Dannedaike and the Italian Freighter Florida Are in Distress 800 Miles Off the Virginia Capes—The Dannedaike Sent Call Saying That She Was in a Sinking Condition—Search For British Freighter Has Been Fruitless—The Combined Crews of the Three Ships Total About 100 Men.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—(AP)—With a northwest gale howling along the ocean seven ships were in difficulty of one sort or another today, two of them pleading for immediate assistance lest they be submerged in the storm and the silence of another arousing fears it had already foundered.

The American tanker Dannedaike and the Italian freighter Florida, were disabled in tremendous seas some 800 miles off the Virginia Capes and the liners America and President Harrison sped to their rescue, the Dannedaike said she was in a sinking condition and requested aid. She was 1,000 miles from Norfolk.

The British freighter Teesbridge asked for immediate assistance from southeast of Cape Race yesterday when her radio silenced and since then the British steamers Maine and Causeri searched the vicinity all day but no trace of the Teesbridge could be found.

The combined crews of the Teesbridge, the Florida and the Dannedaike number approximately 100 men.

Other ships that figured in the day's news of distress were the liner President Garfield still hung up on a coral reef in the Bahamas where she grounded two days ago; the four masted schooner Kingsway which burned to the water at Broad Cove, Me., where it was laid up for the winter; the Norwegian steamer Terne, which was still held in ice that may imprison it all winter, and the Diesel trawler disabled off Nantucket and under tow for Boston.

The SOS from the Florida first, reporting that her rudder was broken and her lifeboats smashed. Then the suspicion of the President Harrison relayed word from the Dannedaike, only about fifty miles from the Florida, that she needed help at once and was encountering "very tremendous" seas. Later the Dannedaike sent an SOS call.

The United States liner America was about 350 miles from the Florida and Dannedaike when they called for the aid and the Dollar Liner President Harrison was only 150 miles distant. Both were expected to be on the scene before daylight tomorrow.

STOWAWAY WAS HIDDEN IN LIFEBOAT IN DAVITS

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—(AP)—Matthew Badderly, youthful cheese cart driver of Cheshire county, England, completed a stormy crossing of the Atlantic in a lifeboat today, an uncomfortable but not a dangerous journey, for the lifeboat all the time was hanging in its davits on the boat deck of the liner Lancastria.

For 10 days the stowaway stuck it out through storm and cold, living on the emergency rations in his hiding place, he kept his hands warm against his body but his feet were frostbitten and they had to be amputated. The pain drove him forth.

He collapsed while telling his story but was revived and put to bed in the ship's hospital. He will be sent back to his cheese cart.

SLEET, RAIN AND SNOW IN THE MIDDLE WEST

CHICAGO, Jan. 22—(AP)—Sleet, rain and snow, forerunners of a new cold wave expected to overspread the middlewest tonight, covered highways today with a slippery coating of ice that was blamed for half a dozen accidents in which more than a score of persons lost their lives, and scores of accidents resulting in less serious injuries.

While the cold was not expected to be as severe as that of last week, the damage was expected to be much greater, due to ice-sheathed highways, a blinding snow storm which added to traffic hazards and a coating of ice on telephone and telegraph wires which interrupted wire communications. Snow and a falling mercury throughout the middle west, the weather bureau indicated, would be followed tomorrow by generally fair weather with a temperature near or below zero with some rise in the mercury probably by Thursday.

NO CHANCE FOR ALFRED E. SMITH TO PRACTICE LAW

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 22—(AP)—Any hopes held by friends of former Governor Alfred E. Smith that he could be allowed to practice law by legislative action were dashed today when the assembly judiciary committee killed a bill designed to permit the state board of law examiners to dispense with the examination of a person who has served four years as governor of New York state and to so certify to the appellate division. The bill met the opposition of the nine republican members of the committee, while the four democratic members favored it.

OBITUARY

Rev. J. B. Randall.

NORTH CREEK, N. Y., Jan. 22—(AP)—The Rev. J. B. Randall, 93, believed to have been the oldest acting Baptist pastor in northern New York, died of influenza here today after 71 years in the ministry.

Mr. Randall, despite his age, operated his own automobile over a 90 mile route weekly to preach at the South Hartford Baptist church. He was ordained at Ashton, Mass., when he was 20. His first pastorate was at Poestenkill, N. Y.

SENATOR PINE WAS EXONERATED BY COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—(AP)—Senator Pine, republican, Oklahoma, was exonerated today by the senate Indian committee of charges that he was seeking to "destroy" Commissioner Burke of the Indian bureau.

The committee reported that Senator Pine "is entirely innocent of the charges made by Commissioner Burke" and declared that after considering the brief filed by counsel for Burke "there was not a scintilla of evidence to support or substantiate the charge of conspiracy, or any other charge."

Burke had accused Senator Pine of conspiring against him because James Hepburn of Oklahoma was not appointed superintendent of the five civilized tribes. He also charged that Pine was "using his political appointees now in the department of justice, namely C. B. Selby and B. M. Parmenter, to aid him carrying out this dastardly conspiracy."

The findings were reported by Senators Frazier, republican, North Dakota; LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin and Wheeler, democrat, Montana.

MEMORIAL FOR AMERICAN SOLDIERS WHO DIED IN ITALY

ROME, Jan. 22—(AP)—The American academy today received from McKim, Mead & White, New York architects, plans for a $60,000 memorial to American soldiers who died in Italy and to Italian Americans who died in France during the war. It also received a design for a plaque to be placed in the entrance of the academy in commemoration of Americans who donated more than $100,000 to the institution several years ago.

The war memorial, to be erected on a site facing the Piazza de Sienna in the Villa Borghese, will be completed in a year.

The plaque will bear the names of Henry Walters, William K. Vanderbilt, J. Pierpont Morgan and J. P. Morgan, Henry Clay Frick, Charles McKim, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Harvard university, the Rockefeller foundation, the Carnegie corporation and the international education board.

HEARING ON THE IMPORT DUTIES IN RAW SUGAR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—(AP)—Further proposals for and against increasing the import duties on raw sugar and for both increases and reductions in rates on sugar by-products, were received by the house ways and means committee today during hearings on tariff revision.

The highest rate on sugar yet suggested, was requested in behalf of the farmers by Chester Gray, representative of the American Farm Bureau federation, who asked a rate of 2 cents a pound on Cuban sugar, now dutiable at 1.76 cents, and an application of the duty to the Philippine Islands and Porto Rico, whose imports are now duty free.

Under the reciprocal trade treaty with Cuba, sugar from that island is allowed a reduction of 20 per cent. in the present full rate of 2.2 cents. Gray would have this treaty abrogated, because, he contended, it has "become intolerable to American producers of sugar and tobacco."

FIRE IN NEWLY DEVELOPED SECTION OF BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—(AP)—Fire that threatened many buildings in a newly developed section of Brooklyn today roared through a six-story apartment house under construction on Rockaway parkway and damaged part of an adjoining structure, also unfinished. The loss was estimated at $200,000.

Firemen called out on five alarms, ordered 200 persons from their dwellings on a street behind the burning buildings. A man and a woman, both ill, were carried out on stretchers.

The flames started on an upper floor of the apartment house in which many workmen were busy. With the exception of a carpenter who fell and fractured his skull, the men got to the street unharmed.

How the fire started could not be determined.

LOCAL HOTEL NOW ON A PROFITABLE BASIS

(Special to The Bulletin.

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 22—The Nathan Hale hotel, a community enterprise, will be operated with a margin of profit during the ensuing and fourth year of its existence it was indicated in a gratifying financial report submitted at the annual meeting of the Community Hotel corporation held in the chamber of commerce rooms last night. The report read by Treasurer George E. Elliott showed the slight deficit of $14.20 in the operating expenses for 1928 as against deficits amounting to over $1,000 each for the two years since the hotel was opened on Sept. 24, 1926. Much of the previous deficit however was incurred in the installation of hotel equipment not provided for in the building and furnishings contracts, a substantial increase in patronage was shown and this is expected to climb steadily as the hotel reputation reaches a wider scope and as additional use is made of the shorter route from Boston to New York, with Willimantic as the central point.

It was announced that in accordance with the stock contract the hotel stock became cumulative Dec. 24, 1928. The stockholders re-elected the following directors: John P. Ahern, George F. Elliott, James B. Fullerton, Leslie F. Harrison, W. P. Jordan, Louis A. Kingsbury, E. T. Lonergy, (new director), Willard H. Smith of the Community Hotel Corp., J. Leslie Kincaid, Emerson T. Young, Carlos D. Smith and Edward Greenhalgh of the United Hotels Corp. The directors then re-elected as officers: President, W. P. Jordan; vice president, James B. Fullerton; secretary, John P. Ahern; treasurer, George E. Elliott; assistant treasurer, C. E. Chamberlain.

The newly elected officers of St. Elias commandery, No. 11, K. T. were installed at a meeting in Masonic temple Monday night by retiring eminent commander, Richard E. Dodge. The officers: Eminent commander, G. P. Bard of Stafford Springs; generalissimo, Oliver W. Potter; captain general, Albert H. Smith; prelate, Arthur L. Clark; senior warden, Louis B. Tenney; junior warden, Earl K. Haling; treasurer, Fred L. Avery; recorder, Charles A. Taylor; standard bearer, Charles W. Trout; sword bearer, Robert H. Fenner; warden, Francis C. Luce; sentinel, Dexter D. Rathbun; guards, George Grandmaison, Dixon Van Zandt, Elliott C. Boyle. A past commander's jewel was presented to Past Commander Judge by Past Rt. Eminent Grand Commander James P. Mustard.

GRAND JURY HOLDS HEARING HERE TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 22—There is much speculation here on the outcome of the grand jury hearing to be held in this city, starting at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning on the case of Thomas Mazzola, held on a coroner's warrant charging him with being a suspect in the murder of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Rosetta Lavella. The crime was committed at Mazzola's home, 27 Arnold's lane on the morning of Thursday, January 3. An autopsy proved beyond doubt that the woman had been strangled to death. On the night of Saturday, January 5, Mazzola was questioned by the investigating officers, County Detective William E. Jackson and Police Officer Arthur M. Hurley, and then held a custody as a suspect. He was removed from local police headquarters to the county jail at Brooklyn following the inquest by Coroner Arthur G. Bill.

Sheriff Charles A. Gates has completed the work of summoning the 18 jurymen including one physician and one engineer, who comprise the grand jury. The jury will convene in the superior court room at 10 o'clock and will probably complete its hearing by mid-afternoon. Should this jury return a true bill of murder, Mazzola will be formally charged with the crime and the case probably assigned to the next criminal term of the Windham county superior court. Sheriff Gates and his deputies have summoned nearly 20 witnesses to appear before the grand jury.

such widely varying types yet all screen stars alike have the vital appeal of smooth lovely skin . .

BLONDES

MARION DAVIES, famous for her blonde loveliness, says: "Smooth skin is a great asset. I am delighted with Lux Toilet Soap."

ESTHER RALSTON, blonde Paramount beauty, says, "Lux Toilet Soap is excellent for keeping the skin delightfully smooth."

DOROTHY MACKAILL, First National, guards her beauty carefully. "Lux Toilet Soap is lovely for the skin," she says.

ANNA Q. NILSSON, F. B. O. star, says enthusiastically: "Lux Toilet Soap is a splendid aid in keeping the skin like velvet."

RED-HEADS

CLARA BOW, Paramount, so famous for her charm, says: "Lux Toilet Soap is a great help in keeping the skin in perfect condition."

JOAN CRAWFORD, M. G. M., says: "Never have I had anything like Lux Toilet Soap for keeping my skin fresh and smooth."

9 out of 10 screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap

AN exquisite, velvety skin is any girl's greatest charm, and for a screen star it is all important, leading motion picture directors say.

"Screen history has proved that the cleverest make-up can't imitate beautiful skin under the glare of the close-up. I don't know a single girl without really lovely skin who has won enough of the public to become a star," says William Beaudine, director for Fox Films.

"A star must always guard the perfection of her skin—the glaring lights of the close-up reveal the slightest unevenness," Merna Kennedy explains.

The next time you see her in a close-up notice how fine and smooth Lux Toilet Soap keeps her skin or Clara Bow's, Bebe Daniels', May McAvoy's. When next you see your favorite screen star, whoever she is, remember that nine out of every ten lovely stars use Lux Toilet Soap for smooth skin.

Indeed, all the great film studios, following these stars' example, have made Lux Toilet Soap the official soap in all dressing rooms.

The exacting screen stars like the fact that this delicately fragrant white soap is made by the French method. "It gives my skin that beautiful smoothness I thought only fine French soap could give," Renée Adorée says. You, too, will like its caressing lather that leaves your skin so satin smooth. Use it for the bath, too, and the shampoo, as the screen stars do.

BRUNETTES

BEBE DANIELS, Paramount, says: "Lux Toilet Soap is a great help in keeping the skin smooth and lovely."

BILLY DOVE, First National, is charmed with this soap. "I find Lux Toilet Soap delightfully pure and refreshing."

LUPE VELEZ, United Artists, knows how important smooth skin is. "Lux Toilet Soap certainly keeps my skin like velvet."

LOUISE BROOKS says, "Lux Toilet Soap gives the skin the lovely satin smoothness 'studio skin' must have."

. . AND BROWN HAIR

MERNA KENNEDY, Universal, guards her skin with care. She says: "Lux Toilet Soap keeps my skin marvelously smooth."

NANCY CARROLL, Paramount —"Lux Toilet Soap is a great aid in keeping one's skin flawless for the all-seeing eye of the camera."

ELEANOR BOARDMAN says: "Lux Toilet Soap is excellent for the very smooth skin a screen star must have."

EVELYN BRENT, Paramount, says. "A star just must have a smooth skin. Lux Toilet Soap is so pleasing and soothing."

MARY BRIAN, Paramount, says: "Lux Toilet Soap is certainly lovely for keeping smooth 'studio skin' in perfect condition."

RENÉE ADORÉE, M. G. M.—"Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin that beautiful smoothness I thought only French soap gave."

DANIELSON

BODY OF JAMES O'NEILL BROUGHT HERE FOR BURIAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 22—The body of James O'Neill arrived here on the boat train tonight from Pittsfield, Mass., where he died. He was 53 years of age. For years Mr. O'Neill was a resident at Elmville and worked in one of the mills there as a loom-fixer. He had been engaged at the same occupation in Pittsfield, where he lived for a number of years. Upon its arrival here the body was taken in charge by Undertaker A. F. Wood Mr. O'Neill leaves his wife, who before their marriage about ten years ago was Mrs. Everett Richmond of this town, a step-son, Everett Richmond and a step-daughter, Miss May Richmond, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Black of Worcester.

A death at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McCoy in the Bush Hill section of Brooklyn this morning was that of Thomas Woodson, who was about 35 years of age. Mr. Woodson had been living at the McCoy home since the death of his mother, who passed away in Brooklyn during the latter part of December. Mr. Woodson was a son of David and Sarah A. Woodson, both deceased. He was a native of Brooklyn and had lived there all of his life. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker A. F. Wood and is now at his funeral home here. Mr. Woodson leaves a brother, Dewey Woodson, of Brooklyn, and two sisters, Mrs. Frances Hines, of Providence, and Miss Clarice Woodson of Attleboro.

It is regarded as not at all unlikely that the new grand list of the town of Killingly, which will be ready for the board of relief on February 1, shows some decrease from the total of a year ago. This prospect looms because of the change of status of the Connecticut Mills company. This concern stopped operating its big plant to the north of the borough about a year ago, and meanwhile a considerable amount of machinery has been removed from it and shipped to the concern's new plant in the south. In view of this fact and that of the mill being idle the property cannot be assessed to the same degree as when it was in operation. The shrinkage of assessment value in the plant is considerable. Of course, new structures have been built in various parts of the town since the last grand list was completed and these will help in some degree to offset the loss on the Connecticut mills, but there is belief that they will not wholly do so.

Sickness is still keeping some teachers away from their schools as well as numbers of pupils away from their studies. No part of Killingly is escaping the epidemic now generally afflicting the eastern states. The mildness of the attacks in the great majority of the cases is about the only compensating feature. However, there are some cases where the patients are confined to their beds and are running temperatures. Such cases are now being reported to the health officer by attending physicians, and are commonly rated, at least by laymen, as influenza.

The officers of Killingly grange were installed Monday night at Pellette hall, Mrs. Lillian Frink of Canterbury was installing officer assisted by Emma Appley as marshal, Elise Hawes, emblem bearer and Lucille Bushnell in charge of the regalia. Mr. Frink in her usual capable manner exemplified the beauties of the installation service. The following officers were installed: Master, Charles E. Haynes; overseer, Kenneth Preston; lecturer, Carrie A. Downs; steward, Kenneth Warren; chaplain, Edith Jordan; treasurer, Charles A. Downs; secretary, Eva Bradford; gate keeper, William Williams; Pomona, Vivian Converse; Flora, Helen Green; Ceres, Gladys Child; lady assistant steward, Estella Converse.

Excellent refreshments were served. Mrs. Frances Hallowell was chairman of the committee. Ellison's orchestra furnished music for a dance that lasted till midnight. There were about seventy people present. Incidentally, Charles E. Haynes the new master, started things off with a bang presaging a prosperous year for Killingly grange.

A checkup by a state officer from the Danielson barracks of the break at the railroad station in North Grosvenordale revealed no greater loss than a slot machine containing gum which is supposed to have contained a small amount of money in pennies. Up to this afternoon no clue to the party responsible for the theft had been obtained.

Brooklyn grange had the largest representation of any of the visiting granges at Putnam last evening when there was a joint installation of new officers of four granges in towns in the eastern part of the county. There were 47 from Brooklyn grange in attendance. And of the 13 officers of Brooklyn grange only one was absent, Joseph B. Stetson, whose advanced age precluded his taking the trip to Putnam at night during the winter season.

It is being commented upon that there have been fewer chimney fires this winter to date than is usually the case. This attributed in considerable degree to the campaigning for cleaner chimneys, that has been underway here for several years. Chimney cleaners were kept busy for weeks during the early fall season.

This afternoon at the A. F. Wood funeral home on Mechanic street services for Mrs. Charlotte Staples were conducted by Rev. Albert Abbott of the Methodist Episcopal church. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Fred Green, J. Lester Brown, Henry E. Anderson and Joseph Faucher. Mrs. Staples died at Killingly Center last Friday night.

Work on the interior of the new Brooklyn Savings bank is steadily advancing. A considerable amount of the interior decorating is nearing completion. Carpenters continue to be busy with the installation of fixtures of various sorts and with the finer detail work that is characteristic of this building. Much of the electrical work also has been done. It is anticipated that the work will be so far advanced by the end of this week as to permit of taking down the staging that towers from the main floor to near the ceiling of the building. It now appears that the building will be ready for occupancy about March 1. The opening is to be made an occasion of general public interest.

Ice men, though not despairing, will welcome about a fortnight of continuous freezing weather. The prospect of an early harvest was again spoiled the past week end by the rain, fog and high temperature of Friday and Saturday. This week to date the temperature has not been particularly low and the ice fields are not gaining particularly fast. At the present time the ice is far too thin for cutting.

Mrs. Sidney W. Bard of Brooklyn is a member of a committee of the Connecticut League of Women Voters that is to have a luncheon in Hartford Thursday in honor of the women members of the legislature of 1929. There are twenty women in the present legislature, the largest number in any legislature in the United States.

PUTNAM

JOINT INSTALLATION OF GRANGE OFFICERS HELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 22—Newly elected officers and representatives of four Granges gathered at Putnam Monday evening for a joint installation, which was carried out by the High Priest of Demeter Charles M. Gardner of the national grange of Springfield, Mass.

The ceremony was held at the state armory on Harris street and was attended by more than 500 grangers, representing grange organizations from every New England state, with the exception of Maine, the state organization of the Pine Tree state neglecting to delegate a representative to the installation. The exercises held in this city last evening are considered as being the largest ever carried out in Putnam by any fraternal organization.

The drilling and the ritualistic work by the various grange teams amid the military setting of the huge armory drill shed, were the most noteworthy events of the evening.

Thaddeus Pitkin, retiring master of the Putnam Grange, No. 97, at the close of the ceremonies was presented a beautiful past master's jewel, by Mrs. Victoria Durand, who succeeded him as head of the local organization.

Officers of the four granges installed last evening, who participated in the exercises were: Charles M. Gardner, high priest of Demeter; marshals, Mrs. Alexander Maitland, Quinnatissett grange, Mrs. Wm. Ingalls, Brooklyn grange, Mrs. Robert Bruce, Putnam grange and Mrs. Childs of Senexet grange; emblem bearer, Mrs. Pike, Brooklyn grange; Miss Mildred Torrey, Putnam, regalia bearer; Mrs. Gram of Senexet grange, assistant emblem bearer; Miss Smith, Quinnatissett grange, assistant regalia bearer; Mrs. Young, Senexet grange, installing chaplain; Mrs. Katherine Byrne and Mrs. Gladys Benoit, Putnam grange, soloists; Miss Helen Witter, Brooklyn grange, pianist.

Following are the masters of the various granges installed: George Law, Quinnatissett, Thompson; Miss Laura Pike, Brooklyn, Brooklyn; Clayton Peckham, Senexet, Woodstock and Mrs. Victoria Durand, Putnam grange. The retiring masters were Thaddeus Pitkin of Putnam grange and Alexander Maitland of Quinnatissett grange. Miss Pike and Mr. Peckham were re-elected.

Mr. Gardner delivered a very interesting and instructive address on the work and accomplishments of the organization, during the year of 1928.

Chas. M. Adams of the state grange, and other officials of the state organization followed Mr. Gardner, speaking on the grange work, both nationally and locally. A very capable committee served a buffet lunch, which consisted of cake, ice cream, and other dainties.

Mrs. Durand, the newly installed leader of the Putnam grange anounced this morning that the annual word of the grange will be given to patrons on January 28, whose dues are paid to Dec. 31, 1928. Mrs. Durand also announced this morning that a "penny social" will be held by the grangers at the meeting of Jan. 28. All members of the order are urged to be present with a supply of bright new "coppers."

The annual meeting of the Putnam Building and Loan association will be held this evening at the offices of Torrey and Geissler. At this meeting officers for the year will be elected and reports of the association at the close of the year 1928 will be read in open meeting. The organization is now headed by Alexander Gilman, Putnam business man. It was said today by one of the officials of the loan association that the same officials would undoubtedly be drafted to serve another term in office.

The Elks and the Masons met in tournament last evening at the Elks lodge rooms to renew their activities over the card tables. At the close of the social session the Elks won out again by a one point margin, the final score being 7 to 6. The forthcoming meeting of the two bodies will be held on next Monday evening at the Masonic club.

Funeral services for Mrs. Rosalia Berthiaume of Buck street, who died Sunday morning were held this morning at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. A high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Ernest F. Boileau, curate at St. Mary's. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Frank L. Whittemore, formerly of this city died at his home in Marlboro, Mass., following an attack of heart disease, Monday morning. Mr. Whittemore was 76 years of age. He is survived by three nephews, Ernest, Marshall and Everette Whittemore, all of this city.

Mrs. Jennie Himes, formerly of this city, died Monday at Uncas-on-Thames, Norwich, after an illness of nearly ten years. Mrs. Himes is the widow of Eugene Himes, former Putnam butcher who died many years ago. The body of Mrs. Himes has been brought to Putnam, where arrangements for burial are being made. Mrs. Himes was in her 69th year.

As far as could be learned today there is no probability of a bill being presented to the legislature, which if passed would grant the judge of the city court an increase in salary. At present the judge is receiving a salary of $750 a year. In Putnam the city court is also provided with a deputy judge, and clerk, who files and records all records of the court. Yet, there are many problems and other tasks constantly arising and demanding the attention of the judge of the court. As in other communities there is an undercurrent of feeling that the judge is deserving of an increase, yet there is no definite information of any attempt being made to obtain the increase.

A meeting of interest to Windham County poultry raisers will be held at Grange hall in Woodstock on Wednesday evening, January 23. The gathering is being arranged and planned by the Windham County Farmers association and will be based on the subject of "Grow Healthy Chicks." The speaker of the evening will be Mr. Jones, extension and poultry agent and specialist of Conn. Agricultural college. County Agent Raymond E. Wing is cooperating with the committee to make the gathering an outstanding event of the season in agriculture. In a recent bulletin Mr. Wing has outlined the benefits derived from these meetings as an aid in reducing the chicken mortality. Each year the mortality has decreased among the poultry raisers, and is due to the many modern pointers advanced by the specialists who speak at these meetings.

The influenza epidemic which has struck Putnam was said today to be mild and indications are that it will reach the peak this week. City Health Officer Peter A. Gardner stated today that no new cases of the disease have developed within the past 48 hours and those now in existence, as previously stated are of a mild nature.

In addition to the influenza cases reported to the local health office there are also two cases of diptheria. Mr. Gardner was not in a position tonight to state the nature of this disease but is to make further investigations Wednesday.

A meeting of the Union Teachers Training class was held last evening at the Second Congregational church. Talks on the subject, "A Study of the Pupil" was the chief purpose of the meeting.

The national order of "Knights of the Highways" has another member doing a ten day stretch in the county jail at Brooklyn, since Michael Tiute of Willimantic received a 10 day net sentence at the jail this morning from Judge Geissler's city court. His companion, George Thompson of Providence, was arrested on the same charge, but because of his extreme youth was spared from a jail record and was ordered by Judge Geissler to give up his vagabond life and return to his home. He agreed to carry out the judge's wishes and left shortly after court, while his confederate headed south on a ten day excursion.

An Erskine sedan operated by Alfred Beauregard of Woodstock avenue, crashed into a Nash sedan owned and operated by George J. Kennedy of 141 Winthrop street, New London, last evening about eight o'clock. The Kennedy vehicle was parked on Main street near the Kaminsky block. Beauregard, who was driving in a northerly direction, was unable to clear the Kennedy car and his car crashed into the rear of the parked machine, completely demolishing his car. The New London sedan was only slightly damaged. The collision was checked up by Sergt. Laird of the local police, who ordered the debris removed from the highway.

Capt. Jarvis of the Putnam police has investigated the report that William J. Farrell alias Wilfred J. Farrell of Akron, O., is under arrest on suspicion of being responsible for the numerous breaks committed in northern Connecticut and southern Massachusetts, during the past three months. Capt. Jarvis said that the man now in custody in Palmer does not answer the description of the burglar and thief who entered the state trade school at Putnam on the night of Nov. 29 and escaped with over $300 which was in the safe in the offices.

Rural mail delivery men of the local post office report that the roads on their routes are in the worst condition experienced in many years. The numerous ruts and holes in the roads, they claim is due to the recent thaws experienced on Saturday.

MANSFIELD CENTER

THREE AGED RESIDENTS DIE ON THE SAME DAY

Saturday brought the death of three of this town's older residents, two of them close neighbors. Mrs. Mary Haskins died about 7 o'clock in the evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. B. Inman, after a long illness. Two hours later occurred the death across the street of Edwin K. Whitehouse at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. E. Cramm. Mr. Whitehouse, who had been in unusually good health of late, suffered a shock Thursday morning and never regained consciousness. Mrs. Ella Nason, widow of Dwight Nason, died earlier in the day at her home at Chestnut Hill after an illness of several weeks. Funeral services for Mrs. Nason were held at the house Tuesday at 2 o'clock with burial at Spring Hill. Mrs. Haskins' funeral was held in the church at Scotland at 1 o'clock Tuesday.

Echo grange held installation Tuesday evening with Mr. Hallowell of Norwich grange as installing officer.

The auxiliary of Earl W. Green post plans to give a whist party at Echo grange hall Wednesday evening.

The Ladies' Aid society is to meet at the parsonage Thursday afternoon.

The missionary pageant Tasks and Talents was repeated by invitation at the Methodist church, Willimantic, Sunday evening. Rev. Mrs. Jones was director and Mrs. Willis Homer organist.

NORTH STERLING

Mrs. John Winther has been visiting out of town friends.

Many changes are being made at what is known as the Henry Spaulding farm by clubmen. One would hardly know the place. It is a fine thing for this section to see such great improvements made.

A bright rainbow in the west last Saturday morning was an unusual sight for Jan. 19th.

Fred Hansen has been confined to the house for a few days, ill with grip.

B. E. Benway and family of East Killingly visited friends here Sunday.

Mrs. W. W. Ramsey of Evanston, Ill., a vice-president of the National League of Women Voters, is to be a guest at the luncheon and is to deliver the principal address.

Laugh it off if you will, but a surprisingly large number of persons here feel that they are guarding themselves against influenza by eating onions, eating of them prodigiously and regularly. And this isn't any onion advertisement, either. How effective this preventive treatment is there are no statistics to indicate. It is mentioned merely as interesting, odoriously so.

Members of the Ladies' Prayer league met with Mrs. Kent A. Darble of Broad street this afternoon.

In connection with a Thrift movement Mrs. William Levin is to have charge of booking lecturers from organization groups that would include the two "Y" groups at Dayville and the Tri-Y and Camp Fire Girls of Danielson. Rev. Harding W. Gaylord will take up the matter of having ministers talk on Thrift. L. Edwin Hill will confer with Supt. W. E. Parker of the schools relative to the subject.

The next meeting of the Killingly Woman's club is scheduled for Feb. 6, with an address scheduled by G. Alexandrovana Milioradovitch on Russian Social Life.

In the interest of the Eastern Connecticut Power company measurements continue to be made of buildings using electricity in Danielson, this in connection with a new optional rate plan the lighting company is introducing.

Members of the Ladies' Benevolent society of the Westfield Congregational church are to meet in the church parlor Wednesday afternoon to make preparations for an event scheduled for Easter-time.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill will be in Willimantic on Wednesday in connection with the convening of a grand jury to consider evidence in the case of Thomas Mazzola.

William Schofield of the high school faculty returned this afternoon from a period of rest and recuperation from an illness at his home in Waterbury.

There is little, if any, decrease in the number of cases of illness in Danielson this week, many still being confined to their homes.

Henri C. DeBelleville of Woonsocket was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

All but about 200 of the delinquents among the personal taxpayers have made settlement with Collector Arthur A. Dean. Last week 460 notices were sent out to those who did not pay on time. All of those who have since settled have paid an extra dollar. In due time the books will be cleared again through summonses to court, where a settlement costs about $12.

Alternate thawing and freezing weather has caused state highway surfaces to break through in numbers of places on roads in this vicinity, these breaks being something for car operators to watch and drive over carefully.

Mails are bringing to many here forms for filling out income tax returns and also for renewals of motor vehicle operators licenses.

JEWETT CITY

WARDEN E. J. JODOIN SUMS UP ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF 1928

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Jan. 22—At the beginning of the new borough year, Warden E. J. Jodoin summarizes the outstanding accomplishments of last year, while giving a forecast of necessary improvements and requirements, which the board hopes to meet during 1929. The past year several unusual expenses have been necessary. The outstanding item in this list was the use of about $8,000 for the purchase of a new fire truck that the borough might be assured protection for its millions of dollars in valuable property. This item created other needs for outlay, insurance and necessary reinforcements in the flooring at the engine house. Besides the placing of new modern street markers, double the work of 1927 has been done on the streets. The macadam has been planed, and with gutter repairs on Tracy avenue, Palmer avenue and a part of Hill street, it cost the borough $700 less than during the previous year. If property owners cooperate in setting curb where necessary, further work can be carried out on Tracy avenue, Palmer avenue and on Hill, Ashland and Soule streets.

The warden's statement reads:

We have a sinking fund of $27,501.50 drawing interest at 4 1-2 per cent to pay off bonds as they become due, and $4,600.75 in the treasury. We have accomplished these ends as stated, fire truck included, without touching the borough's sinking fund.

H. Allen, ladies' special tailoring. Corner Soule and R. R. Ave.—adv.

Sanitary Conditions

Very soon we will have to provide a place for dumping garbage. At present our place of dumping is nearly filled, but I think it will do for this year. In time, not far off, we will have to provide an incinerating plant to take care of this item.

Electric Light Plant

The electric light plant has made a net profit of $3,064.72 after deducting $1,125 interest on bonds, hence it is not surprising that concerns have written us about purchasing our plant.

Borough Officers' Salaries

Six hundred dollars has been recommended in the estimates for compensating the borough officials. It is not believed that any fair-minded person will object to such appropriation, as the officials have the borough and its interests at heart, and try to accomplish all that is possible with the least expense. As you well know, it costs money, and lots of it, to do any outside improvements nowadays. Considering everything and everybody, the past year has been one of marked success for the borough of Jewett City.

Tickets for K. of C. minstrels, Feb. 4-5, now on sale at Carey's, Collins', Minski's, Sullivan's and Jodoin's stores.—adv.

The fire department under Chief Boucher has given us good fire protection and labored to make that department one of the best for the size of the borough in the state, and we hope and know the department, under their new chief, Mr. Fields, will continue to be one worth while for the borough.

The state highway bridge gang has begun the work of replanking the Slater bridge on the Voluntown road. Official inspection of the waste gate tunnel is taking place, to determine just what the repairs will need to be.

Unusual interest is being manifested in the minstrel cabaret to be staged under the auspices of the local K. of C. Director Dan. O'Brien is planning a production that is entirely different.

Don't forget the Fireman's ball, January 25.—adv.

Something has got to be done about the black bass in Tadpole pond, to prevent their biting at nice fat shiners which are intended for pickerel only. Sunday, the 13th, a New London fisherman hauled one through a hole in the ice, and now again last Sunday ice anglers pulled out another one. Old wallopers, too, and they had to be put back! No true angler will fail in awarding appreciation to the fine sportsman spirit that helps a man to slide a three-pound bass back into the hole, because it is closed season and the law is protective. Nevertheless, such action is exceedingly trying on the nerves. It is a temptation that the fish and game laws might remedy if some method could be hit upon so that three-pound black bass in Tadpole should arrange their dining to seasons which are not close.

OWLS IN THE HEMLOCKS BEGINNING TO BE HEARD

Few perhaps have realized that the season has so far advanced that the owls over in the big hemlocks, once known as Benjamin's woods, have begun their spring nocturnal courting. Monday night, after all was still in the borough, the strange sounds coming from across the Quinebaug were clearly identified as the owl oratorio from the hemlocks. One man, awakened during the night, went to his window to listen to the not altogether unpleasant reminder that the wild was still at hand. Not so long ago there were three varieties of the owl family to be met with occasionally in local pine and hemlock woods. The great hoot owl was seldom seen, but the barn owl and little "screech" fellow were numerous. Of these, now only the last named is to be seen.

FUNERAL

Almon Trider

Almon Trider, who died last week at his home in Halifax, N. S., an uncle of Mrs. Hector Sebileaud, of this place, was a prominent figure in the sporting life of the Maritime provinces. The Halifax, N. S., Evening Mail of Jan. 16 tells of his funeral:

Mr. Trider, who never married, is survived by a sister, Georgina, with whom he made his home, and by four brothers, —John E., veteran pressman in the service of The Herald and The Mail, but recently retired; Albert, of the staff of Cabot's, Ltd.; Howard, of the staff at the Ocean Terminals, and William, on the staff of The Morning Chronicle. For one and all of this group, in a truly distressing blow, all who know them will feel deep sympathy. Mr. Trider was a member of the congregation of St. Paul's church and there will be regret there at his passing. The funeral services took place at his residence, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Local radio operators who were tuned in on the New York city stations shortly before noon Tuesday, heard the announcers state that broadcasting would cease on account of the SOS from the steamer Florida, in distress off Hatteras.

The Southern New England Telephone Co. is planning to equip the local office with a fire escape, on the rear of the Jewett City Savings bank building. Every telephone office in the state where there is only one exit is to be equipped with a fire escape.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892 as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

Many is the family today that makes it a rule always to have a bottle of this perfect preparation in the house. Keep it handy and observe these three simple rules of health: keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open.

Why not try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin today?

CABINET TIMBER.

Without a doubt there was a feeling of general approval expressed when the statement was made recently that Charles Evans Hughes was being considered for secretary of state in the Hoover cabinet. Whether there was a real foundation for it will be disclosed in time, but his record in whatever position he has been placed, but particularly in that office, is such as to brand him as of outstanding merit for that important place.

Mr. Hughes gave valuable years to such work and he would return to it with the utmost confidence on the part of the country. Likewise his selection would be equally pleasing to other countries, if he should be prevailed upon to accept. It can be appreciated, nevertheless, from his standpoint that he is entitled to a chance to build up his fortunes while there is yet time. Because he has given years to his country doesn't mean that he ought to be expected to make sacrifices indefinitely. Mr. Hughes has left his impress upon that important office so that it cannot be forgotten, and it is only natural that thought and desire should be turned in his direction when a new cabinet is in the making.

Another name to be mentioned conspicuously for that post is that of Dwight W. Morrow, now ambassador to Mexico. Significance is attached to the fact that Mr. Hoover has asked him to pay him a visit while in Florida. This might be for any one of many purposes but it serves to revive talk about the possibility of his selection for a cabinet member. Since going to Mexico Mr. Morrow has demonstrated his particular fitness for diplomatic service. He faced a hard task but he has apparently solved it with comparative ease, if we may judge from the efforts and failures that preceded his endeavors. It is natural that it should be believed that he would make even as great a success in the office of secretary of state.

Time will tell what Mr. Hoover's plans are for cabinet members. It is probable that he will find it impossible to obtain all those he might desire as first choice, but there are reasons for believing that he will surround himself with an efficient group of sound-minded men to head the various departments.

NEEDLESS FIRES.

It is during the cold days of winter that we find the strongest inclination to push the fires in the stoves and the heaters. The desire is to keep warm but there are frequent instances which clearly demonstrate that little advance thought has been given to surrounding the heating apparatus with the proper degree of protection. Too often it is the case that overheating results and then fires follow to the great distress of any and all who are involved.

There isn't any good time to be burned out, but winter is one of the worst times. There are some fires which result from accidents, pure and simple, but there are others which could have been easily prevented, and it is this class of fires to which greater attention ought to be paid.

Instead of tolerating conditions which tend to invite a fire, they should be eliminated. The chimney which is cleaned out is not likely to give trouble. A careful inspection of chimneys will disclose what might later be classed as a defective flue and a little forethought concerning conditions surrounding heating plants will easily overcome the common causes of needless fires.

In the same way proper consideration of the conditions under which stoves and heaters are left, especially in public buildings, will furnish that prevention which is far preferable to being burned out, preferable to property loss and preferable to the possible loss of life. There is a large percentage of the fires preventable but prevention always requires action, even though it may be slight, before something happens.

SPECIAL SESSION DATE.

Now that it seems to be generally understood that there will be a special session of congress called in April, efforts are being directed toward having the date fixed when it will be called.

The feeling has been expressed that it would probably be called for about the middle of April, but there are those who are eager for it to start with the opening of the month. They are urging that such be done in order to get at the business at hand just that much earlier. Their contention is that the new members of congress will be ready and the several weeks between the closing of the present congress and the opening of the next will give the members who are re-elected large enough in which to get rested and be ready to get into the work of the 71st session.

There appears to be no pressing reason why the date for the special session should be fixed at this time. There are five and a half weeks before the 70th congress will adjourn and it will be possible to come to a decision at a later date much better than it is now.

In order to be ready for action when the extra session is opened, the house ways and means committee has been busy for the most of this month holding hearings on the proposed tariff revision. The tariff will be one of the important matters before such a session. The hopes that the hearings will be finished and the study completed of the facts brought out so that a revised tariff bill can be gotten into shape for presentation at the opening of the new congress.

It is reasonable to suppose that the earlier a session can be started the quicker it will be ended. Still it would be folly to get congress together and find that the matters upon which it was supposed to act were not ready. Thus the conditions which prevail somewhat later should be of much assistance in reaching a decision on the date for the special session. No doubt those who are acquainted with Washington in the summer will be anxious to have a sufficiently early start to prevent a session extending into the summer.

CANAL AND WATERWAYS.

There never was a proposition advanced for any move looking toward the construction of the Nicaraguan canal that did not meet with opposition. It is thus characteristic when certain members of congress so direct their efforts as to block the resolution calling for a survey of the canal through Nicaragua.

When they rely upon the plea for the completion of the inland waterway system before anything more is done in the way of an inter-oceanic canal they may be making a popular bid, but that is in itself indefinite. There is no indication that the inland projects are threatened by such work as may be undertaken concerning improved canal facilities. The presumption is that if nothing is to be done concerning a survey for a Nicaraguan canal nothing would be permitted relative to the increasing of facilities at the Panama canal.

How long it will be before the Panama waterway will be unable to accommodate all the business that is offered it depends upon conditions, but it would hardly be wise to wait until the night before such a disclosure before making any move for accommodating the shipping that desires to get from one ocean to the other by way of the isthmus. Like all other big propositions it is important that steps should be taken in advance of the real need for such facilities.

It is admitted that it will require considerable time to go through with such a survey as is sought of the Nicaraguan route. Then should there be an agreement upon the idea of constructing the canal across Nicaragua it will be a matter of years before it could be completed. Thus it will be necessary to anticipate the time when Panama is going to be outgrown and build accordingly. The preliminary work suggested would have to be done anyway in order to decide whether that route was going to be adopted or whether further expenditures were going to be made on the Panama canal. There seems to be no good reason why this matter of inland waterways and the increase in canal facilities should not go along together.

TRANSPORTATION SERVICE.

How the railroads are recognizing the need of working with other transportation systems, even to operating them in connection with their rail lines, is interestingly disclosed by the announcement from the Pennsylvania road to the effect that it has acquired two rapid transit lines and a bus company and plans to bring about the complete coordination of rail and bus service.

This makes it evident that the railroad appreciates that the bus service has come to stay and instead of trying to fight it the wisest course is to give the public what it wants. It is in keeping with such a policy that other roads have inaugurated truck service to feed the main rail lines where the continuance of short line service was considered inadvisable. Furthermore rail and truck service which takes goods from the door of the producer to that of the purchaser has been projected if not actually put into effect.

Instead of fighting the advance of the bus the Pennsylvania sees more satisfactory results in employing it. Over in England reliance is placed upon competition through reduced rail rates to beat it, but its development is unmistakable and even in Ireland, where legislation and regulations have been employed to stem the tide of development, there is a demand for relief that the industry may have a chance.

Bus service has grown because it has appealed to the public. The rails have suffered because their patrons have turned to the bus, but with the combination of rails and bus the public should stand in the way of getting well arranged and effective service by responsible and experienced agencies.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Thus far this winter the highways haven't been crowded by sleighing parties.

Though a man may be down it remains for General Booth to find out whether the high council can put him out.

The man on the corner says: Gambling may be expected to produce something from nothing, but it usually works the other way.

Think of the worry some are experiencing because they are not sure that Mr. Hoover is going to follow their ideas concerning cabinet members.

These are days of rapid development. Liberty motors which were remarkable World war products are now prohibited as obsolete. Thus are the mighty fallen.

The suggestion is made that inasmuch as Gen. Shaver has won over $250,000 in a law suit he might help to cut down that democratic deficit. Not a chance while Mrs. Shaver has anything to say.

COMPLETELY DISGUISED

"Well, think of seeing you here!" cried the rather small girl who never could decide whether she looked like Mary Pickford or Bebe Daniels.

"What's so funny about my getting a masquerade costume?" demanded the tall, thin girl who did not go out very much.

"My goodness—are you going to that party, too?" asked the small girl who was anything but tactful. "I supposed it was going to be very exclusive. Not, of course, that I mean—well, anyhow, I just found the darlingest costume and another girl grabbed it. She would look utterly terrible in it, and I tried to tell her so, because it is just perfect for me. But the more I said the more impatient she got for the clerk to wrap it up and how I don't know what to do."

"If you are a special type, as I am, you can't wear any old thing. I think most people at masquerades are screams because they don't put any thought on the subject. If the costume shop is long on medieval armor and Pierrot outfits nine-tenths of the men arrive as knights and Pierrots. I have a theory, too, that people pick out the costume that represents the sort of character they secretly would like to be and usually it's exactly the opposite of what they are!

"Every dowdy little woman with her mind on croup medicine and cake receipts wants to come as Cleopatra. And just so sure as a man is bald and dumpy he chooses to be Apollo or Paris. Do you know what my cousin Paris. Do you know what my cousin Lou is going to wear to this party? Lou, who has mouse-color straight hair, wears glasses and flat-heeled shoes and reads educational magazines, is going as Mme. Pompadour!"

"I saw a Mme. Recamier costume a minute ago," began the tall, thin girl hopefully.

"My dear!" shrieked the small girl. "Don't make the mistake of going as Recamier. It—why, you—well, as I was saying, it does seem as though most people sat down and thought hard about what would be exactly opposite to themselves, and, of course, they can't carry it off at all!

"I'm in hopes that the girl who snatched my costume right out of my hands will come to and realize how foolish it was of her to think she could wear it and will return it. It isn't often that I find such a perfect costume as that for myself.

"You aren't thinking of this Turkish costume on the counter, are you? To get away with a costume like this a girl has to be sort of romantic-looking and oriental and splashy, don't you think? I wore one just like that at a party last year. Why don't you take this Arab affair, with the yards and yards of white stuff that wraps you all up and nobody can see what you look like? Yes, it might be kind of warm for dancing but you must remember that you can't wear everything.

"I think the Arab costume would be exactly right for you. Nothing shows but your eyes and forehead, and, if you use a lot of mascara to fix up your brows and eyes, nobody would notice how light-colored they are.

"What's that? You have a Queen Elizabeth? My dear! Still, maybe it wouldn't be so bad, because she wore terribly full skirts clear to the ground and a puff around her neck and nobody could tell what her figure really was like. And she wasn't supposed to be a beauty, was she? But don't you think a queen would be sort of conspicuous? I think one always should stay in keeping with her personality, and not try to appear as somebody regal and queenly if she isn't that way. Of course, I'm just arguing impersonally, but my honest advice is for you to take the Arab costume, my dear! Tom saws——"

"Do you mean Tom Dickson?" inquired the tall girl with interest.

"Yes," said the small girl sweetly. "He's an awfully good friend of mine. I don't know of a party this winter Tom hasn't taken me to. He thinks my ideas are wonderful. He—are you actually going to get that Queen Elizabeth costume after all my explaining——?"

"Yes," said the tall girl quite calmly. "And I'll reserve a Sir Walter Raleigh for Tom — he asked me to pick out something. We're going together to the party. I guess you're going to get your pet costume after all, for here comes the clerk bringing you something! What is the costume anyway?" The small girl, who was looking very confused and glum, glared at the tall girl.

"Helen of Troy," she said with great dignity. "The one whose face launched a thousand ships, or something!"—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 — Rep. Pearl Peden Oldfield of the second Arkansas district took her seat in the house with no formalities beyond her oath of office. That body has grown so accustomed to woman members now, and more particularly to receiving on its rolls widows of departed members, that little other than a courteous spatter of hand-clapping marks such events.

Mrs. Oldfield will fill out the term of a veteran of nearly two decades of service in the house. For that reason alone she is assured of every courtesy her fellow memebers can accord.

A Precedent

The fact that Mrs. Oldfield is the third congressional widow to take the seat vacated by her husband's death is striking. It seems to clinch a precedent, almost.

And it is not a matter with which the house itself has anything to do. There would be a natural inclination among old congressional friends of a departed legislator to make such a graceful gesture to the memory of a long-time colleague; but that is not what happened—is happening.

This new and gallant political habit springs from the constituents of the dead member. It is born of the regard in which such men as Julius Kahn of San Francisco, John Jacob Rogers of Lowell, Mass., and William A. Oldfield of Batesville, Ark., were held at home.

A fourth woman member, Mrs. Katherine Langley of Kentucky, is the wife of former Rep. John Langley, and her election was an outgrowth of popular feeling in connection with his conviction on a prohibition violation charge.

None Active Before

None of the four women ever was politically active before their election to the house. They are wholly different in political origin from their New Jersey house colleague, Mary Norton. She had long been a political warrior of note in the ranks of the New Jersey democracy when she won her way into the house.

The handing on of political preferment from father to son is a rather usual circumstance. "Young Bob" Lafollette of Wisconsin is a striking example. Senator "Freddy" Hale of Maine is second of his family to hold the seat.

Bascomb Slemp of Virginia followed his father in the house; Representative Crisp of Georgia is a son of the late Speaker Crisp. The first congressional widow gesture, however, began with election of Mrs. Kahn in 1925.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Cure for Pneumonia

Mr. Editor: During an epidemic of pneumonia some few years ago, in which four grown members of one family connected with my church died in the space of three days, I received a letter from a gentleman in Littleton, Mass., in which he stated that had he known of the case he believed he could have saved their lives by a simple remedy.

Now that so many cases of pneumonia are again causing anxiety and death I am glad to give this formula as it was sent to me at that time with the hope that someone might benefit by it:

"Formula for the cure of pneumonia. Take six to ten onions according to size, chop medium fine; put them in a stew pan or large spider over a hot fire. Let them cook for a few minutes, then add about the same quantity of rye meal, or if not at hand, use oatmeal, which is as good. Then add enough vinegar to make a thick paste. Let this cook a few minutes. In the meantime have two cotton bags made large enough to cover the lungs.

"Fill one bag and apply as hot as the patient can bear, and in very severe cases it may be applied to the back also.

"During this time prepare another poultice to take the place of the first, and apply in about 10 or 15 minutes. The first can then be re-heated and applied again. Continue until the patient is out of danger. Generally, three or four applications are sufficient.

"Important! ! If there be any constipation, take two tablespoons of castor oil, or one of Epsom salts. It is important that all obstructions be carried down from the vitals. In the typhoid form it will take away the delirium."

In his letter to me, this man, Henry S. Brown, stated that he knew quite a number of prominent persons near Boston who had been cured by this remedy when all other methods had failed.

PHYSICIANS ABANDONING TERM "RHEUMATISM."

(By Russell L. Cecil, M. D. New York City)

Rheumatism is a term used by the layman to cover a number of physical ailments. Physicians have largely abandoned the term rheumatism, and are much more specific in designating the various types of pain that occur in the back and extremeties. There are four main divisions in this class of diseas: (1) Rheumatic fever, (2) arthritis, (3) mositis, and (4) neuritis.

Rheumatic fever is an infectious disease caused probably by the streptococcus, and occurs chiefly in children and young people. The infection is supposed to get into the system through the tonsils or throat. It then attacks the joints and the valves of the heart, and sometimes the germ invades the brain and causes chorea ("St. Vitus' dance"). A typical attack of rheumatic fever is characterized by fever, sweats and hot, swollen, painful joints. The patient usually recovers from an acute attack, but is often left with an injured heart. After several attacks of this disease, the heart may be so badly damaged that the patient has to lead an invalid's life. The existence of this really serious disease is one of the chief arguments for removing diseased tonsils in children.

Arthritis may be either acute or chronic. Like rheumatic fever, it affects chiefly the joints, causing them to swell and become stiff and painful. The streptococcus is probably responsible for this condition also, and usually gets into the system through the tonsils, teeth or sinuses. Unless the disease is checked, it may produce great injury to the joints by causing permanent stiffness or deformity. To prevent this, the cause must be removed. So far as we know, there are no drugs that will produce permanent cure.

Myositis is inflammation of the muscles. Good examples of myositis are lumbago and stiff neck. Myositis may come from injuries or bruises, but sometimes, like arthritis, it is caused by diseased tonsils or teeth. Again the treatment should aim to remove the cause of the condition. Baking and massage are also very helpful.

Neuritis is an inflammation of the nerves. It is caused by toxins of various kinds, among the commonest of which is excessive alcohol. It is often associated with lead poisoning. Neuritis, like arthritis and myositis, may be caused by bacteria that get into the system through diseased tonsils or teeth. Occasionally other infections, such as typhoid fever or influenza, are responsible for the condition. The proper treatment is one that eliminates the cause.

It is most important for the patient afflicted with any form of "rheumatism" to realize that drugs rarely bring about permanent cure of the condition. They may relieve the pain and are useful in this connection, but permanent relief seldom comes until the original cause of the trouble has been found and eradicated. This is not always easy to do. It is necessary for the physician to become a sort of detective in his search for the criminal bacteria, and never to give up the quest until the culprit has been apprehended.

Stories That Recall Others

Too Far Behind

One day Jessie's mother was telling of some incident which had occurred some time in the past and asked her small daughter whether she remembered it. Jessie replied:

"No, I don't remember that; it is too far behind."

Might Be Useful

The children had lost their father and there was talk of their mother's remarriage. The older daughters disapproved and were expressing doubts as to whether they would be any better off if this "new man" entered their lives.

The small brother listened seriously to the conversation, then offered this important hint:

"Don't you think he might bring in the kindlings?"

Burgess Bedtime Story

Why Black Pussy Failed

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

All kittens should this truth be taught:
No mouse is eaten till it's caught.
—Black Pussy.

Black Pussy, Farmer Brown's Cat, dearly loves to hunt mice and squirrels and birds. In other words, she dearly loves to hunt. It isn't that she needs them or wants them for food. It is for the pleasure of hunting them. Now, in winter, when the snow is on the ground, there is very little hunting for Black Pussy, excepting in Farmer Brown's barn. So she goes out to Farmer Brown's barn every day to hunt for mice and young rats. Both rats and mice are almost always to be found in almost any barn. That is because there is always food there in the way of grain, and because there are so many hiding places.

It was the day after the big storm that Black Pussy went over to the barn. There was no other place to go. She entered the barn through the little swinging door that had been provided for her. Once inside, she moved softly toward the grain bin. She had learned that there was where she would most likely see a mouse or a young rat. Sure enough, there, close to the grain bin, was a young rat, very busy eating a little grain that had been spilled. Close by was a hole. He was too near that hole for Black Pussy to make a rush with any chance of catching him. She would have to steal up on him.

He was too near that hole for Black Pussy to make a rush

So, crouching close to the floor, Black Pussy stole forward very, very slowly and very, very carefully. Only when the young rat's head was turned the other way did she move, and then only for a step. Her yellow eyes glowed with eagerness. Little by little, little by little, she crept nearer and nearer. The young rat did not notice her. He was too busy stuffing himself with spilled grain. At last, Black Pussy was almost within jumping distance. If she could creep just a step or two nearer, she would be where she could spring on that young rat before he could reach the safety of that hole.

"That fellow is mine," thought Black Pussy. "He can't get away from me. In just a minute now I'll have him." She stole forward another step. Then, gradually, she drew her hind feet under her and prepared to spring. Just as she was going to spring that rat disappeared! Yes, sir, that young rat disappeared! He disappeared right up in the dusk of the upper part of the barn. Black Pussy was so astonished that for a moment or two she didn't move. She simply stared up, as if she couldn't believe what she saw. What she saw was the shadowy outline of a bird and, hanging below it, was the young rat she had been so sure of. It had been taken from right under her very nose. Then bird and rat disappeared above the rafters.

Of course, you have guessed who had taken that young rat from almost under the nose of Black Pussy the Cat. It was Spooky the Screech Owl, who had been driven into the barn during the storm a few days before and now was making himself at home there. From his perch on a rafter he had looked down and seen that young rat. He had seen Black Pussy, too. He had seen her when she first entered the barn and he had watched her patiently stealing toward that young rat. Then, without making a sound—for you know his wings are noiseless—Spooky had glided down and picked up that young rat.

Seldom has Black Pussy been in a worse temper than she was when she realized just what had happened. She looked up among the shadowy rafters and growled. "You're a thief!" she snarled. "That rat was mine! You wait! Some day I'll catch you. You're a robber and a thief!"

But from up in the shadowy rafters there came no reply. Spooky was too busy. "As long as there is such good hunting, I shall stay here," he was thinking, and didn't even look down at Black Pussy the Cat.

Little Talks on Thrift

FRANKLIN'S THRIFT AS TIMELY NOW AS WHEN HE LIVED TWO HUNDRED YEARS AGO

The entire world is this month paying tribute to Benjamin Franklin who was born January 17th, 223 years ago and who died on April 17th, 139 years ago. Two centuries have passed since he was at the height of his activities—two centuries in which greater progress has been made in many matters than during the entire previous history of civilization. Notwithstanding all the changes that have come into the world of men—changes in manners, customs, points of view as well as scientific innovations—the sound sense of Franklin's philosophy stands forth now as clearly as it did in the eighteenth century.

If Benjamin Franklin were to return to the world today he would see developments that even his great mind and imagination could never have pictured. But he would nowhere see any phase of life to which his simple teachings of thrift could not be applied to advantage.

In Franklin's application of thrift principles he was neither narrow nor indecisive. There were a few fundamentals upon which he stood and upon which all men and all nations must stand if success is to be theirs.

Franklin's thrift did not mean mere money saving. It meant thrift of all possessions and resources. Note the breadth of wisdom compressed in his simple maxim: "Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy wealthy and wise."

Another point of Franklin's philosophy was his understanding of the values of hardship. As a boy, with an exceedingly limited income, he lived on vegetables in order that he might save money with which to buy books.

He knew that saving for itself was without value. He knew that without saving certain necessary objectives in life could never be attained.

In our day, inquiry often is made for a system or creed through the practices of which personal success will come. All such inquirers should turn to the writings of Benjamin Franklin. They need have no fear that the truths they learn from this source will prove obsolete.

For the philosophy of Benjamin Franklin is of no period. It is of all time— By S. W. Straus, president American Society for Thrift.

"I am going through the Change of Life. At times I would cry for hours. I got tired of going to the doctor so I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I had taken the first bottle I began to get better. I have taken eight bottles now. I feel that it has saved my life, also doctor's bills. I work for a family of six, washing, cooking and do all my own work. People say I look like 25."—Mrs. Cora Calahan.

"Lydia E. Pinkham did for me what doctors failed to do. When the Change of Life began I was very poorly. Now at 55 I do all my own work, attend two dances a week and it is hard to make people believe I am over 40. I never see a woman in ill health but I advocate your medicine because I know its value. Every woman should take it, not just for a month or two but until they have passed the critical period."—Mrs. F. C. Helming.

After considerable work had been accomplished by the members, a basket lunch was enjoyed at 6:30 o'clock and the annual meeting was then called to order.

OBITUARY
Mrs. Samuel N. Hyde
(Contributed)

One of Franklin's most esteemed residents, Mrs. Samuel N. Hyde, died Friday last at the home of Mrs. Burdick, of Oneco, where she had lived for the past few years.

She was born in Moosup in February, 1842, but had spent the greater part of her life in North Franklin, residing there until the death of Mr. Hyde some years since. She was a member of the Franklin Congregational church and an ardent worker in the different societies connected with it. She was a true home-maker, welcoming all who chanced to come; always willing and ready in sickness and trouble to assist those in need. Hers was indeed a beautiful Christian spirit and she will be greatly missed wherever she was known. Of her it may be truly said that "she shall rest from her labors, but her works shall live after her."

FUNERALS
Benjamin Padzieski.

With a large attendance of relatives and friends the funeral of Benjamin Padzieski, who died at the Veterans' hospital, Rutland Heights, Mass., was held at 7.30 o'clock Tuesday morning at his residence, No. 102 Routh street. At the requiem high mass which followed at St. Joseph's church at 8 o'clock Rev. S. A. Iciek was celebrant. A delegation from the submarine base accompanied the body from the home to the church. There were many beautiful floral remembrances.

Burial was in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery. Rev. Fr. Iciek reading the committal service. The bearers were Charles Green, Louis S. Hull, Jr., Arthur Gates, George Nadolny, Albert J. Turner, Adam Butkuwicz and Lieut. N. Stancovich of Boston, representatives of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. A firing squad from the submarine base consisting of G. L. Pichette, C. Rynkiecz, J. G. Henderson, J. L. Cobb, C. D. Moore, F. H. Kenney and D. O. Luciendi, fired three volleys over the grave and taps was sounded by Robert L. Monzo, a bugler from the base, as the body was being lowered into the grave. Undertakers Shea and Burke were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Frank J. Foote.

At 8 o'clock Tuesday morning funeral services for John J. Foote were held at his residence, Trading Cove, Montville, followed by requiem mass in St. John's church, Montville, by Rev. James A. O'Meara, at 9 o'clock. There were many relatives and friends at the funeral and the floral pieces were beautiful. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, Montville, and the committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr. O'Meara. The bearers were John Lucas, John Connolly, Frank and John Sautter, Frank Delmore and Louis Hanck. The funeral arrangements were by Undertakers Church and Allen.

The death of Mr. Foote is the cause of sincere regret among his many friends in this vicinity. He was always a loyal friend and neighbor, a devoted husband and father and was ever ready to help those in trouble. His passing means a distinct loss to the community where he had so long made his home.

Overheated Stove-Pipe.

An overheated stove-pipe in the house at No. 55 Spring street, called out the fire department at 12.30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. No damage resulted. The house is owned by Edward Mullin and occupied by Lawrence Ingraham. Squad A, Engine 3, Chief Taft and Deputy Chief Brennan went to the fire.

ATTORNEYS ARGUE HOTLY IN CLOSING HEARING ON LESTER WILL CASE

The hearing in the contested will case of Mrs. Frances Dawley Lester of this city who died in Samaritan hospital at Troy, N. Y. last July, was concluded before Judge Nelson J. Ayling in the probate court late Tuesday afternoon, when the attorneys made their arguments and Judge Ayling reserved decision.

The final argument by Attorney Arthur M. Brown, counsel for the executor of the will was finished about 6 o'clock. He had been preceded by Attorney Frederick Wiggen of New Haven, counsel for Dr. Thurman A. Hull of Troy, chief beneficiary under the disputed codicil, who had been followed by Attorney Charles L. Stewart, counsel for the contestants of the will. Under agreement of counsel, each side took an hour in argument. Attorneys Wiggen and Brown dividing their hour and Attorney Stewart occupying the full time allotted to the contestants.

When court opened in the morning the first witness called by attorneys for the proponents of the codicil was a Norwich oculist, Dr. Charles H. Perkins. He told of fitting Mrs. Lester to glasses for her nearsighted condition, which was one of the worst he had even seen, he said, and made her nervous.

Miss Fannie B. Wright of Hebron, who was housekeeper for Mrs. Lester from December, 1924, up to the time of her death, testified that Mrs. Lester was not insane, but admitted she was depressed and had an aversion to having cut flowers in her house. She was also inclined to be morbid, and would hide when the telephone rang because she was afraid it would bring bad news of her relatives in Brooklyn, N. Y.

A series of letters written to Maude Parker, favorite niece of Mrs. Lester, by Miss Wright, was introduced in court. In one she wrote that Mrs. Lester was about half-unbalanced and in another that she was all right in some ways and off in others.

Mrs. Elizabeth T. Morrison, a practical nurse, testified to attending Mrs. Lester from May 14 to June 24, 1928, coming to care for Mrs. Lester at her request over the telephone. She testified that Mrs. Lester talked rationally, was extremely nervous and nothing more, and that in order to keep her mind occupied, she (Mrs. Morrison) gave Mrs. Lester bean bags to play with.

John B. Stoddard of 27 Cliff street, who drove Mrs. Lester's automobile for about seven years and who is a beneficiary under the will, testified that she was rational and talked intelligently.

Afternoon Session.

After the noon recess, Dr E. Lester Walker, who had attended Mrs. Lester for about 25 years, testified that she was very nervous and he knew she had goiter, but had never treated her for that. He was asked if she had ever kissed him to which he responded "No". There had been testimony that she kissed Dr. Thurman Hull, who had been her physician for many years.

Miss Josephine E. Case of 23 Warren street, who lived across the street from Mrs. Lester, and who had had experience with goiter cases as a nurse in a Vermont hospital, testified that she recognized Mrs. Lester had goiter. She said Mrs. Lester had fear of loss of eyesight, and was very nervous, but was making a brave attempt to overcome this nervousness and kept up her normal habits and always talked rationally and understandingly. She was a very true and loyal friend and always spoke in the highest terms of the two doctors.

With the conclusion of Miss Case's testimony, Attorney Brown announced that the proponents rested.

In Rebuttal

In rebuttal Attorney Stewart called to the stand Miss Grace E. Allison, superintendent at Samaritan hospital, Troy.

Attorney Brown raised strong objection of Attorney Stewart's question whether Miss Allison was in court at the request of the executive board of the hospital. Judge Ayling overruled the objection and allowed her to answer and her reply was "Yes." She testified that the hospital has A1 rating and she went on to tell of a telephone conversation on June 25 with Dr. Thurman Hull, who said he wanted to take a patient to the hospital. Something was said over the telephone, Miss Allison testified, about this patient having the influenza early in the year and Dr. Hull told her it was a mental case. She replied that they did not admit such cases and he responded that she wouldn't be disturbing as she would have two special nurses but he wanted her in the hospital for a short time for a complete diagnosis.

Attorney Stewart tried to get Judge Ayling to allow Miss Allison to answer questions about conversations with Dr. Hull about the nurse changing the charts, but on objection from Attorney Brown these were excluded. After a few more answers to questions about conversations with Dr. Hull, Miss Allison concluded her testimony and both sides rested at about 4:45.

At the suggestion of Attorney Wiggen the arguments were taken up at once so as to conclude the case Tuesday, each side being limited to an hour.

Three Points in Arguments

The three points upon which the contest over the codicil is brought, the alleged forgery of Mrs. Lester's signature, undue influence exercised upon her by Dr. Hull and her own mental incapacity to make a will were hotly argued by the attorneys, who had a good sized gallery in the spectator's seats, a number of those attending being relatives, neighbors and acquaintances of Mrs. Lester.

In their arguments for the support of the codicil, they argued that the claim of forgery was ridiculous in view of the testimony of five witnesses to the signing of the will, that there was no undue influence but Mrs. Lester disposed of her estate in a reasonable way and that nothing had been shown to prove her mental incapacity except by such exaggeration as to make mountains out of molehills.

On the other hand the attorney attacking the codicil argued that the burden of proof was upon Dr. Hull to show that there was not undue influence, under the Connecticut law. It was also argued that the charge of forgery was sustained by the testimony of three handwriting experts, which had not been refuted, and that the two Troy doctors had engaged in a scheme to get Mrs. Lester's money and they ought to be behind the bars.

FATALLY INJURED IN JUMP FROM WINDOW

Mrs. Gustave Shelin, 43, of No. 2 Johnson place, died at 1 o'clock Tuesday morning at the W. W. Backus hospital from a fractured skull received when she jumped from a third-story window at the hospital. She was taken to the hospital Saturday for an operation and was in a private ward with a special nurse in attendance. Mrs. Schelin became irrational Monday morning and while the nurse left the room for medicine between 10 and 10:15 o'clock that evening she rushed to the window and jumped out, landing on a porch, sustaining a fractured skull. A patient in another room heard the noise, notified a nurse and the injured woman was taken into the institution. All possible aid was given, but without avail, for she died four hours later without regaining consciousness.

Mrs. Schelin was born in Sweden, the daughter of Anders and the late Helena Anderson and was married in this city on Dec. 29, 1906, to Gustave Schelin, by Rev. John Broden. She was a member of Lodge Oscar, No. 30, V. O. of A., and of the Swedish Lutheran church. Surviving her are her husband, Gustave, who is superintendent of the Thames Belting Co.; two daughters, Miss Sarah H. Schelin, a student nurse at Bellevue hospital, New York, and Miss Elsie C. Schelin, of this city, and a son, Elvin, also of this city. She also leaves three brothers, three sisters and her father, living in Sweden, and a brother in California. Mrs. Schelin had been a resident of this city for 23 years. She was a loving wife and mother and leaves many friends who learn of her death with sincere regret.

COMMENDS MAJ. GEN. MALONE AS SPEAKER

A letter has been received by Secretary Walter H. Pilcher, of the Norwich chamber of commerce, from Secretary F. D. E. Babcock, of the Bloomington, Ill., association, expressing commendation of Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, who is to be the principal speaker at a meeting in this city on Feb. 18. In his letter, Secretary Babcock says:

The 28th annual meeting of the Bloomington association of commerce was held about a week ago. One of our speakers was Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, who delivered a most enthusing and interesting address on "International Trade and War."

General Malone told me he was expecting to go to Norwich to speak for you at your meeting. If that is the case you have in prospect a most enjoyable evening and your members and citizens will make no mistake in hearing the message which General Malone brings to you.

You will find him not only an interesting speaker, but a scholar and with a personality which is most attractive. I hope you have a fine meeting.

T. ALFRED FLEMING TO ADDRESS LOCAL LIONS

Announcement was made Tuesday that T. Alfred Fleming, chairman of the National Fire Waste council, will address an open meeting of the Lions club at the Wauregan hotel, Thursday noon. Mr. Fleming is an outstanding speaker of national reputation and the subject of his address will be Dollars that Die and Dollars that Live.

NORWICH CHORAL UNION AND ITS ABLE LEADERS

A Norwich musician sends the following interesting tribute to former musical leaders in this city:

I read with interest the letter in Saturday's Bulletin about our former musical societies, by "Old Timer." Old Timer (man or woman) failed to recall or mention our old Choral union away back in the late 70's and early 80's. I think it must have been the first one here, as I do not recall ever hearing of another previous to that. I sang in it as long as it existed.

We used to meet in White's hall, about where the Mohican store is now, and we were a good sized club, men and women. We had several directors—Prof. William Hutchinson, for a number of years; a Mr. Whitney, from Boston, a season or two, and at last Maj. Bela P. Learned, under whose wonderful guidance we did some fine work. We gave many good concerts in Breed hall, some good works of different composers. If I remember rightly, we were succeeded by the formation of the Mursurgia club. There was nothing ever finer here in Norwich than the old Choral union, and much was due to our good friend, Maj. Bela P. Learned.

I will sign myself, also,

"OLD-TIMER."

O'DONNELL LOSES SUIT OVER BOILER INJURIES

Maurice O'Donnell, New London electrical welder, who brought suit for $15,000 against the borough of Groton, for injuries received when a boiler being made to store air, in the water and light department basement, blew up and killed William Jacobus, the superintendent, has lost his case, for word was received Monday by Clerk John H. Walker of the superior court that the supreme court of errors had found no error in the verdict of a superior court jury, which found for the defendant.

The case was tried twice.

The first trial the jury disagreed.

In the second trial, the jury was confronted with a written question as to whether or not the boiler upon which O'Donnell was working was to be ultimately used as a compressed air storage tank to blow the fire whistle. The defense claimed that the boiler was being prepared for this purpose and that this constituted "governmental procedure" and under the law, the borough would not be liable for any damages.

The jury found that the boiler was being made ready for this purpose and, therefore, judgment for the defendant was entered. The plaintiff appealed the verdict to the supreme court of errors, which found no error.

TROOP 12, BOY SCOUTS, HAS WEEKLY MEETING

The weekly meeting of Troop 12, Boy Scouts, was held Tuesday evening at Park Congregational church parish house under the direction of First Class Scouts Denison and Eyberse in the absence of Scoutmaster Johnson. Reports on hikes and tests were made at the business meeting, which was called to order at 7:30 o'clock and the roll call was given. Weston Pullen, Jr., became a second class scout. Following the business session games were played and tests were passed, the meeting closing at 9 o'clock with the scoutmaster's benediction.

JUNIOR VOCATIONAL CLASS AT THE BISHOP SCHOOL

In the special room at the Bishop school there is a junior vocational class. At the present time there are 15 children, placed there because they have not been able to profit by the instruction in the ordinary classroom. These children have a definite capacity for learning which is limited to concrete situations. Their ability to learn is greater in the manual than the academic line, therefore much of the school time is devoted to manual work.

The academic subjects are taught but only so far as the child's mentality permits. The subjects are arithmetic, reading, writing, spelling, and language. When each child has reached his limit, he is given a review of the work he can accomplish by introducing various interesting devices to hold his interest and to make him feel that the work he is doing is not always the same.

Woodwork and handwork hold their interest. There is nothing the boys enjoy more than the woodwork period, during which time they can get their hands in motion and actually use tools. Rug weaving, basketry, housekeeping, sewing, chair caning, chair reseating, mop making, raffia work and other handiwork is done.

These occupations all start in their very simplest forms but gradually, as the hands become more accustomed, and the fingers are trained to be more agile, more difficult problems are attempted.

In all work, academic, manual, and physical training emphasis at all times is placed on character-training for right living. The aim of the special class being to train boys and girls to become good and useful citizens in their community.

Follow up work is done for two years regarding the children that leave at 16 years of age and secure positions. A record is kept as to their failure or success. They are given help and advice as is needed.

The instructors appreciate the interest shown by the Women's club when they visited the class room. Visitors especially the parents are welcome at all times to see the class at work and to inspect the handwork.

The pupils and teacher of the special class wish to thank the many people from all parts of the city who bought articles from the children during their Christmas sale and helped to make the sale a success.

UNCAS LODGE OFFICERS ARE OFFICIALLY INSTALLED

The officers of Uncas lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., were installed Monday evening at Odd Fellows' hall by District Deputy Grand Master Irving M. Thornton, of Jewett City, and staff. The installation ceremonies were witnessed by a large attendance, including members of Shetucket lodge, No. 27, who had been invited. A delicious supper was served by members of Rebekah lodge, previous to the meeting.

The officers installed are: Noble grand, Clarence E. DeWolfe; vice-grand, William B. Denison; recording secretary, John F. Amburn; financial secretary, James H. Smith; treasurer, Frank M. Green; warden, Charles G. Lillibridge; conductor, Robert Risley; outside guardian, Louis G. Walz; inside guardian, Henry Bode; right supporter noble grand, Reynolds Gorton; left supporter noble grand, Herbert Spencer; right scene supporter, Charles Fuller; left scene supporter, Lewis Bromley; right supporter vice-grand, Hiram Amburn; left supporter vice-grand, William H. Hopkins; chaplain, John A. Peckham; sitting past guard, Paul C. Brumme.

Following the installation services, interesting remarks were made by the grand officers.

CONN. FARMERS ARE TURNING TO POULTRY

Chicken raising has jumped into a major branch of agriculture in Connecticut, according to the state's domestic animal department which finds that all sorts of farms are being abandoned in favor of chickens. Even many of the noted tobacco farms in the state are to grow the weed no longer but will be devoted entirely to poultry. Dairy farming also is being abandoned in favor of chickens.

Prohibition is by many credited with having put Connecticut's tobacco raising industry in a bad way. The dairy business is less than it once was largely because of the chain methods of distribution and the large increase of western dairy products in the Connecticut arket. Both phases of agriculture were once among the leading factors in Connecticut life. Now, according to state officials who have studied the situation, both are passing before the poultryman.

Connecticut's poultry ranks are being augmented steadily by city dwellers who have found a strange fascination in the business of raising chickens, and nearly every day sees some sale of farm property to people who desire to "get into the country and raise poultry."

FIFTH AGRICULTURAL MEETING THIS MONTH

The fifth union agricultural meeting, sponsored by the various agricultural organizations in the state in co-operation with the Connecticut department of agriculture, will be held at Hartford, January 31. Although practically the same organizations are co-operating as in former years, the nature of the meeting will be quite different in that it will be more of a conference for planning a future agricultural program for Connecticut. The agricualural situation as it affects the state as a whole will be considered instead of discussing it from certain commodity angles.

Three addresses are scheduled for the afternoon meeting which will be called to order at 1.30 o'clock by Commissioner Buckingham. "The Present Day Situation From the Consumer's Viewpoint" is the subject of the first address by Mrs. Guy E. Speare, chairman of the New England Conference of Women's Clubs of Plymouth, New Hampshire.

"What Can Be Done Through Co-operation" will be discussed by a representative of the division of co-operative marketing of the United States department of agriculture. Harry R. Lewis, chairman of the agricultural committee of the New England council, will tell about "The New England Agricultural Program."

The union agricultural banquet will be held in the banquet hall of the Hotel Garde at 6.30 p. m. with entertainment features as well as two speakers of national importance. Hon. L. J. Dickinson, congressman from Iowa, will talk on "The General Agricultural Situation and Some of the Remedies Proposed." "Rural Electrification and What It Can Do For Agriculture" will be discussed by Earl Whitehorne, commercial editor of the "Electrical World," of New York city.

PAST CHANCELLOR'S CHARM PRESENTED MORRIS EPSTEIN

Wauregan lodge, No. 8, Knights of Pythias, swung into action for a busy year, with the seating of its officers at a public installation Monday evening at the Buckingham Memorial where the hall was filled to capacity for the ceremonies.

District Deputy Z. S. Snyder with staff from the lodge in Mystic conducted the installation in impressive manner after the meeting had been opened by Morris Epstein, the retiring chancellor commander.

The following were installed: C. C., Aaron Siegal; V. C., Eugene Lackenbach; prelate, Abe Kaufman; M. of W., Dr. Paul A. Schwartz; K. of R. and S., Rudolph Henschel; M. of Ex., Joslah Greenstein; M. of F., Morris Myers; M. of A., Joe Friedman; inner guard, Max Siegal; outer guard, Elias Rutchik.

Following the installation, a past chancellor's charm was presented to Morris Epstein by Max Hanover and there were pleasing remarks by Thomas Troland of New London, a past grand chancellor of the order.

Entertainment during the evening was provided in a popular line by Edward T. Connelly with Mrs. M. J. Farrell at the piano, and a buffet lunch was served. The evening closed with dancing for which the Ideal Radio orchestra played. The committee of arrangements comprised Rudolph Henschel, George Schiller and A. Kofman.

VIGOROUS BODIES NEED VEGETABLES

Sugar Works Wonders in Flavoring Them

"What do these canned tomatoes need to make them taste better?" Sugar added to the tomatoes while they are being heated will work wonders in making them enjoyable. Sometimes as much sugar as two tablespoonfuls to a quart is needed.

"What's wrong with these peas? They taste flat." Add a teaspoonful of sugar to a can of peas while you are warming them and notice the difference.

"What's the matter with these carrots? They don't taste like carrots." Add a teaspoonful of sugar to the carrots while they are cooking and notice the difference.

"This corn is almost tasteless." Add a teaspoonful of sugar to a can of stewed corn when warming it and notice the improvement. Everyone improves the flavor of canned corn by adding butter, salt and pepper. Up to a teaspoonful of sugar per can will give an even greater improvement.

Add a dash of sugar to the cooking of string beans.

It isn't strange that sugar improves all these vegetables. Nature developed sweetness as the perfect flavor and the result is the proper amount of sugar changes flat, unpalatable foods into dishes that can be enjoyed.

One famous cook puts it this way: "Fine flavors revolve around sugar." A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

Helped at Change of Life

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a wonderful medicine at the Change of Life. I would get blue spells and just walk the floor. I was nervous, could not sleep at night, and was not able to do my work. I know if it had not been for your medicine I would have been in bed most of this time and had a big doctor's bill. If women would only take your medicine they would be better."—Mrs. Anna Weaver, R. F. D. No. 2, Rose Hill, Iowa.

ACID STOMACH RUINS APPETITE

Thin, pale people—the despondent sort who never have an appetite, and complain of headaches, indigestion, dizziness, biliousness, usually have too much acid in their stomach. And unless they displace it, any food they eat turns into sour bile and foul gases, which poison their system.

Pape's Diapepsin dissolves that poisonous acid, sweetens the stomach and digests your meals. Many thousands of people have brought back the appetite of their youth and gained weight simply by chewing one of the pleasant tablets of Pape's Diapepsin after meals.

It does what it promises. That's the reason 5 million packages are used a year—ask your nearest druggist for it.

CHAPMAN TECH SMOTHERS ACADEMY IN VERY ONE-SIDED ENCOUNTER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 22.—Chapman Tech overwhelmed Norwich Free Academy's basketball team here tonight to gain a firmer hold on first place in the Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island interscholastic conference race. The score was 40 to 8. Tech completely outplayed the Rose City five and led at half time by 18 to 1.

Sweesky, at center, was high scorer for Tech with 13 points while Cote, Norwich right forward, scored over half of their points.

Three Regulars Absent.

The Wildcats were handicapped by the loss of three regulars, Stevens and Fagan, forwards and Dickerman center. Stevens and Dickerman are out of action with the "flu" while Fagan has withdrawn from the team. The absence of these three men, offensive cogs of the N. F. A. machine, cut the Academy's scoring power to almost nothing.

This was Chapman's eleventh victory in 12 starts and the Academy's third defeat in five games.

GEORGIE DAY LOSES BOUT WITH PILKINGTON

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Georgie Day, of New Haven, put up a hard gruelling fight but a losing one against Jackie Pilkington, of Meriden and New York, here tonight, in a feature 10-round clash. Day stayed in close in a vain attempt to solve his opponent's attack but fell victim to heavy body punishment which Pilkington resorted to to score points.

The bout was fast and clean and sparkled with spirited flashes by Pilkington who had an edge all the way through. There were no knockdowns. Pilkington weighed 132 and Day 134.

The semi-final brought together two New York youths with Eddie Elkins disposing of Irish Jimmy Kelly during the third round of a scheduled eight round engagement. Elkins employed a two-fisted attack to the body which culminated in the knockout. The men are lightweights.

In a return match between Tony DePalma, of New Haven, and Johnny Slagle, of Bridgeport, the referee awarded the bout to DePalma on points after eight rounds of milling. Slagle, out to even up matters, opened with a rush of gloves but DePalma outfoxed back an doutboxed his foe to win the award.

NORWICH Y OPENS STATE LEAGUE AGAINST WHALERS

Norwich Y. M. C. A. basketball five starts its quest for state honors on January 31 when the New London Y cagers be met at New London. On Feb. 8th the Whalers will come to Norwich for the second game.

New London and Norwich are designated in the state drawing as Area No. 4. In the same bracket is Area No. 3, which consists of Torrington and Middletown. The winners in these two districts will meet in the lower bracket semi-final series.

In the upper bracket are Greenwich and Stamford of Area No. 1, and Norwalk and Westport of Area No. 2.

Winsted and Bridgeport are not entered in the tournament this year. Winsted last year was the runner-up in the state tournament which was won by New London.

All games in the first round must be played before Feb. 16. The semi-finals must be finished by March 2, and the final series should be completed by March 16.

Each team will play its opponents in a home and home series. In the event of a split series the total scores will decide the winner.

Garcia Beats Dundee

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 22—(AP)—Frankie Garcia, of Utica, N. Y., younger brother of Bushy Graham, bantamweight ruler, won the verdict over the veteran Johnny Dundee in ten fast rounds here tonight. Newspapermen at the ringside credited Garcia with a margin of two rounds.

WOODSTOCK COLLEGIANS TRIM ARMORY FIVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 22—The Woodstock Collegians defeated the Armory Five of Danielson, 38 to 25, at the state armory here tonight. The game was very close in the first half which ended 14 to 13 in favor of Woodstock. The Collegians came back in the last half and with the shooting of Gallup and Johnson they upset the dope on the Armory Five. The first half Gallup of Woodstock put in a few nice baskets which were evened by those of Keach and Gale of the Armorians. In the next half the Collegians piled up a big lead over the locals by the splendid shots of Gallup and Johnson. Gallup was high scorer with 19 points and his teammate, Johnson, was next with 12. Keach took the laurels for Danielson with nine points. The summary:

PUTNAM FIVE ISSUES CHALLENGE TO BUDDIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Jan. 22—Alvin (Tex) Jarvis and his Israel Putnam five are strutting about Eastern Connecticut's basketball ring with chips on their shoulders and throwing challenges directly into the faces of the members of the quintet known as the Plainfield "Buddies."

The Jarvisonians feel they are capable of revenging the defeats inflicted upon the Putnam representatives of the Southern New England league, by the Plainfield aggregation of hoopsters. "Tex" asked The Bulletin for assistance this morning, in arranging a game with the Buddies at an immediate date. Those who are tossing the ball with the Israel Putnam five are: Bove and Murphy forwards, Jarvis center, and Irish "Mike" Hannifan and Tom Cody, the two invaluable guards of the Championship Celtic netters of the Quinebaug Valley league of 1926, who will return to their positions with the I. P.'s.

If the Buddies are interested, they are urged to communicate with the Putnam five through the columns of The Bulletin.

MASONIC ATHLETIC COMMITTEE OUSTS ITS SECRETARY

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—(AP)—The athletic committee of the Second Masonic district, through its chairman, George Keiser, today repudiated the action taken by its secretary, Jack Harris, in writing an open letter of protest concerning Paavo Nurmi to the Amateur Athletic union.

The letter charged Nurmi has been "influenced by a man or men with power in official track circles" to shift his entry from the Masonic games here next Saturday night to the Boston K. of C. meet the same date.

In a note of explanation and apology addressed today to Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., to whom Harris' letter also was sent, Mr. Keiser apologized for Harris' act and said the latter's resignation as secretary of the committee had been requested and received.

SQUASH RACQUETS MOST POPULAR WITH HARVARD MEN

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 22—(AP)—With more than 900 Harvard freshmen signed up for 14 different winter sports, statistics announced today showed that squash racquets was the most popular sport among the first year men.

Two hundred freshmen have reported for squash racquets competition. Winter track was the second popular sport, with 106 out for places as compared with only 79 last year. Rowing and basketball were tied with 99 each.

Though basketball showed a 30 per cent increase over last year's figures, rowing showed a noticeable decrease.

Yale Wins Ninth Straight

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22—(AP)—The Yale university ice hockey team handed Pennsylvania a crushing 12-0 defeat at the Arena tonight. Yale outclassed the Red and Blue and after running up a comfortable lead went in a number of reserves, who proved as effective as the first string men.

It was Yale's ninth straight victory and Pennsylvania's sixth straight defeat.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Bat Levinsky's real name is Barney Williams.

There is still a possibility of Knute Rockne leaving Notre Dame to coach Ohio State.

He lost three All-American players last season because of the rule at Notre Dame, limiting the student body to 2,500.

They were Pomerining, of Michigan and Connell and Brazil, of Detroit.

The ball games will not be broadcast in New York this season.

DARTMOUTH BEATS YALE BY A SINGLE POINT

HANOVER, N. H., Jan. 22—(AP)—Dartmouth took an intercollegiate basketball game from Yale tonight by the slim margin of one point. The score was 35 to 34.

The Blue team made a fierce fight for victory in the closing five minutes of play, the Elis scoring 11 points, reducing what had appeared to be a safe lead of 12 points for Dartmouth, to the single point that won the game.

Cook, Yale left guard, had a chance to tie the score when, with his team trailing, 35 to 33, he drew two foul shots. He caged one but failed on the other, just before the game ended. Cook led in total points scored, chalking up 16.

PLAINFIELD DROPS CLOSE GAME TO STONINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

STONINGTON, Jan. 22—Stonington High took a fast and close game from the Plainfield High quintet here tonight, 28 to 26. It was Stonington's first victory of the season and was well earned. Battling on almost even terms for the first half, the Stonington team rallied in the latter part of the game to nose out the up-staters. The first half ended with Stonington leading, 14 to 13.

In the girls' game the Stonington team won from Plainfield 57 to 45 in a close and exciting game.

PLAINFIELD PROS WILL ATTEMPT TO EVEN SERIES WITH BRISTOL TONIGHT

Again tonight the Plainfield Pros will be battling the Bristol Endees in an attempt to even the series between these two clubs which started last December. The series opened at Bristol with the Endees winning out by a comfortable margin when Whitey Bernot left the game with an injured ankle. Bringing the feud to Plainfield the Pros evened the series by trouncing the Endees 37 to 21. Then a little over a week ago the Pros went to Bristol where they again lost giving the Endees the advantage.

Tonight the Pros and Endees again tangle with the Pros being favorites to win on their own floor. Neither team has been able to defeat the other on its opponent's floor. Bristol comes to Plainfield tonight with the firm intention of winning and decisively clinching the series for the season. To add strength to their attack it is reported that Stavinitsky, former Plainfield Pro star, has been signed by the Endees. Stavinitsky was a popular star with Plainfield and his many basketball friends will be glad to welcome him to Plainfield. Johnson, Manning and Pickett, a Dartmouth star, will be seen with the team.

Plainfield is expected to use its regular lineup but will have Pop Williams on the floor and may have to use him if the going gets rough. Williams with his basketball is winning considerable recognition throughout the state, playing with three teams, the New Britain club, Danielson and Plainfield. Brusso who has been out of the game for several weeks as a result of a severe attack of flu will be back in the lineup. He says he is as god as ever and has regained his strength. The probable lineups for tonight's game are:

Bristol		Plainfield
Richtmeyer, rf		rf Brusso
Malcolm, lf		lf, Kasper
Stavinitsky, c		c Bernot
Waterman, rg		rg, Dissinger
Marchinek, lg		lg, Tisdell

There will be a fast preliminary game between the Buddies and an all-star Willimantic club. The preliminary starts at 7:45, the big game an hour later. As has been the custom for a number of years there will be a dance held after the contests.

WESLEYAN BEATS AGGIES WITH LATE RALLY

MIDDLETOWN, Jan. 22—(AP)—After a first half featured by close guarding, Wesleyan located a scoring punch which enabled its basketball five to score a 36 to 23 victory over Connecticut Aggies here tonight. Chubbuck, rangy center of the Aggies, was held in check during the greater part of the game, but managed to be high scorer with 12 points. Nye, his opponent at center, tallied 10 points.

ABE THE NEWSBOY TO GIVE EXHIBITION AT QUAKER HILL

Abe Hollandersky, world famous newsboy, formerly of New London, who is paying a short visit there, will be the chief entertainer at a smoker which is to be held at the Quaker Hill firehouse Thursday night. He formerly was a state famous boxer and wrestler and he has expressed a willingness to go into combat with any opponent at the affair just to show that he still is in condition and that he is always ready to help in a needy cause.

GUS SONNENBERG THROWS CANTONWINE TWICE, 44 MINS.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 22—(AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, world's wrestling champion, defended his title here tonight against Harold Cantonwine, of Iowa, winning in straight falls. Sonnenberg won both falls with flying tackles, pinning the Iowan in 31:10 on the first and 12:58 on the second. The bout drew approximately 5,000 spectators.

YANKEE PLAYERS WILL WEAR NUMBERS THIS YEAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—(AP)—Following the lead of their brethren in other sports, the New York Yankees have decided to number their players during the approaching American league campaign. Ten inch numerals will be sewed on the back of each player so that fans in the stands may know who is who.

HARTFORD HAS GRAND CIRCUIT MEET IN AUGUST

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 22.—(AP)—The make-up of the "big line" for 1929 was ratified by Grand Circuit stewards at their annual meeting here today. Sixteen weeks of harness horse racing for the year was assured with the opening at Lexington, Ky., during the week of June 17, and the closing at the same track with a two weeks meeting beginning September 30. The Hartford date is August 12 to 16.

ROCKEFELLER, JR., URGES OUSTING OF STEWART

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—(AP)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has written some stockholders of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, that if Col. Robert W. Stewart is ousted from the company its prosperity would continue "under leaders who have the confidence of the public."

Correspondence between Mr. Rockefeller and his associates and stockholders who had inquired his policy as to management and dividends in the event of his victory over the chairman of the board, was made public today by Thomas M. Debevoise for Mr. Rockefeller. It indicated that a new management would not mean that financial returns to stockholders would not be changed.

"We think of this contest," said a letter to one stockholder, "is an opportunity for the stockholders of the Indiana company to clean house and to show the public that the owners of one big business will not countenance in their representatives such a course of conduct as that followed by Col. Stewart in the Continental Trading company transaction and in his appearance before the senate committee."

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S NEWS IN WASHINGTON

The house considered District of Columbia legislation.

The senate approved a $24,000,000 apropriation to be used by the president for prohibition enforcement.

The threatened filibuster in the senate against the cruiser construction bill was believed ended.

The house ways and means committee turned to the study of tariff revision of sugar by-products.

Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, charged that press censorship existed on the Hoover goodwill tour.

Senator Pine of Oklahoma was exonerated by the senate Indian affairs committee of charges of conspiracy against Commissioner Burke of the Indian bureau.

Secretary Mellon opposed the McKellar proposal to place income tax refunds under the board of tax appeals instead of the internal revenue bureau.

Departments Seek More Appropriations

but the town had no way of knowing when the bonds were issued that the law had been changed to make the early limit two years. Therefore the validating legislation was asked and there was no objection on the part of anyone. The bonds were for the erection of the Samuel Huntington school.

An act to provide $1,000 for suitable housing and preservation of the original headstone of Col. William Ledyard's grave in Ledyard cemetery, Groton, and an act for $1,000 for repairs to Groton monument were referred to committee on military affairs.

Miss Cheney, of Manchester, introduced a bill providing a maximum fine of $500 and maximum imprisonment of one year for anyone "placing the life or limb of a child under 16" in jeopardy.

Motor Bills in Senate

The commissioner of motor vehicles is authorized to require proof of financial responsibility before a certificate of registration is granted in a bill introduced in the senate by Senator Goldstein, of Bridgeport. The bill provides the owner of the car shall prove financial responsibility to satisfy any claim for damages by reason of personal injury or death of at least $5,000 for any one person and $10,000 for injury or death to more than one person on account of one accident and of $1,000 for damage to property.

The present law empowers the commissioner to require proof of financial responsibility after an accident or conviction.

Another motor vehicles bill was introduced providing that driving of a car belonging to another shall be prima facie evidence that the driver is the duly authorized agent of the owner and acting within the scope of his employment as such agent.

An act concerning actions for injuries resulting in death, also introduced, provides limiting the extent of damages collectible by administration to $25,000 and requiring a wait of one year from the time of the accident before action is brought.

"Auto Guest Law" Repeal

Repeal of chapter 308, public acts of 1927, known as the "auto guest law," is provided for in a bill presented to the senate by Senator Goldstein. This law was adopted in the 1927 session after spirited committee hearing and debates on the floor. It compels a passenger to prove that the driver was heedless and reckless before he can sue for damages for injuries. The present bill was introduced as a result of a supreme court decision in a case in point in which the problem of interpretation of a driver's responsibility was raised. Proponents of the bill say the supreme court ruling makes the existing law useless.

Senator Lawlor, of Waterbury, introduced a bill making it a duty of the state highway department to grade and put in proper condition a strip of highway, three feet wide, to be used as a foot path for pedestrians on any trunk line, state aid or other road over which the highway commissioner has jurisdiction. The strip is to be beyond the confines of the present traveled path and shoulder. The bill compels the commisioner to act at the request of proper officials of any city, town or borough.

PUTNAM HIGH BEATS KILLINGLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 22—The Putnam High quintet defeated Killingly High at the Killingly gym here tonight, 31 to 8. The Putnam aggregation outplayed the local five throughout the first half. Shann, Putnam's center, led a strong opening attack which was never set back by Killingly. Strong defensive work by Putnam was a feature of the game. Shann started the game with two foul shots and then a field goal. Putnam with six points held the Killingly team scoreless at the end of the first quarter. Young made the first basket for the Red and White, breaking through the Putnam defense for the time. Shann and Leo opened up a barrage for Putnam, scoring six points for their team. Killingly could not penetrate their rivals' defense. The half ended in Putnam's favor, 17 to 3.

In the second half, Killingly came back stronger than the visitors. Withey, then Young, dropped the ball through the hoop at the opening of the second stanza for Killingly although they could not overcome Putnam's lead. The game became less interesting in the last quarter with neither team scoring. Shann was high scorer with nine points, while Young led Killingly with four points. The guards of both teams played a fine defensive game. Coach Schofield, who has been ill for the past two weeks, directed the Killingly team again tonight. The Killingly team did not have their coach for two weeks up to this game and this proved a great handicap.

PROPOSAL FOR TUNNEL UNDER ENGLISH CHANNEL

LONDON, Jan. 22—(AP)—The scheme for a tunnel under the English channel reached the house of commons again today. Stanley Baldwin, prime minister, announced that a comprehensive non-party re-examination, would be made into the sixty year old project.

A tunnel connecting England with the French coast has been urged by economists but has been always opposed by military strategists. Construction of a 21-mile bridge has also been discussed.

Mr. Baldwin said that in view of the wide public interest in the project the cabinet had come to the conclusion the time was ripe for a comprehensive inquiry. He said the ministers wished to have the economic aspects thoroughly examined in order that they might be weighed with imperial defense considerations and a decision reached on broad grounds of national policy.

TESTS IMPROVE HERDS OF KENTUCKY BREEDERS

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Scientific herd improvement is showing a profit on Kentucky dairy farms.

There are 3,506 cows in 193 herds on test in eight dairy herd improvement associations in the state. Figures show that in one month 29 cows produced 50 pounds or more of butter fat each, and 76 cows produced 40 pounds or more.

Unprofitable cows are sold for beef and farmers who take part in the tests purchase pure-bred bulls to build up their herds.

JAMES ROOSEVELT IN IMPROVED CONDITION

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 22 (AP)—James Roosevelt, eldest son of Governor Roosevelt, held throughout the day the slight improvement he had gained in the previous 24 hours, his physician, Dr. L. W. Gorham, said tonight.

Young Roosevelt was stricken with pneumonia several days ago after contracting influenza.

MIX MINERALS WITH GLASS TO MAKE COLORS

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The colors in modern American-made glass are composed of mineral substances.

How they are blended is described by Prof. Alexander Silverman, head of the department of chemistry, of the University of Pittsburgh, himself an expert in glass making and head of a special course in this subject.

The reds, pinks and oranges are furnished by copper, gold or selenium. Yellow comes from uranium, silver and cadmium sulphide. The greens are from chromium and iron, blue from cobalt and copper, and violet from manganese. Some of these metallic compounds are dissolved, but occasionally may be used as particles.

Gold ruby color, for example, is produced by minute particles of the precious metal that remain suspended in the glass. All the colors are mixed with the materials from which the glass is melted, so that they are part of the structure instead of being coatings.

Professor Silverman says that American artisans now make glass colors equal to those of any of the world-famous glass factories of Europe. Americans have achieved what he calls "technical independence" in glass making.

GERMAN FINDS STRONG FORCE IN POTASSIUM

BERLIN (AP)—Discovery of rays from potassium, which he says are more penetrating than those from radium, is announced by the physicist, Prof. Werner Kolhoerster of the Federal Techno-Physical Institute here.

The fact that potassium is radioactive has been known to physicists, Professor Kolhoerster says, and they know also that it emitted rays known as beta emanations. But the activity he found is something different.

While making tests of minerals that stretched in the shape of layers along the bottom of a mine near Strassburg, he detected intense rays, described as gamma emanations. Experiments caused him to believe that these rays were reaching him after penetrating blue rock salt, which he says radium rays do not pass through.

Forest Protection In 38 States

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal cooperation in forest protection, started with 11 states, has been extended to 38 states. Still, figures show, the government is meeting its responsibility in fire protection by only 40 per cent and state and private owners by less than 60 per cent.

BOSTON COUNCILMEN OPPOSE BILLS CHANGING SUNDAY BASEBALL POWER

BOSTON, Jan. 22—(AP)—Boston city councilmen bitterly opposed three bills designed to deprive them of the power to issue Sunday baseball permits at hearings before a legislative committee today. The bills which were filed after the start of an investigation into graft charges against 13 members of the city council, would place the authority in other bodies.

At the same time, in the office of Attorney-General Joseph E. Warner, Charles F. Adams, vice president of the Boston Braves, was questioned by the attorney-general about the activities of the Outdoor Recreation league.

Adams gave Warner data which, he said, would enable the attorney-general to verify information given previously by other persons. A list of contributors to a $20,000 fund raised by the league, which supported legislation legalizing Sunday baseball in the recent election, was the subject of Warner's inquiry. It has been charged that the list, which was filed with the secretary of state was falsified to cover contributions made by the Braves.

The hearing was largely attended. After Representatives Abram B. Casson, Bernard Ginsburg and George A. Gilman, had urged favorable committee action on their bills, Rev. Martin D. Kneeland, secretary of the Lord's Day league and Howard Burns, 1928 Harvard baseball captain, urged that at least one of the bills be reported favorably.

Casson said: "Sports are huge commercial affairs involving considerable money. There will be lots of temptation and where temptation is great, precaution should be greater. It is my opinion that the city council in Boston is not a proper body in this matter."

Councilman Robert G. Wilson, opposing the bills, assailed the spirit of them saying that it would be a breach of faith to the people of Boston to take the baseball permit authority from the city council. He charged that those who are today casting aspersions upon the city council members, including himself, were those who in 1924 said 100,000 was asked to put a Sunday baseball measure through the legislature.

The general tenor of the opposition by other members of the city council was that if accepted, any one of the bills would rob the city of authority rightfully belonging to it. They pleaded the cause of home rule, saying that the city had been stripped of much power in handling its own affairs by the legislature under previous acts.

Senator Robert E. Bigney, of Boston, appearing in opposition to the bills, took occasion to denounce the chairman of the Boston finance commission, John C. Dowling. The finance commission is investigating charges that members of the council demanded money of officials of the Boston Braves to insure acceptance of the Sunday sports acts in this city.

The chairman of the finance commission of Boston deserves a vote of censure for announcing the names of 12 men without any evidence to back the charges," said Bigney. "Such an announcement has branded them in the eyes of the public."

JAMES PEDACE MADE A. A. U. DIRECTOR

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 22—(AP)—Plans were completed tonight for the return in this state of amateur boxing under the Connecticut branch of the Amateur Athletic union, which was suspended last spring following an investigation into the death of an amateur boxer as the result of a fight. Officers were elected, a board of managers appointed, the constitution and by-laws of the national body adopted, and several adjustments made at the meeting, held in the Foot Guard armory.

Thirteen clubs had representatives at the meeting and they will constitute the Connecticut association until more have been approved and passed by the registration committee. About 40 delegates represented the clubs and transactd the business.

The officers elected by the board of managers were: Samuel E. Hoyt, president; Philip McDermott, first vice-president; Frederick Dunn, second vice-president; and Paul Barnett, secretary-treasurer. All of these men are from New Haven, which has a majority of the clubs in the newly organized body.

One delegate from each of the 13 clubs was elected by his club to represent it on the board of managers. The board consists of: James N. Roach, New Haven Swimming club; Jack Tarren, New Haven Road A. A.; William Smith, New Haven Harriers; James Pedace, Dixwell A. C., of Norwich; Fred B. Dunn, New Haven Y. M. C. A.; William Ashworth, Walnut Beach Life-Savings corps; Philip McDermott, board of recreation; William Kennedy, Cygnet A. C., of East Portchester; Ray Callahan, New Haven Firemen's A. A.; Thomas J. Tracy, Policemen's A. A.; A. C. Gilbert, Yale university A. A.; Samuel E. Hoyt, New Haven Republican club, and J. T. Confrey, 181st Infantry A. A., of this city.

Three delegates-at-large to the board were named by President Hoyt after his election. They are Paul Barnett, Elmer L. Manning and Robert Kiphuth, coach of the Yale swimming team.

A registration committee comprised of Elmer L. Manning, James Pedace, J. T. Confrey, Ray Callahan and Robert Kiphuth was formed and they will hold their first meeting Saturday to consider applications from clubs for memberships.

Safety, silence and simplicity are features of the new Ford six-brake system

ONE of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

This system gives you the highest degree of safety and reliability because the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are all of the mechanical, internal-expanding type, with braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against mud, water, sand, etc.

The many advantages of this type of braking system have long been recognized. They are brought to you in the new Ford through a series of mechanical improvements embodying much that is new in design and manufacture.

A particularly unique feature is the simple way by which a special drum has been constructed to permit the use of two sets of internal brakes on the rear wheels.

The brake construction on the front wheels also is unusual. Here the brakes are enclosed without the use of a leather boot or sliding joint to protect the linkage between the brake rods and the mechanism on the brake plate.

A further improvement is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent.

Another feature of the Ford brakes is the ease of adjustment.

The four-wheel brakes are adjusted by turning a regulating screw conveniently located on the outside of each brake plate. This screw is so notched that all four brakes can be set alike simply by listening to the "clicks."

The emergency or parking brakes on the new Ford require little attention. However, should they need adjustment at any time, consult your Ford dealer for prompt, courteous, and economical service. He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

GINGERELLA ARRAIGNED—PLEADS NOT GUILTY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 22—Gingerella was arraigned at 5:20 Tuesday afternoon before Judge Oliver H. Williams in a special session of the Third district court, charged with murder in the first degree. Through his attorney, M. Walter Flynn, a plea of not guilty was entered and the reading of the complaint was waived. Hearing of the case was continued to the regular session of the Third district court Friday, Feb. 1. The prisoner was remanded, without bail, to Washington county jail at Kingston, where he will be taken Wednesday morning by Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell.

Attorney-General Charles P. Sisson has ordered Coroner John Ferguson to hold an inquest. There is a possibility that the plea of Gingerella may be one of self-defense. The case of the state is built up on circumstantial evidence in which the testimony of the firearms expert will be paramount.

TWO SUCCESSFUL RAIDS ON PAWCATUCK PLACES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 22—Connecticut state troopers from the Groton barracks swooped down Tuesday afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock upon two Pawcatuck places and obtained evidence of liquor sales. The places raided were those of Tony Lopresto, 55 Mechanics street, where a sale was discovered while another trooper was reported to have gone upstairs and secured wet goods in bottles and two or three gallon jugs of moonshine.

Brought before Judge William A. Wilcox in Pawcatuck, he was released on $1,000 bail, for appearance in Stonington town court Wednesday morning.

Among those under summons as witnesses are Patrolmen Adin R. Sheldon and C. Wilson Brown, of Pawcatuck. The accused will probably have three charges pressed against him, actual sales keeping for sale and reputation.

The barber shop of Francisco Gristino (alias CheChe), 74 Liberty street, was also again visited and a sale reported as obtained. He has secured A. T. L. Ledwidge as counsel and his case is continued to next Friday morning, his bail being fixed at $1,000.

BOSTON EXPERT TAKES CHARGE IN MURDER CASE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 22—The arrival at 3:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in Westerly of Capt. Charles J. VanAmburgh, U. S. A., of Boston, well-known expert in ballistics, brought to a close the intensive preliminary activity in Westerly of county and town officials, which has followed the murder of Santo Gaccione, 34, as he lay asleep in bed with wife and infant in an up-stairs bedroom, at 1 a. m. Monday. At police headquarters Medical Examiner Dr. Michael J. Scanlon, Tuesday afternoon, turned over to Capt. VanAmburgh the leaden ball taken from the liver of Gaccione in an autopsy at the Westerly hospital Monday afternoon. The police are of the opinion that the deadly missile was discharged from a double-barrel shot gun in the hands of Louis Gingerella, 83 Oak street, and he is held at Westerly police station. The only one permitted to see the accused has been his attorney, M. Walter Flynn of Westerly and Providence. Highway Engineer Adolph L. Loon, has been engaged in making a plat of the section surrounding the Gaccione residence at 4 Marion street, just off Oak street. A view of the premises was taken by Captain VanAmburgh soon after his arrival, in company with County Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell, Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and Lieutenant George H. Champlin of the Westerly police force and Capt. Baird of the R. I. state police department.

Mrs. Anna E. Wilcox of Westerly was operator of a Buick automobile late Monday afternoon in Hopkinton on the Noose Neck Hill road, which in running off the road struck a culvert and was smashed about the radiator and mudguards. Neither the driver nor Mrs. Lillian B. Bonner who accompanied her, was injured. The wrecked auto was towed back to a Pawcatuck garage.

Franklin lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M. J. Albert Pawson, master, held a stated communication Tuesday evening at which business session the newly elected officers occupied their stations for the first time.

The following transfers have been recorded in the office of Westerly town clerk:

Jan. 21. Annie M. Salimeno to Hannah F. Burke, land with two summer dwellings and furnishings on the westerly side of Crandall avenue, Misquamicut.

Jan. 21. John W. Ople to Elizabeth A. Ople land on the southerly side of the Boston Post road, with buildings and improvements.

Jan. 21. Gertrude E. Foster to Mary M. W. Foster, et al, undivided interest in land with dwelling and improvements lying on either side of Beach street, known as the Foster farm.

Managers of Westerly Atlantic & Pacific stores with Assistant Manager Edmond Brown of this district attended a meeting and installation of the Managers' mutual benefit association, held Monday evening at the Narragansett hotel, Providence.

At the Baptist church Sunday last Rev E. B. Verney gave the fifth in the series of monthly sermons on "The Gospel Bridge." His theme was the nature and person and work of the Christ which he presented under the title of "The Cables of Steel," bringing out the point that Christ was the central element in God's plan of salvation even as the steel cables of a suspension bridge are the all-sustaining part. In his talk to the children Mr. Verney brought out the idea that if a person thinks only good thoughts he may be able to influence an evil person, until that individual is ashamed of his sin because he knows someone thinks well of him.

Mrs. William Downes sang a solo, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Z. B. Bicknell.

Mr. and Mrs. Addison Bassett visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter Richardson at Willimantic Sunday.

COLCHESTER

MANY MOURNERS ATTEND FUNERAL OF MISS PIECHOTA

Local friends of Miss Stella Piechota, 21, were saddened to hear of her death Sunday at her home in the Parum section of town. Miss Piechota was born in Dupan, Penn., June 4, 1907, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wojceh Piechota. She had spent the greater part of her life in Colchester. For the past few years she had been in ill health, the contributing cause of death being influenza. She is survived by her mother, ten sisters and three brothers. Funeral services were held at St. Andrew's Catholic church at 10 a. m. Tuesday, requiem mass being celebrated by Rev. Philip J. Mooney. Burial was in St. Andrew's cemetery, a large number of friends and relatives being present. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Hourigan Brothers of Norwich. The young lady was endowed with a pleasing and genial disposition which won for her a host of friends, who have expressed heart felt sympathy to the family.

The three mile stretch of new state road between North Plains and Hamburg has been completed and is open to traffic.

There is to be a meeting of the local order of Eastern Star this (Wednesday) evening.

Misses Jennie and Elizabeth Cronin will attend the funeral of their cousin Dr. William D. Cronin in New London today (Wednesday).

After the mid-week services in the Congregational chapel, the church meeting is to be held. Friday afternoon the Benevolent society will meet for several hours of sewing which will be followed by supper.

Mrs. John Condren, Miss E. G. Day, Mrs. R. J. Bailey and daughter, Miss Allison Bailey were in Hartford, Tuesday.

Theodore W. Doberentz and C. A. Ryan of Marlborough were callers here Monday.

Barnett W. Kahn of New York city, formerly rural mail carrier to the Chestnut Hill and Cedar Swamp section, was a caller on friends and relatives here Monday.

Mrs. Mary Seger has returned on her home on Elmwood Heights after several weeks' visit with friends and relatives in New York.

Miss Fannie Alpert has returned following several weeks' visit with New York relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Case of East Berlin were callers at the James S. Case home, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Harold J. Wade has been confined to her home on South Main street with a severe attack of grip.

Maurice S. Raymond of Norwich, former local resident was a recent caller here.

Mrs. Etta Lombard is reported ill at the home of her son, Walter B. Lombard in Hartford.

Expensive Enthusiasm.

HARTFORD, Conn., (AP)—The bigger the vote the more it costs, the common council learned when it had to appropriate $6,765 additional because 93 per cent of the electors listed went to the polls election day.

WHAT A DOCTOR KNOWS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

There IS a way of overcoming the tendency to constipation. And here is how you can PROVE it.

The next time your bowels need any assistance, don't take the first laxative that comes to mind. Take one the druggist can assure you is made with CASCARA, but as effective as using force, and it's good for the system, indeed. It helps make good blood. For cascara is nothing but the bark of a tree. The Indians chew this bark, and live to an old age without a day's sickness.

What happens when you cascaras the bowels! They will usually function well for SEVERAL DAYS. One more dose—no larger, and perhaps smaller than the first—and the bowels function of their own accord for a still longer time. Until you don't feel the need of any aid of any sort for weeks-on-end.

So, the only habit you get from cascara is that of natural and normal regularity. How different from things one must usually repeat on the morrow! Cascara is the ideal laxative; and the familiar little candy Cascaret is doubtless its ideal form. Children beg for these tasty tablets, and many men and women wouldn't think of taking ANYTHING else for the purpose. And EVERY drugstore has them.

avoid "dosing"

CHILDREN

for Colds and Flu

A peculiarity of influenza is that its toxins upset the digestive system and too much "dosing" still further disturbs the digestion just when the child needs all his reserve strength to fight off the flu.

Internal medication should be avoided, therefore, except on the advice of a physician. As Vicks VapoRub is applied externally, it can be used freely, even on the youngest child, with no fear of upsetting the most delicate stomach.

A Safe External Treatment

When flu is around, don't let children keep a cold overnight. At the very first sign, put the child to bed. Apply hot wet towels on the throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. Then rub vigorously with Vicks. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel.

Leave the bed-covering loose around the neck so that Vicks medicated vapors, released by the body warmth, can be freely inhaled. They are breathed in direct to the inflamed air-passages, loosening the phlegm and clearing the head.

At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice, "drawing out" tightness and soreness.

After a Flu-Attack

Don't let the children get up too soon; rest in bed helps nature to build up the vitality. Don't let them work or play too hard, and be careful to avoid sudden chills.

Above all, stop every cold at the start. At this time, more than ever, colds attacking the weakened system may lead to bronchitis, abscess of the ear, sinus-trouble, or pneumonia.

Equally good for adults. Of course, Vicks 2-way action is just as effective for adults' cold-troubles as it is for children's.

NEWNESS radiates from end to end

Outside . . . Inside . . .

The Victoria

THE NEW Dodge Brothers Six is not merely new in a superficial way. It is new in the essential things that count for something; new in body structure—new in chassis betterments—new in all-around performability. It is emphatically the newest manifestation of Walter P. Chrysler's genius and the celebrated craftsmanship of Dodge Brothers.

Its exclusive new Mono-piece Body marks a notable advance in body engineering, so constructed that there are no joints to squeak. Outside, a new beauty characterizes the harmonious silhouette, with its deep-faced narrow-profile radiator, full-welt one-piece fenders, and Chrysler steel channel running boards. Inside, a new luxury and roominess glorify the car. The upholstery is sumptuous. Fitments and accessories are jewelry-like in pattern and finish, and as complete as in highest-priced cars.

Mechanically, the new Dodge Brothers Six includes such betterments as Chrysler weather-proof 4-wheel hydraulic brakes; Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers and greatly oversized (5.50) tires—feature after feature never before offered in a car of such moderate price.

Eight distinctive body styles: 2-Pass. Business Coupe, $945; 5-Pass. Sedan, $995; 5-Pass. Brougham, $995; Roadster with RumbleSeat, $995; 4-Pass. Victoria, $1025; DeLuxe Coupe with Rumble Seat, $1025; 5-Pass. Phaeton, $1025; 5-Pass. DeLuxe Sedan, $1065. All prices. f. o. b. Detroit

HIGH PRICED ISSUES ACTIVE IN VERY BUSY SESSION OF THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—(AP)—The bull party celebrated resumption of the gold movement from England today with violent bidding up of high-priced issues on the stock market. The session was one of the busiest of the new year, total sales crossing the 5,000,000 share mark for the first time since Jan. 4.

The taking of about $2,500,000 in gold bars by Speyer & Co., to be shipped on the Aquitania tomorrow, represents the first movement of London gold to New York since mid-November. While bankers pointed out that it is too early to make any predictions as to whether gold will come to New York in sufficient volume to relieve the credit situation, the movement was hailed by the bullish element as deferring any increase in the federal reserve rediscount rate.

The present shipment is understood to reflect the drop in sterling exchange below $4.95. The federal reserve authorities do not look with favor upon a heavy inflow of gold from London, which would probably be attributed by an increase in the New York rediscount rate, believing it might stimulate another frenzy of speculation and reach such proportions as to embarrass the Bank of England.

The Bank of England might stop the flow by raising its rediscount rate, but is understood to hope to avoid a higher rate with the recent market improvement in the reserves. However, the Bank of England is thought unlikely to object to a flow of gold to New York, so long as the movement does not exceed the amount of Transvaal gold offered in the open market in London.

Call money was in abundant supply at 6 per cent today, and some was available in the outside market as low as 5 per cent. Time money held firm, however, and the federal reserve bank increased its buying rate for bankers bills to 5 per cent., which makes it equal to the rediscount rate. Under normal conditions this would be regarded as foreshadowing a rise in the rediscount rate. Bankers look for tighter call money toward the end of the month.

Commission house opinion was rather sharply divided, the majority advising the exercise of extreme caution until the condition of the market, after the recent backing and filling, becomes clear.

Business news was largely favorable, Chile Copper raised its dividend rate for the second time in three months, and Anaconda proposed to double its authorized capitalization and made the long rumored exchange offer to the minority stockholders of Chile. American Encaustic Tiling proposed a 2-for-1 split up. Further reductions in gasoline prices, however, were announced.

U. S. Steel was again bid up vigorously, touching a new high for all time at 190 1-4, and closing at 187 5-8, up 4 5-8. Many rumers have been broadcast about this company, regarding refinancing, stock dividends, extra cash dividends, and retirement of the 5 per cent. bonds, but none have been confirmed and they have been received with a grain of salt in conservative quarters. Today's buying was attributed to estimates that last year's earnings will amount to $12 per share.

The coppers made rapid headway. American Smelting sold up 8 points to a new high at 104, and Chile touched a new peak at 22 7-8. Anaconda was also broke into new high ground, but reacted later in profit taking. International Nickel jumped more than 5 points to a new top at 69 7-8. Automotive shares encountered better buying that for several sessions past. General Motors crossing the 200 mark in an extreme gain of about 6 points. Utilities were also in demand. Public Service of New Jersey and Peoples Gas mounting about 5 and 17 points to new high levels.

Among the high-priced issues, the old DuPont stock soared 60 points to a record price at 600, and closed at 589 1-4. The new stock was admitted to trading and ranged from 155 3-4 to 173. Johns Manville jumped 21 points to 225, a new record, while Adams Express, Federal Mining, Mathieson Alkali, and Commercial Investment Trust climbed about 10 to 14 points to new highs.

The upturn was by no means uniform, as the uncertain credit condition prompted considerable liquidation. Among the soft spots were American Machine & Foundry, Case Threshing, Loews, American International, National Bellas Hess, St. Joseph Lead, Warner Bros., and Otis Elevator, which lost from 2 to 10 points. International Silver dropped nearly 19 points in a small turnover.

The commodity markets were irregular. Wheat strengthened on poor weather conditions over the winter belt, while corn sagged in profit taking. Cotton was quiet, pending the official ginnings report.

Foreign exchanges were quiet and barely steady, with sterling exchange below 4.85.

RULES FOR YOUNG WRITERS

1—Write plainly on one side of the paper.

2—Use pen and ink, not pencil.

3—Short and pointed articles will be given preference. Do not use over 300 words.

4—Original stories or letters only will be used.

Write your name, age and address plainly at the bottom of the story.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The King

The King wears a crown, and a worried frown,
For his throne is ever tilting,
And he must ride in his coach of state,
Though the birds are sweetly lilting.

I make my throne of the new-mown hay,
With only my will to choose my way
And my little brown dog to love me.

And oh, for the love of a little brown dog,
King's ransom cannot buy it,
Nor win one way of his curly tail—
If you don't believe me—try it.

So never we envy the weary King,
As we rest on our throne of clover;
But he may share and sup with us
When his golden throne tips over.
—Louise Upham Brooks.

My Dog

I told my troubles
To the wind, one day,
He laughed at me
And blew away.

I told my troubles
To a friend, one day,
Said he, "That's life;"
And went his way.

I told my troubles
To my dog, one day,
He looked at me in such a way
That plainly said, "I'll never stray—
Your troubles are mine and mine are yours,
Tell me them always while life endures."
So now my dog is my confidant
And a finer one I could not want.
—Kathryn Mohr.

The Cage

It tried to get from out the cage;
Here and there it ran, and tried
At the edges and the side,
In a busy, timid rage.

Trying yet to find the key
Into freedom, trying yet,
In a timid rage, to get
To its old tranquillity.

It ran without a sound, it tried,
In a busy, timid rage,
To escape from out the cage
By the edges and the side.
—James Stephens.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

The eagle is our national emblem, representing independence and sovereignty, but it is a much-maligned and misunderstood bird. Much of the fiction and alleged fact written about this famous bird is without serious study or authority. Contrary to opinion, it is the exception, rather than the rule, that this majestic king of birds preys upon chickens, pigs, lambs or other small farm animal life. The eagle is not such a murderer or killer of farm animals as it is pictured to be.

The majestic bird does not bother man or his possessions where man has not killed off its supply of food. It has to eat, as all birds and animals do, to live, and if forced to, it will prey upon small farm animals and on poultry. In places where man, with the aid of the gun and trap, has destroyed rabbits, birds and rodents, the eagle, through necessity, is forced to kill an occasional chicken, turkey and once in a while an unsuspecting lamb.

Where there are plenty of rabbits, birds and rodents to supply the hungry eagle's wants, there are few reports of this bird killing and carrying off small farm animals and poultry. The giant hawk is more often responsible for raids on farms than the eagle.

The hawk lives close to civilization while the eagle stays as far away from man and his possessions as possible. The eagle is a wise bird and long ago learned of the vandalism characteristic of supposed civilized people. He builds his home far away from the habitation of man, and has little or no inclination to molest farm poultry or small animals, unless hunger forces him to do so.

STORIES WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

My Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first leter. I will tell you about my dog. Her name is Lady. I like to play with her. She does not like the cats. She often fights with them. She knows how to swim. If she is mad she shows her teeth. She does not like anybody who hits her.

STEPHEN SMITH, Age 11.
Colchester, Box 164.

Likes Wide-Awake Letters

Dear Uncle Jed: I always read in The Norwich Bulletin the different letters the children have written, and I always wanted to write one myself, but I do not have enough time. Today it is raining and I have nothing to do. I thought I would write to you. I am in the sixth grade and am 9 years old. I live in Colchester. This town is not very large.

I like to read and spend much of my time doing this. Some of my favorites are The Girl Scouts in the Country, An Old Fashioned Girl, The Outdoor Girls at Rainbow Lake, and Ruth Fielding in the Saddle.

All these books are about brave girls, and some day I'd like to be like them and spend some of my time as I read they spend theirs.

RUTH LEVINE, Age 9.
Colchester.

The Cotton Gin

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write you about Eli Whitney and the cotton gin, which I hope you and the Wide-Awakes will like. Eli Whitney was born in Westboro, Mass., in 1765. When Eli was young he used many different tools. His greatest delight was to take apart his father's watch and put it together again.

When Eli was 15 years old he made a fiddle. Not many years later he went to Savannah, Ga., to get some cotton. When he came to Savannah the people put up work benches and set him to work. Eli Whitney made the machine by placing iron bars together in pairs. This formed one side of the hopper and heavy boards reaching up to the other side. The hopper was a wooden cylinder armed with rows of teeth curved from the direction which the cylinder moved. The short wire teeth pulled the cotton and took out the seed. After this was finished it took the people a much shorter time to separate the cotton from the seed.

BEATRICE BERMAN, Age 10.
Colchester.

His Second Letter

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my second letter to the Wide-Awakes. I am going to tell you what we play at school. In the fall we played baseball, then football and other games. Now we coast down the hill in back of the school. Some of the children bring their sleds to school. I like coasting best of all.

FRANKLYN KOPP, Age 13.

The Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: The animal called the wildcat in the regions of North America is a kind of lynx. The red wildcat is found in the wooded regions of Europe but not in this country. The common house cat is not wild but it will sometimes become wild and go into the woods, but will not stay wild. A cat shows his love for people, but especially for their homes. If a cat is taken to a strange place it will find its way back, even though it never was on the road before. Cats like their old homes better than new ones.

Cats like to catch mice and sometimes will wait hours patiently until a mouse appears, and play with it until the mouse is very tired. The cat does not eat it unless he is hungry. You can teach the cat many tricks, such as shaking hands with you, jump through paper hoops and over the doors. If you put a piece of meat on the top of the door the cat will jump for it. After these tricks are tried you give the cat a good dinner, so it will remember the tricks better.

ALBERTHA BEAUREGARD, Age 12.
Taftville.

A Day's Work

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have ever written to you. I am going to tell you about what I do every day. I get up at 8 o'clock every morning. I get dressed, eat my breakfast and go to school. I am in the sixth grade. First we have the Lord's Prayer, then arithmetic, followed by spelling, after which comes recess. When we come in we are ready for history and language. We then go home for lunch. The afternoon session starts at 1.15 o'clock. We have singing, after which comes geography and reading. It is then 3.30 and we are dismissed. When I get home I change my clothes and go on errands for mother. When I am through I go out and play until supper time.

WALTER LAMB, Age 10.
Norwich.

Her First Letter

Dear Uncle Jed: I live with my grandparents. They have taken your paper for years. So I thought I would write to see if I could win a book. All the letters I have ever written is two letters to my mother. My mother is a graduate nurse. I do not see her very often. Last year I had scarlet fever and was out of school ten weeks. So I am in the second and third grade this year. I hope to finish third grade this year. We have 16 pupils. Now I will say goodbye for this time.

AUGUSTA V. MORAN, Age 7.
Clark's Corner.

The Unsolved Mystery

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you, and I hope all the Wide-Awakes will enjoy my story. It was a warm day in June when, feeling lonesome, I thought of a plan. I thought I would take a walk in the woods. I got ready and took my two dogs with me, Teddy and Bess, as they are called. So we started on a walk into the woods. As I was going along slowly, looking here and there, I heard the songs of many birds singing in the tree tops. I sat on a log and listened to them sing out their merry notes. Soon they stopped singing, so I got up and walked further. As I was walking along I stopped suddenly and looked all around me, for I heard a very strange noise. I listened and listened and the noise never ceased. It sounded as if someone was dying of agony. It was coming nearer and nearer. What should I do? I was becoming frightened. I called my dogs and started on a run to my home. I got home safely but all out of breath. I was wondering in my dreams what the noise might be, but it has been since then an unsolved mystery.

SOPHIE COMINSKI, Age 13.
South Windham.

A Visit to New York

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I read your letters and those of the boys and girls every week. I think they are interesting. I would like to tell you about my trip to New York this Christmas with my mother. We started out the day before Christmas, to visit my relations in New York city. While I was there I went to Roxy's theatre, and I think it is a beautiful place.

ANNA COOPER, Age 8.
Norwich.

A Wise Choice

Dear Uncle Jed: There was once a carpenter who had five young fellows working for him.

He decided to give them a present for Christmas. So he called them to him and said: "Here are five books and five one-dollar bills. Each of you may choose either a book or a dollar."

Four of the young men chose the money, saying that books are of no use but that money is very useful.

"What is your choice, my boy?" asked the carpenter of a 14 year old boy.

"Well, money may be useful but I would rather have the book. I have a grandmother who would enjoy listening to the stories."

He opened the book and there he saw a ten-dollar bill. The men hung their heads, wishing they had been more careful in choosing their gifts.

STELLA IDZKOWSKI, Age 10.
North Franklin.

Our Party.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about a Christmas party in our school. We had a Christmas tree all decorated in our school. My friend was dressed as Santa Claus, and I was a shepherd with my other friend. When the party was over everybody was waiting for Santa when Santa Clause came in. He said, "Oh, where are my reindeer?" Then Santa Claus gave the candy out. Then Santa gave the toys out. I got tenpins and a box of tools for my presents.

HENRY KRISTOFF
Norwich, R. F. D. No. 1.

Saved Girl's Life.

Dear Uncle Jed: Thanks very much for the book. I am going to tell now how a girl's life was saved. The day was nice. Not too hot or too cold. It was the day of a big party, given in honor of a friend who had just recovered from a very bad sickness. This happened when we started to roast marshmallows.

There were little children as well as girls and boys from 9 to 14 years old. Martha, the hostess' niece, wanted to see how the fire was. She leaned too far over and her dress caught on fire. She screamed and all the rest of the girls from the other room came running in. The girl nearest to me and myself acted quickly. We threw her on the floor rollling her over on the rug and also trying to put the fire out with our hands. We succeeded and the child was not badly burned, but for her feet and side. My friend rushed to the telephone to call the doctor, while I tore off the child's dress and applied White Rose salve to the burns.

After the doctor left his words kept ringing in everyone's mind, "It was no one's fault but little children as well as grown boys and girls should beware of fire."

FLORENCE MINSK, Age 12.
Colchester.

My Bank Book.

Dear Uncle Jed: This my first letter to you and I want to tell you how I started to save money. This last Christmas my sister gave me a bank book with ten dollars on it and also a small bank and every time I get some money I put it in the bank and when it is full I will bring it to the bank and have it added to my book and when I grow up I will have enough money so that I can go to college or use it for some other useful purpose.

BRENDEN O'CONNELL, Age 8.
Norwich.

My Kitten

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a kitten. I named it Big Foot Gray because it has big double paws and it is gray. One morning it followed me to school. When I got there it ran into the woods. After school was out I tried to find it, but I couldn't. I thought it was lost and I woud not see it any more. When my father came home the kitten was in the road meowing. He had to turn out of the road so he wouldn't run over him. He didn't know it was mine, but the kitten knew him and followed him home. It was so glad to see me that when I took it up it licked my face.

WINDHAM

Eleven were present at the Missionary society meeting held with Miss Clara Johnson. The president, Mrs. F. E. Guild, led the devotional exercises. The report of the treasurer, Miss Johnson, gave about $3 in the foreign department treasury and $42 in the home department; $35.75 of this sum being the proceeds of the supper served to the Men's club last week. While he women sewed he chapter from the study book on Africa was read by Mrs. Frank Lombard. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. E. S. Smiley at the parsonage on the 30th.

Miss Sylvina Norton of North Westchester is recovering from grip at the home of her sister, Mrs. E. S. Smiley, where she was taken ill last week Sunday.

The roll call and meeting of the Congregational church is to be held Thursday, with supper at 6.30.

The C. E. meeting Sunday evening, arranged for and led by Mrs. Homer Wood, was unusually interesting, due to the presence of several members of the colored church in Willimantic, who sang a number of Negro spirituals which were greatly enjoyed. A number from Scotland and South Windham C. E. society were present. The service was held in the church auditorium with an attendance of about 70.

The community was shocked at the sudden death from heart disease Friday evening of Everett K. Leffingwell. Mr. Leffingwell is survived by his wife, a son, Arnold, a granddaughter, Patricia Ann, of Windham, and a brother, Lester, of Colchester. Funeral services were held Monday, with burial in Colchester.

The Windham County Parent-Teacher association council is to meet in the school auditorium today (Wednesday), with sessions at 4 and 7.30. Supper will be at 6. The state president, Mrs. Watson, and others will speak.

The Boy Pioneers were entertained by Rev. and Mrs. Smiley at the parsonage Friday evening.

Mrs. Edward Billings has gone to Providence to live with her son.

Mrs. Cassius Barstow is recovering from grip and laryngitis.

EAST WOODSTOCK

Mrs. Nellie Clemence and son, Maurice, of Sturbridge, Mass., spent Saturday with Charles H. Potter and family.

Mrs. Carl Swenson underwent an operation for appendicitis at St. Vincent's hospital, Worcester, Saturday last.

Olin Shead and family, also tenants of Mr. Shead from his former home in the Chandler district, are moving to the Stephen Morse farm. Mr. Shead sold his farm to Mr. Yates, of Southbridge, Mass., who takes possession Feb. 1.

The Missionary circle met with Mrs. Arthur Thomas Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Jordan presided. The topic was Outlook for the Church in Town and Country. Leader, Mrs. L. H. Lindeman, assisted by Mrs. Everett May and Miss Converse. The hostess served sandwiches, cake, cookies and coffee during the social hour.

Mrs. Everett May spent several days last week with Mrs. W. E. Bannister, in Webster, attending the installation of Nokomis chapter, No. 128, O. E. S., Thursday evening. Mrs. Bannister was the retiring matron. Saturday evening, Mrs. Bannister and Mrs. May witnessed the installation of Clement chapter, No. 194, in Worcester. Mr. May spent Sunday in Webster with the Bannister family, both former residents.

CANTERBURY PLAINS

Mrs. Happy Tracy has been ill with grip the past week and was unable to teach school.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moffitt and son have grip.

Mr. and Mrs. William Noyes of Worcester were called to Canterbury Thursday on account of the illness of Mrs. Noyes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Pope.

Mrs. Nina Hansen was night nurse for Dr. Elmer E. Bennett. He died at his home in Plainfield Sunday.

Grace Dawley, Fred Hicks and Albert Hicks were in Norwich Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Noble of Sterling were here Saturday calling on friends.

Anna Hansen, who is ill, remains about the same.

Fred Oates of Danielson is staying with Edwin St. John for a few weeks.

Fred Sackett has been delivering the mail during the illness of Dudley Ferguson, assisted by Hans Hanson.

Margaret Tracy is one of the grip patients.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Moffitt of Wauregan were callers on Mrs. Jerusha Williams Sunday.

Mrs. Grace Wright and her team will furnish the entertainment for the grange meeting the

POETRY

Your Mission

If you cannot on the ocean
Sail among the swiftest fleet,
Rocking on the highest billows,
Laughing at the storms you meet,
You can stand among the sailors,
Anchored yet within the bay;
You can lend a hand to help them,
As they launch their boat away.

If you are too weak to journey
Up the mountain, steep and high,
You can stand within the valley,
While the multitudes go by;
You can chant in happy measure,
As they slowly pass along;
Though they may forget the singer,
They will not forget the song.

If you have not gold and silver
Ever ready to command;
If you cannot toward the needy
Reach an ever-open hand;
You can visit the afflicted,
O'er the erring you can weep;
You can be a true disciple
Sitting at the Savior's feet.

If you cannot in the harvest
Garner up the richest sheaves,
Many a grain both ripe and golden
Will the careless reapers leave;
Go and glean among the briers,
Growing rank against the wall,
For it may be that their shadow
Hides the heaviest wheat of all.

If you cannot in the conflict
Prove yourself a soldier true—
If, where fire and smoke are thickest
There's no work for you to do;
When the battlefield is silent,
You can go with careful tread,
You can bear away the wounded,
You can cover up the dead.

Do not, then, stand idly waiting
For some greater work to do;
Fortune is a lazy goddess—
She will never come to you.
Go and toil in any vineyard,
Do not fear to do or dare;
If you want a field of labor,
You can find it anywhere.

—Ellen H. Gates.

Steeds of the Sea

Far over the ocean meadows,
Swift on the driven sea,
To the marge of its rugged border
Come the wild, white steeds to me.

The foam of the race is fretting
Each wind-blown tangled mane,
As the storm king drives them faster
With his slanting spears of rain.

The sound of their press is mighty
Where the wall of the coast is high,
And the baffled steeds fall backward
With thunderous hoof and cry.

But spent are the wild sea horses—
Spent is the rout and done;
And out to their briny pastures
The steeds of the tempest run.

Behold how the tumult slackens—
The lord of the chase is gone,
And over the misty waters
There kindles the faint, fair dawn.

—Maude de Verse Newton, in Christian Science Monitor.

It used to be said that whenever a Scotchman got to London he never went back home—except to fetch his brother. That notion is out of date, according to Lord Dewar, who remarked recently: "There are not nearly so many Scotchmen traveling down to London as there used to be. They get born in London nowadays to save the fare."—Boston Transcript.

Ivor was a very earnest young man without much initiative. Consequently, when he bought a diamond engagement ring for his fiancee, he was completely at loss for a suitable inscription to be engraved inside. "What shall I put in it, dad?" he asked.

"Oh," was the reply, "eh—ref—you might say 'When this you see, think of me'." The ring was duly delivered and bore the somewhat unusual inscription: "When this you see, remember dad."—Montreal Star.

Tin foil was first made by hammering bars of metal into thin sheets. Today it is made by automatic machinery and must meet exact specifications. The foil for fine hand-made book paper will run 300 sheets to the inch, while that for use in radio condensers runs 4,350 sheets to the inch and must not vary more than one 45-millionths of an inch. In the thinnest size, 14,500 square inches are made from a pound of metal.

Artificial legs are manufactured by legless men in a Council Bluffs factory. Seven men are employed in the plant, and they turn out more than 3,500 legs a year. Three of the employes are without both legs and the others have one leg amputated. "These legless men," G. A. Johnson, owner of the company, said, "seem to understand the making of artificial limbs better than those who have never been without the use of their legs." Johnson himself lost his legs 26 years ago. He then devised the artificial limb he now manufactures.

NORWICH MAN ACCUSED OF THEFT OF WATCH FROM NEW LONDON HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 22—Charles Bjork of Norwich, was arrested this afternoon by Detective Sergeant Nelson B. Smith, charged with the theft of a watch from the residence of Mrs. William Price, 84 Raymond street. The watch was stolen sometime yesterday and Bjork was suspected as being the thief, as he had been working about the house during the day. Mrs. Price was absent from her home at the time of the theft. She returned early in the evening and discovered that two strong boxes had been broken into. In checking up on their contents she found the watch missing. The police were notified and later Bjork was arrested. When asked what disposition he had made of his plunder he stated that he had pawned it in a Bank street pawn shop. He is being held for trial in the police court tomorrow morning.

NORWICH BOYS CARRY TORCH OF LIGHT TO Y. M. C. A.

Eighty-three boys and men sat down to supper together in the Y M. C. A., New London Saturday on arrival there from Norwich of the Torch of Light. The Torch arrived at the building just prior to six o'clock.

The tables bore the colors of the three high schools represented by the boys, Bulkeley, Chapman Tech and Norwich Free Academy, and the grouping about the tables was by schools, with the exception of the members of the local Hi-Y club, who sat together. The tables at one end of the big banquet room were in the shape of a triangle, while the other end was three sides of a square. About the triangle sat the boys from Norwich, who that afternoon had run down the Torch, and the members of the New London Hi-Y, who were acting as hosts and are to run the Torch to Marlborough Thursday. Across the end of the other tables were the guests and speakers, while each side table was for the letter men of the football squads of Bulkeley and Chapman Tech.

After supper, furnished by the Y cafeteria and served by members of the auxiliary under the leadership of Mrs. Luther G. Stebbins, the last runner from Norwich brought in the Torch and placed it in its standard on a square table within the triangle. The lights had been turned out in the room and four candles, typifying the four-sided work of the Y. M. C. A., were lighted. The torch is equipped with electrical connections, so that a bulb at the top was lighted. The runner then turned the Torch over to the local Hi-Y fellows, calling attention to the fact that it stands for the light which should come to all young manhood, and calling upon them to carry it forward to its next destination by foot, never letting it touch the ground, or be carried in any vehicle. The responsibility for carrying on was accepted by James E. Morrissey, president of the Hi-Y.

Another member of the Norwich Hi-Y then opened the Torch and drew out three messages which he read. The first was the history of how the Torch came into being, having been presented to the boys of this state by the Hi-Y club of Middletown, at the State Older Boys' conference, held in that city October last. The second was a message from Governor John H. Trumbull, calling upon young manhood of the state to ever stand and fight for the right, while the third was the message of the Torch, stating that the real purpose was to center attention upon youth receiving light from every possible source.

Each member of the Norwich group who had run the Torch any distance in its journey to this city was then asked to add his signature to those already listed as having carried the Torch on its journey. A poem "Play the Game," was read by Judge Alfred E. Colt, president of the local association, and was followed by a prayer of consecration and challenge by him. Then the entire assemblage rose and sang the hymn of the Torch.

James Morrissey then turned the meeting over to C. S. Bailey, as toastmaster for the second part of the affair—honoring the letter-men of the two football squads. Mayor Malcolm M Scott congratulated the boys for such a successful get-together and extended a welcome to the boys from Norwich and good wishes to the local boys in carrying the Torch on to Marlborough.

The two captains of the 1928 teams were called upon, also the two school principals. Fred S Hitchcock and Homer K. Underwood, who spoke concerning the teams of the past season and their belief that the opening of athletic contests between the schools again would create a fine feeling in the community.

Mr. Bailey introduced Sumner A. Dole, athletic coach at Connecticut Agricultural college, whose subject was "Why We Win". He outlined the steps which the fellows of any athletic team must take to produce a winning team, pointing out that whereas the winning of the game was not the only thing worth while, still it was one of the goals toward which the team naturally works. He pointed out that the same elements which go to make a fellow a good team mate made him worth while in life, and that coaches should be pointing out to their men that the things they are drilling into them have underlying principles which they should understand.

A photograph of the catherine was taken following Mr. Dole's address, and then the entire group adjourned to the gymnasium, where they were guests of the City Basketball league for the games and dance, the two high school Girl Reserve clubs being guests of the league at the same time.

John Kane.

John Kane, 70, a former employe of the New Haven railroad as switchman, died last night at his home, 68 Meridian street, Groton, after a lingering illness. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Archie Fletcher, Poquonoc Bridge; a nephew, Clarence M. Shay, New Haven and his brother-in-law, Horace Frink, of this city. Mr Kane was born in Stonington, Nov. 28, 1858 and was a railroad switchman until about two years ago, when he was pensioned.

NEGRO ATTACKS WOMAN AS SHE LEAVES TROLLEY CAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 22—Mrs. Mary Higgins of 81 Blackhall street was attacked last night at 11.30 o'clock in front of her home, by a big Negro. The assault occurred almost directly under a light in that street and is considered by the local police as being one of the boldest in many years

The attack was made just after Mrs Higgins had alighted from a street car while returning from a performance at the theatre. As she started to walk to her home the Negro seized her. She fought back as best she could but the assailant finally knocked her down. She began to scream for help and the Negro ran away. Other than severe bruises of the body and lacerations around the head she suffered no injury. As a result of the attack Captain Charles A. Pinney has issued orders for all patrolmen to be on the alert for any suspicious characaters they may see on their beats tonight. Mrs. Higgins was greatly unnerved over the affair but her condition today was reported as greatly improved.

RUTBERG AND MILLER RESCUE DROWNING BOY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 22—Samuel Rutberg and Percy Miller, both of this city, saved the life of 14 year old Mareno Maretti yesterday afternoon when they pulled the lad from the waters of Shaw's cove after he had fallen overboard. Maretti in some unexplained manner had fallen into the icy waters and was almost drowned when the young son of Rutberg shouted that a boy was drowning in the creek. Rutberg secured a rope and rushed to the bank of the stream It was at this time that Miller arrived. The rope was thrown to the struggling youth and was seized by him. Within a few minutes, the rescuers were able to haul him to shore. Today he is suffering from no ill effects from his experience, according to reports of his physician.

Forty-two tables of bridge were in play at the annual card party of the Lucretia Shaw chapter, D. A. R., held yesterday afternoon in the Hotel Mohican. At the conclusion of the games a delicious supper was served.

The following directors were elected at the last meeting of the board of the Brainard and Armstrong Mutual Aid association: Mrs. Agnes Green, Mrs. Fanny Barnes, Ophelia LaRue and Mrs. Elsie Fredericks.

Members of St. Joseph's Women's club have postponed their bridge party, which was to have been held tomorrow night until later in January. Mrs Julia Lendegren is chairman of the committee arranging the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Pesses, who were married January 12, were tendered a reception Saturday at the home of Mrs. Pesses' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Zaist of Chesterfield. The evening was spent with games and music.

Mrs. Joseph Williams of Linden street was hostess last night to members of the Master Plumbers' association. After a short business meeting a necktie party was held, following which refreshments were served by Mrs. Williams.

WEDDING.

Evans-Costello.

Miss Teresa Costello, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Costello, of Terrace Boulevard, became the bride last night of Lawrence E. Evans of Covington, Kentucky. The ceremony was performed at the rectory of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church by Rev. Michael Reagan. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ruth Costello. Frank Carlilo was best man. The bride was attired in blue georgette with hat to match and her attendant's costume was of beige georgette. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. William V. Ryan of 25 Prospect street, sister of the bride. Mr. and Mrs Evans left last night for Covington, Ky., where they will make their home Mr Evans is a printer in Covington.

APPROPRIATION FOR C. G. ACADEMY PASSES HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 22—Citizens of New London are expressing great pleasure over the fact that the appropriation of $1,750,000 for the construction of a Coast Guard academy here has passed the house. They are anticipating a big boom when actual work on the proposed buildings begins. The bill has yet to pass the senate and receive the president's signature, however, before the dream becomes a reality.

Peter Mros was charged with breach of the peace and his case was continued to the 28th inst. Mros was arrested Sunday night by Patrolman Albert Iverson and Harry Watterson.

Arthur Hamilton, alias Piette, a Montville laborer, was charged technically with vagrancy, but he is lucky a much more serious offense was not alleged and one that would have carried with it a severe sentence if he had been convicted, and which would undoubtedly have been the case. Hamilton, who is but 27, was arrested Friday morning when found asleep in the hall of a State street business block. Later revelations showed that Hamilton was a confirmed degenerate, but because witnesses of his acts refused to testify in open court, the charge against him was nolled.

Joseph Boivin, a stranger, was charged with vagrancy, but the case was continued to the 28th inst. He was arrested on Water street Sunday.

A half dozen cases of intoxication were presented, but in every instance, excepting one, judgment was suspended. In that exception a fine of $5 and costs was imposed.

Two mechanics' liens were filed for record at the office of the city clerk today. One is made by Raymond C. B. Jenks in favor of John L. Aitchison and the other is given by Rosana M. Brockett in favor of the Thames Lumber company.

PHILADELPHIA DRIVER HURT AT TRAIL'S CORNER CURVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 22—Walter B. Clark of Oak Lane, Philadelphia, narrowly escaped serious injury this morning when the auto in which he was riding got out of his control at Trail's corner, left the highway and rolled over four times before it could be stopped. The only injury he received was a cut on the right leg and bruises to his face and head. He was traveling toward Boston when the accident occurred. He was driving a heavy sedan and while approaching a curve in the road he was unable to stop the machine and consequently it left the road. The machine was badly damaged.

At a meeting of members of the New London League of Women Voters, to be held at the Y. W. C. A. Friday night, State Commissioner A. B Meredith will be the principal speaker. He will speak on general problems of education.

At a meeting of officials and the board of directors of the Thames Towboat company, held yesterday afternoon, Lawrence A. Chappell was re-elected president. Other officers elected were: Vice president, Frank R. Chappell; secretary, Donald Chappell; treasurer Frank H. Chappell; assistant treasurer, Donald Chappell.

Coroner Edward G. McKay, of Norwich, in his finding in the case of Leno Bottinelli, 22, who ran down and killed Richard Beckwith, 59, of 216 Howard street shortly before Christmas frees Bottinelli of all blame for the fatality. Accordingly the charge of manslaughter against the accused is expected to be nolled.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Two features grace the screen at the Palace theatre for today and tonight only. "A Woman Against the World" is the first of the double program and it's cast includes such stars as: Harrison Ford, Georgia Hale, Sally Rand, Lee Moran and Gertrude Olmstead. The second feature shows us Champion, the now famous dog star in "The Silent Sentinel" and to those movie fans who crave something different for their screen diet, this one will be mighty welcome.

"The Silent Sentinel" is a melodrama of action and thrills that is just a little different than what one would expect. The high calibre of the cast which includes such well know artists as Gareth Hughes, Josephine Hill, Alfred Hewston, Edward Cecil and Aline Goodwin is a bit above the ordinary.

Spendid work is done by Harrison Ford as the condemned society man, and Georgia Hale as the perservering girl reporter. Others in this splendid cast include such well known screen players as Lee Moran, Gertrude Olmstead, William Tooker, Walter Hiers Ida Darling, Harvey Clark, Sally Rand Rosemary Theby, Charles Clary, Jim Farley and Wade Boteler.

Tomorrow, Friday and Saturday the Palace will again feature another great vaudeville bill which for the last half will bring five exceptional acts. "Suite 16" heads the bill and is an up-to-date bedroom, musical and dance farce and deals with newlyweds. You can draw your own conclusions as to the funny situations such a plot will unfold. Gordon and Healy together with the well known Flash Sisters are featured in the clever cast of this act. The comedy act will be Kenny & Tracy, better known as the Two Queens of Hokum and they combine beauty and grace with clever hokum comedy. "The Revue of Revues" is the dancing flash of this great vodvil bill and while it does not boast of quantity in the cast it can certainly boast of quality. Every artist in this cast is a fine performer

A. Baa Kou & Co. will open the show with a new and novel juggling act. Gordon & Fitzpatrick will hold down the duece spot in a song and comedy skit called "Two Royal Tailors."

The feature picture will be Marie Prevost and Ralph Graves in a drama of circus life under the Big Tops called "The Sideshow."

Breed Theatre.

Lloyd Hughes has played any number of screen characters during his role as a movie actor, but he had to play in a circus picture before he had opportunity to wear his most impressive cowboy's outfit.

The picture is First National's "Three Ring Marriage," which comes to the Breed theatre for three days starting Jan. 24, in which Hughes is featured opposite Mary Astor.

Although Lloyd's screen career has been unusually comprehensive, embracing almost every sort of role, he has never played in a "western" since he came into the limelight. In "Three Ring Marriage" however, he appears as a pistol expert and trick rider, and wears the costume of the "drugstore" cowboy, as synthetic riders of the range are known in Hollywood.

"Three Ring Marriage" was produced for First National Pictures by Henry Hobart and directed by Marshall Neilan. Alice White, Yola d'Avril, Lawford Davidson and others are in the supporting cast, plus all the performers, side show folks and other attaches of a big circus.

Broadway Theatre.

Today is your last opportunity to see and hear what record-breaking crowds are receiving with unstinted applause, Warner Bros.' laughing special, "The Home Towners," now playing at the Broadway theatre. This genial comedy is an adaptation of George M. Cohan's great stage success. The cast is brilliant, including Richard Bennett, Doris Kenyon, Robert McWade, Robert Edeson, Gladys Brockwell, John Miljan, Vera Lewis, Stanley Taylor, James T. Mack and Patricia Caron, Bryan Foy directed.

The screen adaptation, which retains all the clever twists and invigorating zest of the original, was done by Addison Burkhart and Murray Roth "The Home Towners" one of the most delightfully heart-warming plays of season.

Vitaphone is magnificent in registering all spoken words, sounds, and accompaniment.

Miss any other picture but not this one. It stands alone as a 100 per cent crookless, altogether charming, all-star gem of the motion picture art.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

SECOND FATALITY AS RESULT OF WASHINGTON STREET FIRE

The second fatality as a result of the early morning fire at No. 60 Washington street occurred Tuesday afternoon shortly before 3 o'clock when Mrs. Isabella Ittle Nowatzky, 73, widow of Ferdinand Nowatzky, died at the W. W. Backus hospital. Mr. Nowatzky died at the hospital about 12.30 o'clock Monday afternoon. The elderly couple were trapped in their room when the fire broke out at their residence about 3.30 o'clock Monday morning. Mrs. Nowatzky's condition was reportable as comfortable but Tuesday pneumonia set in.

Mrs. Nowatzky was born in Norwich, Jan. 1, 1856, and with the exception of a short time spent in New York, made her residence in this city all her life. She was united in marriage with Ferdinand Nowatzky on April 3, 1872, at the German Lutheran church, this city, the service being performed by Rev. Mr. Booth. Mr. and Mrs. Nowatzky at that time moved into a new cottage on Chestnut street where the Central Fire station now stands. For the past 19 years they had lived at No. 60 Washington street.

Mrs. Nowatzky is survived by a son, Frederick F. Nowatzky of this city, and two daughters, Mrs. John Fairman of Artic, R. I., and Mrs. Daniel Hallisey of No. 60 Washington street. She was a member of the old Second Congregational church, now the United Congregational church, and took an active interest in the affairs of the church. For some time she had assisted her husband at his store.

Mrs. Nowatzky was widely known in the city and was well liked by all with whom she came in contact, as she possessed a very pleasing personality. She was a loving wife and mother. Her wide circle of friends were deeply grieved to learn of her death and their sympathy is extended to the surviving members of the family.

Announcement was made Tuesday evening that arrangements are being completed for a double funeral. The service is to be conducted by Rev. Joseph F. Cobb, of South Windham, former pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, this city, and a close friend of Mr. and Mrs. Nowatzky

STARK AND LILLIBRIDGE NAMED COUNTY AUDITORS

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, Jan. 22—Representative J. Warren Stark, of Lyme, and W. Lillibridge, of Norwich, were named for county auditors today at a meeting of the county legislative members which was held immediately after adjournment of the house.

Following the customary proceeding, Representative Charles S. Avery, the oldest of the county legislators, called the meeting to order and on motion of Representative Thomas R. Ball, of Old Lyme, the meeting elected Senator Mason Manning as permanent chairman, but allowed Mr. Avery to continue in the chair because Senator Manning was absent through illness. Representative William Marvin, of Lyme, was made clerk and after the election of the two auditors named the meeting adjourned subject to the call of the permanent chairman.

The meeting of the Windham county legislators resulted in the nomination of Clinton E. Frink, of Canterbury, as county auditor and Bert J. Johnson, of Woodstock, for reappointment as county commissioner. Senator Walter C. Brown, of Ashford was named permanent chairman and Representative Arthur W. Williams, of Killingly, clerk. An appropriation of $95,000—$65,000 for the first year, $30,000 for the second—was voted.

GIRL WORKERS COUNCIL PLANS STUNT NIGHT

The monthly meeting of the Norwith council of Girls' Workers was held Monday evening at the woman's rooms at the Central Baptist church. Eleven churches were represented. Plans for the annual stunt night were completed. This event is to be held at the Community house the latter part of February or early in March.

The subject is to be an incident or incidents in the life of some great character. In order that there may be no duplication in the choice of characters each church is asked to notify the president, Mrs. Emery H. Davis, as soon as they select the characters they plan to portray.

The stunts will be judged on four points: 1, presentation; 2, time limit, ten minutes; 3, those participating in stunt between the ages of 12 and 21; 4, quality of content. Preceding the stunts each group of girls will respond with a song or a cheer.

After the business meeting of the council refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. E. H. Davis and Miss Ruth Hamilton.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MISS MILDRED LANGLAIS

The weekly meeting of the O. W. F. club Tuesday evening was in the nature of a farewell party for Miss Mildred Langlais, who is soon to enter the training school for nurses at the Lawrence Memorial hospital, New London. The meeting was held at Miss Langlais home, 22 Cliff street. The members present were Misses Stella and Anastasia Danilowicz, Doris Waters, Lucy Couture, Florence Taber, Bertha Ramsey, and Mildred Langlais. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Fred Langlais assisted by Miss Mack. The members extended best wishes to Miss Langlais for success in her chosen profession.

WHITAKER FAMILY TRAGEDY OCCURRED YEAR AGO TODAY

It is one year ago today (Wednesday), the 23rd, that Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Whitaker and their five children were drowned in the Shetucket river, when the automobile in which they were riding, plunged off Preston bridge, and into the river 30 feet below, after colliding with a motorcycle. The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker and three of their children were recovered that night, but it was not until many weeks afterwards that the bodies of the other two children were found. The motorcycle driver died from injuries received in the accident.

JUDGE GIVES MARIE BOYD "FRESH START"

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 22—Marie Boyd, 24, whose real name is said to be Marie Sorello, who recently completed a sentence in Wethersfield state prison on her conviction on a shoplifting charge from Norwich, Conn., was given a chance to get a "fresh start" by Judge William A. Burns, in superior criminal court here.

Last week in Boston she was readmitted to probation on shoplifting charges, because of her long term in Wethersfield. When arraigned here yesterday on similar charges, her case was placed on file on recommendation of District Attorney Charles B. Rugg. She was alleged to have taken goods from Worcester department stores.

NORWICH TOWN

CONG. CHURCH ACTIVITIES FOR SUNDAY AND THE WEEK

"The Major Element in Prayer," was the theme at the Sunday morning at the First Congregational church by the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey.

Announcement was made during the service, that the postponed meeting of the corporation is to be held Thursday following an introductory period of fellowship and prayer.

The Young People's C. E. society had for its leader Sunday evening, Burton Jopson. The topic of the meeting was, "Seeing the Good in Others."

When the Junior Intermediate C. E. society met at 3:30, in the chapel Sunday afternoon, the leader was Doris Seagrave. This was a picture meeting, illustrating the birth and early boyhood of Christ. Miss Sadie J. Dawson read a story to the children, "How the Sea Became Salt," a Norwegian story. Mrs. Ernest Washington, accompanied at the piano for the hymn sung.

The meeting Sunday afternoon, featured the first in the series in the attendance contest, which is to run for several weeks.

Boxes to Go South

The next meeting of the work committee of the League of Service, Mrs Herbert L. Yerrington chairman, is to be held Friday afternoon in the chapel. At this time boxes are to be packed to be sent to Frederick J. Werking, to be used in his school at Atlanta, Georgia. Those who contribute have been requested to have articles left at the chapel early Friday afternoon. All kinds of clothing for both summer and winter has been asked for. The women's societies of this church have for many years contributed clothing, etc., to Mr. Werking's school, which has always been gratefully acknowledged.

Owing to the illness of the scoutmaster, Rev. George Warren Potter, the meeting of the Boy Scouts connected with the Norwich Town Methodist church was in charge of Assistant Scoutmaster Ralph Smith. It was an excellent meeting and much work was accomplished. The meeting opened with assembly call on the bugle by the recently appointed bugler, Robert Ringland. Following the opening ceremony there was an interpatrol contest and a compass facing game. During the patrol meetings the patrol leaders helped their members to prepare for tests. Assistant coutmaster Smith led in a period of singing and the Scouts showed much improvement. The project for the next meeting is the making of patrol knot boards. Arthur Beeman passed his complete tenderfoot test. One boy was dropped from the troop because he had not passed the test in the required time. In the efficiency contest Clayton Rose still leads by 8 points, his score being 648, while Arthur Bennett is a close second, with a score of 640. Following the meeting Scouts Rose and Bennett passed the first aid and bandaging test. Donald Olsen passed the axe and knife test. Saturday afternoon Scouts Clayton Rose, Edward Smith, Donald Olsen, Wallace Wagner and Edward Eccleston passed the tracking Arrangements are practically completed for a whist and dance to be given under the auspices of the Children of Mary society of the Norwich Town Sacred Heart church. A meeting of the society was held Monday evening.

Fourth New House

The house built during this winter on the triangular lot on Town street, formerly the Johnson property, is nearly ready for occupancy. There are six good sized rooms, besides a sun parlor, bath, pantry and a large attic. On the first floor the living room covers the entire front of the main house which is 40 by 28 feet. There are oak floors in every room. The floor in the sun parlor is log cabin style, while the floor in the living rom is laid in such a manner it forms a complete diamond shaped center. All the woodwork doors, casings, etc., is done in Arkansas pine. The house has been equipped with steam heat, electricity, up-to-date bath, etc. The attractive fireplace in the living room is of cement bricks. The upper floor, has three fine sleeping rooms. The exterior of the house is receiving its second coat of white paint. Cement walks have been laid. When the grounds have been seeded down for a lawn the general effect will be most attractive, the whole being under the supervision of Edward Niedeman. This house, with those on the bank on what was more recently known as the Judson Miner property, marks the fourth dwelling erected on Town street in about a year.

STANLEY ADAMS BUGLER FOR SACRED HEART SCOUTS

The Boy Scouts of Sacred Heart church met in the basement of the church Friday evening from 7 until 9. Former Scoutmaster John Hill attended the meeting for a short time and demonstrated elementary first aid. Norman Bellevice was elected chairman of the knot-tying committee; Stanley Adams was chosen bugler of the troop; —Ed Connell and Charles Ryan were elected to represent their troop in offering their services to the Children of Mary, before and during the cards and dancing party at the Samuel Huntington school. The following tests were successfully taken: Jerome McGill passed Scout Oath and Law, Scout sign, Scout hand clasp and Scout salute. Walter Starbeck passed Scout oath, Scout sign and Scout hand clasp.

LINER AMERICA RESCUES THE CREW OF THE FLORIDA

Message Received by Radio at 9 O'clock Last Night Said the America Was Standing by the Disabled Italian Ship—U. S. Line: Later Announced That the Full Crew Had Been Taken Off and are Proceeding to New York on the America—Fate of Other Ships Unknown.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—(AP)—Capt. George Fried of the United States liner America again wrote his name into an epic of the sea tonight when he rescued 32 members of the crew of the disabled Italian freighter in a roaring westerly gale 700 miles off the Virginia Capes.

No details of what must have been a thrilling battle with the sea were given in the laconic message which the quiet mannered little man, who always seems to be around when there is heroic work to be done, sent to his line's offices here telling of the rescue.

"Rescued full crew Florida. Total 32. Chief Officer Harry Manning in charge. Whole westerly gale. Lifeboat lost. Proceeding. More details later," said his message

Old shipping men, reading those words "whole westerly gale," could visualize what must have been a terrific job. A "whole gale" means a 75 mile an hour wind, and mountainous seas which must have been tossing the little disabled freighter around like a cork. How Captain Fried maneuvered his great liner in those seas, lowered a lifeboat and got it safely alongside the Florida and then back safely to the America remains to be told.

Since Tuesday morning Captain Fried had been driving his big liner through a roaring gale and heavy seas toward the foundering Florida. Two other ships, much nearer, also had gone to the rescue but they gave up the search this morning and turned away. Captain Fried, with a direction finder in his radio equipment, had been able to follow the little 2,500 tons freighter as she drifted helplessly in front of the gale.

"Will reach Florida at 6 p. m.," he radioed this afternoon. Then at 6:20 he was heard asking the Florida if she could see his searchlight. Then only silence out over the North Atlantic until at 8 p. m. he reported "Alongside." An hour later, at 10:10 eastern standard time, to be exact, came his message saying all had been saved.

The fate of two other ships, the British freighter Tessbridge and the American tanker Dannedaike, still remains in doubt. The former has been given up for lost as rescue ships failed to find her in the position she broadcast Monday afternoon, but the Dannedaike is believed still afloat. She told the President Harrison, one of the vessels which searched unsuccessfully for the Florida, that she had set up a jury rig of sails and was attempting to make Bermuda. Although nothing further has been heard from her it is assumed she is making progress toward safety.

Captain Fried first wrote his name in heroic letters across the world's consciousness in January of 1926 when he turned his ship, at that time the President Roosevelt, to the aid of the sinking British liner Antinoe. For two days in snow and fog and cold, seas running high, he held his ship alongside the sinking vessel and finally rescued her crew. He lost two of his own crew in the rescue. He arrived in New York to find himself a world-wide hero. He was presented with the Navy Cross and lionized for days in New York and other cities.

TANKER DANNEDAIKE IS LIMPING TOWARD BERMUDA

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—(AP)—A cheerful message from the captain of the American tanker Dannedaike, to his line's owner, Charles Kruze & Co., of Philadelphia, tonight indicated that ship was out of danger and making progress toward Bermuda.

The message, which was received by the line's offices here, said:

"Now limping toward Bermuda. Score pretty near tied with Old Dave that time. Regards to all. (Signed) Nathiasen."

COASTGUARDSMEN ARE ON TRIAL FOR MANSLAUGHTER

ELMIRA, N. Y., Jan. 23—(AP)—Overalls and jackets made up the garb of Frank L. Beck and Glenn Jennings, coast guard boatswain and surfman, on trial on charges of manslaughter second degree, the night Jacob D. Hanson, secretary of the Niagara Falls lodge of Elks, was shot fatally while driving his automobile in the Tonawanda highway, Christ F. Dew, fellow coast guardsman, testified today.

Dew was on the stand when court adjourned for the day. The prosecution is expected to complete its direct testimony late tomorrow.

Dew, who was arrested following the wounding of Hanson, but not indicted by the Niagara county grand jury, testified he was patroling along the Lewiston Hill highway the night of May 6, when the shooting took place. He was with his fellow officers when they donned overalls and jackets instead of the regulation uniforms, he said. They wore regulation coastguard caps.

Hanson, the prosecution contends, subsequently was shot by the two coast guardsmen who were watching for smugglers near the Canadian line. Hanson was shot after he is said to have ignored an order to halt. He died three months later.

Coast guardsmen may use any force they deem necessary in enforcing the law, Dew testified.

A motion for dismissal of the indictment against Beck was overruled by Federal Judge John R. Hazel during the day.

A NEW TRIAL DENIED FREDERICK H. KNOWLTON

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 23—(AP)—Judge Wilford D. Gray, of Middlesex superior court today denied motions for a new trial in the case of Frederick H. Knowlton, Jr., of Framingham, convicted of murder in the first degree of Miss Marguerite L. Stewart, teacher in the Beverly school for the blind.

Judge Gray made no comment on the new evidence in support of motions for a new trial. The decision, sent by messenger read simply: "Motion denied."

The defense had produced evidence at a hearing on the motions purporting to show that on March 29, late the night of Miss Stewart's disappearance, Knowlton returned with her to Beverly after an automobile ride, and that after he had left her she was seen in the company of another man. The government had contended that Knowlton was with the girl overnight and murdered her on the following day.

TRIPPI CONVICTED OF FIRST DEGREE MURDER

BOSTON, Jan. 23—(AP)—Charles Trippi, Jr., of Fitchburg, was convicted by a jury in the Suffolk superior court today of murder in the first degree as a result of the fatal shooting of Frederick Pfluger, a turnkey at the state prison, last November. Pfluger was shot to death during an attempt by Trippi, who was serving a long sentence for robbery, to escape. Under the Massachusetts law the penalty for murder in the first degree is death in the electric chair.

The jury returned its verdict after deliberating for three hours.

INJUNCTION SUIT AGAINST WORCESTER POLICE DEPT.

BOSTON, Jan. 23—(AP)—Chief Thomas F. Foley and the entire Worcester police department were named as defendants in an injunction suit in the United States district court here today.

The suit was filed in behalf of Jacob Miller and Edward Holmes, proprietors of the New England Vending Machine company of Worcester. They alleged that the police illegally seized candy vending machines placed throughout Worcester by their company and asked the court to enjoin all the defendants from making further seizures.

TO WIPE OUT BANDS OF OUTLAWS IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 23—(AP)—Plans to wipe out bands of outlaws who have been marauding in northern Nicaragua, were in full swing today as word was received of the killing of three American marines in a clash northeast of Yali in the department of Jinotega on Monday.

First news of the clash was brought to Managua yesterday by a messenger who reported the death of one marine, Private Everett A. Rector, of Des Moines, Ia. Today additional advices showed that three marines of a patrol of seven of seven were killed in the clash with the outlaws. The two additional dead were Rastus Collins, of Lyons, Ga., and George T. Oswill, of Miami, Fla.

Word of the clash in the remote district has been most meagre, but it is believed that the marine patrol was ambushed by the outlaws who were hidden in the jungle. The advices indicated that the marines put up a stiff fight and eventually drove off the outlaws whose numbers were not determined. Before leaving the scene, the four surviving marines buried the dead and then rejoined a larger patrol some miles distant.

It has been the custom of airplanes to fly over the northern area daily in order to prevent the assemblage of any large number of outlaws. Small bands have been harassing coffee plantations in the northern area, but apparently each band is working separately.

The plans for an expedition to wipe out the remaining bands call for the formation of a combined force of marines the Nicaraguan national guard and volunteers.

6,000 WITNESSED LAUNCHING OF CRUISER SALT LAKE CITY

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 23—(AP)—Amid the shrieks of river craft whistles and the cheers of 6,000 persons, the 10,000 ton cruiser Salt Lake City was launched today from the yard of the New York Shipbuilding company.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, high officers of the navy, members of the Utah delegation in congress and invited guests from Utah witnessed the launching.

Miss Helen Budge, of Salt Lake City, was the sponsor for the ship. She was assisted by Miss Gally Rich, also of Utah, who was the maid of honor.

The Salt Lake City, one of the eight cruisers authorized by congress in 1924, is the first vessel of her type launched in this country under the terms of the Washington treaty signed at the limitation of armament conference in 1922.

The cruiser is 585 feet 6 inches in length, has a bredth of 65 feet 2 inches and will have a normal draft of 19 feet 6 1-2 inches. Her heaviest guns will be eight inch calibre. The ship is expected to be placed in commission before the end of the present year.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S NEWS IN WASHINGTON

The senate pasesd the deficiency supply bill with a provision for tax refund public hearings.

The $41,000,000 District of Columbia appropriation measure was passed by the house.

The cruiser construction bill was made the order of business by the senate.

The house ways and means committee completed its hearings on the tariff revision of the tobacco schedule.

The second national conference on merchant marine opened to study the problems of American shipping.

House members were divided on the advisability of the $24,000,000 increase for prohibition enforcement, voted by the senate.

Senator Norris of Nebraska protested against the senate's secret sessions on the confirmation of Secretary West of the interior.

The senate interstate commerce committee was asked to place the bill to regulate the bituminous coal industry before the proposed special session.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

WARSAW, Jan. 23—(AP)—The Polish diet has ratified the extradition treaty with the United States which was signed in November, 1927.

HAVANA, Jan. 23—(AP)—President Machado soon will receive the findings of U. S. Judge E. F. Hale, of Portland, Me., arbitrator in the suit for $250,000 and return of lands valued at $500,000 brought against the Cuban government by Capt. Walter Fletcher Smith, American resident of Havana.

PARIS, Jan. 23—(AP)—Arrival here yesterday of the Japanese members of the new committee on reparations revived speculation concerning organization of the commission. There was general opinion in governmental and financial circles that Owen D. Young, of the United States, would be named president of that body.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 23—(AP)—The old Swedish community of Gammelsvenskxy in southern Russia has petitioned the soviet government for permission to move bodily to Sweden and the request is said to be favorably regarded by the Russian authorities. Pastor Hoas, minister of Gammelsvenskxy, is in Stockholm to plan for the transfer of the 500 inhabitants.

THREE PERSONS KILLED IN WRECK ON NEW HAVEN ROAD

TORRINGTON, Conn., Jan. 23—(AP)—A two coach train from Waterbury to Winsted over the western division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, was wrecked this morning six miles south of here, when, apparently, the engine failed to take a curve. Three persons were killed and six hurt, one seriously, when one coach was piled up on the engine which had been thrown against the foot of a hill which rises abruptly there. The other coach, a combination one, remained upright.

The wreck was near Castle's Bridge, newly built by the state to carry the highway over the railroad tracks and to straighten out bad curves. A curve, however, remained on the railroad right of way which closely parallels the highway. Railroad men, unable to find any specific cause for derailment, held an opinion that the train was running too fast to make the curve.

The dead—Engineer Wilson Burns, Bridgeport; Fireman P. W. Shortell, Bridgeport; John H. Geddes, Waterbury, a passenger. Geddes is a brother of High Sheriff Geddes of New Haven county.

The injured were taken to Charlotte Hungerford hospital here.

The injured—Frederick Boice, 34, Newark, N. J.; the Rev. David Overton, pastor of the African Zionist church, Torrington; Mrs. Anna Wood, No. 100 White street, West Haven, Conn., Edwin McQueen, No. 1440 Broadway, New York city, employed by Alvey-Ferguson Company, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio; Scott Way, aged about 17, Thomaston; Joseph Magdicz, about 18, Thomaston. Mrs. Wood and Mr. McQueen were taken to a Waterbury hospital.

Engineer Wilson J. Burns, who was killed, stood number one on the division roster with service at the throttle since 1882, and just fifty years with the company. It took an hour to get his body from the wreckage. His record was clear with the company although about twenty years ago his train was struck and his fireman killed just outside of Waterbury. He was hurt at the time. W. J. Rock, Bridgeport, conductor, had run with Burns many years, and he said as he assisted in extricating the body that his engineer was in fine spirits as they left Bridgeport together to take the train out of Waterbury.

Wrecked required most of the day to clear the track and to take out the body of Fireman Peter J. Shortell, of Bridgeport, who was making the run for another man who was ill.

HOOVER SIZING UP REP. PARTY IN THE SOUTH

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 23—(AP)—President-elect Hoover had scarcely gotten settled for his southern vacation today before he began inquiring into future prospects of the republican party in the south.

Stuart W. Cramer of Charlotte, N. C., wealthy textile manufacturer and republican leader, told him the outlook in North Carolina bore promise as the republicans had made substantial gains in the election of members of the state legislature and county officers, winning a third of the seats in the former and 40 per cent of the latter, while the 63,000 majority for Hoover was far greater than expected.

"That forms the nucleus of an organization upon which to work," Mr. Cramer said after he had been a luncheon guest of the president-elect.

Early tomorrow, the next chief executive will discuss the situation in Mexico with Dwight W. Morrow, United States ambassador to Mexico City. While Mr. Morrow has been urged for appointment to the post of secretary of state it is understood that both he and Mr. Hoover regard his work in the southern republic as still in the uncompleted state.

The president-elect will begin a three day's fishing excursion tomorrow, proceeding southward for 30 miles to angle in Fish Creek in the Miami Keys. He also probably will go out into the Gulf stream where the big fish run.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD IS READY TO RESUME VOYAGE

NASSAU, Bahama Islands, Jan. 23—(AP)—Passengers of the steamer President Garfield who have been quartered at the New Colonial hotel here, since being rescued from their stranded vessel, were told by the steamship company this afternoon that the ship had been refloated and would arrive here tomorrow morning, ready to proceed on her voyage.

SEVENTH CHARGE AGAINST GOV JOHNSTON OF OKLA.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 23—(AP)—The seventh of ten articles of impeachment pending against Henry S. Johnston, suspended governor, was voted late today by the Oklahoma house of representatives. It charged that he unlawfully called out the national guard in 1927 to suppress an attempted impeachment session of the legislature.

AIRPLANE PASSENGER WAS BURNED TO DEATH

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 23—(AP)—Philip Gluckman, 24, of New York, a passenger, was burned to death and James Harp, 25, of Jacksonville, an unlicensed pilot, was seriously injured late today when their airplane crashed at the Municipal airport and burst into flames.

Cold Wave Reported Moving Eastward

January Thus Far Has Been One of the Coldest Months in Many Years in Chicago—No Relief In Sight.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23—(AP)—The midwest slipped about its work today, assured of several more days of near zero weather.

The cold wave, moving eastward from the Rocky Mountain region, blanketed the Missouri and middle and upper Mississippi valleys, turning the surface of the earth into a treacherous sheet of ice.

Zero readings were reported as far south as northern Missouri and in Minnesota and North Dakota the mercury dropped as far as 28 below. The weather bureau reported the storm in upper Michigan moving northeastward through the St. Lawrence valley.

January thus far has been one of the coldest months in many years here. The average temperature for the first 23 days was six degrees below the normal 24.

Minnesota, with highways blocked and trains and motor busses delayed, reported one death due to the storm. A woman, blinded by snow, stepped in front of an automobile.

Lincoln and southeastern Nebraska experienced the coldest weather of the winter. The temperature dropped to zero shortly after midnight.

OFFICERS OF GRANITE QUARRIES ASSOCIATION

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 23—(AP)—H. H. Sherman, Boston, secretary of the National Building Granite Quarries association reported to the closing session of the two day convention of that organization today that popularity of granite as a building material is rapidly increasing.

"The industry is coming to a point where increased production and decreased costs are possible through improvements in mechanical processes of production," he said. "Some years ago the use of granite as a building material fell off, but in the last three years it has grown from a low base course to the fifth or sixth story of the modern skyscraper.

Guy A. Swenson, Concord, N. H., was re-elected president; J. D. Sargent, Mt. Airy, N. C., vice president; M. L. Dutton, Framingham, Mass., treasurer; H. H. Sherman, Boston, secretary. Directors chosen were: George A. Bailey, Mount Airy, N. C.; James Booth, New London, Conn.; F. I. Hardy, Burlington, Vt.; F. A. Emery, North Jay, Me.; C. Harry Rogers, Rockport, Mass.; Isaac Smith, Westerly, R.I.; Omar S. Swenson, Concord, N. H., and F. A. Eastman, Barre, Vt.

TO MAKE SURVEY OF CHICAGO POLICE DEPT.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23—(AP)—On the heels of his gigantic job of running thousands of the city's hoodlum element through a close meshed legal sieve, Commissioner of Police William F. Russell took another important step toward ridding Chicago of crime today.

He asked four prominent citizens to make a survey of the police department with a view toward reorganization and improvement.

It was believed those to whom he addressed his appeal, President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university, Acting President Frederic C. Woodward of the University of Chicago, Frank J. Loesch, head of the Chicago crime commission and guiding genius of a series of clean-up grand juries, and Andrew A. Bruce, president of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology, would accept.

The commissioner called attention, among other things, to the great need of more policemen in Chicago.

Russell said "certain racial and transportation conditions peculiar to Chicago," made necessary a higher ratio of policemen to population than is required by the average American city.

Mr. Bruce, is a professor of law at Northwestern university.

UNEMPLOYED MARCHING FROM GLASGOW TO LONDON

LONDON, Jan. 23—(AP)—Unemployed men, divided into companies equipped with knapsacks, field kitchens and ambulances, today began a march from Glasgow to London to demand repeal of the unemployment act passed by parliament last year. This act, by tightening the regulations for giving the unemployment dole, reduced those entitled to this aid by about 30,000.

Communist speakers addressed the marchers as they started out on their journey which is expected to occupy five weeks. Despite the bitter cold the demonstrators were cheerful as they began their hike. They previously had been employed in the steel, shipping, jute and mining industries.

The workless, with the general election looming in the near future, evidently believe the time propitious for bringing pressure to bear upon the government. The government already has offered to give a pound for every pound of public contributions to the national relief fund for idle miners. Britain now has an unemployment register of nearly a million and one-half.

$25,000 FIRE IN SHIPPING DISTRICT OF PAWTUCKET

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Jan. 23—(AP)—Fire today in the downtown shopping district destroyed a large quantity of goods in the storehouse of the David Harley department store and damaged the interior of the building. The loss was estimated at about $25,000.

OBITUARY

William S. Rossiter

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 23—(AP)—William S. Rossiter, president of the Rumford Printing Co. and a prominent figure in the printing and publishing industry, died late today at his home here. Death was attributed to a heart attack which he suffered last week. He was in his 68th year.

He was author of "The Population Problem of Vermont" and "A Century of Population Growth in the United States." He contributed to several magazines.

Mr. Rossiter was a native of Westfield, Mass. He leaves a widow, who was Nellie C. Budd, of New York, and a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Nugent Troxell, of this city.

Eastern Conn. Bills In General Assembly

Bill A[illegible]g Norwich Zon[illegible] and Bill for Re[illegible]g Bond Issues Pre[illegible]ed in House.

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, Jan. 23—A bill amending the Norwich zoning act so as to put teeth into decisions of the zoning board was presented in the house today and took the usual course of reference to committee. The amendment authorizes the zoning board to institute legal action to enforce its decisions in cases where no appeal has been taken. The amendment makes other changes in the zoning act pertaining to the fee to be paid by providing that a fee of 50 cents per thousand of estimated valuation shall be charged, but that no fee shall be less than $1 or more than $50. At present there is a flat rate fee of $1. The amendment also provides that building permits, under the zoning act shall be issued through the selectman's office instead of the town clerk as at present.

Refunding Norwich Bonds.

Bill for refunding several bond issues of the city of Norwich were also introduced, each applying to issues running from April 2, 1906 to April 2, 1931. These included Fairview extension bonds of $65,000, court house refunding bonds of $140,000 and gas and electric plant and plant improvement bonds of $250,000. In each case the bill provides that the refunding issue shall be for a term of 25 years, with interest at 5 per cent., the bonds to be paid off in equal annual installments beginning two years from date of issue. These were introduced by Representative Charles S. Avery of Norwich.

Revising Norwich City Charter.

The bill for the revision and codification of the charter of the city of Norwich was also presented, having attached to it the revised charter as drawn up by the charter revision commission.

Representative Hiram W. Schriver of Groton presented a bill for a racing commission in New London county. The text of the bill is to be presented later.

Among judgship nominations made were the following: William H. Heald, judge and Ernest K. Taft, deputy judge, Stafford Springs borough court; John T. Barry, judge, James H. Shea, deputy judge, town court of Griswold; Frank H. Foss, judge, Russell A. Andrews, deputy judge, police court of Willimantic; Stanley Morgan, judge, Frederick Schofield, deputy judge, town court of Waterford.

Bills were introduced to pay Elizabeth Sutton, assistant cook at Willimantic Normal school, the sum of $43.70 injuries received, the sum of $29.31 to Jordan Hardware company of Willimantic for material supplied for the normal school dormitory and appropriating $20,000 to St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic.

Under suspension of the rules a house joint resolution re-appointing Bert J. Johnson of Woodstock a county commissioner for Windham county was passed.

Representative Schriver of Groton introduced a bill providing for one tax collector for that town to hold office for five years.

Representative Beckwith of East Lyme presented, by request, a bill revising fees to be collected by the superintendent of state police for inspection of moving picture apparatus.

A bill was introduced in the senate by Senator Fournier to restore forfeited rights to Alfried J. Lariviere of Willimantic.

The house adjourned at 11:54 and the senate at 11:50, each to meet again tomorrow at 11:15. There will be no Friday session this week, but one can be expected next week, which will be Feb. 1, the limit day for introducing new business.

BIRTH CONTROL BILL INTRODUCED IN SENATE

STATE CAPITOL, Hartford, Jan. 23—(AP)—A bill offered in the state senate today by Senator Christ, of New Britain, by request, is understood to be indicative of the effort the Birth Con-

CASE OUTCOME OF TRIAL OF EVANGELIST M'PHERSON

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23—(AP)—The kidnaping story of Aimee Semple McPherson, dragged in and out of the courts a half dozen times since that sensational tale more than two years ago, was back in the legal limelight today. This time a legislative body was considering the impeachment of a judge who admitted he received a "fee" from the Los Angeles evangelist.

The latest twist in the evangelist's legal encounters came today when a committee appointed by the state legislature to investigate the receipt of a $2,500 check from Mrs. McPherson by Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy, of Los Angeles, subpoenaed the two to apnear before it here on Saturday.

Both said they would obey the committee's demands.

DEFICIENCY CAUSED BY UNEMPLOYMENT AND FLU

HARTFORD, Jan. 23—(AP)—Unemployment and influenza have combined to make necessary a deficiency appropriation of $101,145 for the state agencies and institutions, Agent Raymond F. Gates asserted at a hearing of the appropriations committee today. He requested $75,000 for benefits to widows with minor children, $14,470 for expenses arising from deportations, transfers and investigations, and $11,675 for payments to towns.

Declarations of many private charities that they would not aid the unemployed, was cited by Mr. Gates as an additional factor in causing the deficiency appropriation request. Because of the prevalent disease and unemployment, expenditures of the department will probably increase for at least a period of three months, he estimated.

20 PASSENEGRS BELIEVED DEAD FROM BOILER EXPLOSION

BOGOTA, Colombia, Jan. 23—(AP)—Twenty passengers are believed to have perished in the destruction of the Magdalena river boat "Social" which followed a boiler explosion. The bodies recovered were badly burned. Some persons were rescued and taken to Baranquilla.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS

An entire family was sentenced to five years in the Missouri penitentiary for chicken theft at Lamar, Mo.

The nomination of J. Reuben Clark, of Utah, to be under secretary of state, was confirmed yesterday by the senate.

Clark Hull, former head of the Hull Hardware company of Danbury, died at his home there after a brief illness of pneumonia.

Fire did an aggregate damage of about $26,000 in the two story building of the Winsted Printing & Engraving company in Winsted.

OPPOSITION IN HOUSE TO $24,000,000 FOR "DRY" LAW

Representatives Wood and Cramton, Both Republican Members of the Appropriations Committee, Flatly Oppose the Increase—Wood Will be in Charge of the Bill When It is Returned to the House—Representative Garrett, Minority Leader, Favors the Increase, so That Complaint Could Not be Made That Non-Enforcement Was Due to Lack of Funds.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—(AP)—While the senate struggled today with other provisions of the deficiency appropriation bill, house members voiced varying opinions on the $24,000,000 added to the measure for use by the president in prohibition enforcement.

Until the bill finally is acted upon by the senate, the dry law enforcement proposal officially will not come before the house for consideration but a number of members indicated the position they expected to take upon the question.

Although the republican leader, Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, declined to make any comment other than that he "supposed the house would vote on it," others were more outspoken. Representatives Wood, of Indiana, and Cramton, of Michigan, both republican members of the appropriations committee, flatly opposed it. Wood will be in charge of the bill when it is returned to the house.

Among the house democrats, Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, the minority leader as well as others expressed approval of the increase on the ground that if the money were available for enforcement, the department could not complain that it could not enforce the law because of lack of funds.

The deficiency bill was drafted by the house appropriations committee and as reported by that body and subsequently approved by the house, carried no funds for prohibition. The allotment for dry law enforcement is carried annually in the treasury-post office supply bill and that measure, already enacted into law, provided $13,500,000 for the prohibition unit for the next fiscal year.

Today, Rep. Byrns of Tennessee, ranking democrat on the appropriations committee, disagreed with the views of Wood and Cramton. The Tennessean said testimony before the committee had been that there was a lack of money to enforce prohibition and he felt the $24,000,000 item should be approved by the house.

If the house should refuse to approve the expenditure or should recommend a smaller amount, Wood, Cramton and Byrns probably would be the members of the house committee to confer with the senate in an attempt to compose differences.

Cramton said today he felt the appropriation should be made only after the treasury department had mapped out a program for its expenditure, and called attention to Secretary Mellon's view that the $13,500,000 already provided was all the department could put to beneficial use at this time.

"Mr. Hoover will have to spend most of this money, anyway," Cramton said, "and it seems to me that we should wait a while and see what he thinks about it."

At the same time, Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, a wet, declared in the house that the amendment was "the first step toward an annual expenditure of about $250,000,000 and an expenditure of over $1,000,000,000 before the American people will be convinced that the prohibition law cannot be enforced."

"In the meantime," he said, "friends of prohibition cannot escape the responsibiloty of accepting appropriations and making an honest attempt to enforce the law."

LaGuardia declared that Secretary Mellon "either seeks to avoid responsibility or else had not the courage to frankly state to the American people his conclusions after ten years of prohibition."

While these views were expressed in the house, the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist church issued a statement declaring there was only an apparent and no real difference of opinion among prohibition advocates regarding the proposal. Recently the board had said that while it was urgently in favor of enforcing the law, it appeared that all of the money could not be wisely used at the present time.

The opinion and policy of all temperance organizations at this time, it was to "put entire confidence in Mr. Hoover, a prohibitionist elected by the prohibitionists of the country." It also suggested that a provision for specific purposes was desirable but voiced the belief that such requirements would hardly aggregate the total provided until based upon a thorough understanding of the needs of the various agencies being used by the government in enforcement.

In Chicago, F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, announced he "heartily" approved of the amendment.

Would Padlock Homes

In the house, Representative Sproul, republican, Kansas, in answering the suggestions of LaGuardia, declared that his program of law enforcement included establishment of more courts, stricter punishment of liquor law violators, and a padlock on every home where a bottle of liquor was found. He argued his plan of spending money on more courts and padlocks would be cheaper than LaGuardia's proposal.

SENATE VOTES HEARINGS ON TAX REFUND CASES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—(AP)—Public hearings by a committee of the treasury department on tax refund cases involving more than $10,000 was voted today by the senate as a provision to the first deficiency supply bill which carries $75,000,000 for the refund of taxes.

The senate then approved the deficiency measure which in addition to the money for tax refunds carries a $24,000,000 appropriation for the enforcement of prohibition. This money would be expended as the president might see fit.

The house already has passed the supply bill but since it has had no opportunity to consider the prohibition increase, the tax refund provision and other revisions, the bill now goes to conference, for an adjustment of the differences.

The decision to make the larger tax refund cases open to the public was a compromise on a proposal by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, to turn over the refund cases to the board of tax appeals.

This suggestion was opposed strenuously by Secretary Mellon and by numerous senators during the debate and Senator McKellar finally adjusted his amendment to provide for public hearings by a treasury committee. The provision would require that the decision of the treasury committee be printed as a public document.

The total amount of the deficiency bill as it passed the senate was $126,178,112 in comparison with $84,120,030 as approved by the house.

BELIEVES $24,000,000 WOULD DISORGANIZE THE SERVICE

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 23—(AP)—Dr. James M. Doran, national prohibition commissioner, believes the proposed $24,000,000 appropriation for prohibition enforcement would disorganize the process of placing the personnel of his department on a higher plane, under civil service.

Dr. Doran, who came here to address a state law enforcement conference called by Gov. Christiansen, said today the appropriation would more than double his present field force "but would thoroughly disorganize the work of placink the department under civil service."

"It would be impossible for the civil service commission to furnish even a list of sufficient eligibles, so that we would have to go back to the old system of appointing agents," he said.

"A sensible solution of the situation would be to provide funds as they are shown to be needed after a thorough study of the enforcement problem."

MRS. WILSON TESTIFIES IN HER OWN DEFENSE

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—(AP)—Mrs. Esther Wilson, jungle huntress and Washington society woman, testified in her own defense today that she had no recollection of shooting her husband, Dallett Wilson, Fifth avenue lawyer and politician, last March.

"Didn't you admit to a patrolman," the prosecutor asked, "that you shot your husband?"

A policeman testified yesterday that when he was called to the Wilson offices after the shooting Wilson told him he had been shot by his wife and Mrs. Wilson admitted the shooting.

"I suddenly realized," Mrs. Wilson answered the prosecutor, "that I must have done something and I guess I told the policeman I had shot my husband."

Wilson, who was wounded twice and spent two months in a hospital testified as a state's witness that he believed Mrs. Wilson had shot him by accident.

"I sat down across from him at his desk" Mrs. Wilson testified in relating her actions at the time of the shooting. "He was very rude to me. I told him I wanted to have a definite understanding about money matters and he was perfectly dreadful. I never saw him so angry in my life. Three or four times he tried to put me out of the office. The minute Mr. Wagman (a lawyer employed by Wilson) went out of the office Mr. Wilson made a jump at me, put his hands up as though to grasp my neck, and cursed me, saying '—— you, you're killing Miss Rice."

There was no explanation of the identity of "Miss Rice" and at this point in her testimony Mrs. Wilson began to laugh hysterically.

"I don't remember shooting him," she concluded her account, laughing and then suddenly bursting into tears.

FIVE CENT CIGAR FIGURES IN THE TARIFF HEARING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—(AP)—With most of the argument centering around the future of the five cent cigar, pleas for both increases and decreases in the import duty of $2.10 a pound on Sumatra wrapper tobacco were heard today by the house ways and means committee considering tariff revision.

Manufacturers of the cheap cigar sought a reduction in the duty to $1.50 a pound, contending the imported wrapper had a superior flavor over that grown in Florida and other sections of the country in the manufacture of the five-centers. They were joined by growers of filler tobacco in Wisconsin, whose representatives argued a lower tariff would permit an increase in the manufacture of the cheap cigar and consequently boost the demand for filler.

Producers of stalk tobacco in Connecticut also supported the request for a reduction, declaring they had lost money under the existing rate.

Opposing the reduction and seeking an increase to $4.62 a pound, shade-grown tobacco producers of New England argued that their industry was in a deplorable state and that the higher duty was needed to meet higher production cost.

LONDON, Jan. 23—(AP)—Continued improvement in the health of King George today led court officials to begin planning the regular levees and other functions of the season. It was stated that the Prince of Wales would preside at the first levee which would be held at St. James palace on February 26. The prince returned to London tonight and dined with Queen Mary.

The king's physicians had their usual consultation this evening but gave out no medical bulletin and it was hinted that the next official pronouncement would not be issued until Friday.

TRUE BILL OF MURDER RETURNED AGAINST MAZZOLA

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 23—A Windham county grand jury returned a true bill of murder in the first degree against Thomas Mazzola, suspect in the slaying of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Rosaria Lorella, on the morning of Thursday, January 3, at a session held in this city today.

Immediately following the return of the true bill, Mazzola, who had been present at the grand jury hearing, was taken before Judge Newell B. Jennings. The indictment, alleging murder in the first degree by strangulation was read by Clerk of the Court Curtis Dean. Mazzola was then put to plea. He pleaded not guilty on advice of Attorney Samuel B. Harvey, one of his counsel, and elected to be tried by a jury.

Case to Be Tried in April.

The case will not be heard until the April criminal term of the Windham county superior court, a consultation between State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford, Attorney Harvey and Judge Jennings indicating that neither side was ready to proceed with the case during the present term. Judge Jennings then ordered court to stand adjourned without date, and remanded Mazzola into custody without bail. The accused will remain at the county jail in Brooklyn until the trial.

Mazzola appeared tired and somewhat confused as he was escorted into the court room to hear the indictment and to be put to plea. His wife and daughter Mary were present and both sobbed hysterically as they clung to the man while he was being taken to an ante-room just prior to returning to the jail. Mazzola was in custody of Jailer Walter Tripp and Deputy Sheriff Ernest Holland.

The grand jury was assembled in the superior court chamber at 10.30 o'clock and following roll call retired to the common council room on the same floor of the town building to enter into the deliberation of the case. The charge read to the grand jury by Judge Jennings was considered by court attaches to be the briefest and yet one of the most concise ever given, embodying all of the necessary instructions and yet being but approximately one-sixth of the length of the usual charge.

The list of jurors and their occupations follows:

Bert H. Gardener, Ashford, farmer; Oscar F. Atwood, Brooklyn, town clerk; Wilson P. Herr, Canterbury, farmer; Andrew T. J. Clarke, Canterbury, farmer and state senator; George A. Reed, Chaplin, retired; Archie S. Walker, Eastford, merchant; Clinton A. Oliver, Hampton, poultry farmer; Andrew E. Meech, Killingly, merchant; Bradford W. Danielson, Plainfield, attorney; Charles E. Griggs, Pomfret, farmer; Samuel Rich, Putnam, retired; Peter A. Gardner, Putnam, merchant; Clarence H. Perry, Scotland, builder; Irving E. Frink, Sterling, mechanic; Frank M. Knight, Thompson, retired; Edward J. Ottenheimer, Windham, physician; Byron W. Bates, Woodstock, farmer; Bert J. Johnson, Woodstock, farmer.

The jury concluded its deliberations at 4.46 o'clock and returned to the court room, Attorney Bradford W. Danielson of Plainfield as foreman of the jury announced that a true bill had been rendered. Following the hearing of the testimony of nearly a score of witnesses the jury deliberated for about one half hour. The first ballot, which was informal, showed that 15 of the 18 jurors were in favor of indictment. Two were opposed and one was blank. On a second ballot a true bill was rendered unanimously.

Many Witnesses Testify.

Witnesses who had been summoned to testify before the grand jury included: Mrs. Angelina Mazzola, wife of the accused; their daughter, Miss Mary Mazzola; Dr. Charles A. Jenkins, who was called to the Mazzola home to attend the woman prior to the arrival of the medical examiner; Officer Roderick Lariviere; Dr. Louis I. Mason, medical examiner who performed the autopsy, assisted by Dr. Arthur J. Wolff of Hartford; Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson; Mrs. Anna Vaillant of 19 Arnold's lane, neighbor of the Mazzola family; John Sullivan of 90 South street, foreman of the New Haven railroad section gang of which Mazzola was a member; Photographer William P. Dinneen; John Nasin, Sr., of North Windham road; Joseph Piscetelo of 528 Jackson street, city sewer department employe; Clarence Goss of 49 Brick Row, student at Windham high school; Mrs. Libera Benvenuto of 1197 West Main street; Manuel Russo, young son of Frank Russo of 40 Brick street, who is now in Italy to be married; Officer Arthur Hurley, investigating the case in conjunction with County Detective William E. Jackson; William Mathieu of Columbia, a milk dealer; Joseph Riquier of 24 Taylor's court and James Mazzola, a relative of the man. County Detective William E. Jackson and Dr. Wolff of Hartford were unable to testify owing to illness with the grip.

The testimony of several of the witnesses today was in relation to the time Mazzola was seen in various localities on the morning of the murder. While the state will continue until the time of the trial to build up its case of what has thus far proven to be circumstantial evidence, the defense is expected to inject into the trial a strong element of doubt by casting suspicion to a party not considered in the investigation as yet and presenting a most perfected sequence of Mazzola's doings on the morning that the man's mother-in-law was strangled to death in his (Mazzola's) home.

TWO CASES BEFORE SUPERIOR COURT DISPOSED OF

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 23—A reopening of the January criminal term of the Windham county superior court, adjourned from Putnam last week, was held here today to select a grand jury in the Lorella murder case and to hear two cases on the criminal docket. These cases were not heard, however, one being settled and the other continued until the April term of court. In the first case, an appeal from lower court, Miss Ilena M. Nickerson of 163 Huntington avenue, Boston, Mass., was charged with violating the Connecticut motor vehicle laws. She was arrested here September 18, last, by Officer Albert Montie when detected driving a car with a state of Maine registration on a Massachusetts operator's license. The accused pleaded nolo contendre in lower court on September 15 and Judge Frank H. Foss imposed a fine of $25 and costs, amounting to $41.15 from which Miss Nickerson appealed. Peter Teschan, local merchant, furnished bonds of $500. After several conferences between the attorneys, the case was nolled on payment of the fine and costs, amounting to $51.50.

The second case was an appeal from the local police court of a commitment of the four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fluhacher, Jr., to a proper home for care. The case has been pending in court circles for several months. The court had ordered the child provided with a home by the Welfare bureau and the mother consented to this decision but later appealed to the superior court. The boy has been in the care of his mother since the appeal.

Excellent reports of the church work for the past year were submitted at the fourth quarterly conference of the local Methodist Episcopal church held in the vestry Tuesday evening with District Superintendent Rev. Myron E. Genter of Norwich presiding. Reports were given by the pastor, Rev. Harold H. Critchlow, the church treasurer and heads of the several societies. The celebration of the church centennial proved a boon to the enthusiasm of the members.

GRAY FOXES OUTNUMBER RED ONES THIS SEASON

Thomas Colburn, veteran fox hunter, with his new fox hound shot two foxes the past week. Mr. Colburn says gray foxes predominate this season. While the fur of the gray fox is beautiful it is worth only about one-fourth the value of the red fox.

Rev. Harry Small, the new pastor of both the Westminster and Canterbury Green Congregational churches, and Mrs. Small, made a round of calls in Westminster Monday. Both Rev. and Mrs. Small are popular with the congregations, having a perfect understanding of the spiritual needs of the rural population, to whom they have already endeared themselves. They are meeting with a warm response in their efforts to bring the people to the churches.

The death of Dr. Elsher Bennett at his home in Plainfield, Sunday evening, after a lingering illness marks the passing of another of Canterbury's sons. Until a few years ago, when Dr. Bennett retired from active farming, to devote his entire time to his profession as a veterinarian, he lived on the ancestral farm in Westminster. He served several terms as selectman and representative from his home town. Dr. Bennett leaves, besides a son, Arthur Bennett, and two grandchildren, of Canterbury, several sisters and brothers, a large number of other relatives and a host of friends.

Mrs. George Bayles, well known in Westminster, is rapidly recovering in a hospital in Charlotte, North Carolina, after a major operation.

The Westminster school resumed sessions Monday morning after a recess of a week due to the illness of the teacher, Mrs. Happy Tracy.

Albert Pellett has been ill for several days.

Grip colds are prevalent up this way.

Oliver Downes, who collects eggs around this section, has been ill with influenza at his home in Danielson nearly two weeks. No cases are reported in this vicinity.

OCCUM & VERSAILLES

FIRE-FIGHTERS HOSTS TO FAMILIES AND FRIENDS

Members of the Totokett Hose company held an open meeting and social in Occum hall Saturday evening, entertaining the members of their families and the friends of the unmarried members of the club. The evening's programme was thoroughly enjoyed by those in attendance, the success of the evening being due to the committee in charge, M. B. Lafrentere, T. M. Robinson, A. R. Filligar, I. Gregory, R. C. Bateson.

Dancing was a feature of the evening, music being furnished by the Raymond orchestra of five pieces. Gustave Calkowsky prompted in his usual pleasing manner. A lunch of sandwiches, doughnuts, cheese and coffee was served.

DANIELSON

N. H. ROAD ASSURES CHAMBER OF BETTER TRAIN SERVICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 23—Attorney H. E. Back, who has been acting as secretary of the grievance committee of the chamber of commerce, has received assurance that the N. Y., N. H., and H. R. R. company will endeavor to eliminate as much delay as possible in the arrival here of the morning boat train. This assurance comes from R. E Bridgett, chief clerk of the railway mail service in Boston and from E. R. Dodge, assistant general baggage, mail and express agent for the New Haven road.

There has been protest after protest over the late arrival of the morning boat train, carrying the principal mail that Danielson receives every day. Mr. Bridgett has written to Attorney Back telling him that a short time ago, upon receipt of a letter from Postmaster E. H. Keach, the matter was taken up with an official of the railroad and assurance given that the matter would be thoroughly investigated and everything possible done to operate the train as closely to schedule as possible. Mr. Bridgett also wrote that an examination of the records shows that on several days since Jan. 1, this train has run well behind its authorized schedule and that the late running of this train has not only inconvenienced the patrons of the Danielson postoffice, but also offices in Plainfield, Moosup, Putnam and Webster.

Mr. Bridgett's efforts for better service by the boat train brought from the railroad to him a communication in which it is set forth that the matter has been taken up with the division superintendent and that action is being taken to eliminate as much delay as possible. This letter also contains the statement that "at Danielson, where the complaint concerns the switching of equipment, arrangements are being made to have the mail unloaded first in order that the mail messenger may receive mail promptly."

ATTLEBORO WOMAN DIES ON WAY TO FUNERAL HERE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 23—Miss Clarice E. Woodson who was planning last night to come here from Attleboro to attend the funeral of her brother, Thomas Woodson, who died in Brooklyn yesterday, came here tonight—dead. Miss Woodson died suddenly this morning and her body now rests beside that of her brother's at A. F. Wood's funeral home, awaiting the double funeral that is being arranged by remaining members of the family.

Exact details relative to Miss Woodson's death were not available here this evening. However, Miss Woodson was apparently in normal condition Tuesday evening and planned with her sister, Mrs. Frances Hines of Providence, to come to Danielson for the funeral of the brother. As late as 8 o'clock last evening she called from Attleboro to Providence by telephone to further discuss with her sister funeral plans and then this morning at 6.30 there came a message to Mrs. Hines saying that Miss Woodson was dead.

Miss Woodson, 34 years of age, was a daughter of David and Sarah A. Woodson of Brooklyn, where she spent her early years. She had been in the employ of Miss Addie Hyde, formerly of Brooklyn and Danielson, for the past 16 years, and it was at her home in Attleboro that she died. Miss Woodson had been ill the early part of this month, but appeared fully recovered. The death of her mother, who was buried on December 31 last followed so soon afterwards by the death of her brother is regarded as possibly having so shocked her as to bring about her own end, though there was nothing to indicate this up to within a few hours of the time she passed away.

She leaves a sister, Mrs. Hines, in Providence, and a brother, Dewey Woodson of Brooklyn.

Net earnings of Powdrell and Alexander for 1928, after taxes, depreciation and all charges, were approximately $248,000, it is announced following the annual meeting of the shareholders in Boston. The retiring directors were re-elected. The company operates five mills in the town of Killingly. The regular quarterly dividend of 1 3-4 per cent. on the preferred stock was declared, payable April 1 to stockholders of record on March 18. A dividend of 87 1-2 cents a share was declared on the common stock, payable Feb. 15 to stockholders of record February 4.

Following circularization of prospective members during the months of November and December, Raymond E. Wing, county agricultural agent, has called a meeting to be held at Grange hall in Brooklyn next Monday evening for the purpose of ascertaining how many men are interested in forming a cow testing association. If it is found a sufficient number are interested, the work of organization will proceed. Mr. Wing suggests that anyone who wishes to know more about cow-testing should attend the meeting. The forming of the association has as its purpose the betterment of dairying in Windham county.

Last evening the county committee of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. held a meeting at the Westfield Congregational parish house and had as their guests members of the Tri-Y girls. About 30 sat down for the supper that preceded the business meeting. Members of the committee in attendance were Harry Richardson and William Hill of Moosup, Attorney E. C. Morse, Attorney Howard C. Bradford and C. Dwight Sharpe of Putnam, Harold Field of Dayville, William Childs and Albert Williams of Woodstock, Alexander Maitland of Thompson, Secretary L. Edwin Hill, Clifford H. Starkweather and Burdette C. Hopkins of Danielson.

The introduction of visitors and welcome to the Tri-Y girls was by Attorney Morse. As secretary, Mr. Sharpe read the minutes of the previous meeting. Mr. Starkweather gave the meeting its financial report, while the report on the state convention held in Bridgeport was given by Mr. Richardson and a report on the special meeting at Middletown and the county secretary's report was presented by Secretary Hill.

There was some discussion of a general meeting to be held in Hartford on Feb. 20, when the principal addresses will be made by Frederick Ramsey, senior secretary of the national council and by Dr. David Lull, who is representing the National Chamber of Commerce and who is general Y. M. C. A. secretary for China. Local delegates are to be guests of the Hartford Y. M. C. A. and will be entertained at the Hotel Bond.

STOP THE FAT AND GET THIN

The way to reduction is to stop the formation of fat. Modern science has found that way—by turning your food into fuel and energy—by supplying a natural element that helps do that. It is much better than starvation. That modern, scientific method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Now the results in slender figures, new beauty and vitality, are seen everywhere.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So you know the effects are beneficial, and why they all occur. Learn what so many have learned in 20 years about it. Do it now. Ask your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola and learn what it means to you.

PUTNAM

GILMAN RE-ELECTED TO HEAD LOCAL B.-L. ASSO.

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 23—President Alexander Gilman of the Putnam Building and Loan association was re-elected for another term, at the annual meeting and election of oficers held last evening. The other officials of the organization elected last evening were: Vice Presidents, John M. Dean, Ernest B. Kent and Herbert J. Smith; secretary, M. H. Geissler; assistant secretary, Miss Margaret Sherlock; treasurer, Omer J. Milot. Board of management, Omer J. Milot, William E Wheaton, John M. Dean, Silas M. Wheelock, Oscar Dugas, William P. Warren, Ray C. Bosworth and S. Nickoloff.

M. H. Geissler, who has been secretary of the organization for the past thirteen years presented his thirteenth annual report of the condition of the B. and L. association, which indicated it as being a progressing organization. Mr Geissler has tendered the following report which is of extreme interest to the share holders and the public, whom the building and loan association is serving.

In April, 1928, 319 shares, all in the first series, at a valuation of $62,542.50 became due and payable by the Putnam Building and Loan association, to the holders of these shares.

In October, 1928, 48 shares all in the second series, at a valuation of $9,688.32 became due and payable in 1928, almost a quarter of the capital. "What happened to it?" asked Judge Geissler. He said that every dollar of it was paid on the day it was due, either in cash or by a paid up share certificate, bearing five per cent interest, at the option of the shareholder. After the retirement of these shares, the assets of the loan association remained at $350,000,000, which is the highest point it has ever attained in its history. The association, according to its secretary, after thirteen years, is still to continue paying its shareholders five per cent compound interest, and to loan Putnam people money to assist them in building their homes. This, Mr. Geissler says, is the acomplishment of the conscientious work of its able directors who manage the affairs of the association.

An alarm from box 15, at the corner of Grove and South Main streets shortly after five o'clock tonight brought the members of the Putnam fire department to the house owned and occupied by Dr. M. J. Bulard on South Main street. A spark from the kitchen stove was thought to have found its way into a basket of clothes, nearby. The clothes were dampened and did not burst into flames, but created a blinding smudge. One of the members of the fire department snatched the burning basket and carried it to the street. No damage was reported

A meeting of the cow testing association of the Windham County Farmers association is to be held in the Brooklyn grange hall in Brooklyn on Monday evening, Jan. 28, at 7:30 p. m.

Four inches of snow which fell in Putnam Wednesday morning had disappeared at nightfall tonight. The storm lasted several hours, but the light flakes and the steadily rising temperature cleared the streets and highways at an early hour this afternoon.

Trucks of a well known automobile manufacturing concern were today the cause of an hour's trafic tie-up on School street this morning. The trucks laden with a fleet dozen of the new vehicles occupy a considerable portion of the highways and difficult to manage by one driver. About 7:30 this morning two of these trucks became entangled on Wheaton hill on lower School street and blocked School street to such an extent that a bicycle was unable to pass. One truck, according to a version related by Officer Benoni Durand of the local police, attempted to pass the other on the hill. In doing so it locked bodies with the other and was unable to progress or slide back. One of the vehicle vans gained its freedom and rolled backwards down the hill, crashing into the side of the Robatille buildings and its fore part against the curbing on the other side of the street.

The morning rush of business men driving to their daily tasks was in its height and each was detained until police were able to clear up the entanglement of the New York trucks.

William P. "Bill" Warren, a member of the board of selectmen of the town of Putnam was the speaker at the meeting of the Putnam Rotary club held at the Putnam Inn at noon today As his subject "Bill" chose to discuss his official duties as a selectman of the town Charity, road construction, tax laying and other problems which are continuously confronting the trio of town officials were outlined by the selectman. "Bill" proved to be highly interesting to his listeners, who were somewhat amazed to learn of the volume of responsibility resting upon the shoulders of a town officer. Visitors at today's gathering were Henry Dubuc of Danielson, E. L. Norton of Springfield and W. L. Broadbent of Boston. Following the luncheon and social session, the members of the club entered into a business meeting, presided over by President Rev. James F. English.

The town educational department reported today that nearly everyone of its faculty members who had been forced to retire from their duties during the past two weeks because of illness have returned to their respective classrooms. In the past fortnight several of the regular teachers have been stricken with grippe and their positions were filled by the regular substitutes.

A fleet pair of legs, the property of Gordon Winslow, Putnam's track star of exceptional ability, will on Friday carry him to Syracuse university at Syracuse, New York, to commence a four year scholarship, netted him by his exceptional ability on tracks of eastern Connecticut. Winslow began his track work while at Putnam high school. He set a mark for 100 yards and was able to cover the distance in ten seconds flat. Winslow has netted for Putnam high school several cups, besides carrying off eighteen for himself, by figuring in many races throughout the state. Winslow is a graduate of Putnam high school. He spent a year at Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs, where he made many showings in track events. A year ago, he left Storrs and entered the employ of the New Departure Manufacturing company in New Britain, where he served on their tracks and later won the scholarship at Syracuse.

B Lepillo of North Grosverdale was arrested by the state police of Danielson barracks Monday evening charged with owning a firearm. Lepillo is an alien and under the law cannot possess firearms. LIBERTY HILL

Wednesday evening a shower was given the local school teacher, Miss Murial Orcutt at the church rooms. She received many useful household articles, including silver and aluminum ware. The room was decorated with pink and white and each one was supposed to display either one of these colors. A very enjoyable evening was spent, enlivened by wit and jokes. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. There were 30 present.

Sunday morning Rev. J. H. Knott preached from the text, Acts X; a part of the 33d verse, And we are all here in thisplace before God. John Clarke had charge of the evening C. E. service. The traveling was so bad with frozen ruts that it made the attendance small, 21 being present.

The sewing circle met at the home of Mrs. Horace Foote Wednesday afternoon.

It is freezing weather and ice is gathering.

Seth Oden did a worthy deed by hoeing the road across Village hill continuing to the Windh m town line, Saturday afternoon. It froze during Saturday night making the traveling on this part of the road much improved.

"Actually Re-Newed by Lux"

LOUISE BROOKS, BEAUTIFUL FILM STAR,

wears this silk lounging suit, typical of pretty clothes shown in her pictures. "I learned by experience," she says,—"that only Lux keeps that new look in clothes." . . . That is why women everywhere—8 out of 10 in representative homes in cities from coast to coast, investigations show, use Lux!

And every New York Musical Show . . . Famous dressmakers . . Buyers for great department stores also find . .

"The original loveliness of our clothes can actually be Re-Newed again and again—and they last twice as long—through the use of Lux."

EVERY WOMAN knows how hard it is to keep pretty clothes like new in spite of everyday wear. Then imagine the problem of the movies—with beautiful clothes that must look brilliantly new through the hard wear of production.

Now the studios have solved this problem—every woman's very own problem—after experiments with many different cleansing methods and many different soaps.

And they find that: "Lux actually Re-News, again and again, the original beauty of fabrics . . . And with Lux, lovely clothes—whether sturdy or sheer—last more than twice as long."

Now every great studio in Hollywood uses Lux—to double the life of fabrics! Simply follow their rule—and you, too, can keep clothes actually like new far, far longer!

"WE CAN'T AFFORD TO RISK USING ANYTHING BUT LUX," says Adrian, costume director of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. "It is a matter of dollars and cents with us! We find Lux keeps clothes like new through months of production—so they can be re-created into new costumes. Naturally, we insist on Lux."

Why does Lux keep things new so much longer? Because only the purest materials known . . . and a special costly process . . . are used in its making! Lux contains no harmful alkali—as many soaps do, whether flakes, chips or cakes—and with Lux there is no rubbing to weaken and shrink.

MUSICAL SHOWS

like the gorgeous "Rosalie," starring Marilyn Miller (above), all use Lux—to double the life of stockings! They say, "We would use Lux even if it cost $1.00 a box!"

FAMOUS DRESSMAKERS

of New York insist upon Lux for underthings and stockings worn by mannequins—as illustrated in the above glimpse of the salon of France Clyne.

ABSENTEE VOTING.

Before the general assembly in Massachusetts a bill was introduced for the extension of absentee voting to city elections. The advantages of it has been experienced in state and federal elections and there is a desire that the provisions be extended.

The measure got attention from both advocates and opponents at the hearing but the committee put the matter over until the next session of the legislature as its method of disposing of it.

Perhaps there may be less to be said in behalf of absentee voting on the occasion of city elections than at the time of a federal or state election, and yet if it is a good thing to give the voter the right to express himself at the polls for one set of officials, wherever he happens to be, there seems to be no good reason why he should be deprived of such a privilege when municipal officials are being selected.

That there is a demand for such a right indicates the popularity of the privilege already extended to absentees. Already the right has been given to the city of Gloucester, and in the last city election the result was so close that even though there were but 195 absentee votes they really figured in determining the result.

The time is coming when more states will recognize the fairness of giving the voter away from home on election day the opportunity to cast his ballot. Such votes in large numbers were cast during the recent national election. Residents of other states, who happened to be in Connecticut during last October, were able to obtain from home the necessary ballots, mark them and return them to the proper authorities to be counted election day. But residents of Connecticut who were out of the state for any one of many good reasons prior to and during election day were obliged to lose their vote because this state does not permit absentee balloting. Perhaps the absentees would not be sufficient in number to ever swing a state election but they are invariably quite as keen to vote for candidates of their choice as those who happen to be at the ballot box. Perhaps those away might be even more conscious of their duty election day than those who are at home and fail to vote.

WILD MEN, HERE AND ABROAD.

It isn't necessary to go to foreign countries to find spots where it is easy to believe that civilization does not prevail. Our lynchers, murderers and fiends continue to display plenty of savagery to remind us that all the heathens do not live abroad.

When it is impossible to be assured of protection within our own borders, when one is in danger of being shot down in our cities or strung up to a tree without the chance of a trial, we have slight ground for holding up our hands in horror at the cold-blooded murder of a missionary in Irak.

One engaged in such laudable work is deserving of decidedly different treatment, and yet it doesn't appear that the killing was so much an expression against the individual as against the idea of foreigners being in that part of the world.

It was an affair which will doubtless be made the basis of a thorough investigation, but whether it will ever be possible to fasten the responsibility upon the particular group that is guilty is a question. Evidently it was the expression of irresponsible tribesmen in that region who resent visitors, or who take that method of displaying their dislike toward the British who hold the mandate for the government of that region.

Deplorable as it is, it is convincing evidence of the danger that must be anticipated by those who go into strange lands where governmental control is not all that it should be. Such demonstrations can only make the situation more desperate for tribesmen, even though they are only outlaws and constantly seeking trouble. It serves notice, however, that even though it may have been considered safe to tour through such territory there is no welcome being extended by certain of the inhabitants. Those who go into strange lands must do so with a full understanding of the perils ahead. It is not simply a question of poor roads, wild country and wild animals, but also of wild men who have not as yet come under the influence of civilization sufficiently to overcome the inclination to rob and kill. Still the gunmen of some of our big cities are no less merciless.

ANOTHER PEACE MOVE.

It is a bit of good news which comes from Santo Domingo to the effect that the representatives of that republic and Haiti had signed a treaty by which they are to agree upon a permanent boundary line between the countries.

Even though ratification is awaited from each republic, the progress thus far made is significant. These neighboring island republics have suffered from frequent flashes and long standing ill feeling over their boundary.

From all indications they have become impressed by the peace sentiment that has prevailed rather generally throughout the world in the last few years. They have witnessed the endeavors which have been made to adjust similar differences between other republics and their officials have evidently put similar methods into effect, backed by the good advice which they have sought or which has been given to them. Efforts which have been made to break down the bitterness which has prevailed in their own official circles have succeeded. Visits by leaders of the countries have paved the way for the negotiations which have been concluded and there has been a recognition of the fact that a continuance of their dispute would only be detrimental to the best interests of each republic.

Through such a beginning it is to be hoped that the way has not only been discovered for removing the irritations of the past but of establishing a permanent policy of friendliness and cooperation between those neighbors. There is no reason why they should not get along the same as any two adjacent states. They cannot fail to appreciate the fact that nothing has been gained by their decades of strife.

Inspired by the work which has been done in settling boundary disputes between other countries, the prospect of an adjustment between Chile and Peru, the efforts for world-wide peace and the Pan American agreement for arbitration of disputes, Haiti and Santo Domingo are responding to the pleadings of sound advisers in the course which they have agreed upon.

COUNTRY ROADS.

The demand for the betterment of country roads, or the improvement of more of the country roads so that those who contribute to the roadbuilding fund may get a better measure of benefit, does not prevail alone in Connecticut. It comes from most every state where road work fails to meet the requirements of the automobile, and the latest move is made by the township highway commissioners of Michigan. They are speaking for themselves but they represent the people of their respective townships. They have perfected an organization and it is their purpose to seek a third of the tax that is collected from the sales of gasoline. They look upon that proportion as the fair share for township roads, and it is not improbable that they will extend their plea to include part of the federal road aid because such roads as they are interested in are roads used in the delivery of United States mail.

Each state has its own ideas as to how to obtain results. Each state has its own problems, but there can be little doubt that there is a real demand for the giving of better attention to the country roads. Many of these can be so improved as to open up large sections of states which ought to have quite as good a chance to develop as has been given to other sections, and when country taxpayers feel that they are entitled to some recognition there is no question but what they stand on firm ground and ought to be heard.

In Michigan the feeling prevails that results can be obtained through organization. Possibly that is the solution. It is very often effective.

WHERE LIGHT IS NEEDED.

As a guide to shipping and a protection to lives and property lighthouses are invaluable and there are many times when it appears that there are not enough of them.

Though not the first time that the need of it has been felt, the recent piling up of the President Garfield on the Matanilla reef at the northern point of the Bahamas re-emphasizes the lack of sufficient guidance for the mariners at that point in the time of bad weather. Happily the vessel was undamaged and was pulled off without much difficulty but it might have been much worse.

While this reef is about 50 miles off the Florida coast and there is a sufficiently wide channel at that point to accommodate the large volume of traffic under ordinary conditions, it is conceivable what difficulties are needlessly thrown in the way because of the lack of sufficient guidance at that point.

This latest grounding calls attention to the fact that efforts have been made to obtain better protection at that point. It is British property and therefore nothing can be done there without British consent. Because of the many vessels passing up and down the coast the request was made by this government of Great Britain that it be allowed to construct a lighthouse at that point. It would be built without expense to the British and would be available for the protection of all ships that pass that way.

The British were unwilling to grant the request and they did not rise to the situation and supply the deficiency themselves. The result is that the menace at times of poor visibility continues and the experience of the President Garfield simply accentuates the condition that exists there.

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT

Kate Mallory stood at the window, her lips all ready to curve into a smile when Jim rounded the corner. But the smile was destined never to be because when Jim came into view he was walking beside the new first-floor tenant, his arms filled with packages evidently the property of his companion, and he was listening with such deep interest to what she was saying that he entirely forgot to look up at Kate!

Breezing in ten minutes later he found that Kate had left her post at the window and was busily occupied in the kitchen. When he bestowed on her cheek his customary affectionate husbandly peck he was dimly aware that that cheek was turned a fraction of an inch farther away from him than usual and that Kate's manner was a trifle lofty as she admonished him to hurry and "clean up" for dinner.

"Say," he said when he had finished serving his small daughter, his wife and himself, "I met the woman who lives downstairs over in the grocery store when I stopped to get the soap you telephoned me about, and she had such a raft of bundles I offered to carry 'em home.

"And, gosh, what do you think? She's French. She can hardly speak any American at all. Say, it sounded good to hear some parlez-vous again. I didn't suppose I remembered a word of what I learned when I was on the other side, but gosh, I could understand quite a bit of what she said.

"I told her about me being over there for a coupla years. I didn't say anything about it to her, but I was thinking maybe it would be kinda nice if we was to have her up here once a week or something like that and me and you could take some French lessons off her."

Kate rose from the table, scooped up a plate in each hand and flounced away.

"Me and you could take some French lessons off her," she repeated scornfully. "I guess me and you better learn to talk our own language before we start any French jabber."

Her resentment flared up again the next day when she went down into the apartment house laundry and found the little French woman just depositing an armful of clothes in one of the tubs. Kate glared at her.

"I make—wrong—something?" she quivered, looking ready to scuttle away like a frightened rabbit. "I speak only—English—a—very little."

"Then the sooner you learn the better," snapped Kate, turning on her heel and marching stormily away.

Kate blazing with what she considered righteous indignation and Kate illumined with mother love were as far apart as the poles. As she stood at the window the next day watching for her one ewe lamb to return from school one could scarcely believe that this radiant face was the same that had been turned so savagely upon her neighbor the day before.

How soft her eyes were as they lighted upon the little figure as it started across the street! "The sweetest, prettiest, brightest kid in the whole world," they seemed to say. Then the earth dropped away from under Kate's feet. Little Mollie had tripped and fallen in the middle of the street! And a great truck just turning the corner at a terrific speed!

"Oh, Jim," Kate sobbed some time later, clinging to his arm hysterically. "I thought the truck was going right over her—it was coming so fast—and it seemed to me she fell right in front of it—and madame seemed to spring right out of the ground—I don't know where she was before that—and she pulled her away, and they both fell—and it took me so long to get to the door, and then I couldn't seem to find the doorknob—and when I got the door open she—madame—was standing there with Mollie in her arms, and there was blood on Mollie's face—and she was so white I thought she was dead—and I—fainted.

"I am so ashamed. And she was wonderful—madame—she bound up Mollie's arm—it was scratched pretty badly—and she got me out of the faint—and she stayed and got things ready for dinner, because I was so weak and sort of sick.

"And, Jim," Kate whispered, burying her face a little more deeply in Jim's comforting shoulder, "she's going to come up and eat dinner with us and bring her French lesson books. I told her we'd been kind of—planning to have her for quite a long time back."—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

PROTECTION FROM ORGANIC DISEASE ADVANCING

By Major Wood S. Woolford, M. C., Washington, D. C.

The United States army requires a thorough physical examination of its air officers semi-annually and of its officers of all other branches annually.

The purpose of the physical examination for flying is two-fold. First to insure that the individual is physically fit to fly, and, secondly, to detect any condition that, if uncorrected, would eventuate in physical disqualification. Its underlying object, therefore, is the prevention of casualties on account of physical unfitness or inadaptability for flying primarily, and the early recognition and cure of potential disqualifying conditions secondarily. It selects the fit and seeks to reclaim them when they become less so.

The examination for flying consists, essentially, in addition to the accepted methods of making a general physical examination, of tests of the eye muscles, of depth perception, or the ability to judge distance, of exact determination of the hearing apparatus and of the nose and throat. Both static equilibrium and the reactions to the Barany tests are noted. The Schneider index rating is used to determine the efficiency of the circulatory system. A study is made of the neuropsychic condition in the usual manner plus performance tests, to determine as accurately as possible, in the present state of our knowledge, the quickness of the individual's mental perception and the speed and accuracy of his co-ordinated muscular response to visual and auditory stimuli. Also a close study is made of his personality to determine his temperamental fitness for flying.

It is thus evident that the periodic physical examination of flyers presents unusual opportunities for the conservation of health. It has been shown that there is a direct relationship between physical fitness and flying. This opportunity of conservation exists in commercial aviation as well as in the military services. The results must of necessity depend upon close co-operation betweenthe medical adviser and the flyer. These have been very gratifying in the military services, as the flyers understand that the primary object of the flight surgeon's efforts is to safeguard their interests and that continued flying depends upon the continuation of physical fitness. A careful record is kept of all data bearing on the aviator's health and physical condition, and corrective measures promptly instituted when the occasion demands. With the establishment of the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce, a central agency was created, the office of medical director, having the function of supervising the physical condition of civilian flyers. The air commerce regulations demand periodic examinations and a high degree of physical fitness.

It is only in comparatively recent years that preventive medicine has concerned itself with the individual. Formerly the province of this branch to lie principally in the protection of of medicine was generally considered groups or masses of people from infectious diseases. The advances that have taken place in preventive medicine have made possible the protection of the individual from many organic and degenerative diseases.

How The World Is Governed

By BATES RANEY
(Associated Press Feature Editor)

DICTATORSHIP NO WORRY TO THE SPANISH

Spain is governed today by a directory that is a great deal like that headed for a time in France by the first Napoleon, although it is called a council of ministers and is described by its president, Gen. Primo de Rivera, as an "economic dictatorship."

As a dictator supported by the Spanish army, General de Rivera has virtually no checks upon his authority, and, like the Italian dictator, thereby wields considerably more power than an American president.

The Spanish constitutional monarchy created in 1876 has been in abeyance since 1923, when governmental power was seized by the general in a military coup de etat, and all constitutional guarantees of the right of peaceful assembly, freedom of the press, education and speech, personal security, inviolability of the home and secrecy of mail have been suspended. The monarchy remains, but the directory governs.

This type of administration seems more acceptable to Spaniards as a whole than it would be to an Anglo-Saxon community, which regards the idea set forth in the Magna Charta as being the apotheosis of good government.

In Spain the church and landlords have long held a too powerful control over the ordinary individual for him to think that his will could mean anything to the state. Therefore the dictatorship, with religion, patriotism and monarchy as its keynotes, thrives and has, indeed, brought Spain forward in the comity of nations to the most important position in world economics that it has enjoyed in centuries.

The elective or representative aspect of the cortes, the Spanish parliament, which formerly shared responsibility with the king for making laws, has disappeared.

General de Rivera has created a sort of assembly of 300 deputies elected by professional associations which is of purely advisory character.

All the mayors and municipal councils in Spain were dismissed in 1923 and replaced by members of the Associated Councils of Householders, but a royal decree of May 8, 1924, put the government of Spanish municipalities into the hands of an estatuto municipal, thus returning to the municipalities a maximum independence and full local government.

Women's suffrage has been granted and women now are allowed to hold elective posts. Two women have been elected mayors of Spanish towns. The voting age for both sexes is now 23 years.

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 — When Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador, strolled the other day into that rarely occupied little reservation in the senate gallery known as the "diplomatic gallery," he arrived just in time to hear thundering words about "this new found British doctrine of imperialism" rolling up from the floor below.

His tufted white eyebrows seemed to twitch a bit. The orator below was not directly visible from where the ambassador took his seat.

Sir Esme edged forward in a crouching position to catch a glimpse of the speaker over the gallery rail. Then he sat back and donned his reading glasses with great deliberation. Taking a paper from his pocket, he studied it intently. When he began twisting the sheet upside down, the secret was out. He was poring over a seating diagram of the senate floor, attempting to identify this senatorial twister of the lion's tail.

Ready for Vote

It was, of course, Blaine of Wisconsin. That established, the ambassador sat back to watch the march of events with true diplomatic mien of interested and unemotional observation. After working an average of four hours a day for two weeks on debate of the Kellogg anti-war pact, the senate was about to take a vote.

Short of a senate reservation, Blaine declared, America would be tied to acknowledgment of "British imperialism."

"The guns at Bermuda and in the Caribbean sea, under British direction, then will continue to point at America more menacingly than they do today," Blaine shouted. He waved a threatening forefinger, by chance almost at the ambassador of whose presence he was unaware.

Just a Twitch

The Howard eyebrows twitched again, in a rather surprised way; that was all. And a moment later Blaine's reservation resolution came to a vote, viva voce.

"Aye," said Blaine, not too loud.

"NO," roared the rest of the senate.

The Howard eyebrows did another little twitch. No other sign of feeling eluded the control established by a lifetime of diplomacy.

A moment later the ambassador heard the anti-war treaty ratified, 85 "ayes" and Blaine "no," with nine absentees reported as favoring ratification on the "as is" basis. That done, Sir Esme made his amiable and dignified way out of the gallery. He is very unlikely to be seen there again short of some equally important occasion.

Farmer Brown's Boy Finds Some Pellets

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Oh, you who would the truth divine
Give heed to every little sign.
—Old Mother Nature.

Farmer Brown's Boy had noticed that there did not seem to be as many rats and mice as there had been in the big barn. "Black Pussy," said Farmer Brown's Boy, "must have been busy out here. That is queer, too, for I've missed her of late. She doesn't seem to spend half the time hunting here what she did. Anyway, it is a good thing to get rid of those rats and mice." Just then Black Pussy came along and Farmer Brown's Boy stooped to pat her and talk to her. "You are a good cat," said he. "You certainly have cleaned out the mice here."

Black Pussy arched her back and rubbed against Farmer Brown's Boy's legs and purred, just as if she understood what he had been saying. If she had understood it, she probably would have had a laugh all to herself. For the truth was Black Pussy was not catching any mice or rats in Farmer Brown's barn. It was only now and then that she ever caught sight of one.

Farmer Brown's Boy picked up the broom and began to sweep up the barn floor. Presently he paused and bent over to examine something on the floor. Then he picked it up and broke it open. It was a little pellet of fur and bones. The fur was mouse fur and the bones were mouse bones. There was a funny look on the face of Farmer Brown's Boy as he realized what he had in his hand. He looked up to the roof of the barn. Then he began to look on the floor again. He discovered some more pellets—quite a number of them. He whistled softly. "Now, what do you know about this!" he exclaimed. "There is an owl in this barn, or at least there has been. I've seen these things too often not to know what they are. When an owl catches a mouse he cannot digest the bones and the fur. So, when everything else is digested, the fur and the bones are rolled up into little balls and he drops them out of his mouth. I have seen them many times under the tree where Spooky the Owl lives. Black Pussy, I guess I've been giving you credit that you didn't deserve. I thought it queer that the rats and mice disappeared so suddenly. I shall have to look into this. I wonder if by any chance it can be that Spooky has moved over here to the barn."

But not a single little pellet did he see

So Farmer Brown's Boy, after he had finished his chores, tramped over through the Old Orchard to the tree CUT HERE ..ee* where he knew Spooky the Screech Owl had been living. He looked all around on the snow, but not a single little pellet did he find. Then he put his hand in the hollow in the tree where Spooky made hsi home. Of course, there was no spooky there. Snow had blown into that hollow and it had not been disturbed. That meant that no one had been living there since the storm.

"It must be," said Farmer Brown's Boy, as he tramped back to the barn, "it must be that Spooky is there right now. I wonder how he got in." Then he happened to glance up and noticed the holes high up in the peak that had been made for pigeons one time. Instantly he guessed that that was the way Spooky had entered.

"The little rascal!" said he. "He certainly knows when he is well off. He must have come in here looking for mice and then decided that he couldn't do better than to stay. I wonder where he is."

Farmer Brown's Boy climbed up in the haymow. He looked along all the rafters and beams. Finally, away over toward the end of a long rafter, he saw a little brown bunch. It was Spooky. Farmer Brown's Boy grinned. "I'm glad to know you're here," said he. "It means hard times for the rats and the mice, so I hope you'll stay."

To all of which Spooky the Owl said nothing at all, for Spooky was fast asleep.

VAPORIZED METAL MAY PRODUCE PURER STEEL

PITTSBURGH— (AP) —A two-foot tube of quartz in the Bureau of Metallurgical Research of Carnegie Institute of Technology is producing one of the new safety factors for building and transportation.

In it is produced, in pure form, a metal that forms steel at once stronger and more ductile, that is, capable of bending more without breaking. The substance is manganese.

Dr. F. M. Walters, Jr., director of the bureau, says that the purity now attained is within one-twentieth of one per cent, which is actually scientific purity. But he is attempting to find means of getting closer to absolute purity. He says that the slight trace of foreign substance remaining in the manganese may be some form of gas. To reach its present purity the maganese is vaporized within the quartz tube at a temperature above 2,000 degrees, Fahrenheit, and the vapor is considered into manganese minus the dross.

NEBRASKA SCIENTISTS FIGHT ALFALFA BLIGHT

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Plant pathologists at the University of Nebraska are attempting to control alfalfa wilt by developing a strain of hardy alfalfa that is resistant, or at least tolerant, to the bacterial disease.

Experiments are going forward in a new greenhouse erected on the agricultural college campus. They are the result of requests from many farmers who desire to protect their crop. Dr. Peltier, plant pathologist in charge says final solution to alfalfa wilt lies in development of resistant strains

NEW TAXI COMPANY TO REDUCE FARE RATES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 23—There may be another war between operators of public taxicabs in this city, for the New London Taxicab Co. has been formed, with the following corporators: Tony Bisconti, Alfred C. Branch, Murray Cash and Mike Giordano, papers of incorporation having been filed today at the office of the city clerk. It is understood that the taxicab drivers, who are among a score of operators at the union station, intend to cut the rates charged for transportation in New London. The new company intends to charge 75 cents per person to all parts of the city, the recognized rate now being 50 cents per person to certain parts of the city, excepting when one or more persons are carried and an extra charge of 25 cents per person is asked. As the rate of fare is fixed by city ordinance and the proposed rate conflicts with the law, the creators of a new taxi fare may encounter obstacles.

Robert H. Byles of Groton, formerly of Norwich, is recovering from illness at his home.

NORWICH DRIVER LOSES LICENSE FOR YEAR

A list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor was given out today at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of these drivers operating motor vehicles.

GROTON COMPENSATION CLAIM IS DISALLOWED

According to a finding by Compensation Commissioner Albert J. Bailey, he has dismissed a claim for compensation made by John Cataldo of Baker avenue, Groton, employe of the New London Ship and Engine Co. but a bill of $35 is ordered paid by the respondents. The bill was rendered by Dr. George P. Cheney of New London for attending Cataldo, who claims he was injured Oct. 13, 1927. According to the commissioner's finding Cataldo was not "immediately disabled, but in view of a recent supreme court decision, Cataldo cannot recover compensation for any disability suffered him."

FUNERALS

John Robindeau

The funeral of John Robindeau was held from the residence of Leon Melanson, Moosup, Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock with a mass of requiem, celebrated by Rev. Father Massicotte, following at All Hallows church at 9 o'clock.

Burial was in St. John's cemetery where the Rev. Fr. Massicotte conducted the committal. The bearers were Albert Roy, Gene Kelly, Leon Melanson, Ubal Rabidoux, Octave Rabidoux and Joseph Rabidoux. The services were largely attended. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Dougherty Brothers of Plainfield.

Mr. Robindeau is survived by three brothers, Octave and Ubal of Fall River and Joseph of Moosup and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Melanson, Moosup and Mrs. Etta Kelly of Plainfield.

William E. Ladd

The funeral of William E. Ladd was held Tuesday afternoon with a prayer service at 2:30 o'clock at his residence in Montville and services at 3 o'clock at the Palmertown Baptist church, Rev. E. L. Nield officiating. Burial was in Raymond Hill cemetery and the Odd Fellows committal service was conducted by Frank Mitchell, noble grand, and Victor Roseland, chaplain, of Thomas lodge, No. 22, of Montville. The bearers were Jerome House, William Sawyer, George Hawkaye and Louis Newton. The funeral was attended by many relatives and friends and the floral pieces were numerous and beautiful. Undertakers Church and Allen were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Break at Candy Kitchen

The Boston Candy Kitchen at No. 325 Main street, George Coulopoulos, proprietor, was burglarized either Monday evening or early Tuesday morning. Entrance was gained to the building by use of a skeleton key, it is thought. The contents of the cash register, $1.50 in nickles, were taken, but no stock is believed to have been stolen. The break was discovered by the proprietor on opening the store Tuesday morning. He found the front door ajar and advances the theory that a skeleton key was used for there were no signs of a forced entrance.

Bring Foreclosure Action

The Norwich Savings society has brought in the superior court a foreclosure action against Salvatore and Rose M. Selvidio of this city. The property is located on Golden Heights and the action is brought on grounds that a promissory note for $1200 given the plaintiff by the defendants is due and unpaid.

Graduate Nurses' Meeting

The dates for the annual meeting of the Connecticut Graduate Nurses' association have been set for February 6-7-8th. The public health meetings will be held on Thursday, Feb. 7th.

All meetings will be held at the Bond hotel, Hartford. The programs with full account of the meetings will soon be sent out by the Graduate Nurse association.

Comfort Circle's Meeting

Twelve members of Comfort circle of the King's Daughters spent Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Stanton W. Brown, of Wightman avenue. During the meeting two quilts were tied. The leader of the circle, Mrs. William H. Geer, conducted the brief devotional service which preceded the afternoon's work.

Name Omitted

The name of Mrs. Edward A. Cudworth was omitted from the list of contributors to the United Workers in the Central district.

NEW TAX ASSESSMENTS WILL NEARLY DOUBLE GRAND LIST

Using for reference and comparison the valuations placed upon Norwich property by the Manufacturers' Appraisal Co., in the complete revaluation of all property to go into the grand list of Norwich, the board of assessors have reached a total figure that will be about double the previous grand list, it is understood, and the expectation is held forth that the previous tax rate will be about cut in two.

Where the assessors have ordinarily sent out about 200 notices of increases made by them in the lists of taxpayers, this year they have sent out over 6,000 such notices, which are now in the hands of those to whom they were sent. These persons and others who feel aggrieved over the amount at which their property appears in the list will have opportunity to appear before the board of relief after the first of February. The three members of the board, James C. Fitzpatrick, Francis Belque and Edward Kirby, may expect a busy session, it is believed.

No one now can tell exactly what the tax rate to be laid will be, for the rate is not laid until a town meeting in March after the board of relief has made its report at the end of February. But if the total of the grand list is doubled over last year and the tax rate is cut in two, the individual taxpayer may figure that he will pay about what he paid before if his new assesment does not more than double his former figure. If, however, the taxpayer has been one of those who has succeeded in keeping his property in the list at a low figure, so that his new assessment trebles or quadruples his former figure, he will find that he will pay more tax than before.

An average indication of what the new figures will be in the grand list in comparison with the old, showing a new total of $10,807,597 as against the old figure of $5,685,544 in the case of fifteen of the larger manufacturing concerns of the town, is shown by the following comparison:

	Assessors' Fig.	Previous List
Ponemah Mills	$ 4,067,670	$2,047,075

LATE WM. H. ALLEN LEFT ENTIRE ESTATE IN TRUST

Filed in probate court Wednesday morning with Judge Nelson J. Ayling was the will of the late William Henry Allen, well-known local undertaker. The will was made March 6, 1928, and was witnessed by Arthur F. Church, Miss Anna Rogler and Attorney Arthur M. Brown. Named in the instrument as executor is Edwin F. Tracy, of this city.

All the property is left to Edwin A. Tracy, in trust. He is to pay the net income semi-annually in equal installments to Annie Miner Avery and Lelia Harrison Pearce, both of Memphis, Tenn., and for and during the terms of their natural lives and the natural life of the survivor of them.

Upon the death of Annie Avery and Lelia Pearce, the trust shall terminate and the principal of the trust fund is to be divided into 16 equal shares, which shares are given as follows:

One share (to each) absolutely to Elizabeth Caldwell Pearce, of Memphis, Tenn.; Evelyn Gwin Clarke, of Memphis, Tenn.; Robert Tate Clarke, of Little Rock, Ark.; and Lucius Pinckney Cook, Jr., of Memphis, Tenn.; Robert Clarke Taylor, of Memphis, Tenn.; Anne Brown Taylor, of Memphis, Tenn.; Collins Lee McCrea, Jane McCrea and Allen Denison McCrea, children of Collins Lee McCrea and Elizabeth P. McCrea, of Honolulu; Robert Grattan Brown, Jr., of Memphis.

To the McLemore Presbyterian church of Memphis, Tenn., in memory of his late wife, Ida M. Allen, two shares are left absolutely.

Two shares are also given to Julia Avery Taylor, of Memphis, Tenn.

CITY PINOCHLE LEAGUE PLAYERS MEET TONIGHT

The city pinochle league schedule has become somewhat complicated on account of the failure of one of the teams to play off the games scheduled for last Thursday. To keep the schedule straight the following games will be played this (Thursday) evening at the K. of C. home on Broadway:

First half—Duwells vs. American Legion; American Icy Hot vs. J. O. A. M.; Foresters vs. K. of C.; Moose vs. Eagles; Thermos vs. Grotto.

Second half—American Icy Hot vs. Duwells; Foresters vs. J. O. A. M.; Moose vs. K. of C.; Thermos vs. Eagles; American Legion vs. Grotto.

A special meeting of the team captains will be held at 7:45 o'clock this (Thursday) evening at the K. of C. home to arrange for the play-off of the postponed games. The league games are to start promptly at 8 o'clock.

TO COMPLETE NEW INN BY SPRING OF 1930

According to present plans, the New Norwich Inn will be completed and in operation by the spring of 1930. It is to be located on the property of the Norwich Golf club. It is thought that the plans and specifications will be ready in a few weeks and will be given out to contractors to bid on. So far as possible, efforts will be made to have as much of the work done locally as possible and by local concerns.

Chandler and Palmer will probably be the local representatives for the architectural and engineering work, and supervise the construction of the building.

EMBEZZLEMENT CASE IS CONTINUED UNTIL FEB. 23RD

At the request of counsel, a continuance until Feb. 23 was granted in the case of Lindsey G. Smith, of 19 Thames street, charged with embezzlement of over $400, when he was presented in the city court Wednesday morning. He is out under bonds of $740. Smith was arrested Tuesday evening by Sergeant Casey on complaint of the Peerless Casualty Co. of Keene, N. H., for which concern he had been acting as agent in this vicinity.

Fifth District Meeting

DANIELSON TOWNERS FACE STRONG TEAM IN COLORED GIANTS FRIDAY

The Danielson Town team, rolling along at a rapid rate in the basketball circles of Eastern Connecticut, tackles a touch proposition in the Philadelphia Colored Giants at the town hall in Danielson Friday evening. Danielson, boasting one of the best teams in recent years, is stepping out against the fastest clubs that the country can boast and is doing remarkably well. In going up against the Giants Danielson will submit to the acid test of basketball as this colored aggregation is second to none in the east.

A victory over the Giants on Friday evening will stamp the Towners as a real fast basketball clu band assures the success of basketball in Danielson for the remainder of the year. The Danielson fans have great faith in their club and have been clamoring for Manager Cleveland to book clubs with top notch ratings. Manager Cleveland has heeded the voicings of fandom and the Philadelphia colored boys are the first of the big league clubs to appear at the town hall.

The Colored Giants need little introduction to the fans of Eastern Connecticut as the Giants have always proved a banner attraction and give a mighty fine exhibition of basketball. Only recently the Giants were nosed out by the Plainfield Pros in a game that will long be remembered. The Pros won by a close score of 39 to 37.

Included in the lineup for the Philadelphia club are players not only prominent in basketball but also in the baseball world. Yancy, who is captain of the colored five is a star of the diamond and it is only his color that keeps him out of the big leagues. Jackman is noted throughout the country as a top-notch pitcher. Cooper is absolutely one of the best basketball centers in America. Standing six feet six inches in his gym shoes Cooper is a tower of strength in the center position. Many times has the management of the Renaissance Five of Brooklyn tried to lure him but without success. Berthard, the left guard for the Giants, is one of the trickiest of players and his handling of the ball is something well worth seeing. He is a comedian and entertains the crowdos with his witticisms.

FORMER PRESIDENT OF BOSTON RED SOX DIES

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Henry J. Killilea, 62, one of the members of the little group that founded the American baseball league in 1900, is dead.

The local sportsman, who also was owner of the Milwaukee club of the American Association, died at his home here today of heart disease after a brief illness.

Mr. Killilea with his brother, Matt, Connie Mack, Charles Comiskey and Ban Johnson founded the league at a meeting in the Killilea home here and for several years he acted as its counsel.

Mr. Killilea became president of the Boston Red Sox in 1903, when that club was tottering on financial difficulties, and won the pennant. For nearly a quarter of a century there after he took no active part in baseball. In 1928 he purchased the Milwaukee Brewers.

Much of the baseball magnate's early fame arose during his college days at the University of Michigan. His ability on the diamond won the approval of the Detroit Tigers but he refused an offer to turn professional. He enjoyed a brilliant amateur standing as a football player.

Before taking up law at the University of Michigan, Mr. Killilea was graduated from the Oshkosh (Wisconsin) State Teachers' college and was a teacher at Oakwood, Wis. He was born at Poygan, Wis., on a farm in 1867, January 7, 1867. Mr. Killilea became solicitor general in Wisconsin for the Milwaukee railroad, in which capacity he served until his death.

He is survived by two children, Harry and Florence.

WANER BROTHERS RETURN THEIR CONTRACTS UNSIGNED

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 23—(AP)—Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer of the Pittsburgh National league baseball club, tonight confirmed reports that the unsigned contracts of Paul and Lloyd Waner, star outfielders, had been received at the Pirate offices here. The Pirate official said the club was planning no particular overtures to the Waner brothers, who, in a letter returning the contracts, made it plain they were not satisfied with the terms offered them.

All players are required to be under contract before they go to the spring training camps. Three fourths of them already have signed, Dreyfuss said.

SPRINGFIELD MAY DROP FROM EASTERN LEAGUE

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 23—(AP)—Springfield's place in the Eastern league may be forfeited as a result of the action of the city council Monday night in refusing to legalize Sunday baseball in this city. This possibility was disclosed tonight when Arthur J. Shean, president of the Springfield baseball club stated that the club has been operated at a financial loss for several years and that unless some relief is forthcoming such as would be afforded by the legalizing of Sunday games, the franchise will be placed on the market.

The lower board of the city council Monday night killed the Sunday sports measure by a close vote, although Springfield voters favored the measure by a two-to-one vote in the referendum last November. The board of aldermen passed the ordinance by a unanimous vote, and following the action of the lower board rushed through a second Sunday sports act which will again be considered by the common council on February 4.

MANY ATTEST TO INTEGRITY OF FUCHS

BOSTON, Jan. 23—(AP)—Letters and telegrams from more than 75 persons attesting to the character and reputation of Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston Braves, were read by Charles F. Adams, vice-president of the Braves, today to the Boston finance commission. The finance commission concluded its hearings into charges by Fuchs that he was approached for a bribe for favorable action on the Sunday sports bill by the city council.

Included in the telegrams were those from Alfred E. Smith, former governor of New York; Mayor James J. Walker, of New York; Charles M. Schwab, Charles D. Hilles, republican national committeeman from New York, and numerous baseball men.

Adams went before the commission to answer attacks on Fuchs' character made by City Councilman William G. Lynch at an earlier hearing. Lynch was named by Fuchs as the man who approached him for a bribe of $5,000 each for himself and 12 other councilmen. Lynch answered the charge by accusing Fuchs of using unscrupulous tactics in gaining favorable action on the bill.

Fuchs declined to appear at the hearing today and his counsel, Robert E. Goodwin, told the commission that Fuchs thought the basis of the charges against his character did not warrant an answer.

Adams, in his statement to the commission, said the charges against Fuchs were "unfounded as well as untruthful."

"To me, Judge Fuchs has proven himself a gentleman, charitable to a fault and so modest by nature that he has not fully replied to these charges," Adams said. "A sense of personal responsibility has prompted me to act in this matter, knowing full well that he will not attempt to establish in his own behalf a life-long record of honorable and admirable conduct."

Then Adams started reading scores of telegrams which he said he had received during the last several days. All of them characterized Fuchs as a man of integrity and good reputation. The telegrams were mostly from his former associates in New York and in the baseball business.

Former Gov. Smith's telegram said: "I have known Emil E. Fuchs for more than 25 years during all of which time he was a responsible citizen of New York and much esteemed by bench and bar, as well as by leading citizens of both political parties."

Schwab's telegram ended by saying "I have always esteemed his friendship, knowing him to be a man of integrity and of the highest motives."

Mayor Walker wired: "I can attest to his splendid integrity, high standard of conduct and fine reputation for veracity."

Some of the others who sent telegrams and letters were from former Gov. Horace White, of New York, U. S. Senator Robert Wagner, of New York, Herbert Bay Swope, former executive editor of the New York World, Joab B. Banton, district attorney for New York county, Richard E. Enright, former police commissioner of New York city, Leroy Scott, author, William Hayward, former U. S. district attorney in New York, Emory R. Buckner, U. S. district attorney in New York; Prof. Frank H. Sommer, dean of the New York University Law school; Mongsignor Curry, of the Holy Name church, New York; Col. Robert Guggenheim, of the Guggenheim Foundation and S. L. Rothafel (Roxy).

PLAINFIEL DSOCCER TEAM TO PLAY BRADFORD SUNDAY

The Plainfield Soccer team clashes with the Bradford soccer team on Sunday afternoon at Plainfield in one of the most important of the league games of the season. Bradford and Plainfield are tied for the lead in the league.

"Sparky" Vail Goes to Rangers

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—(AP)—The New York Rangers club announced today that "Sparky" Vail of the Springfield, Mass., club, had been ordered to report to the Rangers at once to leave with the team for Pittsburgh, scene of its next engagement. Release of Myles Lane to Boston, and injuries have reduced the Rangers' roster to a minimum.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

The New York university football squad is practicing on a boat in New York harbor.

Larry Lichenstein, who once managed Norwich's Jimmy Clabby, died suddenly the latter part of last week in California.

Max Carey and Bill Wambeganss, major league stars at one time or another, studied to be ministers, once long ago.

The previous high mark for worst defeat against Academy basketball teams was also a game against Torrington, in 1927, first year of the sport at the local school.

The Kaplan-McGraw bout at Waterbury will not be held Feb. 1, because of trouble in securing the armory.

It will either be Jan. 29, or the second week in February.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

Principal Joseph P. Kennedy of Wilby high school, speaking before the student body of that school, recently, made the rather drastic suggestion that Wilby would in all probability drop baseball from its sports curriculum in 1930. "Baseball is a past issue as far as Wilby is concerned," he said. Now Coach Garey of Torrington comes out with practically the same suggestion. (Wilby and Torrington are both regular opponents of N. E. A. and Wilby is on the 1929 baseball schedule.)

No doubt this will not find favor with Academy fans who have seen their team take state diamond championships the past two seasons and by these teams bring athletics at the school to the highest level, probably of all time. Probably in a few other Eastern Connecticut schools this talk of dropping baseball will also find hostile ears, including Bulkeley of New London, which just a few years ago ranked so high in this sport and even now never has any worse than good teams.

The following, explaining the story from the Garey and Torrington side is a special dispatch to a Waterbury paper from Torrington:

"I would go so far as to say that baseball as a high school sport will soon be abolished throughout the entire state of Connecticut, and it is a dead certainty that if the high school teams in Waterbury are "going in the hole" each season by its upkeep, baseball in the local high school never did pay a cent toward even helping to meet its own expense"—this from Coach Garey, local mentor.

Continuing, the coach went on to remark that in the last your years of baseball playing in the Torrington high school, not one nickel has ever been realized at the gate, and even the little profit realized on the other sports in vogue at the institution has been fast eaten up trying to keep up the ghost of a school team. Mr. Garey also went on to say that the pupils in the local school, likened to those in Wilby, are only faintly interested in the continuance of the diamond game—there being only perhaps nine or ten who even make mediocre players. "It is," stated Coach Garey, "an assured thing that what the public wants are fast baseball teams, and this cannot be achieved with the material singled out from the school group." "It is," he continued, "even a matter of conjecture as to whether or not the good baseball playing semi-pro outfits will be able to make expenses on their games, so what chance has the high school club got."

Principal Frank M. Jeffery, when questioned on his stand in the matter, heartily seconded every one of the statements made by the down state principal, as well as those coming from the local coach, and he, too, claimed that, although the present schedule for the local high school nine which has already been prepared, will be fulfilled, it will in all likelihood be the last concocted. Principal Jeffrey claims that one of the reasons for the failure of high school baseball is the fact that the seasons are too short—the local games not being started until along about the latter part of April.

Both the coach and the principal state that, in accordance with the ideas advanced by Principal Kennedy of Wilby, and those now under consideration by other school heads in various parts of the state, other sports, such as track, tennis and golf—and which are of every bit as much an advantage to the physical upkeep of the pupil as baseball is—will be instituted as soon as plans for the abolishment of the national pastime are made.

Collegiate Prep in New Haven, which team the Academy plays this season, is going great guns. Saturday Sam Pite's boys beat Newark Prep, which is quite a feat in itself, but they beat them 31 to 13. Pite is the old Yale star.

Crosby high of Waterbury, flushed by its clean-cut victory over Naugatuck the other night, is now centering its affections on the state title. Last year the Academy beat Crosby and the next week the Waterbury school went to Naugatuck and beat that team, then Eastern States champions.

In the game the other night there was some complaint about Naugatuck stalling towards the last of the game when she had the lead. However, it did not accomplish the purpose for Coach Bullen's cohorts snatched victory from the fire.

Windham meets its arch-rival, Manchester high, Saturday night at Willimantic.

GABBY STREET SIGNS TO COACH THE CARDINALS

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 23—(AP)—The signing of Charles "Gabby" Street, former battery mate of Walter Johnson and for ten years a big league catcher, as coach of the St. Louis Cardinals for 1929, was announced today when the Cardinal roster for the coming season was made public.

Street had been a minor league manager for four years. Last season he piloted the Knoxville, Tenn., club of the South Atlantic loop.

The Cardinal roster shows 26 active players will report for spring training at Avon Park, Fla. The squad includes ten pitchers, four catchers, six infielders and six outfielders.

Y EMPS WILL PLAY AT NOANK TONIGHT

The Y Emps will meet the speedy Noank Whirlwinds tonight at Noank in one of the feature games of the season among the Eastern Conn. intermediate fives. Noank is undefeated on its own floor and holds two decisions over the Whirlwinds of Taftville.

Coach Conklin will use his strongest lineup in an effort to snap the winning streak of the down-staters. The local Emps have been reorganized in the last two weeks and have shown great promise of rounding into a formidable outfit before the curtain rolls down.

CHRISTNER BECAME A BOXER PURELY THROUGH AN ACCIDENT

NEW WORK, Jan. 23.—(AP)—An accident from Akron is looking around for a place to happen—with special designs on whatever spot Jack Sharkey occupied in the Madison Square Garden ring Friday night.

This accident of fisticuffs is known to his family as Meyers Wilson Christner, to the fans as "K. O." To his his opponents as bad news. Already, at the ripe old ring age of 32, "K. O." has happened to 37 of his 44 opponents in two years of amateur and professional boxing. Now he is ready to upset the biggest applecart of them all.

Two months ago, Knute Hansen, the melancholy Dane who had all the physical attributes of a heavyweight champion, started west in his campaign for the title Gene Tunney left vacant. The first stopover was Cleveland and a bout with an unknown from the steaming rubber pits of an Akron tire factory. The unknown, growing slightly bald on the top of the head, tagged Knute lustily on the chin in the eighth round.

The right hand punch that finished Hansen was one of the most important of the season. It snuffed out Knute's title campaign, drove Billy Gibson, pilot of Tunney and then Hansen, into permanent retirement, and shover Christner into the spotlight. Furthermore that punch has garden officials talking in scared whispers abouth ians for the Sharket-Stribling match in Miami Beach. To them Christner is as ominous as rain clouds on the night of an outdoor fight.

Christner is one of the strangest ox ring phenomineon since Ruby Bob Fitzsimmons, with his bald head, middleweight's legs and heavyweight's shoulders, crashed into fistic fame. Christner saw but two rounds of boxing before entering the ring at 32, never had a glove on in four years in the army, and was "kidded" into entering the amateurs.

It seems that a fellow-worker, toiling with Christner in the 125 degree temperature of the rubber pits, tossed the remains of a glass of ice water down K. O.'s neck. It was all in fun, when Christner playfully slapped the big fellow in a shower at the end of the day's work, but not for long. Christner landed one right and lost his job when the hospital report the next day showed that his opponent's jaw was broken in three places.

Christner got his job back but the men in the shop dubbed him "K. O." Promoters of amateur fights heard about that punch. Out of self-defense, the rubber worker went out to prove himself and in a few months spent a winter evening winning the amateur heavyweight championship of Ohio after working all day and riding 50 miles to the tournament in an open car. He fought his first professional fight New Year's day, 1928.

Aside from boxing, Christner has done about everything else in athletics. He caught Babe Ruth, when the Bambino was the star left handed pitcher of the St. Mary's Industrial School baseball team in Baltimore and remembers when Al Jolson was the best singer in the school. Johnny Dundee, now the welterweight champion, was there at the same time.

Christner went to Akron later and for years played semi-pro baseball as well as professional football. For five years he was a star tackle and guard on the "Goodyear Silents" a deaf and dumb football team that took on all comers.

"Everyone on that team but me was deaf and dumb," said Christner, "but I was only dumb. I nearly lost my job one day when a fellow on another team, a heavyweight fighter named Rambeau, got mad after I butted him too hard.

"Rambeau shook his fist under my nose and said:

"'You big chump, you can't hear me but the next time you hit me like that I'll bust you right on the nose. You'll understand then.'

"I laughed so hard they got suspicious. I played dumb so naturally, though, that they soon forgot."

Christner has been married almost eleven years and has a son nine years old and a daughter six. He expects to knock out Sharkey as easily as he did Hansen.

"My trainer, Tiny Herman," he says, "has been everywhere in the world but Miami Beach.

"I plan to take him down there when I fight Stribling in Sharkey's place."

NURMI TO RUN IN AT LEAST SIX MEETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—(AP)—Cleared of all charges of undue influences in regard to his entry in the William C. Prout Memorial games at Boston Saturday, Paavo Nurmi of Finland today announced his intention of running in at least six other meets during the winter season.

The schedule was announced at a meeting of the registration committee of the Metropolitan association of the Amateur Athletic union, called originally to consider the charge of Jack Harris, former secretary of the Masonic games committee, that Nurmi had changed his entry from the Masonic games to the Boston meet. Saturday after the Masons had been virtually assured that he would start.

Three two-mile races are on the Flying Finn's schedule during the next two weeks. He will run that distance at Boston, return to Newark, N. J., for a similar race at the St. Joseph's Catholic club meet Jan. 31, and go to Boston once more for the Boston A. A. games Feb. 2. Other meets on his card are the Millrose meet at New York, Feb. 9, the New York A. C. meet, Feb. 18, the National A. A. U. championships at New York, Feb. 23, and the New York K. of C. games March 16.

LAMPRECHT SHOOTS PAR GOLF AT EDGEWATER

BILOXI, Miss., Jan. 23—(AP)—Shooting a par 72 over the 18-hole Edgewater golf course, G. Fred Lamprecht, of New Orleans, former National Intercollegiate champion, provided the gallery with its thrill today in the first round of match play in the Pan-American amateur golf tournament.

The youthful Lamprecht went out in 32, three under par, but required a 40 to come home. Par on the course has been equalled only twice before. Lamprecht incidentally defeated his opponent, James Korndorfer, of New Orleans, 9 and 7.

COCHRANE JOINS RANKS OF ATHLETIC HOLDOUTS

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23—(AP)—Gordon S. "Mickey" Cochrane, star catcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, has returned his 1929 contract unsigned to Manager Connie Mack.

Voted the most valuable player to his team in the American league last year, Cochrane has been spending the winter months on a vaudeville tour.

"I am in hope that we can come to terms before the team goes south. But, if I do not receive the amount of money I think I am worth, I will consider retiring from the game."

CROSBIE FURNISHES UPSET BY BEATING ALVORD

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 23—(AP)—Robert Crosbie, Newton Center, Mass., produced the greatest upset of the annual Lakeworth golf tournament here today when he eliminated Olive Alvord, Greenwich, Conn., the medalist, 5 and 4. With this one exception favorites survived the second round of the championship fight.

"Ducky" Yates, Rochester, N. Y., turned back the veteran, W. B. Langford, Chicago, 4 and 3.

O. L. Brailey, Toledo, defeated R. W. Hopkins, Brookline, Mass., 4 and 3.

Jack Butler, West Palm Beach, won from H. A. Kelly, Buffalo, N. Y., 3 and 1. Butler and Yates reign as favorites in the semi-finals tomorrow. Butler meets Crosbie and Yates matches with Brailey.

HARDWARE MEN OPEN STORE LEAGUE WITH WIN

The Norwich Store league opened last night at the Aetna alleys with the Eaton-Chase team featuring the night's play with a sweeping four-point victory over the Interstate Furniture men. Welton of the Boston store hung up three-string mark while Holland of the Mohican had high single with 122. The scores:

Reigh Count Withdrawn

LONDON, Jan. 23—(AP)—Reigh Count, nominated by Mrs. John Hertz of Chicago for the Lincolnshire handicap, has been withdrawn from the race. The horse's name appeared in the list of non-acceptances published tonight. There was no explanation, but presumably the withdrawal resulted from the fact that the handicapper had assigned him too heavy a weight.

BRISTOL ENDEES TAKE PLAINFIELD AGAIN IN HARD FOUGHT GAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Jan. 23—For the third time this season the Bristol Endees took the Plainfield Pros into camp here tonight, winning 22 to 15, in a game marked by close guarding and cautious play by both clubs. Plainfield fought a hard game but were handicapped by the superior height of their opponents, all of whom stand well over six feet. The Bristol club, taking advantage of this, got the ball on the tap and kept it in the air above the heads of the shorter Plainfield outfit.

Picken started the scoring with two fouls and then added two long field goals which put Bristol out in front, an advantage they held until the final whistle. With a good margin Bristol resorted to defensive play, keeping the ball in the back court. The Plainfield men were continually forced to jump for the ball, which was a serious disadvantage, but even at that only a few points separated the teams during the game. At the opening of the second half Bristol's two husky guards shot two baskets each and then settled down to the defensive game. Plainfield was suffering from a night off and their passing and shooting was ragged in spots.

In the preliminary game the Buddies swamped the Willimantic five, 49 to 20. On Saturday night, the Plainfield Pros play a third game with the Meriden Endees at Meriden. Each club has won one game this season. The summaries:

STATE CONTROL OF AMATEUR BOXING IS FAVORED BY NEW CONN. A. A. U.

Although the proposed bill putting amateur boxing in Connecticut under state supervision was not discussed at length at the organization meeting of the Connecticut A. A. U. on Tuesday evening it is understood that the majority of officers and members of the board of managers are favorable to the new bill. If not openly in favor of it there is no indication that the new association will oppose it. A conference between the new association and State Athletic Commissioner Thomas E. Donohue relative to state supervision of boxing is expected in the near future.

Several of the board of managers, including President Samuel E. Hoyt, are understood to have expressed the opinion that they saw no reason why the A. A. U. and the state athletic commissioner should not be able to work harmoniously together the same as in other states where amateur boxing comes under state control. In fact, one member of the board stated that he thought that the bill was a step in the right direction and that it would strengthen the A. A. U. rather than take any powers away from it.

Working together the state and A. A. U. would be able to put the amateur boxing game on the high plane that it deserves. It would mean that there would be a double check on all boxing amateur bouts in the state. Promoting clubs would have to get a sanction from the A. A. U. and then would also have to prove themselves worthy to the state commissioner. An irresponsible organization would have very little chance under this system of conducting bouts the same as several of the so-called "outlaw clubs" did after the suspension of the old A. A. U.

Managers of amateur boxers, and the boxers themselves would be registered both with the A. A. U. and with the state which would eliminate any chance of "ringers" performing in amateurs, such as has been the case in Connecticut when one promoter would fight a boy in the amateurs one night and then take him to Massachusetts for a professional fight. Matching of boxers would be much better as weight differences would be prescribed by the state and would have to be lived up to.

With amateur boxing under state control the A. A. U. would have something in which to enforce its rulings relative to appearance of boxers at shows, something that was impossible under the old association. Boxers would have to be one thing or the other, pro or amateur, and if the latter, they would have to live up to their agreements or stand suspension by the state as well as by the A. A. U. There would be no chance of their going over to any outlaw shows for these would be done away with under state supervision.

On the whole it looks like a happy solution to the amateur boxing situation which has perplexed the state for a number of years, since the amateur shows became so popular.

"I light a Lucky and go light on the sweets

That's how I keep in good shape and always feel peppy."

Something sensible. "Better to light a Lucky whenever you crave fattening sweets." It brings to men the health and vigor that come with avoiding overweight. To women it offers a slender, fashionable figure.

20,679 physicians have stated that Lucky Strike is less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes. Very likely this is due to toasting which removes impurities. This same process, toasting, improves and develops the flavor of the world's finest tobaccos. This means that there is a flavor in Luckies which is a delightful alternative for the things that make you fat. That's why "It's Toasted" is your assurance that there's real health in Luckies—they're good for you!

Keep fit—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. That's what many men have been doing for years. They know the evidence of prominent athletes whose favorite cigarette is Lucky Strike and who say Luckies steady their nerves and do not impair their physical conditior

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

WESTERLY

COUNCIL BUDGET MEETING HELD WEDNESDAY EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 23—The annual Westerly financial town meeting, at which the taxpayers of the town vote appropriations for the various town departmental funds for the coming year is to be held Tuesday, Feb. 9th. In former years it was possible for taxpayers to come into this meeting and have appropriations voted, which in many cases, there was not sufficient revenue from the town to meet, as a result of which the town's indebtedness was gradually increased. In view of these conditions, the town councils for the past few years have adopted a plan of holding what is known as a town council budget meeting to which representatives of the various town departments and interested members and citizens have been invited that a preliminary estimate might be obtained as to the financial needs of departmental activities. These figures are then gone over and the pruning axe swung, so that the council fathers who vote the expenditure of the town's money, have fund amounts sufficient to carry on the year's work yet the total is kept within the town's income from taxes and other sources.

At a largely attended meeting of the town council in Westerly town hall Wednesday evening the preliminary budget meeting was held. A balance sheet of last year's financial operations was available from which to set up budget figures for 1929. The results obtained from the meeting follow:

The total amount asked for by the various departments was $520,000. The council directed the various departments to cut down estimates and recommended that the tax assessors endeavor to procure more income from taxes which last year totalled $423,000. An item of expenditure was that of $63,000 to pay old town debts which did not have to be figured in last year.

The council will hold the regular budget meeting Jan. 30th.

The highway commission plans for 1929 includes estimates for Ocean View avenue, Watch Hill, widening four feet and resurfacing the 24-foot width from the Misquamicut Golf club entrance to Sinigret avenue. The amount is $22,000; Meadow lane, grade, gravel and oil, $5,000; Bowling lane, Bradford, penetration construction, $3,000; Broad street, widening and resurfacing from Main street to Grove avenue, $21,097; Park street sidewalks, $12,000; Ward avenue, $5,000; Park avenue, $3,000; Highland avenue, extention, construction without top dressing, $12,650; Weekapaug causeway, $1,000; Central park development, $5,000; sidewalks, $1,000.

Maintenance costs—Supervision and general, $10,000; equipment and repairs, $12,225; highway repairs and maintenance, $30,000; total, $52,225. Grand total, $146,952.

Judge Edward M. Burke held a special session Tuesday when probate matters were acted upon as follows:

Estate of Frank W. Coy. Petition received for probate of will with waivers of notice approved, in which the widow, Bessie W. Coy, was named executrix. Will, with Stephen H. Watrous as witness, was admitted to probate, also the declination in writing of the named executrix. Her release was approved and a son, Edward B. Coy was named administrator c. t. a. Bond was made $60,000 Ralph R. Bradbury was named appraiser.

Estate of Kate D. Dowd. Petition was received for admission of estate to probate and with waivers of notice was granted. Viola J. Dowd was named administratrix. Bond was fixed at $4,000 with W. Russell Dower, surety. William R. Dower was named appraiser.

GINGERELLA IS TAKEN TO KINGSTON JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Jan. 23—Louis Gingerella, accused of the murder of Santo Gaccione, Monday morning, who pleaded not guilty before Judge Oliver H. Williams, in the special Third District court session Tuesday night, was transferred Wednesday afternoon from a cell in the Westerly police station to Washington county jail at Kingston. He was taken by auto at 1:15 p. m. Wednesday by Lieutenant of Police George H. Champlin to the county institution, being accompanied by Officer Robert M. Kessel. Hearing in this first degree murder case has been set down for Friday, Feb. 1st at the regular session of Third District court, before Judge Williams.

MYSTIC

TWO ENCAMPMENTS PLAN VISIT TO NORWICH I. O. O. F.

Mystic encampment, I. O. O. F., of Mystic, and the Orion encampment of New London will be entertained by Palmyra encampment of Norwich this (Thursday) evening. The local encampment is to confer the golden rule degree on a class. The meeting is to be preceded by a supper at 7 o'clock.

Chautauqua, which has been held for the past few days, has had a good attendance, and the entertainments were up to the usual high standard of Chautauqua programs. A union service was held in the Union Baptist church and the Festival Revue company gave a sacred concert. There was no charge for admission but a free will offering was taken, to be given to the Visiting Nurse association, under whose auspices the Chautauqua was brought to Mystic.

The W. C. T. U. meeting was held Wednesday afternoon, the hostess being Mrs. E. V. Whiting, of 53 East Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Loftus have received announcement of the engagement of their nephew, Elmer G. Cloutier, of Uncasville, Bates college, '28, to Miss Ruby Daniels, of Mechanics Falls, Me., Bates, '29. The wedding will take place soon after commencement in June.

Reports of the Union Baptist Sunday school showed that the school was growing numerically and is a power for good in the church and community. For the past year the average attendance has been 198. On numerous occasions the attendance has been nearly 300. Classes are held for all ages, beginning with the primary and are graduated according to age, with classes for adults. The officers chosen for the year are: Superintendent, Sands A. Fish; assistant, Seymour A. Stoddard; superintendent of literature, Miss Harriet Fish; superintendent elementary department, Miss C. H. Was Civil War Veteran

Isaac Cundall, 87, of Mystic, who died at the home of his niece, Mrs. Dearing J. Fischer, at 160 Nelson street, Providence, following an illness of two weeks, was born in Nashua. He moved to Mystic about 4 years ago. He was a Civil war veteran, having joined the Seventh R. I. regiment in 1861, serving throughout the war. Mr. Cundall was active in smuggling slaves to freedom into Canada via the "Underground Railway" near Nashua. Since his wife and daughter died, a few years ago, Mr. Cundall has spent the winters at the home of his niece, Mrs. Fischer, and his summers at his home in Mystic.

Laying New Main

The Mystic Valley Water Co. has had much trouble with the water main which crosses the river at the Main street drawbridge and has been at considerable expense, making repairs numerous times. The company decided to find a more suitable place to cross the river with the main feeder pipe. Work has been started to lay a ten-inch main which will connect the main in Greenmanville avenue, on one side and High street on the other side.

JEWETT CITY

NORWICH INTERESTED IN ASHLAND SINCE BACK IN '54

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Jan. 23—The Acco Smile, published for the operatives of the Ashland Cotton Co., Jewett City, by the Ashland club, Prentice W. Chase, editor, in referring to one of Griswold's oldest textile industries says: Since the Ashland Cotton company has changed ownership within the past month we publish as complete a record of the history as is available at this time. We have never yet been able to determine exactly how old the wooden structure, known to us as "The Old Mill" really is. We do know that it is the oldest mill in the United States housing operating textile machinery. The old mill was sold in 1807 by John Wilson to John Schofield and at that time was operated as a woolen mill. An interesting part of the deed of sale was that Schofield should not full any cloth except that woven in the mill which he purchased. The reason for this was probably that Wilson at that time was operating a fulling mill on the present Ninigret property and considerable weaving was done in the dwellings of Jewett City, and Wilson probably did the fulling of the cloth thus woven.

Thus we are sure that the Old Mill is more than 121 years old.

In 1816 Schofield erected a building across the river and operated it as a cotton mill.

In 1820 the mill was sold to Trumbull & Reed of Norwich. It was later owned in turn by the Griswold Mfg. Co., Christopher Lippitt and Morgan & Fanning.

In 1845 it was sold to Adams, Anthony & Tucker who operated it until 1863 when the mill and all its privileges were conveyed to the Ashland Cotton company. In 1864 the brick mill of five stories was erected, the date being carved in one of the capstones of the tower. The original president of the Ashland Cotton company was Moses Pierce, of Norwich. The first agent and treasurer N. T. Adams. The agents who followed were S. W. Mowry, R. T. Budlong, J. S. Carew, of Norwich, James O. Sweet, Grosvenor Ely, of Norwich, who retired as president last month when the mill was again sold and Lewis M. Carpenter, the present agent and treasurer who has been agent since 1919.

Until the advent of rayon a few years ago the principal product of the Ashland Cotton company within the memory of most of us here has been sateen, though there are many who remember many other products that have been produced by Ashland, principally perhaps th emanufacture of duck.

The original mill was and is today 40 x 90 feet, four and one-half stories high. The addition built in 1864 was 180 x 70 feet, five stories. An addition 110 x 70 was built in 1881. This is of two stories and was in turn added to in 1909 by an addition 200 x 150 feet of two stories. In 1919 a one story weave shed 175 x 175 feet was added and except for the additional 28 tenements which the company erected during the same year no additions have been made to the plant of any consequence up to the present time.

The Ashland Cotton company changed hands again in December 1928, the new owners being The United Merchants & Manufacturers Incorporated with Homer Loring of Boston president, and Lawrence Marks of Corn-Hall & Marks Co., of New York vice president. At this date the list of other officers of this new company is not available for publication. We are informed by the new owners that we are one of a number of mills of which the United Merchants & Manufacturers Inc., act as the holding company but that each of the mills owned by them will be individually operated and business of each will be transacted at the various plants.

The Ashland Cotton company will continue to manufacture cotton fabrics, more perhaps than for the past two or three years. Our cotton products will perhaps be of finer texture than we have previously known and more varied in construction. We will, of course, continue the manufacture of rayon fabrics which at present is our principal product from a standpoint of yardage.

All cards are being rechthed and more combers are being added to take care of the new line of cotton constructions. New cotton picking equipment is to be added as well as various other necessary machinery for the handling of both cotton and rayon yarns and fabrics.

The new addition to the plant now well under way is 185 x 175 feet, two stories and with a basement in one corner, about 60 x 80.

The first floor of this new building will be devoted to weaving machinery and the second floor to various processing machinery including about 40 warpers. From 300 to 800 new looms for the weaving of both cotton and rayon fabrics will be placed as soon as possible, some of them perhaps even before the new addition is completed. A new elevator is being installed in the big brick mill and this is a much needed improvement as the old outfit is inadequate for present needs. For several years the Ashland Cotton Co. has been handicapped by this lack of equipment and the expansion program now under way was impossible due to insufficient financial resources. We have every reason to believe that the new ownership will be a big asset to the town and that the operatives will benefit by being hooked up with a progressing concern.

Develop Korean Center.

SEOUL, Korea—(AP)—American capital has been invested in a Korean National railway project to make Heijo, the ancient city once known as the capital, Pyengyang, an indistrial center. A railroad terminal is to be built outside the walled city and the American Corn Producers Refining company is expected to invest $500,000 in a new factory and for increase of corn production. Rich Japanese have been buying home sites, while a vast tile area is being subdivided into building lots and factory sites along American real estate.

Some men are born great, but the majority don't even have greatness thrust upon them.

WHY NOT ALLOW THUMM'S TO SUPPLY YOUR PARTY NEEDS

Thumm's Delicatessen Store of 40 Franklin street is the proper place for you to buy those things you require for eating and for special parties.

It is always pleasant to know that there is a delicatessen store near your home, but it is more pleasing to know that Thumm's is located in Norwich.

As the time grows rapidly short before the special day when guests are to be entertained something must be figured on lest the housewife desires that terrible shock of running short of something to eat just at the time when it is needed the most.

Careful planning for wants for parties and special events has always been the policy of Thumm's Delicatessen Store, 40 Franklin street, and our store today abounds in hundreds of things which, gracing the tables on those occasions will make the hearts of all housewives sing with joy.

Our cooked meats are known everywhere as a delicious treat and no less popular is our home-made mayonnaise. Utmost care is taken in preparing all foods in this store and every patron may rest assured that their purchase has provided them with the best money can buy.

If you are planning a party in the immediate future or if you are planning an outing of any kind let us quote you on prices, and show you how to save money on your purchases.

FORBES AND GRENIER WILL GUARANTEE GOOD PLUMBING

This is the time of year when people realize most what good plumbing has meant.

Forbes and Grenier of 62 Shetucket street, phone 1363, have always done efficient work and they stand ready now to handle your heating problems or plumbing work.

Before rushing ahead kindly why not consult them about plumbing or heating arrangements for your house or garage. Carefully prepared estimates always mean a saving of dollars in a new house. Careless plans, a mistake in radiation or boiler capacity, means the loss of hundreds of dollars during the lifetime of a new house owner.

A few more dollars spent at the start, the installation of a heating plant of sufficient size to properly heat house, and with no need of forcing of tons of coal as the winters roll by.

This type of service, one which looks ahead to the future savings, is the type specialized in by Forbes and Grenier. Let us handle your problems for you, and rest assured that we will handle them carefully.

ELDREDGE HARDWARE CO. KNOWN FOR GOOD HARDWARE

After having been in the hardware field in Norwich for many years we feel that we have the right to claim that the Eldredge Hardware company ranks among the leaders in the city. For years the quality of goods carried at this store has been kept at a high standard. Nothing has ever been handled by this store that has not been looked into by a representative of our firm to see that the good name of this company would not be injured through our selling that product.

At this time of the year we are making a special mention of articles and implements for use about the farm and home.

Of course you know that these things are but a few of many hundreds that we have on hand for home use. We welcome a visit by you at any time. Perhaps there is something you need about your home, something you have long denied yourself.

Come in and see us and let us show you why you should no longer deny yourself. A timely investment saves many dollars. See us and save now.

AETNA BOWLING ALLEYS PROVIDE EXCELLENT SPORTS

The Aetna bowling alleys, located in the Majestic building, 55 Shetucket street, offers the Norwich people a fine home for fall and winter sports.

Bowling is always a pleasure at this time of the year and at the Aetna alleys you will find seven of the finest alleys in eastern Connecticut fairly tempting you to roll them down the alleys to beat that 100 mark.

For years the Aetna alleys have been conducted in a manner which makes it possible for the men of eastern Connecticut to bring their wives and daughters with them to enjoy a game or two. Alleys at any time may be reserved for women, excepting of course specified alleys which are held for tournament games now underway.

Besides the bowling alleys there are over a half dozen excellent billiard tables. Here again is a game which is as suited for the ladies as for the men.

The policy of the Aetna alleys has always been that of allowing only gentlemen to use its alleys and tables for pleasure and because of this policy has established the reputation of being an ideal place for winter games for the entire family.

LOCAL MERCHANTS CAN PROVIDE FINE SERVICE

Whether it is in the automobile tire business, the hotel business, contracting, or in any other line of business, listed on this page is the firm or the business house which stands ready to give prompt and courteous service.

In rainy or pleasant weather, whether it is hot or cold hundreds of local business men await the calls of the patrons for service, that kind which they allege cannot be provided by the concern in cities miles away.

In particular this is true of the automobile accessory business. A tire or tube purchased from these dealers, if it gives trouble, can be serviced best by the concern from which the purchase was made. If it's radio trouble it's the local dealer who gets the call for assistance. If it's any type of quick service you need—it's the local dealer who supplies it.

Back up this type of local service by trading at home. The local dealer stands ready to serve you—isn't it fair that you should give him your trade?

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN EASTERN CONN.

Building operations in Norwich and other parts of Eastern Connecticut ran into the first setback of the year when the extreme cold weather brought to a halt all outside work and work involving the pouring of concrete. A snow storm also added to the difficulties of the builders and the week was almost a total loss for the contractors whose work was not of the interior variety.

However, considerable progress was made on several projects where the work had reached a stage not hampered by the cold and snow. The work at the Masonic temple goes along at a good rate and the work has been brought along to a stage that has exceeded the expectations of the contractor.

The increased building on upper Asylum street has been very noticeable during the past few months. Here several houses have been erected by Montie the contractor, and are ready for occupancy. Two 2-apartment houses have been erected along with two cottage dwellings. The houses have all the modern improvements and are very attractive. One of the disadvantages to this section of the city is the deplorable condition of the street in which there are ruts to the depth of eight to ten inches. These are either mud holes or frozen trenches depending on the weather.

Another section of the town that is rapidly building up is the Harland road section where building lots are being sold very rapidly. Much building was done in this section last summer and plans are being drawn for a number of new buildings which will be erected this spring.

There has been plenty of small contracts awarded during the past few weeks for alterations to the interior of local buildings as well as the erection of a number of garages. At the corner of Main and Broadway the work on remodeling the store formerly occupied by George E. Engler is progressing rapidly. The old front and Main street side of the store has been torn out and the building reinforced with steel girders. A new front will be erected and the entrances to the store will be changed.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were four sales of real estate in Norwich as compared to ten sales for the corresponding week in 1928. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $43,650 and $16,231.

In New London there were 10 sales of real estate during the past week, four more than during the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $55,385 and $45,600.

UPWARD TREND SHOWN IN BUILDING LINES IN DEC.

Building activity in Connecticut cities and towns took on a decided upward trend during December as the year neared its close. The month's total of building permits as recorded in the monthly survey of the committee on industrial survey of the New Haven railroad showed an increase of more than $1,700,000 over the figures for November.

Of the 22 communities covered by the railroad in its survey, 11 showed increases over their building permit totals for November and 11 showed gains over December, 1927 figures. The 11 cities and towns showing gains over November building permits were Bridgeport, Derby, Hamden, Hartford, Meriden, Middletown, New Haven, New London, Norwalk, Torrington and West Hartford. The 11 communities which gained over their building totals for December, 1927, were Bridgeport, Danbury, Derby, Greenwich, Meriden, New Haven, Norwalk, Torrington, West Hartford and Wallingford.

New Haven led the state in building activity for December with permits valued at $1,220,678. Hartford was next with a total of $1,153,368 and Middletown was third with $1,136,909. New Haven gained more than $600,000 over its December, 1927, ttoal, but both Hartford and Middletown fell below their last year's figures.

Comparative figures for December, 1928 and 1927 as reported by the railroad committee are as follows:

City	Dec. 1928	Dec. 1927
Bristol	$ 75,460	$ 111,920
Bridgeport	439,016	130,422
Danbury	79,895	44,615
Derby	49,986	11,500
Greenwich	437,550	372,335
Hamden	226,195	131,600
Hartford	1,153,363	1,178,513
Meriden	62,790	50,617
Middletown	1,136,909	1,780,393
Naugatuck	6,125	85,200
New Britain	174,305	300,006

Wallingford	29,835	27,440

New London.

This week saw the first continued spell of weather such as to retard construction work since the start of the current fall and winter. Snow, rain and cold combined to cause a let-up in building activities on houses and other construction where outside work had not been completed.

Snowstorms of Sunday and Tuesday fell into partially constructed buildings which had not been roofed over, and also filtered through windows that had not been fitted with sash. On Thursday rain, which froze as it fell, and covered, beams and boards in houses under construction with a slippery coating of ice, necessitated a layoff in work.

Near zero temperatures interfered with the work of carpenters and froze up sandpiles which had been piled at construction jobs for use of masons and plasterers.

Work stopped on the construction of foundation walls for several new houses that are to be constructed.

A big job affected in this vicinity was at Poquonoc Bridge, where a new high school, to be known as the Robert E. Fitch high school, is under construction by the A. F. Smiley Construction Co. of Pawtucket, R. I. The exterior work on the school has been practically completed, but masons were engaged in laying a concrete floor on the second floor level of the building. The work stopped during the extremely cold and stormy periods. Only a skeleton force remained on the job.

Prior to this week, during the past fall and current winter, contractors had been especially fortunate in being able to have men on jobs work full time. This was due to unseasonable weather, which was marred by comparatively few storms.

Work is nearly completed on the construction of a new house being built for W. J. Brady in Henderson road. The new house is of frame construction, modern design and has all modern improvements and conveniences. The masonry work on the house was done by the owner.

A new two-family house being built in Colman street for W. J. Sheridan is being plastered. The house is a frame structure and is being equipped with all modern improvements.

Work has been started on the construction of a new house to be built in Glenwood avenue for J. E. Redman. The new house is to be of frame construction and modern design and will have all modern improvements and conveniences.

A new house which the Quaker Hill Home Building company is erecting in Quaker Hill has been closed in. The new structure is a frame house and will have all modern improvements and conveniences. Building supplies are being furnished by the Raymond and Alexander company.

Building Permits.

R. C. Smith, verandas and frame addition, 107 Broad street, $1,000.

John Swanson, frame dwelling, Wasemer court, $6,000; garage, $350.

Isadort Glater, addition and alterations, 28 Truman street, $500.

Total number of permits issued for week, 4; estimated cost of buildings, $7,850.

Westerly.

For the second and third weeks in January Westerly Building Inspector Thomas Wills and Acting Zoning Inspector Merton B. Lewis, Jr., have issued the following building and zoning permits:

Jan. 7—Willard P. Hall, Avondale. Addition, 6 feet by 8 feet to present bungalow. Move present building to rear of garage and made addition, 14 feet by 20 feet.

Jan. 7—Luigi Marchese, Central Park. Three-car garage, 20 feet by 26 feet, at Central Park, by owner.

Jan. 10—Dominic D. and Theresa T. Gencarelli, Broadford road. Construct reinforced concrete coal pocket, 20 feet by 100 feet, between Frazier bridge and Bradford road.

Jan. 10—James J. Bannan, 35 Pleasant street. Enclose present west porch at 35 Pleasant street with glass.

Jan. 10—Edmund Charles St. Onge, Summer street. Construct garage, 26 feet by 20 feet on Summer street.

Jan. 12—Elizabeth S. Milner and Helen S. Price, Westerly. At rear of former Rhode Island Hotel block on Broad street, close up side of building occupied by Rhode Island Garage with novelty siding in a temporary permit. Since the Rhode Island Hotel fire the end of the building had a temporary wooden sheathing and present permit is granted to keep out weather and permit the heating of garage.

Jan. 16—Mrs. Maria V. Cappuccio, 63 Pierce street. One and a half story summer cottage, 38 feet by 26 feet, on Atlantic avenue, Misquamicut Beach. Day work by owner.

At the present time building activity in Westerly is confined to cottage building at the Westerly beaches of Watch Hill, Misquamicut and Weekapaug and at these summer beach homes additions and alterations are being made but not with the activity which follows the spring when summer visitors who are shore property owners bend every energy to having them in readiness for the summer.

BULL CAMPAIGN IN STOCK MARKET RAN INTO RATHER HEAVY LIQUIDATION

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—(AP)—A powerful bull campaign inspired by further taking of gold from London ran into rather heavy liquidation on the stock market today. Although a wide assortment of issues reached new high ground, the general list made only moderate headway.

While the inveterate bulls were inclined to make the most of the reported inflow of British gold, totalling $7,500,000 with today's taking of $8,000,000, opinion as to the probable outcome of the movement varied sharply, with tomorrow's federal reserve brokers' loan total generally expected to reach a new high record. there was a fairly widespread disposition to take profits.

The setback was readily absorbed, however, and nervousness over the brokerage loan announcement was less marked than in recent weeks. Banks have been paying off their loans at the reserve institutions, and any plan for a higher rediscount rate is regarded as highly unlikely, especially as it might discourage the gold movement from London.

The prospects of a heavy inflow of gold were regarded as less bright, with the announcement that Montague Norman, governor of the bank of England, sailed for New York today presumably to confer with the federal reserve authorities. He usually makes a visit at this time of year however. The bank of England is generally understood to hope to prevent a flow of gold to New York that would impair its reserves, and the federal reserve authorities are not anxious to see an expansion of credit through gold imports.

Call money held at 5 per cent, but the tone was somewhat firmer than at any time money held firmly at its abnormally high rates. Call money at 4½ per cent was as low as 3 per cent.

The day's news included an unusually cheerful weekly review of the steel industry by "Iron Age," which pointed to higher steel scrap prices and seen demand for finished steel as the important features of the steel market this week. Copper was advanced ½ cents a pound, domestic and still higher prices were talked of. News from the oil industry was less favorable, with an advance in crude production to record levels, with easing gasoline prices. A stock exchange seat sold for a new record price at $625,000, and the exchange announced expansion of its telephone facilities.

Utilities were prominent in the day's advances, the Associated Press index of 20 of this group advancing more than 2 points to a new high. The indices for 50 industrials and 20 rails also were carried to new high levels, in gains of around a point.

Chemical shares made wide gains. Allied Chemical and Union Carbide reached extreme gains of 10 and 13 points, which were reduced to 4 and 6 at the close. National Cash Register was a strong feature, mounting nearly 15 points to a new high record at 127.

Some of the coppers forged ahead. Greene Cananea mounted 9 points, but lost half its gain. International Nickel touched a new peak on consummation of the merger with Mond. Steels encountered profit-taking. U. S. Steel closing more than a point lower. General Motors old stock made an extreme gain of about 5 points, but other motor shares failed to follow.

Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, American Power and Light, American Telephone and International Telephone sold up 3 to 9 points. Public Service of New Jersey was an exception to the general trend in the utility group, sagging more than 2 points. Canadian Pacific led the rails with a spurt of more than 7 points, touching 230. New York Central sold up more than 4 points, but cancelled most of its gain. Westinghouse Electric and General Electric made extreme gains of 5 and 8 points.

Oils were generally heavy. Shell Transport losing nearly 3 points and Marlin and Standard of New York about a point. Rio Grande however, was strong, jumping more than 4 points. Baldwin Locomotive sold down 8 points, while American Radiator, Best & Co. Goodrich and National Biscuit receded about 3 points each.

The commodity markets were easier. Cotton sold off on the government ginnings report, which was somewhat larger than expected, but rallied somewhat later. Wheat sold up during most of the session, but encountered profit taking toward the close.

Foreign exchanges were steady, although sterling failed to rally above the incoming gold point.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE.
New York.

Stocks strong. Public Utilities reach new tops.

Bonds irregular, Public Service of New Jersey 4 1-2s again establish record price.

Foreign exchanges steady; sterling improves.

Cotton lower, Egyptian another export.

Sugar easy, Cuban selling.

Coffee lower, easier Brazilian markets.

BANKS, INS., UTILITIES

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—(AP)—New sheet steel business in the Youngstown district is reported ahead of that for the corresponding 1928 period. Despite heavy production of independent mills in the Mahoning valley, back orders are climbing. Demand from the automotive industry continues strong.

The marquis of Reading, former British ambassador to the United States, has been elected a director of Prudential Investors, Inc., a new investment concern.

The starting and lighting division of Electric Autolite Co., with plants in Toledo, Indianapolis, Niagara Falls, N. Y., East Pittsburgh and Oakland, Calif., expects January to be a record month with sales approximating $3,650,000 against $1,110,000 in January, 1928.

Newcomb Carleton, head of the Western Union Telegraph Co., and Frederick H. Ecker, vice-president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., have been elected directors of the American Express Co., Inc.

Common stock of the International Perfume Company, Inc., recent formed through a merger of Woodworth, Inc., and Dourjois, Inc., has been admitted to unlisted trading privileges on the New York curb market on a when issued basis.

Stockholders of the American Superpower corporation of record Jan. 24, have rights to subscribe to common stock of the United corporation, recently organized by J. P. Morgan & Co., and two other banking houses at $35 a share on basis of one share of United for each two shares of Superpower held.

GIRL, 15, BORROWS $11, SETS NEW COTON MARK

CORINTH, Miss. (AP)—A 15-year-old girl, Katie Mae Suitor of Corinth, is the best cotton farmer in Alcorn county in the point of acre yield. Her crop of 1,330 pounds of lint cotton, or almost three full-sized bales, grown on a single acre establishes a high mark for the county.

Unsightly Skin Eruptions Gone In Three Days

Those bad looking red eruptions of the skin that humiliate you and keep you from social gatherings—what are you going to do about them?

If you are wise and want to get rid astonished you'll get a 35 cent box of Peterson's Ointment today and let its mighty healing power make you joyfully happy in just a few days.

You'll praise it to your friends ever after, for it surely does heal and leaves the skin clear, healthy and good to look upon.

And here's something more that a multitude of Peterson's Ointment friends know—make a note of it.

This good old remedy is just as soothing for eczema, pimples, rashes and ulcers as it is for skin eruptions and if you doubt it ask any broad minded druggist.

Keep it in the house for burns and scalds, bruises, scratches, itching skin troubles and like ailments.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

HOG IS THE MORTGAGE LIFTER, SAY IOWA BROTHERS

CRESTON, Iowa, (AP)—Will and Arden McKee are convinced that "no one ever lost money on a healthy hog." They are so sure of it they advocate the statement's adoption as a farm slogan.

When the brothers were only boys they started raising hogs on the "home place" near Creston. Now they are nationally known as breeders of Duroc Jerseys, whose Great Colonel and Golden Gleam were proclaimed world champion hogs, and whose herd is one of the outstanding in the nation. Their pigs have been shipped to every state and to South America and Africa.

"Healthy hogs can't lose money," the McKees insist, "because they produce pork efficiently and because the swine and feed or grain markets always are on a favorable level over a period of time."

They condemn the breeder who cares for his hogs indifferently and suffers monetary loss from infections and diseases.

The McKee brothers favor the expansion in dairying, but declare the hog is the "mortgage lifter."

"It's a fine thing for any farm to have a few good milk cows, for the cream checks will pay the grocery bills, buy gasoline and tires for the automobile and clothing for the family," they say. "But, when the farmer needs money to pay taxes, interest, and land debts, he looks over into the pig pen to count noses."

POISON WASH FOR FRUIT TREES

The United States bureau of biological survey recommends for trial a poison wash for fruit trees to repel rabbits, made by mixing one ounce of powdered strychnine with five pounds of hydrated lime. This is made into a thick paste by mixing water and is applied to the tree trunks with a paint brush.

The formula which has been recommended in the past, consisting of linseed oil and lime sulphur, has been reported to have caused some injury to peach trees. It is apparently safe to use this mixture on apples, however. Some growers have also reported desirable results from the wash made of lime sulphur and Kayso. The Kayso acts as a sticker for the lime sulphur.

HINTS FOR THE FARM

Field mice carry on their depredations on fruit trees undetected in dead grass or snow around the base of the tree. Girdling may not be observed until the tree begins to fail the following season. Injury should be searched out in early spring, when trees frequently can be saved by bridge grafting.

Barley may replace oats advantageously in the northern and western states. Along the Canadian border and in the far west the yield of barley in pounds of feed per acre is more than that of oats, particularly on soils that are well drained and not too heavy.

The trapper who goes out after red foxes must be ingenious. Eynard is unusually keen-scented and suspicious. Traps, and also the ground on which they are set, should be entirely free from human odors. Gray and kit foxes are not especially wary and are more easily caught.

DISEASE CONTROL IMPORTANT IN RABBIT RAISING

Success in raising rabbits depends to a great extent on the ability to keep the animals free from parasites and bacterial diseases. A knowledge of the more serious ailments is advantageous, says the United States department of agriculture, and may be had from a study of Farmers' Bulletin No. 1568-F., "Rabbit Parasites and Diseases," a new publication now ready for distribution to persons requesting it.

Among the parasitic diseases given special attention in the bulletin are coccidiosis, ear mange, or ear canker, skin mange, and stomach-worm diseases. These diseases cause weakness, emaciation, wasting and death. Other parasitic affections, such as irritatins caused by fleas, lice and intestinal worms of various sorts, while not commonly producing very marked symptoms in infested animals, may gradually render them weak and unthrifty, making them more susceptible to other diseases as a result of their lowered vitality.

Prevention and control measures are more practical than treatment, and are usually matters of sanitation. In the case of parasitic diseases such measures must be based on a knowledge of the habits and life histories of the parasites involved and on their mode of transmission from one animal to another. The bulletin also discusses bacterial and other diseases, such as snuffles and pneumonia.

POINTS TO OBSERVE IN MAKING AND FEEDING SILAGE

Some important points to observe in the making and feeding of silage are discussed by livestock specialists of the United States department of agriculture in a revised edition of Farmers' Bulletin No. 578-F., "The Making and Feeding of Silage," which is now ready for distribution to interested persons.

"Silage," the authors of the bulletin say, "is the best and cheapest form in which to store succulent feed. Many forage crops can be made into silage; but corn, where it can be grown successfully, makes the best silage.

"Silage is suited for feeding to all livestock. Dairy cows, not on good pasture, need it perhaps more than other classes of animals, because the succulence it supplies is helpful in the production of large quantities of milk. It is a cheap and economical feed for beef cattle, from breeding cow to fattening steer. Sheep like it and it is well suited to their needs. Even horses and mules may be fed limited quantities of good silage with good results."

A method of making silage, known as the Ronning method, has come into use in the last few years and is considered the easiest known method of making silage. The standing corn is harvested and cut into proper lengths for the silo by a machine drawn and operated by a tractor. The cut corn is delivered to a wagon box drawn alongside. It is then hauled to the silo and pushed off into a blower which elevates it into the silo. When a pit silo is used the work of filling is still less. Making silage by the Ronning method requires approximately the same size crew as when a harvester and bundle elevator is used, but the advantage lies in saving the labor of handling the heavy bundles.

Eastern Conn. Bills In General Assembly

trol league and the conference of Congregational churches of Connecticut, will make at the general assembly this session to take the penalty provisions out of the present law forbidding the giving of information on or assistance in birth control.

Senator Christ said that he had been asked to offer the bill in behalf of the league. It would repeal section 6399, and this is the same section as the general conference at a meeting on November 9 declared it would have repealed.

The conference by resolution voted to endorse the bill sponsored by the American Birth Control league through the Connecticut branch, Mrs. George H. Day, Sr., president. The resolution read: "Be it resolved that we, the Congregational conference of Connecticut place ourselves on record in support of the bill x x x which reads 'Section 6399 is hereby repealed.'"

Another bill which attracted much interest, both because of its introducer and of its character, was that of Senator Mary B. Weaver, of New Milford, giving women equal rights with men in jury service.

The session over quickly today, the legislators, excepting the members of the appropriations committee, departed for home early. This committee remaining for a hearing on deficiency appropriations for the military department, state water commission, health department, and department of state agencies and institutions. The committee will continue the hearings for other departments tomorrow and Tuesday, closing with court deficiencies.

Immediately after the session tomorrow, the Connecticut League of Women Voters will give the women legislators a luncheon in the Hotel Bond here. Representative Marjory Cheney, of Manchester, arranged the details.

While only two judgeship resolutions appeared in the senate, the house had sixteen. Among them were resolutions for:

Levi F. Hickey at East Hartford; Albert C. Snyder at Bloomfield; William C. Duff, judge and Robert E. Ayer, deputy judge, at Unionville; Stanley N. Brainard, deputy judge at East Hartford; Albert S. Bill, at West Hartford; Michael T. Downes, judge and Louis Hoyarsky, deputy, Wallingford; Seth N. Beecher, deputy judge, Seymour.

The cities and boroughs committee elected Mr. Johnson, of Sherman clerk. Thomas Martin, of Salisbury, was chosen as clerk of railroads and Kenneth F. Cramer, of Wethersfield, of military affairs.

A house bill exempted from taxation property of veterans' organizations. Another exempted from personal taxation all who served in allied armies during the World war, received honorable discharge.

Seek to Control Nile

CAIRO —(AP)— The River Nile, usually a blessing but sometimes a peril to Egypt, is to be controlled. Construction work to be carried on under control of the Minister for Foreign Affairs is expected to interest numerous American companies, but competive bids probably will be received from companies in all countries.

TIMBER CONSERVATION GOVERNMENT PROBLEM

NEW YORK—(AP)—The government's part in assuring timber resources for future generations has been presented to the Society of American Foresters from two angles.

Describing such reservations as permanent investments which can be maintained as income-producing properties, Arthur S. Hopkins, of the New York state conservation department, argues that bond issues are the best method of providing funds for their purchase. Despite interest charges and other disadvantages, he insists bonds for acquisition and development of such properties are as clearly justified as those for other public improvements which, at best, are useful for relatively short periods.

E. A. Sherman, of the U. S. Forest Service, suggests the policy of purchasing lands which have suffered most from the removal of timber. The nation, he explains, ultimately will need all the timber that can be produced on all its timber lands.

ELECTRIC "PASTOR" FLASHES SERMONS

CHICAGO (AP)—An electric "preacher" that works day and night delivers crisp sermonettes to passerby from St. Mark's Episcopal church on Drexel boulevard.

The Rev. W. A. Simms prepared pointed messages for this wayside pulpit. Such homely commentaries as "Not failure, but low aim, is crime," and "We ought to make heroes out of legislators who can't be bribed" emblazon the electrically illuminated signboard.

Frequent letters from regular readers of the preaching sign have convinced Mr. Simms that his brief messages have a wide-spread appeal.

MANY MOURNERS IN NEW LONDON AT FUNERAL OF DR. W. D. CRONIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 23—Funeral services for Dr. William D. Cronin, prominent New London physician, head of the medical staff of Lawrence-Memorial hospital, who died suddenly at Ridgefield Park, N. J., Sunday from heart disease, were held this morning at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and were attended by a throng of mourners. The solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan, with Rev. Michael Reagan deacon and Rev. George Clerk sub-deacon. The quartet of the church sang the Gregorian mass.

The funeral was held at 9:30 from Dr. Cronin's residence, 22 Nathan Hale street. At the house and at the church there were delegations representing the medical and surgical profession, civic and religious organizations, with scores of friends and acquaintances from this city and elsewhere.

Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, where the clergymen read the prayers for the dead. In selecting the honorary bearers there was deference to Dr. Cronin's long known devotion and loyalty to the local hospitals and his close comradeship with his associates in his profession in the city. These bearers were Frederic W. Mercer, president of the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals, Albert C. Woodruff, treasurer of the hospitals; Dr. Daniel Sullivan, Dr. Charles B. Graves, Dr. Alfred Labensky, Dr. George P. Cheney, Dr. Thomas J. Murray and Dr. Frank M. Dunn.

The active bearers were members of the New London police department, John Courtney, Frank Linehan, Michael Dorsey, Dennis Cavanaugh, John Clifford, and Edward J. Riordan.

The magnificent floral remembrances included forms and emblems, in addition to those from relatives, sent by city court officials, associates of Dr. Cronin's brother, Prosecutor Daniel M. Cronin; Judge S. Victor Prince, Deputy Judge John J. McGarry, Acting Prosecutor Max Boyer and Court Clerk John M. Mallon, Jr., pieces from the police department, the medical staff of hospitals, the nursing staff of the hospitals and from the various local Catholic organizations.

ANTHONY LAPRESTO GETS FINE AND JAIL SENTENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 23—Anthony LaPresto of 55 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, was fined $500 and received a jail sentence of 30 days to be served in the New London institution, when tried in Stonington court this morning. He was charged with three violations of the prohibition law and pleaded guilty to all.

FUNERALS

Mrs. George Farrell

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Farrell, widow of George Farrell, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. George Clark, Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley being deacon and Rev. Michael Reagan sub-deacon. The bearers were James, George G., George C., and James Farrell, Levi N. Kenyon and Michael Joyce. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Miss Irma K. Lanphear

The funeral of Miss Irma K. Lanphear, daughter of Frank Lanphear, was held this morning at 11 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Michael Reagan. The bearers were Edward, William and Harry Lezarde and Richard Hayes, uncles of Miss Lanphear. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

William Sagendorf

The funeral of William Sagendorf was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Odd Fellows' home, Groton, the services being conducted by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of Groton Heights Baptist church. Burial was in the home cemetery.

Raymond Hannah, charged with breach of the peace and intoxication, was fined $5 and costs. Hannah went to the home of Mrs. Henry McDonald, 17 Tilley street, last night and created such a disturbance that Mrs. McDonald made complaint to the police. Hannah was arrested by Patrolmen Frank Philopena and Edward Riordan.

The only other case tried was that of an unfortunate man charged with intoxication who was arrested last night by Sergeant Frank Howard. He was sentenced to 10 days in jail.

NORWICH RELATIVES STOLE WHILE ON VISIT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 23—Charles Bjork, 19, married and residing at 30 Grove street, Norwich, was in the police court this morning charged with theft. The case was continued until tomorrow and in default of a surety on his bond, Bjork was committed to jail. Bjork was arrested yesterday by Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith as a result of a series of thefts at the residence of William Price, 84 Raymond street, the young man being a distant relative of Mrs. Price. Bjork came to New London several times recently, he claimed for the purpose of obtaining work. During his trips to New London he committed the thefts which he has admitted. Jan. 19 he stole a wrist watch belonging to Mrs. Price, pawning it at the shop of Louis Lampert on Bank street. The theft which resulted in Bjork's arrest was committed Monday afternoon when he went to the Price residence in the absence of Mrs. Price and stole two safety boxes.

John Mondelci has sold a building lot on Colman street to Stanislaw and Annie S. Jacsinski.

Collector of Taxes Hibbard N. Alexander today issued releases of the warrants issued several weeks ago against Pauline Duborff and Raymond H. Hillar.

Frank Gristino of 74 Liberty street, Groton, was in the court of that town this morning on a charge of violating the liquor law. His case was continued to Monday, at the request of council.

Members of Sorores club had a caravan party which started at the Y. W. C. A. building, with supper. Following this the company went to the apartment of Miss Gladys Taber, on Broad street where games were played for about an hour. The next place visited was the home of Miss Marjorie Manion, on Norwood avenue.

At the January luncheon and meeting of the Faire Harbour club, yesterday at the club house, thirty-five members were present. Nine tables of bridge were in play following the business meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dayton gave a miscellaneous shower last night in their home on Broad street extension, in honor of the former Lillian Dayton who recently became the bride of Russell Homer Truitt. Many gifts were received by the newlyweds during an evening of music and games.

At a meeting of the auxiliary to Division 26, Ancient Order of Hibernians, tomorrow night, a large class will be initiated. An entertainment and dance will follow.

At a meeting of Pythian Sisters held tonight in Union lodge rooms, the names of candidates desiring to become members of the organization were voted upon.

Members of Fidelity chapter, Order of Eastern Star, will be entertained Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Zepp, the first social meeting of the organization this year.

Ten candidates were initiated at a meeting in Odd Fellows hall last night, held by Osprey Rebekah lodge. More than one hundred members of the organization were present and after the ceremonies there was a lunch.

The Catholic Woman's club plans a card party, the affair being arranged by Mrs. Joseph F. Fitzpatrick and committee.

Installation ceremonies of Varden lodge, Sons of Norway, were held Monday night, when Jacob Anderson was seated as president.

FIRE ESCAPES ORDERED FOR CASTILDA APARTMENTS

Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 23—Orders were issued today by Building Inspector William Gunn to the effect that fire escapes must be placed on the Homestead apartment house in Broad street, owned by Victor Castilda. An inspection of the building disclosed the fact that it contains 11 apartments and the only exit in case of emergency is through a central hallway which leads out to the rear of the building.

One hundred and fifty pupils of the public schools in Groton are absent owing to illness. The greatest number of absentees is reported at the Groton Heights school were 100 students out.

BLISTER ON HIS LIP CAUSES DEATH OF DAVID LEIB

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 23—David D. Leib, 15, son of Prof. and Mrs. David Leib, 358 Mohegan avenue, and a student at Bulkeley high school, died this afternoon at Lawrence Memorial hospital, death resulting from blood poisoning. Young Leib was a member of the school band and recently because of constant manipulation of the cornet, a blister formed on his lip The blister developed a carbuncle a few days ago and poisoning resulted, which permeated the young man's system. When young Leib's condition became serious he was taken to the hospital and there his condition rapidly became worse. He expired about 1 o'clock this afternoon.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Plaut Cadden's Courtesy Day.

Today (Thursday) throughout the day and until 9.30 in the evening an opportunity will be given the public to be the guests of the Plaut-Cadden Co. The occasion is known in retail trade circles as a day of courtesy, preceding an extraordinary sale announcement, when the public is invited to inspect the merchandise to be on sale and to observe the price reductions that will be effective. Courtesy days have proven very popular throughout the country and it is expected that hundreds of people will take advantage of this opportunity offered by the Plaut-Cadden Co.

It will be well worth the time of everyone with a home to visit this store today, on the eve of the beginning of the most drastic storewide price reduction event this company has ever held in the fifty-six years of its existence. Every visitor to the store will be given an opportunity, without obligation, to participate in the distribution of merchandise valued at over two thousand dollars to be given away by the company.

Continuous musical entertainment will be provided all day which will be augumented this evening with a concert by D'Atri's popular orchestra.

Capitol Theatre, Willimantic.

The third anniversary of the opening of the Capitol theatre at Willimantice will be fittingly observed Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week by giving the public a rare stage and screen treat at no advance in prices. The stupendous nature of the show to be presented at the regular admission price virtually puts the treat "on the management." In recognition of the splendid patronage the theatre has received Manager George A. Bartlett spared no effort or expense in putting on a worthwhile performance in noting the third anniversary of this beautiful and spacious playhouse. On the stage there will be six acts of personally selected vaudeville. The feature number will be the appearance of The Pioneer Tap Dancers, a nationally advertised act, starring Sam Johnson, Willimantic's native vaudevillian. Johnson is an original Windham minstrel man who appears in a clever skit that has proven a powerful lobby magnet. The five other acts of the show are likewise high class entertainments. The film attraction during the three-day celebration will be "Spieler" a stirring photoplay starring Alan Hale, Renee Adoree and yide Cook.

Breed Theatre.

Every detail of the colorful life of circus folk on the road, on the lot, under the "big top" and rolling on their special train to the next town is shown in "Three Ring Marriage" now heading the bill at the Breed theatre.

Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes are co-featured players in this First National picture's drumma of circus life. Supporting them are practically all the performers, side show freaks, barkers, rousta out., and other attaches of the Al G. Barnes circus. However, Lawford Davidson, Alice White, Yola d'Avril and other well-known film players also figure in the cast.

The whole troupe and Director Marshall Neilan travelled with the circus to film "Three Ring Marriage." The exciting intrigue of the plot, with an appealing romance in which Miss Astor and Hughes appear as trick riding circus stars, take place under and around the "big top," or in the show's special train.

Palace Theatre.

The Palace theatre clicks again with nother of their "Greater Palace 'hows" for the last half of this week. As good as the last two vaudeville shows have been, the present one is even better and will meet with happy approval from ever Palace fan.

Heading the vaudeville bill is "Suite Sixteen" an unusual farce set to music and dance and with a "hot" plot that has its setting in a newlyweds bedroom. What more need be said when anyone is looking for funny situations? Here is an act that has "it" in capital letters.

Second headliner on the bill is "The Revue of Revues" a corking good flash with a cast of real song and dance artists who can "strut" their stuff right.

Kenny and Tracey hold the next to closing spot with a hokum skit called "Two Kueens of Hokum" and if you don't believe two pretty girls can be real funny then see this team.

A. Ba. Kou & Co. brings a new sort of juggling act that starts the show off just right. He has some mighty neat tricks when it comes to super-balancing.

Gordon & Fitzpatrick are called "The Two Royal Tailors," but we can't guarantee how they "tailor," but they can sing and entertain.

The feature picture shows us Marie Prevost, Ralph Graves and Little Billy (of circus fame) in "The Sideshow."

Tense drama of the circus focused upon the events that occur in a freak show adequately describes Columbia's "The Sideshow" which is being shown at the Palace theatre. It is by far the best picture of circus life to be shown here. In plot and treatment it is original, entertaining and well presented. The acting is without fault.

Marie Prevost is more charming than ever as the assistant of the Hindu magician, a role assumed by Alan Roscoe. Ralph Graves has blazed a new trail of characterizations as the ballyhoo artist. He is so appealing that he could convince the ordinary human being that the moon was made of green cheese. The way he introduces the freaks and draws people into the show is worth seeing.

PLANETS REPRODUCED FOR LABORATORY STUDY

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—The peculiar kind of light that would emanate from a planet made of silver with iodine for an atmosphere has been created in the laboratory by John Q. Stewart and S. A. Korff of Princeton university.

Other unusual "worlds," made from glass, wool, asbestos and any desired combination of substances, have thus been created to facilitate analysis of planets by the spectroscope, by the light of which the elements composing the object viewed can be determined.

The sample light combinations are created by mixing the elements desired in a glass tube, and studying the spectra of light reflected from the substances in the tube.

CUT DOWN CURRICULA, AN EDUCATOR ADVISES

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Education, like legislation, may become too highly detailed for general use and efficient operation, in the opinion of Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida.

Curtailment of the curricula of educational institutions is advocated by the educator as one of the ways to eliminate wasted expenditures. He further recommends earlier entrance and graduation of students and the operation of educational machinery on a business basis. American students, he says, are graduated two years later in life than those of Europe.

Democratization of junior education is another feature pointed to by Dr. Tigert as wasteful.

"We have as many as 60 or 70 courses in our high schools, and our system now is articulated with industrial order," he asserts.

BOTANIST SAYS TREES POSSESS CHARACTER

NEW YORK (AP)—Naturalists are studying trees to determine whether they have personalities which might have some influence on moulding their shapes, says Dr. Forman T. McLean of the New York Botanical Garden.

"Dogwoods and sassafras and retiring by nature," he says, "and crowd closely together. Might this huddling be called a personality trait something like timidity?"

He calls the oak sturdy, the elm flirtatious with graceful outward sweeping limbs, and spruces, hemlocks and bare-limbed larches trees that possess the appearance of "stepping out boldly."

CHICAGO FAIR IN 1933 TO SHOW RELICS OF LAST

CHICAGO, (AP)—A few scant architectural ghosts, survivors of the glory that was the Columbian exposition of 1893, will be here to revive dreams of forty years before for some who will visit the Chicago world fair of 1933.

The Fine Arts building of 1893 still spreads its Roman bulk in Jackson park. After the fair it housed the Field Museum until the crumbling of its temporary masonry hastened the construction of a new museum. Eventually the Fine Arts building is to be restored.

Most of the Columbian exposition buildings were of a temporary nature, and after the fair were demolished. A few survived, including the Iowa state building, a low rambling structure of stone, now a recreation pavilion, and a few buildings of the old Japanese village. A reproduction of one of Columbus' adventuring ships gently rides in a park harbor.

The German building, reproduction of a medieval castle, was destroyed by a few years ago.

Oil From Rubber Seeds

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS—(AP)—Rubber interests are investigating a new source of revenue, extraction of oil from rubber seeds, which long have been treated as refuse on Malayan rubber estates. Net profit of $11 a ton is estimated with market prices approximately $22 a ton. Estate laborers earn about 2 cents a day collecting seeds in spare time.

Demand for Vicks Supplies Good Index of Spread of Flu

An interesting sidelight on the present influenza epidemic has been the accuracy with which the demand for Vicks VapoRub reflects the flu situation in various parts of the country. Vicks is the external treatment which proved so helpful in 1918.

Last November, rush orders from the Pacific Coast for more and more Vicks told of the beginning of a new epidemic. As the Flu moved east, sudden increases in the demand for Vicks marked its spread from state to state.

Now that influenza has become fairly general, it is once more necessary, in spite of vastly increased capacity, to run the Vicks laboratories all night long, as the public now demands over $75,000 jars every 24 hours.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

The annual parish meeting of St. Andrew's Episcopal church was held Monday evening in the parish hall, Senior Warden William J. Banfield presiding. Favorable reports were heard from the Woman's guild, the church school, Altar chapter, Woman's auxiliary, Girls' Friendly society and it was very pleasing to hear from the church treasurer, Arthur Fitch, that every bill had been paid due Jan. 1.

The following officers were elected for 1929: Senior warden, William J. Banfield; junior warden, James Johnson; clerk, Charles Erwin; treasurer, Arthur Fitch; assistant treasurer, John T. Evans; vestrymen, William H. Taft, William Andrews, Thomas Mort, John T. Evans, Fitch A. Dolbeare, Albert Andrews, William Winterbottom, Frederick W. Fitch; appointive delegates to the diocesan convention, F. W. Fitch, Charles Erwin; alternates, James Johnson, John T. Evans; archdeaconry delegates, William Andrews, Thomas Mort; alternates, William H. Taft, F. A. Dolbeare.

Troop No. 21, Boy Scout of America, held its regular meeting Wednesday evening. Six boys were enlisted. Rev. H. Brothwell was appointed scoutmaster. The troop will meet every Monday evening at 7:15.

Regular Meeting

The Tadeusz Kocuszka society held their regular monthly meeting Sunday afternoon at Pulaski hall with 300 members attending. The meeting was in charge of Anthony Garzymkowski. Favorable reports were read during the meeting by the treasurer and secretary, which showed that the society is in very good standing from financial standpoint. The following officers for the coming year were installed: President, Anthony Gzrymkowski; vice-president, Bronislaw Smiegal; secretary, George Blazenski; treasurer, Konsty Warakomski; recording secretary, John Klukowski. Following the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

Mrs. Ritchie Bacon, of Richmond, Va., is spending a few days at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Pitcher, of 134 Prospect street.

NORWICH TOWN

GOAL CLUB ELECTS MANAGER AND CAPTAIN

The Goal club of Norwich Town, which has entered the Senior Church basketball league, held a meeting recently in the Congregational chapel to elect a manager and a captain. Elton Odgers was chosen manager and Crosby Peck was the choice for captain. The team, which will be fitted with new suits, is to meet for its first game at the Y. M. C. A. next Monday evening. Clyde M. Beebe is associated with the club.

Mrs. John R. Baynes returned recently to her home on Elm avenue, following a visit of two weeks with her sister, Mrs. Scranton Skinner, of Gramercy Park North, New York city.

It has been decided by the work committee of the Woman's department of the League of Service, that when the box of warm clothing, etc., is packed for Frederick J. Working, of Atlanta, Ga., Friday afternoon in the chapel, that a similar box will be packed to be sent to Miss Ruth Beebe, the contents to be distributed among her pupils at Trinity school, Athens, Ala.

Friends of Rev. George Warren Potter, pastor of Norwich Town M. E. church, and of William Weaver, of Huntington Green, were encouraged to learn Wednesday morning that both showed improvement, they having been confined to their beds for several days, because of illness. Miss Alice Brown, a member of the Potter family who has been ill, was also reported to be gaining. Besides having illness in the home, Mrs. Potter has substituted for her husband in the church, also is supervising other of Mr. Potter's activities. She has received many compliments from those attending the morning worship at the Methodist church Sunday, for the efficient manner in which she conducted the service. At the Weaver home, Miss Annie Ward has been assisting during Mr. Weaver's illness.

JUDGMENTS FOR $1,666 GRANTED BY COURT IN $10,000 DAMAGE SUIT

Judgments totalling $1,666.80 have been rendered by Judge Christopher L. Avery of the superior court, in favor of Joseph M. Adelizzi, of Lebanon, and John A. Macdonald, as state highway commissioner, in their $10,000 damage suit against Frank C. Fish, of Hope Valley, R. I. The judgments were filed Wednesday with the clerk of the superior court in this city. The case was tried Tuesday before Judge Avery in the superior court in this city.

Mr. Adelizzi, a resident engineer for the state highway department, originally brought the damage suit against Mr. Fish and State Highway Commissioner Macdonald later joined as a party plaintiff. On June 1, 1926, Mr. Adelizzi was engaged in building a new road on the Norwich-Willimantic highway, at or near Franklin hill. A truck, owned by Mr. Fish and driven by Raymond C. Miner, struck and ran over Mr. Adelizzi, crushing both legs and feet. At the time of the accident the truck was engaged in carrying sand which was being used in the construction of the highway. Mr. Adelizzi brought suit for $10,000 damages and Mr. Macdonald, as state highway commissioner, joined in the suit, asking $466.80, which he claims, as state highway commissioner, he became obligated for and paid to Mr. Adelizzi as a result of the accident.

Judge Avery's decision awards damages of $1,200 to Mr. Adelizzi and $466.80 to Mr. Macdonald, as state highway commissioner.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS MEETS AT Y. M. C. A.

The topic at the Men's Bible study and discussion at the local Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening was, "A Man's Word, or Keeping a Promise," and the scripture used was Matt. 5:33-48. The following were some points brought out in the discussion: The proportion of men who at times disregard their promises is far too large. Strict honesty is conspicuous by its absence in too many cases. Many men seem to think that "honesty is not the best policy," while the fact is that honesty is the only policy that men should follow. Men measure success by cash, while God measures it by character. Men oftimes take an oath to convince others that they are telling the truth, while if a man's word, without an oath being taken, is not honest, when the same man takes an oath, we naturally suspect him.

Jesus was opposed to the taking of an oath. He believed that men should live far above the necessity of such an act. No man is justified in relating his acts or words to the law of the state alone, without regard to the moral law, which is the higher law. It is easy to lie, partially because with far too many it is the custom. There are various forms of lying; deliberate misrepresentation, telling what may be called a half truth and acting a lie without speaking a word.

By correct measurements, a man is a gainer rather than a loser in the long run by adhering to the truth. We must not confine success simply to the making of money. A clear conscience gives a man far greater joy and satisfaction than the mere possession of money. What the world needs is real genuine honest men.

ROSE OF NEW ENGLAND AUXILIARY CARD PARTY

A successful luncheon and card party, the first of a series, was conducted by Rose of New England auxiliary, No. 40, Independent Order B'Nai B'rith, Wednesday, at their rooms on Shetucket street, with a large number present. The organization is indebted to members for food and money and to the following committee in charge, Mrs. A. Curland, Mrs. R. Henschel, Mrs. A. Pasnik, Mrs. H. Bruckner, and Mrs. C. Grass, and the waitresses, Mrs. Paul A. Schwartz, Mrs. Maurice Cohen, Mrs. S. Miller and Miss Goldie Bruckner.

Following the luncheon bridge and pinochle were played, the prize winners being as followst Bridge, Mrs. C. Grass, Mrs. J. Lahn, Mrs. H. Rosoff, Mrs. S. Kramer, Mrs. G. Schiller; pinochle, Mrs. F. Herman. Dainty refreshments were served after the card party by Mrs. H. Schwartz, Mrs. P. A. Schwartz, Mrs. F. Herman and Mrs. S. Miller.

TWO AUTOMOBILES AND TROLLEY CAR COLLIDED

A three-cornered collision occurred about 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening on Main street between two automobiles and a trolley car. The machine, No. SX-815 Conn., driven by James R. Hammond, of New London, collided with the trolley and a machine owned by Dr. N. B. Lewis, of No. 314 Main street, while it was parked in front of his office on Main street. It is understood the New London man tried to drive his machine between the trolley and the parked machine. The Norwich machine was somewhat damaged. The trolley was operated by Motorman Thomas Talley.

BOYNTON LEADING IN WEST SIDE PINOCHLE

Boynton with high score of 7,930 jumped from second into first place in Wednesday evening's play at the West Side Pinochle club. Peckham, who was in fourth position, dropped to the bottom of the standing, when he was only able to make 5,720, the low score of the evening. The result of Wednesday evening's play resulted as follows:

Schuler, 6,885; Boynton, 7,930; Ellsworth, 7,450; Peckham, 5,720; Bailey, 6,285; Lewis, 6,030; McNaught, 6,225; Underwood, 6,580; Pettis, 6,490; J. Jordan, 7,520; Parker, 7,595; A. Jordan, 6,740.

The standing to date: Boynton, 13,710; Schuler, 14,980; Ellsworth, 14,280; J. Jordan, 14,085; Parker, 13,850; Lewis, 13,305; Underwood, 13,175; Pettis, 13,015; Bailey, 12,985; McNaught, 12,900; A. Jordan, 12,600; Peckham, 12,430.

SERIES OF ADDRESSES AT CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

The mid-week meeting at the Central Baptist church this week will be in preparation for the series of addresses to be delivered by Rev. M. J. Twomey, D. D., Feb. 10th to 14th. Announcement will be made of plans formulated at a meeting held on Monday evening of this week. These will include a committee on publicity, consisting of Charles F. Whitney, Robert Otis and Arthur F. Wyman. At the meeting Monday it was decided to extend an invitation to all the churches of Norwich and vicinity to participate in the meetings.

There will be a chorus choir directed by Fred T. Maples and assisted by the quartette of the church. Miss Fuller will preside at the organ.

35th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben B. Ladd, of No. 24 Spring Garden avenue, were given a pleasant surprise at their home by a party of friends in celebration of their 35th wedding anniversary recently and received many beautiful gifts. A musical programme of old songs was enjoyed with Mrs. Allen Bogle at the piano and Henry Ladd playing the violin. Refreshments were served by Mary Louise Hull, Dorothy Ladd and Mrs. William Fleming.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bogle, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sharples, Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Taft, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bushnell, Mrs. William Fleming, the Misses Annie Taft, Helen Taft, Mary Louise Hull, Dorothy Ladd and Henry E. Ladd.

CARD PARTY OF 125 TABLES BY NORWICH TOWN SOCIETY

A large company from Norwich and vicinity assembled at the Samuel Huntington school, Norwich Town, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, for cards and dancing. The affair was given under the auspices of the Children of Mary, a society of Sacred Heart church. Miss Nelly Donohue was general chairman and Miss Agnes L. White was assistant chairman. The committees comprised: Tables and chairs, Misses Mary Burns and Elizabeth Lynch; cards, Dora Marchand and Mary Wagner; prizes, Katharine Casey and Julia Santo; score cards, Dorothea Morris; tickets and printing, Misses Abby Casey and Mary Blacker, who also were in charge of checking in the coat room. Miss Mary White was chairman of the scorers, who were Misses Elizabeth and Anna Mara, Bertha and Anna Duke, Mary Healy, Alice Cummings, Mary Fields, Julia Santo, Mary Wagner, Virginia Young, Dorothea Morris, and Stella Wasileski. Miss Elizabeth Lynch had charge of the sale of home-made candy, assisted by the young women scorers. William A. Murphy, Thomas White, Timothy Fields and William O'Neil had charge of the sale and collection of tickets at the door. Ed. Connell and Charles Ryan representatives of the troop of Boy Scouts of the Sacred Heart parish were delegated to render services to the Children of Mary, in any way they might assist, in behalf of their troop.

In the school auditorium, where 125 tables were arranged, bridge, whist, pinochle, forty-five and michigan were in play until about ten o'clock. This was followed by dancing until midnight, Ted Moore's orchestra furnishing music. At the close a special trolley car was in waiting at the school to carry patrons to Franklin square. The chairman and her assistants expressed acknowledgment to all who assisted in making the affair a success. Courtesies were extended by the Connecticut company, the Eagles, Cummings & Ring, J. J. Lyons, M. H. Hourigan, the Catholic Ladies of Columbus, Catholic Women's club, also John Cosey, who provided transportation. The prize winners at cards were.

At bridge—Mrs. A. Carroll, Mrs. John R. Tarrant, Joseph P. Cummings, William E. Stoudt.

Pinochle—Mary Duhaime, Molly Millea, John Lafferty, John Vache.

FORMER NORWICH WOMAN DIED ON TRANSPORT

Mrs. Mary Suzanne Evans Maynard, formerly of Norwich, wife of Lieut. George L. Maynard of the U. S. Marine Corps, died on the navy transport Henderson when the ship was three days out of China, bound for San Francisco. Hartford relatives were informed by radio Wednesday. Mrs. Maynard had been in China with her husband since last June and was returning with him and a marine contingent at the time of her death. The cause of death was not given in the message.

Previous to her marriage two years ago, Mrs. Maynard was a secretary for Goodwin-Beach Co., of Hartford and had also done secretarial work for Congressman Fenn. She leaves her husband, three sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Standen, of Philadelphia, Mrs. Elinor Fish, of Hartford, Mrs. Marguerite Conger of Weaversville, N. C., and two brothers, Robert R. Evans of Mineola, Fla., and William G. Evans, formerly assistant manager of the Palace theatre, Hartford.

The body was cremated on the Henderson. Burial will be in the family plot in Norwich at a time to be announced later. The Henderson will not dock on the Atlantic coast until sometime in March, it is understood.

Mrs. Maynard lived in Norwich until she was 15 years of age.

NORMAN SHAFFER DIRECTOR TELEPHONE EMPLOYES SOCIETY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 23—At the annual meeting here of the Telephone Employe's Mutual Benefit society, Thomas J. Lynch, traffic chief at Stamford, Norman Shaffer of the plant dept., Norwich, A. M. Fraser and C. R. Brown of New Haven were elected directors for two years, succeeding C. F. Ramsdell, wire chief, Stamford, A. L. Osborn, traffic chief, New London, Walter F. Gooch, traffic chief and N. W. Brown of the plant dept. at New Haven. C. R. Brown, elected to the directorate at this meeting, is a son of the N. W. Brown who retires as a director.

As its name indicates this society is a mutual benefit enterprise formed by the telephone workers a number of years ago and supported by them by small annual membership dues. To members who are ill for two weeks or longer the society pays a small benefit weekly and it is one of the employes welfare enterprises by which telephone workers aid each other and bring the crowd together in a contented family.

The annual report of W. S. Tuttle, secretary, shows a total membership in the society of 3,150 employes of which number 1,150 are men and 2,000 are women.

INCREASING DEMANDS ON THE NOROTON HOME

The veterans' home commission of Connecticut in its annual report to the governor advises that there is increasing need for maintenance of the Fitch home for soldiers and sailors at Noroton.

"Connecticut's contribution to the United States during the World war was numerically far in excess of any of the state's contributions to any of the previous wars," the commission's letter accompanying the formal report goes on. "A great many of the sons of Connecticut have been incapacitated in whole or in part by reason of the service which they rendered their country and it is nevtable that a great many of these men will require assistance in the future. The Fitch home must be placed in condition to properly fulfill its share in the obligation."

This is the first report of the commission and accordingly acknowledges that under the present administration of the home the services of Major Richard J. Hughes as commanadant and Dr. David A. Bryce as surgeon were secured. They have been vested with authority to "set up an organization to their liking," and "the wisdom of this course is already apparent in the improved morale and cordial relationships established with the veterans' organizations throughout the state."

"The cheerful barracks rooms, the clean, bright, pleasingly decorated and furnished hospital wards, and particularly the attitude and morale of the veterans are contrasted with conditions as they were prior to September, 1927," it is reported of the present regime at the home.

"It was not until September, 1927, that the commission was able to organize and inaugurate a change in the administration of Fitch's home for soldiers and sailors hospital. The situation with respect to the management and operation of the home prior to that date is fully discussed in the report of the commission on state institutions, and it was largely due to the disclosures made therein that the general assembly in 1927 enacted the law creating the veterans' home commission. No useful purpose would be served here by dwelling on the reconstruction task with which the commission was confronted when it took over the general management of the home and hospital."

At the home the commandant has been given authority to select and discharge employes, removals have been made in "many instances," while the staff morale has "steadily improved." Labor turnover is high, but only in types of employment where it is expected.

FORECASTS STEADY FREIGHT VOLUME ON "NEW HAVEN"

That freight traffic conditions and capital expenditures on the New Haven railroad will be substantially the same during 1929 as in the past year is pointed to by such indications as are at present available, according to an article in Railway Age by Acting President Edward G. Buckland of the New Haven, recently elected chairman of the board of directors.

While certain economic factors, as well as the increased efficiency and speed in freight transportation on the New Haven, are tending to increase the amount of freight transported by the New Haven, other factors have the opposite tendency, "Competition by highway and water has undoubtedly had an effect upon the growth of freight business of the railroads during recent years," Mr. Buckland writes. "Another factor of some weight is the steady expansion of the use of electric power in industry which has substantially reduced the consumption of fuel." The volume of coal handled by rail is also affected by various other new heating methods introduced into homes and industrial plants.

SALES MANAGER E. L. BLISS OF N. B. CO. GOES TO CANADA

The sales force of the Norwich branch of the National Biscuit company went to Worcester Saturday to attend a farewell reception and dinner at Hotel Bancroft given E. L. Bliss, for the last ten years district sales manager in charge of the 21 selling agencies in New England, all of which were represented by their sales force. Mr. Bliss is leaving New England to go to Canada to take full charge of the company's interests in the Dominion.

Those attending from the Norwich branch were C. W. Nay, sales agent, and the following salesmen: F. C. Sullivan and J. H. Yerrington, Norwich; H. F. Bean, Danielson; H. T. Brown, Willimantic, and G. W. Mitchell, New London. L. W. Champlin of Westerly could not attend on account of illness. Mr. Bliss was presented a Hartman wardrobe trunk and a Gladstone suitcase.

GAS SALES SHOWED BIG INCREASE PAST YEAR

Both the total number of cubic feet of gas consumed and the number of customers making use of gas in Connecticut have grown to a marked extent, statistics compiled by the American Gas association show. Total sales of gas in this state during 1928 exceeded by approximately 638,983,000 cubic feet the gas sales of the preceding year, when 9,651,439,000 cubic feet were sold. In terms of percentage, consumption of gas in Connecticut during 1928 was more than seven per cent. greater than in 1927.

Increase in the total number of customers is another indication of the forward strides being taken by the gas industry in this state. During 1928, a net gain of 9,366 customers was made, the total number in Connecticut at the close of 1928 reaching the sum of 302,983. The gain in customers in terms of percentage is 3.15 per cent and the new customers include those who make use of gas for domestic, commercial, industrial and other purposes.

WARNS AGAINST FROZEN WATER PIPE SYSTEMS

Mild, clear weather during the early part of the present winter season has caused many people to fail to take proper precautions against the freezing of their residential water supply systems, according to Connecticut water company officials. Service departments of water companies throughout the state are now warning householders to make arrangements to protect their water pipes during severely cold weather.

STATE IMPORTED MUCH ELECTRIC POWER IN 1928

Unusually plentiful water supply at the hydro-electrical generating plants in Vermont and other New England states during 1928 and the connection of Connecticut plants with them by means of long distance, high tension transmission lines have made possible the importation into Connecticut of vast amounts of current generated by water power which otherwise would have gone to waste. Great savings in fuel were thereby effected.

HEATING IS LARGE STREET RAILWAY COST

Extra operating expense required to generate current consumed by the heating apparatus of a single trolley car in Connecticut during the winter months is equal to the cost of twenty-five tons of coal, statistics in the files of the Connecticut company show. To maintain one street car at a comfortable temperature, in other words, requires a quantity of coal sufficient to supply heat during the entire winter to four families living in five room apartments. The sum consumed during an average winter in heating all of the trolley cars operated on the Connecticut company's system would supply sufficient heat for 900 ten room houses throughout the winter.

Comfortably heated trolley cars are so commonplace in Connecticut that practically no one thinks of the enormous amount of electrical current that must be generated for heating purposes in addition to that used to propel the cars or of the complicated especially designed heating equipment which must be used.

SPECIAL PHONE SERVICE FOR GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Connecticut's legislators' who are now meeting each week at the state capitol in Hartford are being well cared for with respect to telephone service. The Southern New England Telephone Co., has installed a special switchboard in the lobby of the capitol building exclusively for their use when they are attending assembly sessions or committee hearings.

A car owned and driven by Arthur A. Moffett, of Providence, R. I., struck Ronald Guertin, 3, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Guertin, of Norwich avenue, about noon Wednesday while the boy was leaving his home. He suffered a broken arm and was taken to the William W. Backus hospital, where he was attended by Dr. Robert R. Agnew.

On Wednesday evening the regular meeting of the members of St. Veronica's society was held at the society's rooms on Providence street with Miss Mary Nolan, the president, presiding.

The members of the American Legion have formed a rifle team and expect to compete in some shooting contests in the near future.

POETRY

Rose in Spite of Poverty

Money can't bring happiness;
It's better to be poor—
This may have been observed before.
A person can't be sure
Money doesn't bring you peace
Or wisdom or content;
For money isn't everything—
Just ninety-nine per cent.

Money has deceiving ways
It's but a mere act of pottage;
The rich man sighs from afar
The poor man in his cottage
Dives looks at Lazarus
With sad and wistful eye.
For money isn't bread and meat—
It's only cake and pie.

The working girl has sentiments
Like those expressed above:
She says: "Take back your wicked gold,
All that I want is love!"
She does not dream of marble halls
Or motor cars or boats
For money isn't hats and shoes—
It's only sable coats.

Money can't heal aching hearts
Or mend a sinner's ways;
The rich man suffers sleepless nights
And weary restless days.
The poor man's hours go sweetly by,
Of joy and comfort blest;
For money isn't all of life—
Just ninety-nine per cent!

—Stoddard King, in Spokane Spokesman Review.

Doing Dishes

Little daughter, doing dishes,
Think of water—
It is so gleaming white, so green,
Child, remember it has seen
Meadows, and has run between
Ferns and roots of trees;
It has ministered to these.
Sing, dear, at your work,
Be proud!
The old dishpan holds a cloud,
Holds a snowbank from a mountain!
Turn a faucet!
You've a fountain!
You have rivers, you have oceans
Come to serve your whims, your notions.
And your fingers, dear, are fishes—
See them dart among the dishes,
There are flowers in the suds—
Forget-me-nots, crabapple buds,
What more could a maiden ask
Of a task?
Little daughter, doing dishes,
Think of water.

RESCUE OF FLORIDA CREW A NARRATIVE OF HEROISM

Capt. Fried Had Previously Displayed Dauntless Courage in Rescue of 25 Men From Foundering British Freighter Antione—Courage of Capt. Fried and the Crew of the America Snatched From Death 32 Men Aboard the Florida Almost After All Right of Hope Was Gone—Rescue Was Made in an Angry Sea.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—(AP)—Thirty-two men of the sea were homeward bound tonight, snatched from death almost after all right to hope was gone.

They were the crew of the Italian freighter Florida, storm wrecked 800 miles at sea, and they were alive only because the courage of seamen from the land their countryman Columbus discovered was joined with the mysterious power of radio to determine the direction of an object out of sight.

Six of Crew Were Injured.

Six of the crew were seriously injured, four others were very ill, and all were exhausted from their fight for life. But they were alive, and that was almost more than anyone would have thought could be their lot who could have seen their plight yesterday as Captain George Fried of the rescue ship America described it today in his first account of the rescue in a dispatch to the Associated Press.

Three years ago Capt. Fried, then commander of the President Roosevelt, proved himself a colorful writer of sea epics when he wirelessed to the Associated Press the story of the rescue of 25 men from the foundering British freighter Antinoe, and today he told an equally stirring tale of skill and courage victorious over the rampant forces of angry nature.

The America, Captain Fried said, was inbound from Europe when it picked up S O S calls from both the Florida and the American tanker Dannedalke last Tuesday morning. The America was 350 miles away, but when Captain Fried determined that although other ships were nearer only one had a radio direction finder he swung from his course and pushed toward the belt of windy fury in which the freighters lay disabled.

The Dannedalke subsequently pulled off for Bermuda under a jury rig, haughtily repoting that it had apparently called the turn on Davy Jones this time; but the Florida was wounded by the storm beyond any chance of helping herself.

She must have been in a bad way before she swallowed a seaman's pride and called for help, for Captain Fried revealed today that she lost a man overboard last Sunday, two days before her S O S crackled from her wireless room.

Bridge Had Been Washed Away.

Before the America reached her, groping through roaring seas lashed by a snowy gale, the Florida's bridge had been washed away, she was listed so far her captain feared she would roll completely over, and her crew had been virtually stripped of their clothing by the waves that battered unceasingly and the wind that lashed them with ice and snow.

The two other craft besides the America that started to the rescue but could not find the Florida and had to abandon the search, the President Harrison and the Yorck, had proceeded on their way long before the America reached the scene and Captain Fried revealed today why it was that they had failed.

Because of the list of the Florida, he said, her skipper felt that the only way to keep her afloat was to keep the engines turning over and so while the Harrison and Yorck were approaching the position he gave in his S O S he was steadily steaming away from it and they, without radio direction finding apparatus, were unable to locate him.

The America, however, had an efficient radio compass, which is a sensitive receiving set with a revolving loop antenna, and although misled at first by the difference between the Florida's given position and the direction indicated by the radio compass, it was the direction finder in the end that led them to the Florida. They found the Florida 150 miles from the position it had given long after dark last night.

Followed Law of the Sea.

Capt. Fried well knew the danger of the next task to be attempted. When he directed the rescue of the crew of the Antinoe three years ago he lost two of his own men who were washed out of a life boat and drowned. But the law of the sea is ingrained in the men who follow its calling, and he did not hesitate.

Lifeboat number one was swung out and down, though a full gale was blowing and the wind carried a smother of snow to make things harder. Chief Officer Manning took command of the little boat and eight men sat at the oars.

The America's searchlight was playing on the Florida as it tossed, broken and awash in tremendous seas. Manning approached to within 50 feet and dared go no closer. He got a rope on the Florida's deck and one after one the shivering sailors from the sinking wreck hurled themselves into the sea and pulled their way hand over hand to the cockleshell that was their one remaining hope of life.

One Terrible Moment.

There was one terrible moment during this time when the rope parted and some poor seaman, half way across, had to be hauled back to the sudden deck he had been glad to leave. But another rope was got across and the transfer was completed.

The captain of the Florida was last to leave his ship. He came crawling through the waves and like the rest was hauled aboard the lifeboat. Capt. Fried said the Florida's crew were dazed, hysterical, virtually naked. Some were injured and others ill. They must all have been nearly frozen. And yet when the Italian captain was hauled aboard the lifeboats he thought first of all of reporting that the laws of the sea had been complied with.

He told Chief Officer Manning that everything alive was off his boat, even remembering to say that no pets had been left behind, for it is one of the rules of the sea that animals cannot be left to suffer after humans have been taken off.

Not one of all the 32 men from the Florida had strength to climb the ladders to the America's deck after what must have been an exceptionally perilous journey in the heavily loaded lifeboat. Homemade breeches buoys were lowered and they were hauled aboard, safe at last after a long tussle with death that could scarcely have been more closely drawn.

Waves Were High.

The waves were so high that Capt. Fried was afraid his men would be injured if they attempted to hoist the lifeboat back to its davits. It had served its purpose and served it well, and it was cut adrift to be battered apart no doubt and sink with the derelict Florida.

Capt. Fried sent a message to the United Yates line at five o'clock this afternoon estimating that it would take him until "eight Saturday" to reach the Ambrose channel lightship. Line officials interpreted this to mean eight o'clock Saturday morning, which would bring the America to quarantine about noon and to her pier by 11 o'clock. The message also reported that a northwest gale still was blowing.

Plans for reception of the rescued and the rescuers were not completed today, but whatever official action may be taken it seemed certain that there would be a popular and spontaneous welcome at least as tumultuous as that accorded Capt. Fried and his men when they returned from the rescue of the Antinoe's crew.

SAYS CHICAGO IS DUMPING GROUND FOR CRIMINALS

CHICAGO, Jan. 24—(AP)—William F. Russell, commissioner of police, who this week arrested 4,000 suspects in a wholesale fight against crime and wants 5,000 more policemen to finish the battle, today told the world why the city has gained an unenviable reputation as a town of gunmen, gangsters, bombers and bootleggers.

"If the rest of this country would keep the crooks in jail at home," he exclaimed, pounding a desk, "Chicago would not need to worry. Instead they turn 'em loose and order them to leave town. Due to its geographical location Chicago is the dumping ground for all the loose hoodlums in the United States. They gravitate here by rail, water and highway."

Then he pointed to a list of names of 51 gangsters, robbers and gunmen slain by the police since he took office six months ago succeeding "Go Get 'Em" Mike Hughes who promised to drive the crooks out of Chicago in 90 days and was displaced by Russell after a year's effort.

"That list of names," he said, "should serve as a warning to the other crooks. We want them to know that they come here to prey on Chicago at their own peril and we are saying it with bullets."

A veteran of the Spanish-American war, Chief Russell joined the force 30 years ago. Nearly six feet tall and weighing well over 200 pounds, Russell often sits for 12 hours a day behind a big mahogany desk in a well guarded office adjoining the mayor's and overlooking La Salle street, actively directing Chicago's fight against crime.

"The whole A. E. F. brought into Chicago today couldn't stop people from taking a drink," he declared vehemently in discussing liquor and its relation to gangland and crime. "We could not stop it if we had an army of policemen. We are not trying to stop it. We are fighting crime—the kind of criminal that goes out with a gun and kills and robs and plunders."

FORMER KAISER PRESENTS WIFE BOOK, "MY ANCESTORS"

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 24—(AP)—Wilhelm Hohenzollern, as part of the preliminary celebration of his 70th birthday next Sunday, today gave his wife, Princess Hermine, a surprise. He presented her with a volume entitled, "My Ancestors," which the former ruler of Germany had secretly written within the past few months.

The book was in a special de luxe binding of red leather. It was stated that Hermine had no inkling of the fact that her husband had been writing this work. Household employes for a week or more had been on guard to keep from her any German papers which contained advance notices of the birthday book.

The former kaiser today received a delegation of ex-army officers and representatives of the old German nobility. They brought him greetings and a thank offering which they explained he could give as largesse to any charities he might select.

The Hohenzollern establishment hummed with activity today in preparation for the Sunday event. Some 50 scions of the house of Hohenzollern will arrive beginning tomorrow night and will call informally Saturday on the head of their clan.

DWIGHT F. MORROW NOT SLATED FOR CABINET POST

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 24—(AP)—President-elect Hoover and Dwight W. Morrow today held a two hours' conference out of which came even clearer indication than had been given before that the ambassador to Mexico is not slated for a cabinet post, at least at the beginning of the new administration.

After two weeks in New York, for which he departed tonight, Mr. Morrow will return to Mexico City where he is expected to remain indefinitely, carrying forward the work of improving relations between the two adjoining North American republics, a work which has attracted much attention in diplomatic circles.

In the absence of any official announcement, full details of the conference are unknown, but there was a thorough discussion of conditions in Mexico with the president-elect asking a number of questions in keeping with his plan to acquaint himself as fully as possible about affairs of all of his sister republics before he takes over the office of president.

GENEVA, Jan. 24—(AP)—Animated unofficial discussion has arisen in League of Nations circles over reports that the Vatican, if its temporal power is ultimately recognized, would apply for membership in the league. Officially, however, there was only silence on the subject.

LONDON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The Express today prints a dispatch from Lahore, India, saying that three Indian officers and eight troopers of an Indian cavalry regiment were killed and many others wounded near Jamrud at the entrance to Khyber Pass by bombs dropped by British airforce planes.

LONDON, Jan. 24—(AP)—A radio message intercepted by the Lands End station this morning said that the steamer Penelope was abandoned in a sinking condition late last night off the coast of Portugal. The message was sent from Montsanto, Portugal. The position was given as a few miles west of Lisbon.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Jan. 24—(AP)—As a memorial to the twin doctors, Arthur and Sydney Smith, who committed suicide in London last week because they were despondent over the lack of public support for their life work in the development of radium as a treatment for cancer, an anonymous donor has offered the University of Edinburgh $25,000 for radium research.

STEWART CONTINUES FIGHT AGAINST ROCKEFELLER, JR.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24—(AP)—Col. Robert W. Stewart continued his campaign for re-election as head of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana over the opposition of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., today by issuing a thousand-word statement replying to Thomas M. Debevoise, Rockefeller lawyer, in which Colonel Stewart repeated his denial of any connection with the Continental Trading Co. and repeated his pride in the record of the oil company since he took over his direction ten years ago.

Colonel Stewart also said that while he was "desirous of re-election" he has not bought one share of Standard Oil stock for the purpose of voting it at the coming election. He defended his actions throughout the senate hearings and trials which arose from the Continental Trading Co. transaction and insisted he never profited personally from the deals, although he repeated that his company made millions.

AMERICA THE WORST LAW BREAKER AMONG NATIONS

HOLYOKE, Mass., Jan. 24—(AP)—America is the worst law breaker among the nations of the world, in the opinion of Dr. James E. West, of Washington, D. C., national executive of the Boy Scouts of America, who spoke at a joint dinner meeting today of the Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs.

Utter disregard for laws by persons who only observe those which fit their convenience and fancy, is the most serious menace to America's progress and stability, according to Dr. West. He pointed out the great value of the work being accomplished by the Boy Scout organization, which teaches young of the land to be patriotic, law-abiding, as well as morally and spiritually clean.

UNPUBLISHED POEMS BY EMILY DICKINSON

BOSTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The discovery of more than 150 unpublished poems by Emily Dickinson, suppressed at the time of her death by her sister, Lavinia, and for 40 years believed destroyed, was announced today by Little, Brown & Co., Boston publishers. The poems, they said, were brought to light by the poet's niece, Mrs. Martha Dickinson Bianchi.

The publishers, in their announcement, said that they had submitted the poems for examination to Louis Untermyer, of New York, poet and editor, and to Robert Hillyer, widely-known poet and professor of English at Harvard university. They quoted both as characterizing the newly discovered poems as unquestionably the best composed by Miss Dickinson.

PREVENTED DUEL BETWEEN TWO HUNGARIAN WOMEN

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 24—(AP)—Police this morning prevented a duel between two Hungarian women. Challenges and acceptances were exchanged between Madame Kovach, wife of a rich industrialist, and Mlle. Tarfo, a music teacher, whom Mme. Kovach accused of alienating her husband's affections.

This morning, very early, the two fair duelists, supported by a group of male and female seconds, assembled in the snow in an obscure park and were ready to vindicate their honor. Before they could exchange thrusts, however, the police interfered.

The unrequited participants left the scene angrily, vowing they would find another means of settling their differences.

PLANT MANAGER DENIES WAGES ARE TO BE CUT

PALMER, Mass., Jan. 24—(AP)—Reports of an impending cut in wages and contemplated curtailment in help, which today caused the walkout of more than 50 women and girls employed in the spinning department of the Otis company's mills at Three Rivers, were denied by Benjamin Shaw, plant manager. Mill officials and employes held a conference after the walkout without succeeding in clearing up the basis of the trouble. A further conference was expected.

Mr. Shaw said the average wage of the spinning room workers is $16 a week. The work is on a piece basis. He believes that the trouble is due to a few workers who objected to losing time in cleaning bobbins.

THREE POLICE SLAYERS EXECUTED AT SING SING

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 24—(AP)—Three men who were convicted of the murder of a Brooklyn policeman were put to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison tonight. The three were Harry Dreitzer, Isadore Helfant and Israel Fischer, all of New York city.

R., and for many years an employe of the Boston & Albany railroad, died last night in his home in West Springfield. He entered the employ of the road in 1865 and continued in various capacities until 1914. He was a charter member of Takoa lodge, of Odd Fellows.

Across State Toll Or Trunk Highway

Proposed in Bill Presented [illegible] House—Would Run [illegible]agonally From Wi[illegible] County to Fairfield [illegible]y.

(Special to The B[illegible])

HARTFORD, Jan. 24—[illegible] toll or trunk line highway to run diagonally across the state from Windham county to Fairfield county is proposed in a bill presented in the house today asking incorporation of the New England Express Highway Co. with power to construct and operate such a highway. It is designed to run from a point where Windham county and the Massachusetts state line intersect to a point where the New York state line and Fairfield county intersect. It would avoid cities and population centers as much as possible and would have no grade crossings, for wherever a public highway, trolley line or railroad would be crossed there would be either a bridge or an underpass. The right of eminent domain is sought for the corporation for which Arthur L. Shipman and others are the applicants for incorporation. The toll highway would cost $80,000,000.

A bill regarding the admission of electors in the town of Windham was presented by Representative Lincoln of that town. It provides that the selectmen and the town clerk shall hold a session to examine electors and administer the oath on Saturday of the third week before the first Monday of October, 1929, from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m., and annually thereafter. This meeting may be adjourned from time to time till Saturday of the second week before the first Monday and unless all who are entered on the list as "to be mades" whose rights shall appear to have matured shall have been admitted or registered prior to that time.

A bill for a single tax collector in the town of Groton was presented by Representative Schriver. It provides that the property tax collector of the town shall be ex-officio collector of taxes for all borough, fire districts, school districts and other municipal associations. The act is to take effect after the vote of a special town meeting to be held the first Monday in August after the approval of the act by the governor. The selectmen are to appoint a tax collector taking office from the first Monday in October for a term of five years and the selectmen are to fix the salary.

Resolutions appointing George R. Torrey, judge, Arthur C. Donais deputy judge, of the town of Plainfield were tabled for the calendar.

Several resolutions making judgeship appointments which were on the house calendar for action were referred to the judiciary committee. These included resolutions for Daniel M. Cronin judge and John J. McGarry deputy judge of the New London city and police court.

Representative Kenneth F. Cramer, of Wethersfield, presented a bill appropriating $2,000,000 for infirmary for persons suffering from senile dementia and those suffering from incurable and chronic conditions. The appropriations committee will consider this bill.

A bill by Representative Markham, of Hartford, would enlarge the powers of fire insurance companies by permitting them to write coverage for seaplanes, dirigibles and other aircraft. It was referred to the insurance committee.

Mr. Lincoln, of Windham, presented a bill for the appropriation of $329.22 to the town of Windham to reimburse it for money spent for the support of alien paupers.

A bill appropriating $8,000 for Storrs Agricultural experiment station to extend experimental work concerning infectious abortion of dairy cattle was presented by Mr. Gold, of Cromwell.

Representative Kerr, of Canterbury, presented a bill to prevent the use of vehicles, having metal tires, on the highway.

Mr. Rich, of Bristol, (by request) presented a bill raising fee for barbers' examination to $10 and requiring greater qualifications in apprentices.

IN THE SENATE

The senate approved the appointment of six trustees of the Connecticut School for Boys at Meriden for a term of four years each beginning July 1, 1929. They are Frank L. Wilcox, of Berlin; Albert E. Lavery, of Fairfield; Bernard M. Donnelly, of Hartford; Charles Loucks, of Wallingford, and William T. May, of New London.

The right of the state of Connecticut to petition the public utilities commission for the reduction of rates or for the improvement of service of any public service company is provided for in a bill introduced in the senate by Senator Roy C. Wilcox, of Meriden. At present any town, city or borough or any ten patrons of a public service company may file such a petition, but this right is denied the state. The bill would give the state this power under the direction of the governor.

DIVORCE SUIT FILED AGAINST PAULINE GARON

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24—(AP)—Lowell Sherman, stage and screen star, filed suit for divorce against Pauline Garon, screen actress, in superior court here today. Sherman charged that his wife deserted him in New York in July, 1927, after 18 months of wedded life and that she had refused to listen to his pleas for a reconciliation. Miss Garon, attorneys said, will not contest the suit.

MRS. WILSON GUILTY OF ASSAULT IN SECOND DEGREE

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—(AP)—Mrs. Esther Evans Deforest Wilson, Washington sportswoman, was convicted of assault in the second degree late this afternoon by the general sessions court jury, which had sat during her trial for shooting her husband, Dallett H. Wilson, lawyer.

The jury deliberated one hour and seven minutes.

Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., committed Mrs. Wilson to Jefferson Market women's prison for sentence Tuesday.

The extreme penalty that can be imposed is five years imprisonment and a fine of $10,000 or both.

Three Men Killed in Crash of Airplane

[illegible]in Monoplane Fell 100 Feet at San Angelo, Tex.—Woman Parachute Jumper Killed.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Jan. 24—(AP)—Three men were killed here late today when a cabin monoplane crashed from 100 feet at the municipal airport. The dead:

Al Henley, Fort Worth, pilot.

Chick Shytles, Fort Worth, management of the Majestic theatre at Fort Worth.

Don Frazee, Fort Worth, star athlete at Texas Christian university.

Henley and Shytles were killed outright. Frazee was dead when an ambulance reached the field.

Witnesses said the crash occurred when Henley apparently tried to land with the wind. The plane was near the administration building, about 100 feet up, when a gust of wind caught the ship. The plane hit on its nose and was demolished.

Henley was an experienced pilot. He was an entrant in the Dole race to Hawaii but did not make the flight.

The three men had flown here to attend the opening of the new airport.

WOMAN PROFESSIONAL PARACHUTE JUMPER KILLED

NEWHALL, Calif., Jan. 24—(AP)—Leta Wishart, 28, professional parachute jumper, was killed while making a double parachute jump with her husband here this afternoon during the filming of a motion picture. Reports to the sheriff's office said that the young woman's parachute failed to open. Hoot Gibson, motion picture cowboy who was playing the leading part in the film, was on the ground watching the double jump when the tragedy took place.

WOMAN FIGURES IN THE OKLA. POLITICAL SCANDAL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 24—(AP)—Tales of oriental mysticism and the "domineering influence" of a woman over a state executive made a potpourri today of the legislative investigation of Henry S. Johnston, Oklahoma's suspended governor. Late in the day, however, the probe reverted to a more matter-of-fact status when the lower house of the general assembly voted an eighth article of impeachment against Johnston. The article was based on the issuance of a pardon to Dewey Crossthwaite, escaped convict. Only two other charges brought by the house investigating committee against the suspended governor remain for consideration.

Admission that he had heard Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, Johnston's confidential secretary, declare that the chief executive was "absolutely incompetent" and that if it wasn't for her "the administration would go on the rocks," was made by H. E. Sullivan, private secretary to the governor. Sullivan supplied many details purporting to reveal relations between Mrs. Hammonds and the governor.

Testimony regarding the confidential secretary's influence over Johnston was given by W. R. Graham, former auditor of the state highway department, who said that Mrs. Hammonds shook her fist in Johnston's face at a conference and told him:

"You keep your mouth out of this. You don't know anything about it."

SALVATION ARMY LEGAL BATTLE WILL OPEN TODAY

LONDON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The legal battle which will open in the high court of chancery tomorrow between Bramwell Booth and the high council of the Salvation Army will determine first whether the injunction which the deposed general obtained last week to prevent election of his successor, shall remain in force. If the injunction is not dissolved, it was understood that the high council would take steps for a speedy special trial of the case on its merits.

An authority close to the council said that two affidavits were filed with the court today. One was by the seven defendant commissioners who signed the requisition for the meeting of the council. This affidavit was designed to justify that action.

The second affidavit was signed by 52 councillors who voted to depose Bramwell Booth as commander. It affirmed their belief that the general was given fair treatment and that he was properly adjudicated unfit to continue in office.

An attorney told the Associated Press today that should Bramwell Booth succeed tomorrow in retaining the injunction he would be in the peculiar position of having made the 1904 deed poll of the army invalid in England while maintaining its validity elsewhere throughout the world, including the British colonies.

SHORT CIRCUIT IN CABLE CRIPPLED PHONE TOLL LINES

MIDDLETOWN, Jan. 24—(AP)—A short circuit in a telephone cable today on Washington street, put all toll lines and over 200 resident telephones out of commission for several hours. The cable in some manner crossed a feed line for the trolley power and an extra crew was ordered from Waterbury and New Haven to repair the damage. The toll lines were out of order four hours while the resident phones were gradually being put into commission by the extra force of repairmen.

BATTLE OVER PROHIBITION IS BREWING IN THE HOUSE

Stormy Debate is Predicted Over Proposal to Place $24,000,000 in Hands of the President For Prohibition Enforcement—Republican Leader Tilson Asks That He Be Given a Day's Notice Before Calling It Up.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—Signalling the approach of a storm of debate over the proposal to place $24,000,000 in the hands of the president for prohibition enforcement, democratic members of the house today made an unsuccessful attempt to learn when the deficiency bill carrying this senate amendment would reach the floor.

The formal announcement that the senate had passed the measure, had hardly died away before Representative Hastings, democrat, of Oklahoma, asked Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the republican leader, as to his plans for calling the bill up in the house for consideration.

Representatives Garner and Blanton, both Texas democrats, joined in pressing the inquiry and urged that ample notice be given the house in order that members who were interested in the legislation might be present.

"I have asked the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Wood, who is the ranking member of the appropriations committee, to give me a day's notice before calling it up," Tilson said.

"But will the house be informed in advance?" asked Garner. "I know of many members who are interested in the legislation and who would like to be present when it comes up."

"That was my purpose in asking for the information," replied Tilson.

At this juncture, Representative Edwards, a Georgia democrat, inquired if it was in order to move that the conferees on the bill be instructed, and was informed that it was not. The conferees have not yet been named.

Edwards did not signify how he wished them to be instructed but the Georgia house delegation in caucus yesterday, voted unanimously to support the amendment, which was sponsored in the senate by Senator Harris, the senior member of that body from Georgia.

While the southern democrats were indicating that they would press for adoption of the proposal by the house, a number of the wet eastern democrats were making plans to join dry republicans in opposition.

Representative Weller, democrat, New York, issued a statement characterizing the amendment as just a gesture on the part of the drys and throwing of good money after bad. He added that it is "a confession that the prohibition laws cannot be enforced as at present constituted."

"It is apparent," he declared, "that the senate is no longer regarded as the upper house of congress, but that the house of representatives has become the steadying power and the steady hand of the ship of state and I predict that the house will never adopt the amendment. Similar predictions also have been voiced by Representatives Wood, of Indiana, and Cramton, of Michigan, both members of the appropriations committee which first will consider the amendment. Cramton, one of the dry leaders in the house, has taken the attitude that appropriations for prohibition should come through the same channel as appropriations for other purposes and "should not be made until definite plans for their use have been submitted."

There was no indication from the appropriations committee as to the time it proposed to call up the bill in the house. Should the house fail to accept the senate amendments, the measure would be sent to conference to smooth out the differences.

RAISING OF SUNKEN SUBS BY RINGS IS PRACTICAL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—Naval officers satisfied themselves today that the raising of sunken submarines by means of steel rings attached to the craft is practical from a laboratory standpoint, but whether it will work under actual conditions still remains to be determined.

The first laboratory tests with the rings, which were suggested at the time of the S-4 disaster when more than two score lives were lost, were held today at the bureau of standards, and afterwards officers expressed satisfaction over the results.

It is planned to conduct further tests on the submarine S-4, which has been reconditioned for experimental work. The submarine now is en route to Key West, whr nw tsts ar to proegl-iveNrr West, where new tests are to be held at Key West. The navy also proposes to test out for the first time a lung escape apparatus designed by Lieutenant Charles B. Momsen, of the bureau of construction and repair, and the diving bell rescue plan.

After these tests, the submarine will be taken to New London for extensive experiments with the rings. Lieutenant Momsen, with Dr. G. H. Mankin, of the naval medical corps, will leave for Key West tomorrow.

EARTHQUAKE RECORDED AT GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—An earthquake reported as of "very severe" intensity was recorded on the seismograph at Georgetown university today, the maximum intensity being reached at 3:54 p. m. Director Tondorf said the earth tremors were continuing late today and he believed the disturbance was about 1,800 miles from Washington in a southwesterly direction.

Director Tondorf expressed the opinion that the quake probably was in Mexico or off the coast of that country. He said the first tremors were recorded at 3:43 p. m. and increased in intensity until a maximum was reached at 3:54 p. m. He added that at 5:20 p. m. the disturbance still was continuing.

CHANGE IN OFFICERS OF STUTZ MOTOR CAR CO.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—(AP)—F. E. Moscovics resigned as president of the Stutz Motor Car Co. of America, Inc., today at a meeting of the board of directors. E. S. Gorrell, who has been a vice-president, was elected to the presidency and Edwin B. Jackson, also a vice-president, was elected chairman of the board with headquarters in Indianapolis.

The directors' announcement said that Mr. Moscovics had tendered his resignation in order to have more time to devote to personal affairs.

E. V. R. Thayer, Charles Reed and Mr. Jackson were made members of the executive committee.

PRESIDENT-ELECT HOOVER ON THREE DAY FISHING TRIP

KEY LARGO, Fla., Jan. 24—(AP)—Herbert Hoover, the president-elect today became just plain Herbert Hoover, the fisherman.

Dressed in old togs, with a battered slouch hat to protect him from semi-tropical sun, the man who soon is to take over administration of the government set out along the keys of this coast for a three day's contest of skill against the brawn and gameness of the immense sail, sword and other fish which abound hereabouts.

With him were just a few friends or cronies of other fishing excursions in these waters. These alone were permitted to accompany him on the first real vacation he has had since he began the quest for the presidency last July 14.

PLANE QUESTION MARK HAS LANDED AT MAXWELL FIELD

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 24—(AP)—The "Question Mark," the army's tri-motored endurance record monoplane, landed at Maxwell field at 5:05 p. m. today after a flight from Shreveport, La. It is planned to take off for Atlanta, Ga., tomorrow morning.

SPIRITED DISCUSSION ON CRUISER BILL IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The adoption of a cruiser construction plan devised to accelerate an equitable disarmament of navies rather than to promote a new naval building race between the United States and Great Britain was asked in the senate today by Senator Borah, of Idaho, during the first spirited discussion of the administration's program for the construction of 16 auxiliary warships.

He declared that first, the cruiser bill should be adopted without the "time clause" under which the construction of all of the new ships would be started within three years and, second, that provision should be made for a conference to restate the rights of neutrals at sea because, he added, the protection of commerce is the underlying reason for the desire of large navies.

To eliminate the time clause, Senator Borah argued, would give the United States an effective weapon for further disarmament without actually spending large sums for construction of warships which later might have to be scrapped.

REQUESTS FOR HIGHER DUTIES ON LIVESTOCK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—A deluge of request for higher duties on livestock and meat products was loosened upon the house ways and means committee today as it began consideration of the agricultural section of the tariff act with a view to its revision.

Although some opposition developed from wholesalers against increasing duties on certain fresh meats, western cattle growers and representatives in the house from those states presented a united front in urging higher rates.

They contended that the cattle industry, while better off than it was several years ago, was in a state of unrest due to possibility of the embargo against Argentine cattle and meats being lifted. While they had no information that this embargo, placed two years ago to protect against livestock diseases, would be raised, they argued that the tariff should be high enough to guard against any such contingency and to afford wider markets for American cattle and meats.

OPPOSE CLASSIFICATION OF RADIO AS PUBLIC UTILITY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—Opposition to the view that radio broadcasting should be classified either through legislation or by judicial decision as a public utility was voiced today by M. H. Aylesworth of New York, president of the National Broadcasting company, before the house merchant marine committee, at a hearing on a bill to continue the life of the federal radio commission for a year.

Aylesworth said that should such a thing come to pass, radio stations would be compelled to dispose of their services to any applicant who paid for time on the air.

He declared that, unlike newspapers and magazines, which could add pages to accommodate additional advertising, the radio industry has but 16 hours a day for broadcasting and the facilities were limited. It would be impossible to accommodate all those who wished to use the air for broadcasting purposes, he added.

CONVICTED OF ASSAULTING THEIR FOSTER DAUGHTER

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 24—(AP)—Allen E. Robertson and his wife were convicted by a jury tonight of assault and battery against their foster daughter, 7-year-old Betty Hinkle. They were charged with burning the child's hands with hot wires, beating her with a belt buckle and hanging her by the wrists in a closet.

The indictments also charged the Robertsons with beating the little girl with a hammer and of forcing her to eat from the floor with a dog.

The jury of ten women and two men deliberated less than three hours. Counsel for the defendants announced that he would appeal the case.

Standing with his arm around the shoulder of his wife, Robertson broke down and wept as the foreman of the jury announced the verdict.

"We are innocent!" he sobbed. "How can people be so cruel? Is there no justice?"

FUNERAL OF MRS. LARUSSO IS LARGELY ATTENDED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 24—Funeral services for Mrs. Rosetta P. LaRusso were held at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Lillian LaCata, of 420 Prospect street, this morning with a requiem high mass in St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Charles M. Kelly was celebrant and Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance presided at the organ. Miss L. Monica McKeon was soloist. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, where Rev. Father Kelly read a committal prayer. The bearers were Antonio Salveggio, Salvatore Guarneri and Diego Lanza, of this city, and Thomas Sannagoro, of New London. The funeral was attended by relatives and friends from New London, Torrington, Hartford, this city and other places.

A tentative program of activity and general policy was introduced at the first regular meeting of James J. Shea post No. 19, American Legion, to be held since reorganization of the post, in the chamber of commerce rooms tonight. Post Commander Dr. W. P. S. Keating was in charge of the meeting. Plans were made to hold future meetings in the town building, negotiations for use of the G. A. R. rooms having been underway with town officials and officers of the G. A. R. and Spanish-American War organizations.

Chief of Police Thomas F. Grady has been requested by letter to assist E. H. Miller, of 89 Sterling place, Amityville, Long Island, in a search for Miller's wife, Mrs. Isabelle Miller, who disappeared from her home recently. The woman is described as being 5 feet, 4 inches in height, weighing 165 pounds, having blue eyes and bobbed brown hair, wearing high black shoes, a brown coat with a fur collar and a black velvet hat. She walks with a slight limp owing to a defect in her left leg. The woman may be employed in a factory or in a day nursery. Mr. Miller states that he is in poor health and desirous of having his wife return home.

The Western University Glee club appeared in a highly successful concert given in conjunction with a dance at the state armory this evening under the auspices of the Windham Glee club. The glee club, which twice captured the intercollegiate title and won nation-wide popularity, proved a big attraction here. The selections were warmly received by an appreciative audience. An especially attractive program has been prepared for the initial appearance of the vocalists. The program: Campus song, Magee '83; Hidden Song, Foote. Violin solos, L. J. Patricelli. The Little Sandman (Bimboim), The Brownies (Leoni). Piano solos, M. D. Casner. I Passed by Your Window (Brahe Amici). Twilight Song (Waite '66). The Long Day Closes (Sullivan). Songs My Mother Taught Me (Dvorak). The Jumbers. Male quartet. Old Elli Song, Smith '99. Route-Marching, Stock. Serenaders, orchestra. Alma Mater, Davis '94.

The concert was followed by dancing to lively music by a group of brilliant serenaders known as the Wesleyan orchestra.

Further swimming honors have been captured by Miss Dorothy Courtney, 14-year-old daughter of Thomas F. Courtney, of New York city, formerly of this city. At the water carnival at the Orange, N. J., Y. M. C. A. pool, Miss Courtney won the 100-yard breast stroke handicap match with a handicap of ten seconds in the time of 1:21 1-5. Miss Agnes Gerthy, a member of the Olympic team last summer, starting from scratch, finished third. Miss Courtney's team also won the 120-yard medley relay swim.

At the police court session this morning a continuance until Feb. 7 was ordered in the case of Gerald Russell, of 284 School street, Putnam, charged with damage to public property. The allegation is that early this morning Russell drove a coach north on Center street and collided with the one-way street sign, damaging the sign. The continuance was granted on recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher.

Haig Ishiyan, of Hampton, delivered an informing lecture on Oriental rugs at the weekly meeting of the Willimantic Exchange club held in the Nathan Hale hotel Wednesday evening. His talk was supplemented with a display of beautiful rugs that make up part of his extensive collection. President Dixon VanZandt was in charge of the meeting.

Over 75 members and guests attended the January meeting of the Brotherhood of the Congregational church held in the church house tonight with Maurice S. Sherman, editor of The Hartford Courant, as the speaker of the evening. Editor Sherman was heard in an excellent word-play of humans and newspapers in his handling of his subject, A Cross Section of Life. Group and quartet singing was led by Harry W. Standish with Dr. B. Bullock Jones at the piano. Mr. Sherman was fittingly introduced by Earl J. Arnold, chairman of the program for the evening. The meeting was in charge of President Roland R. Jordan.

Rev. David R. Overton, pastor of the A. M. E. Zion church at Torrington, who was one of four persons seriously injured in a wreck Wednesday morning on the New Haven railroad at Thomaston, was pastor of the local A. M. E. Zion church for several years prior to 1927. While pastor here he was instrumental in considerable improvement to the church property and it was under his pastorship that the church mortgage was burned with ceremonies that were recognized as one of the outstanding events in the history of the parish.

A surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. Daniel Wade Wednesday evening with Mrs. Wade as hostess, in honor of the 18th birthday of her daughter, Miss Florence Mary Wade. There were 19 guests present, including 12 young people from Norwich. Miss Wade received several beautiful gifts.

LEDYARD

Harold Smith of Lartford Theological Seminary preached in Ledyard Congregational church Sunday morning. This makes the second Sunday Mr. Smith has preached here in the absence of Nelson Schlegel, the regular pastor, who has been ill for two weeks at his home in Hartford. Mr. Smith was accompanied by Mr. Esquire, another student at the Hartford seminary.

George Geer of Hartford was visiting friends in town Sunday

Carl Holdridge was the leader of the C. E. meeting Sunday evening.

Ledyard Grange held its meeting in Grange hall Friday evening with Carl Holdridge, master, in the chair. There was a good attendance. The lecturer's hour consisted of reports of the State Grange meetings held in Bridgeport. These reports were given by Mr. and Mrs. George A. Montgomery and Mrs. Carrie Doolittle, who represented Ledyard Grange at Bridgeport. The roll call was suggestions for lecturer's hour. The months of the year were impersonated by groups who were born in certain months. This was done on the stage and caused much merriment. Shirley Nylen, aged 4, was present with her parents, and played several selections upon the accordion. The playing was wonderful for so young a child and won much applause from those who heard her. Her little brother also played. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heinie Nylen of Norwich Town.

Miss Ruth Russell, home demonstration agent, held a class in dress modeling at the residence of Mrs. Fannie Clark Wednesday. There were ten present.

JEWETT CITY

STEPHEN DOUGLASS DIES AT HOME IN VOLUNTOWN

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Jan. 24—Stephen Douglass, 88, died in Voluntown today, having been stricken with a shock a week ago. He was born in Voluntown, the son of Thomas and Caroline Gordon Douglass. His wife, who was Mary Morgan, died twelve years ago. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Augustus Campbell, of Jewett City, a half-sister, Mrs. Louise Palmer of Southbridge, Mass., and a half-brother, Sanford Burdick of Oneco. Mr. Douglass has lived all his life in Voluntown where he was highly respected. He was frequently called upon for assistance in various kinds of work and will be greatly missed by his neighbors and friends.

Senator Fournier Chairman

The writer of this column has received today, a letter from George A. Ross, representative in the general assembly, from Lisbon, and member of the forfeited rights committee. Mr. Ross encloses the following cutting from a Bridgeport paper which he deems of interest to this section, especially so as Senator Fournier was elected from Plainfield, Griswold's sister town on the north. Some at Hartford wonder how it was that Senator Fournier of the 29th district was able to land the only chairmanship of a fairly important committee, that of forfeited rights. Quite a few have asked how it came about and no one has yet supplied the answer. The guess is that some prominent republican did a turn for the gentleman from Plainfield. The committee on forfeited rights is considerable of a body, with about fifty or sixty petitions to consider during a session. The election of Senator Fournier in a heretofore strong republican district, is a reminder of the fears which the republican leaders of that section expressed a couple of weeks before election. It was the only section, outside the cities, from which came disturbing reports to the state central committee.

Swimmer With One Leg

Mr. Ross, like many other residents of this section, are much interested in "Dad Shaw's" local reminiscences. In the line of which he encloses this inquiry, also of home town interest:

I wish you would ask "Dad Shaw" if he ever knew Charley Coil who lost his leg by having it cut off by the N. & W. R. R., at Granny Wise crossing. The boys used to fool the engineers at this crossing by pretending that they had caught their foot in between the plank and rail and the train would stop and of course the boys would run away. Charley Coil tried this once too often, his foot was actually caught! He held onto the grass so he would not be pulled under the wheels. He was the best swimmer I ever knew, although he had only one leg.

Finn's tonight, China Nite, Bebe Daniels in, Take Me Home.—Adv.

Warden E. J. Jodoin, with "Home and to Bed," orders was added Thursday to the list of those who are ill. Doctors G. H. Jennings and F. E. Rainville are kept busy night and day with the increasing list of those whose physical condition demand medical attention. Dr. J. H. McLaughlin, is ill, being unable to make his professional calls. Dr. McLaughlin just returning from Hot Springs, Ark., was hardly physically fit to take up at once the many demands for his attention. In the sizable list of those in town who are ailing, no cases Thursday evening were pronounced serious.

OLD WASTE GATE TUNNEL IS BEING FILLED IN

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Jan. 24—The Fisk Tire Co., began the work today of filling in the ancient waste gate tunnel that passes under the Voluntown state highway, at the north approach of the Slater bridge. Expert examination this week has determined this course of procedure. The inspection also established the fact that the builders of close to 75 years ago, constructed this great tunnel with the evident intention that it should stay. Proof exists in its form of building, with stone arched roof of the Keystone type, that barring the heavy daily truck travel, (unheard of when it was constructed) the masonry would have stood 'till the crack of doom. The last time the waste gates were used, was the night before the great flood of 1886. That night, the late Frederick H. Fanning, then boss mechanic for the W. A. Slater mills, in a final effort to relieve the dam, ordered these gates raised to the full. The Ashland dam soon went out, and down the channel came a wall of water 20 feet high which swept everything before it. The Slater dam went under the tremendous pressure but the old waste tunnel stood staunchly the rush of thousands of tons of water that night and remained to be filled in by the workmen close to half a century later.

Many who never dreamed of its existence as they have passed over it daily, were there today to wonder, and watch the filling work go on. The bulkhead gates are buried some feet in mud at the bottom. The discontinuance of a waste system for the Slater mill pond, will only be the passing of an entirely unnecessary maintenance.

Long before any possible high water in the Pachaug river could test the strength of the present granite dam, the increased level of the pond would find relief by means of the low roadway on the north.

Among nominations in the general assembly at Hartford, Wednesday, were Attorney John T. Barry, judge and James H. Shea, deputy judge, town court of Griswold.

Joseph Roods has given a handsome addition to Mr. Hiscox's calendar exhibition, a reproduction in nature color of a prize winning canvas in oil by Fred Hines, "In Rural New England." The pastoral scene portrayed is of much beauty and admired by recent visitors.

Prudent local advertisers are giving evidence of their belief in the efficiency of this column as a "Get your man," advertising medium.

People who know, were telling Thursday of the excellent music that may be expected at the coming firemen's ball.

Burial of Robert Bashaw

The body of Robert, four-year-old son of Mrs. Mary Bashaw and the late LeRoy Bashaw, was brought here Thursday afternoon for burial in the family lot in Jewett City cemetary. The child died in Yantic Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Ricketts and daughter Jayne of Hartford are at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Robinson, where Mr. Ricketts is confined to the bed for a few days.

Mrs. George A. Haskell's Birthday

Mrs. G. A. Haskell is celebrating her birthday today (Thursday) by being entertained at dinner at the home of her niece, Mrs. Grace Webster. In number of years of membership, Mrs. Haskell is the oldest living member of the 2nd Congregational church, uniting in 1863.

BALTIC

FAREWELL PARTY GIVEN FOR MRS. EDITH WILDE

At the home of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hallas of Depot Hill, a surprise farewell party was given Saturday for Mrs. Edith Wilde who is to sail Jan. 26 for England for an indefinite stay. There were forty-five present to wish her bon voyage.

A very pleasing program was carried out, as follows: Vocal solos, Sonny Boy, Miss Phyllis Keogh; Clarence the Sergeant, by Mrs. Harry Hood; Five Blue Bottles, Master James Hood; Garden of Your Heart, Jack Faulkner; Mother MacCree, Clarence Maxwell; vocal trio, Little Eskimos, by Miss Agnes and Esther Robinson and Mary Faulkner; vocal solo, Memories, Thomas Adams; piano solo, Admiration, Miss Greta Faulkner; vocal solos, Laesie fra-Lancashire, Mrs. James Hallas; Bailey More, by Master James Hallas; My Ain Folk, by Mrs. Thomas Adams; Sonny Boy by Master Billy Robinson; song, Hail, Hail the Gang's All Here, by the entire party.

The feature of the program was a march led by Fred Greenwood who was in full military uniform. All joined in the lock-step, with Mrs. Thomas Adams accompanying at the piano.

Master James Hood, received a great hand when he entertained with a buck and wing dance. Rainbow 'Round My Shoulder, was sung by Master John Robinson.

An exhibition of specialty dances including Weleta Waltz, Boston Two Step and Luxembourg Waltz, was well given by Jack Faulkner and Miss Phyllis Keogh.

Sandwiches, cakes and coffee were served after which Fred Greenwood, in behalf of those present presented Mrs. Wilde a boudoir clock and silk underwear. Mrs. Wilde responded, gratefully acknowledging the handsome gifts. It was also the fourteenth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Faulkner, who were among those present.

The guests dispersed at 1:30 after joining hands and singing Auld Lang Syne and God Be With You Till We Meet Again.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Massey, Miss Florence Cox and Miss Lillian Massey of West Hartford, Clarence Maxwell, of Westerly, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Adams and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Oldham, Mrs. William Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. James Cecil Hallas and family, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Robinson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hood and son, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Faulkner and family, Mrs. William Faulkner, Mrs. M. Houghton Wilfred Houghton, Miss Jennie White, Mrs. Edith Wilde, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenwood, Mrs. William Keogh, Miss Phyllis Keogh and Miss Jane Keogh, Miss Alice Parker, all of Baltic. The arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Edward Robinson and Mrs. J. Hallas.

Swiss Riding Bicycles.

BERNE, Switzerland—(AP)—Bicycle dealers are working for "a bicycle in every household," as the use of the two wheel vehicle has grown from one for every 12 persons in 1918 to one for every five today. The 16 Swiss bicycle manufacturers have an output of 125,000 yearly while thousands of others are imported, chiefly from Germany, France and Great Britain. American makes are little used because of high prices.

ENFORCEMENT FUNDS.

With some modifications the senate has voted the Harris amendment to the deficiency bill. By it $24,000,000 will be provided for the enforcement of prohibition, the money to be distributed by the president to such departments as he may deem wise.

This puts the president directly into the business of enforcement to a certain extent and it greatly increases the amount made available for such a purpose regardless of the budget and regardless of the fact that the president-elect has announced that he will name a commission to make a thorough investigation of the prohibition situation.

The action of the senate reflects the attitude of the drys of both parties and a desire to eliminate that claim that greater and more efficient enforcement is not accomplished because of inadequate funds. But the senate hasn't the final say in the matter. The house has not as yet considered it, and even though the senate is often looked to put a check upon the house the situation is reversed in this instance.

Much opposition that has been raised on the ground that there should be a delay until the investigating commission has had a chance to study the situation and make recommendations seems reasonable. Just because there is an unprecedented amount of funds available for enforcement does not necessarily assure a proportionate increase in results. It is possible for it to mean a greater degree of waste and less efficiency for the lack of an adequate plan of action. It is like rushing ahead and cutting the cloth for a garment before deciding what the pattern is going to be or what kind of a garment is wanted.

There are doubtless those who are earnest in their backing of such an appropriation but they ought to appreciate the probability of embarrassment arising from such action. Without a doubt there will be more money required for putting into effect the recommendations made by a commission but it will be time enough to provide the money when it is know what is going to be done and how much will be required. Those are things which are not known at the present time.

LOCATION OF DISABLED SHIPS

Once more we are thrilled by the persistent manner in which Captain Fried of the America stuck to his job of finding the sinking Florida and rescuing its crew. The experience of those aboard the disabled freighter was unenviable. Their calls for aid had been heard by three ships. Two of them searched but gave up the hunt when the Florida could not be located. Captain Fried had quite as much trouble but he persisted. He went way out of his course and found the object of his search far from the position that had been given. Once it was located the crew was quickly taken off and the voyage resumed but the lives of those facing grave peril had been saved.

This like other similar experiences shows the great value of wireless to shipping, but it also discloses that there is something still lacking. Whenever there have been S O S calls it has invariably been the case that those vessels which have responded to the calls for aid have experienced great trouble in finding the ship in distress. It is realized that allowances have to be made for drift and the effect of wind upon disabled craft, but as in the case of the Vestris and now the Florida the claim is made that the ship was not where it was said to be and a wrong position was given.

Where it is possible to save human life there is justification for steamships going far out of their lane of travel and wasting time in searching, but it would seem that there ought to be a more accurate method of determining and giving the location of vessels which call for help. It is important from the standpoint of the vessels which go to lend their assistance and it can be appreciated that there are times when those in distress should get the benefit of that lost time.

WHERE ARBITRATION IS NEEDED.

When the milk producers and distributors at Chicago agreed to submit their differences to arbitration it was only what they should have done in the first place. It was fortunate that the strike prevailed no longer than it did for while the milk supply upon which Chicago was dependent was being wasted it was inflicting the hardship and suffering upon the public which is the inevitable result under such circumstances.

The producers sought an increase in price for milk. The distributors would not grant it. Neither side was disposed to yield and the result was that great quantities of milk were wasted until it became evident to those directly concerned, through their own losses that an adjustment of the situation in accordance with facts was the desirable thing.

Shutting off the supply of a necessity would of course bother the distributors and the refusal of the distributors to take any of the producers product at the increase in price sought hurt the producers but they were making no headway as long as such a situation prevailed. The tactics were much the same as those too often employed in the coal fields where the failure to produce coal has so involved the public that on repeated occasions the demand for relief and for coal has operated to the advantage of those who demanded more money whether it was justified or not. The consumer was forced to suffer from lack of fuel and then he was forced to pay the increased price attached to fuel to meet the expenses involved in the strike and perhaps the increased cost of production made necessary by the settlement.

Those experiences have been sufficient to indicate the injustice involved in trying to get a settlement by force. The people in Chicago who want milk ought not to be forced to go without it because of the improper method of settling differences adopted by those handling milk in that city. Regardless of the outcome of the arbitration this time there ought to be an agreement reached as part of the settlement that henceforth arbitration must be immediately resorted to whenever differences arise between the handlers of such an important commodity.

CONTROLLING DOPE.

Whether anything will be accomplished by the league of nations committee which is now in session at Geneva, endeavoring to reach an agreement as to what should be done in the war of greater restrictions on narcotics is being watched with interest. It is an important part of the fight that is being made against habit forming drugs and the aim is to bring about a much more effective control at the source.

This country has established restrictive laws which would help greatly in meeting the situation here if it were possible to stamp out the illicit traffic in drugs. That is made extremely difficult because of the large quantities which are smuggled into the country. There is a demand for such dope from the thousands who are addicted to its use. They are willing to pay whatever is demanded and it is to those who are ready to do anything for a quick dollar, no matter what demoralization may be involved in it, that they appeal. The result is that such large sums can be obtained for comparatively small quantities that many are willing to take the chance.

The arrest of dope peddlers and the capture of large quantities of narcotics illegally brought into the country reveal the difficulties involved in enforcing the restrictions. We can control the legitimate traffic in drugs but the illegitimate runs wild. The problem thus becomes one of having production so controlled in other countries that the necessary amount for medical and scientific purposes may be manufactured but nothing beyond it. Cutting it off at the source would therefore place a check upon the illegal traffic, the smuggling and the dope peddler.

This international problem has been wrestled with by the league of nations for several years. Difficulty arises in getting those nations which profit from the production of narcotics and those which suffer, to agree upon effective measures of control. They haven't as yet been brought to look at the matter from the same standpoint unless such proves to be the case at the conference now in session. In the interest of humanity that time cannot come too soon.

MORROW TO FINISH JOB.

After all the speculation that has been indulged in concerning the members of the next president's cabinet one name has been definitely eliminated. From Miami comes authoritative information that Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, is not going to be secretary of state in Mr. Hoover's cabinet. That doesn't mean a change of mind on the part of any one. It is simply that in view of the attitude of those directly concerned Mr. Morrow is to remain at his post where he has rendered such conspicuous service.

Whether he was offered a secretaryship isn't indicated. There is no question but what he stood high among the possibilities and it is known that his name has been frequently urged for that position. None knows better than he what the situation is in Mexico, what has been accomplished since he went there and what remains to be done. He doesn't consider his job finished and from the result neither he nor Mr. Hoover think he should be called off of it until it is, or at any rate not at the present time.

The conference between him and Mr. Hoover discloses the latter to be fully in sympathy with President Coolidge concerning the man to handle the Mexican situation. His record makes it inevitable that he should be retained at that post, regardless of his qualifications for other important work.

It is said that a job well started is half done. That indicates that good progress has been made by Mr. Morrow in Mexico but in view of the gratifying start our relations with the neighbor to the south calls for the completion of the job. The decision that Mr. Morrow should remain in Mexico is believed to be the right one.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Winter isn't just one sleigh ride after another.

The renunciation of war doesn't mean that differences of opinion will not develop, or that there'll be no more legal battles.

Senator Harris of Georgia claims there are 100 bootleggers to each of the former saloons. He must have been about some.

The senate would have saved a lot of time and criticism had it approved the West nomination in the beginning. The inquiry and debate only proved the nomination should be confirmed.

MARY'S NEW JOB.

"Probably you are right, Louise. Undoubtedly you are right. Nevertheless, I repeat that I will not make myself frivolous for monetary gain. If my abilities as a secretary are unable to get me a place without resorting to such measures, I shall remain idle."

Mary Walters was very positive about this declaration, and having made it she was silent for a moment before resuming.

"It's a sad commentary upon present day business that a woman past 25 is unable to get a position. They want flappers—little chits who use rouge and lipstick and wear skirts that do not cover their knees. Here I am, a secretary with unquestioned ability, looking for a place and unable to find one in more than three weeks." Mary's sister smiled at her with a bit of impatience.

"I know how you feel about it, Mary," she said. "But if you'll pardon my frankness, the trouble with you is that you don't make any effort to look even as young as you are. You aren't so far past 25 yourself. With a wave in your hair, a little more snap in your clothes and perhaps just the tiniest bit of rouge, I know you'd get a job in a minute. Believe me, if I were you I wouldn't let these young girls take all the good positions away from me."

Mary declined to answer. She had already said all there was to be said on her side of the question. Louise gazed at her in silence. How really unattractive her sister was, she thought, and it was so unnecessary! Mary's hair was lovely in color and texture, but it was drawn back into an unbecoming knot at the back of her neck. Her face was well formed and her skin was clear, but the plain, dark business suit did not do them justice. But that was Mary!

"Well, I'm going to keep this appointment, at any rate," said Mary, rising to her feet. "There is always a chance that eventually I'll meet an employer who places true values on his woman employees."

A few minutes later she left the house of her married sister, with whom she had been living for the last few weeks. Mary had held the same position as secretary to the same man for eleven years. The death of her employer had meant that she must find a new place. It was not that she was in financial straits, for she had a respectable sum safely invested.

She was not too optimistic as she gave her name to the girl at the information desk, in spite of the fact that her letter in answer to the advertisement brought a quick request for an interview. Her letters often did that, but later, when she made a personal appearance, somehow her sterling qualifications were forgotten. After a moment's delay she was ushered through a door marked "Mr. Vare, vice president." A tall, good-looking man of middle age motioned her to a chair.

"You are Miss Walters?" he said with an engaging smile.

"Yes, she replied. "I have your letter here, asking me to call today in regard to the position you have open." Mr. Vare regarded her calmly for several seconds and she met his gaze frankly.

"Your qualifications and recommendations are entirely satisfactory," he resumed. "In fact, I knew your late employer, and he often spoke most highly of you."

"Thank you," replied Mary soberly. "His death was a great blow to me."

"It is convenient for you, I would be glad to have you start in here tomorrow morning," Mr. Vare said. Mary was still a bit dazed by her good fortune, as she opened the door, bade her new employer good-day and walked out into the reception room.

"You must have got the job, by the way you look," the girl at the outside desk said to Mary as she paused on her way out. "But," she lowered her voice confidentially, "you're the fifth girl who has applied for that job in the last two years. All of them were discharged for the same reason; they tried to make their business contact a personal matter. Believe me, Mr. Vare isn't the kind of a man to fall for that sort of thing. He's a rich old bachelor and scared to death of women. And every secretary he's had around here has tried to 'vamp' him." Mary smiled faintly, with dignity.

"Mr. Vare will find me as eager to be businesslike as he is himself," she replied, and trying to banish the other girl's remarks from her mind she made her way home.

"I knew there must be such a man!" she said to herself exultantly. "He's perfect. He's marvelous!" All the way home her mind was full of Mr. Vare.

Her voice was triumphant as she greeted Louise and she was almost gleeful as she described Mr. Vare and told of his attitude toward the women in his office.

And then, after she had sat in sober thought for several minutes Louise saw her get up and walk to the mirror. She regarded herself critically, and finally turned.

"Louise," she said casually, "would you mind telling me the name of your hairdresser? I believe I'll get a wave tomorrow."—Exchange

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—Campaign cigars with an international history, as you might say, played a part in the events in Nicaragua just prior to the American supervized election that set General Moncada, liberal candidate, in the saddle as the constitutional chief executive of that country. The story has drifted into Washington with the return of the members of the staff of the supervisor, General McCoy.

What happened was this: General McCoy received one day from a prominent member of the liberal faction a package obviously containing a box of cigars. It was quite a big box and the general had half a mind to send it back.

As neutral supervisor of the elections and arbiter of all disputes, he didn't think it proper to accept such presents. He didn't even open the box but went over to see Minister Eberhardt about it.

Warns Them Off

After taking it over, he decided to issue a public notice that he could accept no presents or special courtesies. That would prevent a recurrence, or at least permit the return of any other gifts without discourtesy.

General McCoy got out his notification. That ended the matter until, some time later, he opened the gift box of smokes and was astonished to find stamped on the cover the name of a noted Nicaraguan conservative.

What also was plain was that the box was one of those presented by a Cuban cigar company with modern ideas on hospitality and advertising to all delegates attending the Pan-American congress in Havana just a little before. The Nicaraguan conservative was a member of the delegation of his country to that gathering and no doubt received the cigars then.

Not All Is Solved.

But how did they pass from the conservative to the liberal and thus to General McCoy? The officer had not solved that problem when he left Nicaragua for home. His work happily accomplished.

Incidentally, the location in Managua is to be housed in a group of buildings of fine southern colonial style under completed plans of Boston architects. A sum of $100,000 has been set aside for the cost and the land necessary acquired for $2,000.

A model of the group displayed at the state department shows the residence of the minister in the center, connected by colonnades with similar structures on each side, the house of the legation secretary on one side and the chancery on the other.

CHILDREN'S URINARY TROUBLES NOW DIAGNOSABLE

By Dr. P. M. Butterfield, New York City.

The diagnosis and treatment of diseases of the urinary tract in children has not progressed so rapidly as in the case of adults because of the lack of suitable special instruments.

In order to make a complete examination of the child's urinary tract it became necessary to have instruments adapted in size and mechanism to these little patients. There now is a cystoscope and a urethroscope of such small size that they can be used on an infant a day old.

With this cystoscope it is possible to make a complete examination of the bladder and both kidneys at one sitting. Through it the entire bladder can be seen and studied carefully. Tiny catheters can be passed to each kidney and specimens of urine obtained from the separate sides for special examination. In addition, X-ray studies of the form and position of each kidney may be made at the same time.

Of course, a cystoscopic examination in young children is not to be undertaken lightly. A general anesthesia is required, and a stay of at least a day or two in the hospital is advisable.

We consider it wise to do everything we can to determine the cause of the trouble before proceeding to instrumentation. A very careful history should be taken and a very thorough physical examination made. Routine and special examinations of the urine should be made on specimens obtained from the bladder by catheter. Any bad teeth, diseased tonsils, infected ears and sinuses, digestive and skin troubles should have appropriate attention.

Many cases of bed wetting are due to changes at the bladder neck. About 3 per cent of all children are born with some abnormality of the urinary tract. Neither of these conditions can be diagnosed without the use of the cystoscope.

Inflammation of the kidney, as a sequel to infections elsewhere, are common in children. If the urinary tract drains freely, these commonly heal with little damage. In the presence of obstruction to drainage, infection persists and it is of paramount importance to discover and remove or to treat such abnormalities.

The fact that about one-third of the kidney inflammation seen in our 800 patients were tuberculous makes us feel that a complete urological study should be made of every child suffering from urinary trouble of long standing. This can be made in any child of any age or sex by the use of modern instruments.

We are convinced that a great amount of suffering and a very considerable degree of permanent damage to the kidney may be avoided by applying modern methods of diagnosis to certain diseases of the urinary tract in infants and children.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Nature's Beauties

Mr. Editor: Spring is just around the corner and then we look forward to everything that goes with it. There is a certain saying known to all, that in the spring a young man's fancy turns lightly to thoughts of love. And when he gets that out of his system and gets a good car his fancy then begins to turn toward vacation days and he looks forward to a trip out through the surrounding country and to see nature in its awakening and to worship at its shrine.

There is at this time a concerted effort being made to feature the beauty spots of different sections of New England to bring to the attention of the transient tourists the fact that there are to be found here scenic wonders that are second to none anywhere in this country. I want to give you a word picture of some of the places near to "the Rose of New England," and Norwich does not suffer in comparison with these places for Dame Nature has spread with a lavish hand her pictures.

These are all my own personal recollections and observations that I have noted from the windows of a motor car.

This trip begins here in the Garden state in the rain. We get on the sight seeing bus and go over into New York. We reach the big town and it is still raining. Hail a taxi and go to the pier of the Hudson river day line, get on board the Hendrick Hudson, and then for a sail of 150 miles up the historic Hudson to Albany which we reach just about sundown. The sail is perhaps unequalled as a river trip for there are many interesting views on either side of the river to Yonkers, which is the first stop, the sun breaks through and this adds to the day's trip. Soon we pass by West Point with its wonderful historic surroundings and where sleep many men who were part of the early history of the U. S. A. Among many others General Fred Grant and that brilliant Union general, George Armstrong Custer who with his entire command of 1,700 men was killed by the Sioux Indians at the battle of the Little Big Horn on June 25, 1876. The Indians were led by Sitting Bull with a force of 9,000 braves. Custer was only 37 years of age when he paid the debt that is expected from us all.

On the other side of the river may be seen a number of low gray buildings and of these it can be said: "He who enters here leaves hope behind," for this is Ossining—the port of missing men.

In the distance we see the Catskill Mountains with all the fanciful legends connected with them. We have passed Tarrytown some time since and as we look across the Tappan Zee we note the Pocantico hills, the home of the oil king, John D. Rockefeller. And also the home of one of America's beloved women the former Helen Gould. Here is also Washington Irving's "Sleepy Hollow" home and near here was captured Major Andre in 1780. What memories are recalled, for at Tappan is the room where he was imprisoned, and is today just as he left it. Near here is the old Sleepy Hollow cemetery where perhaps sleeps "Rip Van Winkle." No wonder this section is called "The Switzerland of America." And yet I love the quiet beauty of the scenes that are found in the hills and valleys of New England. Where can be found a more beautiful picture than can be seen from the top of Franklin hill? If you who travel have never noticed it, just stop when you reach the top, look off to the right, down into the valleys then up and across to the Windham hills and if you have passed this by on other days just at this time drink in the beauty of this wonderful picture that nature has given to you. I am sure you will be repaid and with added interest.

As we move along we pass Storm King Mountain, Newburg with the old Washington headquarters, and we finally arrive at the so called "Port of Albany," and there for a chance to a night seeing bus and for a climb up to the top of Mount Lebanon which is 1,100 feet above sea level. As we arrive at the top we are greeted with a sign which informs us: "This is Lebanon Summit," and the full moon is just slowly rising and I imagine I can reach it from the car window. In the distance I can see the twinkling of the lights in the windows of the little Shaker village and they look like "The Distant Lamps of Heaven."

Looking toward the east we can see the dark and sombre pines, and toward the west we can see just a faint glow of the descending sun. The evening shadows fall and the dusk like the golden west. And the whirr of the motor car has died away and all nature is at rest.

Here we will rest until the coming of another day and to this we look forward with pleasant anticipation, for we expect to go over once again nature's masterpiece, "The Mohawk Trail." I have been over it several times and each time I have found something new and interesting, and I have secured much information from those who live close to nature's wonderland.

Climbing

First, Ziegfeld picked her for his "Follies." Next, she was chosen for "Rio Rita" and now Warner Brothers will present her in the movies. Dainty Agnes Franey is climbing; helped by clever dancing and seldom equalled beauty.

Miss Franey says: "I don't believe in overlooking anything which helps add to your attractiveness. I am most particular about my hair and so many friends compliment me on its softness and lustre that I am sure my method of caring for it is right. Nearly all the girls I know here in New York are using it now. It is so easy. All we do is put a little Danderine on our brushes each time we dress our hair. It makes my hair easy to dress and holds it in place wonderfully. It has gotten rid of my dandruff. It keeps my hair and scalp so comfortable, that I don't shampoo half as often as I did before. And best of all, it gives my hair a softer, more silky and lustrous appearance than anything I've ever found."

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color, makes it fairly sparkle! Dandruff usually disappears when you use Danderine. Waves "set" with it, stay in longer. It's delicately fragranced; isn't oily; doesn't show. It's economical. The 35c bottles will last several weeks. All drug stores recommend and guarantee it.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR MISS MILDRED LANGLAIS

A surprise party for Miss Mildred Langlais, who is to enter the training school for nurses at the Lawrence Memorial hospital at New London, was given Thursday evening at her home at No. 22 Cliff street, with 16 present. It was the second party tendered Miss Langlais this week and during the evening she was presented an attractive traveling bag. OBITUARY.

Edgar T. Kingsley.

Edgar T. Kingsley, 64, died Wednesday evening at his home in Oakdale, Long Island, following an operation, from which he failed to rally. Mr. Kingsley was born in Franklin Nov. 17, 1864 and attended the schools of Franklin and Norwich. For a number of years he was affiliated with the Reid & Hughes Co., of Norwich, after which he was general manager of the suit and cloak department at Macy's in Boston.

After severing his connections with this firm he entered the real estate business in New York city and up to the time of his death was a successful real estate broker there, with offices in the Metropolitan building. About 15 years ago he was united in marriage in New York city with Miss Emeline M. Hallowell, formerly of Norwich, who survives him. Besides his widow, he leaves two sisters, Mrs. James R. Allyn, of Trading Cove, and Miss Eliza Kingsley, of Franklin, and several cousins.

FUNERALS.

Mrs. Gustave Schelin.

The funeral of Mrs. Gustave Schelin was held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at her residence, No. 2 Johnson place, with the service being conducted by Rev. Anders Andersen, pastor of the Salem Swedish Lutheran church. There were many relatives and friends present and the floral forms were beautiful. Burial was in Maplewood cemetery and the committal service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Andersen. The bearers were Charles Henson, Richard Berkoff, Oscar Dahl and George Benson. Undertakers Cummings and Ring were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Robert L. Bashaw.

At 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon funeral services for Robert L. Bashaw, four-year-old son of Mrs. Mary Bashaw and the late Leroy Bashaw, was held at the funeral parlors of Undertaker C. A. Gager. Interment was in Jewett City cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Nowatzky

The double funeral of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Nowatzky, of No. 60 Washington street, was held at 2.30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the funeral parlors of Undertakers Henry Allen and Son Co., Main street. The services were conducted by Rev. Joseph Cobb of South Windham, former pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, Norwich, and a close friend of Mr. and Mrs. Nowatzky.

The funeral was attended by a large assemblage of mourners including relatives and friends from New York, Providence, Bridgeport and other places and there was a profusion of beautiful floral remembrances, testifying to the high regard in which Mr. and Mrs. Nowatzky were held.

Burial was in the Yantic cemetery, where the Odd Fellows committal service was conducted. John O. Peckham, William Hopkins, H. G. Spencer and Clarence DeWolfe, representatives of the Odd Fellows, were the bearers for Mr. Nowatzky and H. L. Winslow, Arthur E. Shedd, B. C. Hannis and Edward E. Price acted as bearers for Mrs. Nowatzky.

Mr. and Mrs. Nowatzky died at the Backus hospital, to which they were taken as the result of the early morning fire at their apartment at No. 60 Washington street. Mr. Nowatzky died Monday afternoon from severe burns and extreme shock, while his wife died Tuesday afternoon from pneumonia, which set in. The elderly couple is survived by two daughters, Mrs. John Fairman of Arctic, R. I., and Mrs. Daniel Hallisey of this city and a son, Frederick F. Nowatzky of this city. Mr. Nowatzky is also survived by a brother, Fred Nowatzky of New York city.

Anthony Dzialo.

With many relatives and friends attending the funeral of Anthony Dzialo was held at 8.15 o'clock Thursday morning at his residence on the Yantic road, Lebanon, followed by solemn mass at St. Joseph's church, Norwich, at 9 o'clock. The mass was celebrated by Rev. S. A. Iciek and Michael Hahcin presided at the organ. There were many beautiful floral tributes. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, Norwich, and the bearers were Andrew Dzialo, Boleslaw Ceceiski, John Rembowski, Michael Liniak, Michael Demis, Anthony Gronak.

The death of Mr. Dzialo, 50, occurred suddenly at his home Tuesday evening from heart disease. He was born in Poland and coming to this country in 1888 he resided in Bridgeport until 1908. For the past 20 years he had lived in Lebanon, where he was favorably known and had many friends, who sincerely mourn his death. Mr. Dzialo is survived by his wife, Mary Dzialo, two daughters, two brothers and one grand child.

LOCAL COMMITTEE INVITES MENTAL HEALTH SURVEY FOR CITY AND TOWN

Dr. Edward J. Brophy and Dr. Harrison Gray, health officers of the city and town; Dr. Elijah S. Burdsall, superintendent of Norwich State hospital and medical director of the neuropsychiatric clinic; William S. Murray, first selectman; Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, Edward J. Graham, superintendent of schools; Mrs. Albert H. Chase, president of the United Workers; Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert, president of the Norwich Society for Mental Hygiene, and Mrs. Louis Hart Walden, chairman of the neuropsychiatric clinic committee, have joined to invite a mental health survey of city and town of Norwich.

This is to be part of a similar state-wide study of mental health facilities and mental hygiene needs in Connecticut to be conducted in the very near future and for which the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene has secured the services of Dr. Samuel W. Hamilton. The society's committee in charge of the survey hopes that it may be of great value in indicating the lines along which the various agencies in the state now interested in mental health can co-operate, and so co-ordinate their efforts that they may render the most efficient service as well as suggesting new lines of development. They consider that such a survey should be especially useful at the present time in view of the anticipated developments in the division of mental hygiene of the state department of health.

The financing of the study is provided for through a grant of $5,000 to the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene by the Commonwealth fund of New York and the present indications are that Dr. Hamilton will begin work in January. Dr. Hamilton comes to Connecticut on leave of absence from New York state, where he is at present assistant medical director and physician in charge of the men's department of Bloomingdale hospital, White Plains. He has already directed a survey of mental hygiene in Rhode Island, doing this work in 1922, the results of which have since been published by the national committee for mental hygiene. It includes a study of the care and treatment, in that state, of mental diseases, the care and training for mental defectives, and the mental health problems in institutions for dependents. The treatment of delinquency, and facilities for mental health in the public schools are also considered in that study.

The survey committee feels much gratified in having as director of the study, a man with such a wide background of excellent experience.

ADDRESSED LOCAL WOMEN ON CHILD HEALTH WORK

Thursday afternoon members and friends of the child study group of the Women's City club gathered to hear Dr. Elizabeth Ingraham, director of the bureau of child hygiene, speak on Child Health Work as Done by the State Department of Health of Connecticut.

Dr. Ingraham spoke of the work as being comparatively new, that it has been done systematically during only the last few years. The World war woke us up to the fact that our men were not in such good shape as they should have been, and it was believed that a good many defects could have been avoided with proper care in childhood. Within a short space of time the United States began to face the facts and set about trying to solve the problem.

The first step was weighing and measuring the children throughout the country at the instigation of the children's bureau in Washington, and from that beginning grew a probing into underlying causes of over or underweight. Soon child hygiene bureaus were started in every state and clinics and well child conferences for both sick and so-called well children were established. The constant aim of the present day work is to find out if all children are really well, and to show mothers how to keep them so, the idea being that so much can be prevented if mothers only know how to put in practice elemental rules of hygiene.

No two states work on just the same way because each has a different problem, but before we get through the work must be made permanent, and children must be looked after until they enter school where under the present day system the school nurse and doctor are in supervision.

In addition to clinics, well child conferences and pre-natal work, the work has resolved itself particularly into three well-defined channels, with other branches being gradually shaped. In 1926 the first call came from the National Parent-Teacher association regarding the necessity of a "summer round-up" of those children between the ages of 4 and 6 who would be entering school in September for the first time. Sixteen communities took up the work that first year, and last year the number increased to 110. With the 30,000 children entering the first grade each year, good physical health goes hand in hand with good school work—therefore this "summer round-up" is vital to the state's health program.

The first week in May is celebrated all over the nation as Children's Health week with a special drive on May day, and to this end all through April there is much agitation through schools, pulpit and press.

A very popular third phase of the state's health program is that of dental hygiene. There is so much demand for this work that the department hardly knows where to turn first. The screen is used to show parents the needs of their children and results of neglect, and the truth is driven home that bad teeth and bad tonsils are the cause of many another ailment.

Dr. Ingraham emphasized that a child is generally called well if he eats, sleeps and plays in approved fashion, but that this same child may all the time be carrying certain defects which mean future incapacity, and the great need for the child is constant watchfulness on the part of parent and physician.

At this point Dr. Ingraham showed many slides taken of children all over the state who were suffering with afflictions as result from improper functioning of the thyroid gland, over feeding, under feeding, rickets, poor posture, bad tonsils and teeth, etc. Then other pictures showed these same children with conditions remedied.

At the beginning of the work of the bureau there were three centers. Now there are 50 well child conferences each month held in various sections of the state and there is great need for a center in this part of the state.

There were many leading questions asked Dr. Ingraham at the close of her interesting and enlightening presentation of her part in the state's health program, and her contribution to the Woman's city club program will be of lasting benefit.

Mrs. Edwin Ross, newly appointed leader of the child study group, before presenting Dr. Ingraham, announced that good programs will be given for the rest of the year on the third Thursday afternoon of each month. The next one, in February, a group discussion, will be led by Mrs. John Huntington. Mothers wishing particular questions discussed should send the same to Mrs. Huntington, not later than Feb. 10th.

TWO WOMEN ARRESTED FOR LIQUOR VIOLATIONS

Raids Thursday by state and local police resulted in the arrest of two women on charges of violation of the liquor laws. They are Alic Lesniewski, Polish, 33, of No. 4 Rose street, and Stefenia Tecsar, Polish, of No. 14 North Thames street. Both are at liberty under bonds of $1,000 each for their appearance in the city court this (Friday) morning. At the Rose street house the police discovered a copper boiler still, coil of pipe, a funnel, a dozen quart bottles filled with alleged moonshine and a gallon jar containing alleged moonshine.

At the Tecsar house the police found a gallon jar, about quarter filled with alleged liquor, a full pint bottle and two half pint bottles of alleged liquor.

ADVOCATES TWO PLATOON SYSTEM FOR NORWICH

T. Alfred Fleming of the National Firewaste council gave a very instructive address on "Dollars That Die and Dollars That Live" at an open meeting and luncheon of the Norwich Lions club held Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel, at which more than 100 prominent citizens were present. The guests included Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, Chief F. A. Murray, traveling fire engineer and drillmaster of the fire department of New Haven, Chief Howard L. Stanton, Acting Chief Henry R. Taft, Fire Commissioner Charles A. Hagberg, a delegation from the Norwich Rotary club and representatives and agents of fire insurance companies of Norwich and vicinity.

The meeting was opened by President Kopland K. Markoff with the singing of America. Louis M. Crandall acting as song leader and Prof. Hugh Kinder ably assisting at the piano. After luncheon President Markoff turned the meeting over to Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the Norwich chamber of commerce, who introduced the guests and the speaker. In his introductory remarks Mr. Fleming paid tribute to an old friend, James L. Case, formerly president of the National Fire Insurance association and to the efficiency of the local fire chief, Howard L. Stanton.

Mr. Fleming gave a comprehensive example of the improvements need in water service and fire alarm protection in all cities of the country, which he claimed was the paramount need today in order to save lives and property from fire. The securing of a better building code in all the cities of the U. S. to Norwich buildings, which he had examined in the little time at his command.

The speaker emphasized the absolute need of a better building code in Norwich; first in the business section and then at the schools and hospitals, because as the speaker said, throughout the U. S., 92 per cent of all the school buildings are not absolutely fire-proof, citing that the homes, the schools and the hospitals in practically every city in the country need better and safer fire protection. The speaker prepounded the question, "How much intelligent and thorough inspection for fire safety in our homes and schools or the picture show houses in the city receives our attention?"

Mr. Fleming said that this needs the combined civic and official effort of all the people connected with safeguarding our lives and homes and the cooperation from all citizens in order to reduce as much as possible the fire hazard, which is always around the corner.

The speaker entered into an elucidation of the size of our fire mains in the business district and emphatically pointed out that even with the efficiency of our fire department or of any fire department in the world a conflagration cannot be fought without sufficient water pressure and that four inche pipes in the residential districts and ten inch mains in the business section are not sufficient protection for any sizable conflagration.

The speaker also spoke about the training which the fire force must undergo to be thoroughly familiar with the fire apparatus and also the physical stamina of the men who fight the fire, and he pleaded for a two platoon system for the fire department in Norwich, notwithstanding of the very efficient department which Norwich maintains.

Mr. Fleming finished his talk in a dramatic climax, which received tremendous applause. The gathering gave the speaker a rising vote of thanks, and the meeting closed with the Lions roar and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

TELEPHONE EMPLOYES HELD SOCIAL WITH DANCING

The traffic girls of the Norwich Tri-Functional council, composed of employes of the local exchange of the Southern New England Telephone company, entertained the local plant men and invited guests at a delightful social held Thursday evening at Odd Fellows' hall. Several telephone movies were shown by New Haven representatives as the feature of the evening. One of the pictures showed the advancement of the telephone since its birth up to the present time.

Two talks on the welfare of the council were given by Plant Supervisor E. L. Simonds of New Haven and T. J. Frazer of Hartford. A program of entertainment including piano, victrola selections and dancing were enjoyed for the remainder of the evening by the more than 100 present. Dainty refreshments were served.

Miss Anna Spicer, president of the council, was in general charge of the affair and was assisted by a committee comprising Misses Alice Hoar, chairman, Helen Nicholson, Olga Walker, Virginia Haggerty and Agnes Moran, who served refreshments.

CANON DUNLAP ADDRESSED TRINITY CHURCH AUDIENCE

Before an appreciative audience on Wednesday evening at the parish rooms of the Trinity Episcopal church Rev. J. Eldred Brown, rector, Rev. Edward S. Dunlap, canon of the cathedral, gave an interesting address on the Washington cathedral at Washington. The address was illustrated with 60 colored stereopticon slides, showing the beauty and grandeur of the great Gothic edifice rising in the national capital to symbolize and stimulate the religious life of the American people.

FIRE CAUSES DAMAGE AT PUTNAM STORE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 24—The business section of the city was threatened by fire here late tonight when a crate of matches ignited and set fire in the back room of the United Cigar Store, located in the Bradley block on Bugbee square. Smoke attracted the attention of a pedestrian who sounded an alarm from Box 41.

The quick and efficient work of the firemen soon brought the flames under control and prevented them from entering the partitions of the building, keeping the blaze confined to its origin.

Indications were here late tonight that the loss would amount to about $2,500.

DANIELSON TOWNERS READY FOR CLASH WITH PHILA. GIANTS TONIGHT

Tonight's Probable Lineup

Giants	Danielson
Rothecke, rf	rf, Gallup
Davis, lf	lf, Armington
Cooper, c	c, Williams
Chambers, rg	rg, Burke
Toney, lg	lg, Gedreau

The basketball fans of the northeast corner of the state will be treated to one of the best basketball attractions of the season tonight when the Philadelphia Colored Giants invade Danielson to play the Town team in the Town hall. This attraction is second to none yet scheduled and should draw a capacity house for the Danielson manager who has gone to extra expense in bringing this team at the urgent request of Danielson basketball fans. If support at this game is good other teams of like calibre will be booked for the remainder of the season.

The Philadelphia Colored Giants come to Danielson with a reputation that is imposing and a victory by Danielson will set the Towners up as one of the top-notch teams of New England. The colored boys have as sweet a working basketball aggregation as any of the road teams touring the country today. They are playing an average of five games a week against strong competition. Their passing and shooting has been worked down to perfection and it takes a mighty fast team to break up the pass-work once it gets started. While the colored lads go into a game with all seriousness and determination to win there is bound to be more or less comedy to their playing. Whoever saw a band of five or six happy-go-lucky colored boys in a serious mood for 40 minutes? Babe Berland is the star comedian of this troupe and his antics add a zest to the game that is missing in other encounters. Every man of the Giants is a star, especially the gigantic center, Cooper, who will be opposed to "Pop" Williams in tonight's game.

Danielson as can be expected will put its strongest team on the floor with the playing centering around their star, "Pop" Williams. Gallup and Armington will be sent in at forwards with Poirier held in reserve. Williams will be at center with Burke and Godreau in the backfield. Each and every man in the Danielson team is in for a busy evening and each will be in the match with everything he has to win.

There will be a fast preliminary game as an appetizer for the big game.

PLANS FOR HARVARD ATHLETIC PLANT ANNOUNCED

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 24—(AP)—Detailed plans for Harvard university's new $1,000,000 indoor athletic plant, were announced today by William J. Bingham, director of Harvard athletics.

The structure will be situated in the center of what will be the new residential district of the university under the "master plan" recently announced by President A. Lawrence Lowell. The building will be three stories in height, and will contain facilities for every indoor sport.

Chief among these will be a swimming pool now projected as the finest and most modern in the country. There will also be squash courts, rooms for boxing, wrestling and other indoor sports, and a basketball floor large enough to permit three practice games at the same time, with temporary seats covering two of the courts, capable of seating 2,000 spectators. The swimming pool will be surrounded by two galleries for spectators.

Of the $1,000,000 needed to complete the building, three anonymous donors have given $700,000. Although $300,000 remains to be raised, director Bingham is going ahead with the project in the hope that the additional funds will be forthcoming before the building has reached the third floor. Should funds still be unavailable, then the structure will be temporarily roofed above the second floor and the basketball floor added at a later date. This procedure is necessary because one of the largest gifts was made on the condition that ground for the building be broken not later than February and also because of the need for the swimming and other indoor facilities which will be housed in the lower floors.

KAUFMAN KNOCKS OUT PORTELLE IN EIGHTH

HARTFORD, Jan. 24—(AP)—Pinky Kaufman, of Hartford, knocked out Freddie Portelle, also of Hartford, in the eighth round of a scheduled ten-round feature bout at Foot Guard hall tonight. Kaufman weighed 143 3-4, Portelle, 141 1-4. Other results:

Boston A. A. Receives Nurmi's Entry.

BOSTON, Jan. 23—(AP)—The signed entry of Paavo Nurmi, was received here today by A. T. Hart, chairman of the Boston A. A. track games, which will be held here on February 21. Hart said the great Finnish runner desires to compete in the Gardner B. Williams' two mile run.

Nurmi requested the B. A. A. officials to obtain the best field possible for that event, as, he wrote, he intends to attempt to better his own world's record for that distance.

WILDERMUTH IS ENTERED FOR BOSTON A. A. GAMES

BOSTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—Suitable opposition for Percy Williams, when that Canadian sprint star makes his first appearance here at the Boston A. A. games on February 2, was assured today when the entry of Karl Wildermuth, of Georgetown, was received for the 40-yard dash.

Wildermuth was reported by John D. O'Reilly, Georgetown track coach, to be in excellent shape and in condition to press Williams to the limit.

B. A. A. officials also had announced that the Georgetown one mile relay team had been matched with the New York university quartet which is headed by Phil Edwards.

The other relay events on the B. A. A. program include meetings between Boston college and Holy Cross; Dartmouth and Syracuse; Brown and Boston university; Harvard and M. I. T.; Andover and Exeter; Coly, Amherst and Massachusetts Aggies; Maine and New Hampshire; Bates, Northeastern and Worcester P. I.; the Boston A. A. team and the New York A. C. four and a second B. A. A. team against the Millrose A. A. quartet.

In addition, the intercollegiate varsity relay two-mile was expected to bring together the following teams: Maine, M. I. T., Boston, Dartmouth, Boston college, New Hampshire, Bates and Harvard.

SHARKEY IS 3 TO 1 FAVORITE TO WIN OVER CHRISTNER IN TONIGHT'S BOUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—(AP)—Ringgongs, playing a $100,000 tune, will sound in Madison Square Garden for Jack Sharkey tomorrow night and for "K. O." Christner, the Akron vulcanizer.

For the Boston slugger, if he wins, the song of the gongs will be the last until he faces young Stribling in Miami Beach, Fla., on the night of Feb. 27. Christner, by dosing the silent sailor wit hthe same knockout medicine he forced on Knute Hansen almost two months ago, can bolt his way into the battle under the palms, the last heavyweight show Tex Rickard scheduled before his death.

Betting odds tonight were 3 to 1 in favor of Sharkey, despite a desultory ring campaign in the past year. Christner was considered an even money chance to avoid a knockout. The barrel-chested rubber worker, who started boxing two years ago at the age of 32, never has been knockout out. He won 37 of his 44 battles by the knockout route.

The battle, originally scheduled as a "warm-up" for Sharkey and the second engagement for the Boston sailor since a knee injury forced him out of action last summer, promises to pack the Garden. Christner's ability to take punishment and still retain the crushing wallop that finished Hansen, considered one of the leading heavyweight contenders, has gained him many supporters during a week of workouts here.

Sharkey, in his only start this winter, was unimpressive in gaining a decisive over Arthur De Kuh, New York Italian. The Boston veteran is in prime condition after several weeks of vigorous training. He expects to scale about 196 pounds while Christner will weigh about 195.

The training of both boxers has been lightened by their willingness to forecast the result with vehemence. Sharkey branded the big rubber man from Akron a "bum" and promised to retreat from the front rank of the contenders if beaten. Christner announced he would knock Sharkey out in the eighth round and then take Jack's place against Stribling in Florida.

SMITH-MENEFFEE TIES IN PRO-AMATEUR TOURNEY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 24—Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., and his amateur partner, Bob Meneffee of San Antonio stroked their way to a brilliant 65, six under par here today to tie George Aulbach of Boston and Howard Padgett of San Antonio in the amateur pro best ball tournament played today as preliminary to the Texas open golf tournament.

Tony Longo of Mount Vernon, N. Y., paired with Lloyd Jackson of San Antonio took third place with a 67. Smith and Aulbach will split first and second money, taking $87.50 each and Longo will receive $50. Padgett and Meneffee will be awarded gold medals and Jackson will receive a bronze medal.

Jack Burke of Houston playing with G. A. Mattson of Oklahoma City tied with Bill Mehlhorn of Fennimore, N. Y., Texas open champion and Elmer Miller of San Antonio for fourth and fifth places with a 68. No prizes were offered for these places.

Aulbach shot brilliont golf all of the way and his individual card of 67 tied the course record. His partner helped him on two holes to cut the score down to 65. Meneffee aided Smith on a number of holes and at the tenth almost sank his tee shot for a hole in one. Aulbach and Padgett had no eagles but six birdies served the purpose well.

The cards of the winners follow:

HOPPF BEATS LAYTON IN BILLIARD MATCH

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Willie Hoppe defeated Johnny Layton, the world's champion, in their 400 point three cushion billiard match completed here tonight. The final score was 400 to 384.

The last two blocks of the match were divided. Layton won this afternoon, 57 to 50 in 65 innings, Layton's high run was five; Hoppe's seven.

Tonight Hoppe won decisively, 50 to 35 in 72 innings. The high runs were: Hoppe four; Layton five.

Hoppe took six of the eight blocks but Layton's high run of ten in the second block was the best cluster of the match.

BILOXI TOURNEY REACHES THE SEMI-FINAL MATCHES

BILOXI, Miss., Jan. 24—(AP)—Louisiana and Illinois will fight it out tomorrow in the semi-finals of the Pan-American amateur golf tournament on the Edgewater golf course.

Ross McDade of Shreveport, La., the medalist, and G. Fred Lamprecht of New Orleans, former national intercollegiate champion, were the two southern survivors today of the second day's match play while Illinois was represented by Gus. Novotny, Lagrange, 1928 western amateur runner up, and Don Armstrong, Aurora, defending Pan American champion.

Novotny eliminated Edwin McClure, Shreveport, 7 and 5, by shooting the 13 holes in two below par.

McDade had a difficult time in defeating Arthur B. Sweet, Chicago, one up.

Lamprecht also had a close call in trouncing Russell Martin, Chicago, one up.

Armstrong and Joe Bybee of Jackson, Miss., were even at the 15th when the Auroran cut loose with two pars to win on the seventeenth.

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Jan. 24—(AP)—Douglas Currie, 17 year old Toledo, Ohio amateur, medalist, stepped handily through his second round match today in the annual Halifax golf tournament to win from C. A. Dickson, Montclair, N. J., 4 and 3.

S. McKay, Sarnia, Ont., eliminated H. McL Courtney, Stamford, N. Y., 1 up in a 19 hole match.

J. C. Hayward, Daytona Beach, defeated J. R. Gorlely, Ormond Beach, 2 and 1.

G. E. Potts, Flat Rock Country club, defeated Frank Stengle, Ormond Beach, 5 and 4.

Two One Mile Races at Olympic Rink

Wednesday evening Walter Starr defended his speed title again, winning a one mile race from John Savage by a lap. Notwithstanding that he had already raced a mile, he took on James McGregor for another mile race, but the strain proved to be too much for Starr, and McGregor won by quite a margin.

Nevertheless Starr still thinks he can hold his own, and will race it out with McGregor Saturday evening.

BUILDINGS DEMOLISHED BY TRAFFIC VIBRATION

PARIS (AP)—The intense vibration caused by present-day traffic necessitates a new and serious study of building foundation construction and materials, Parisian architects declare.

In Paris the problem has been brought to a head by the collapse, within a short space of time, of nearly a dozen old and new buildings and the partial demolition of others. With the exception of two or three cases in which flimsy construction and inadequate materials were blamed, traffic vibration and a consequent weakening of foundations were found to have been the causes of disaster.

In the older sections of Paris the situation was found to be more or less serious. Some experts believe that a great portion of the more ancient tructures will have to be rebuilt with some new insurance against vibration damage.

In one block of buildings inspectors found that on the fifth floor it was almost impossible to write when the mid-day stream of traffic was at its height. One architect declared that only a new sort of foundation, with rubber like shock absorbing qualities, could stand the strain of this mechanical age.

FLORIDA FIELD TRIALS ATTRACT DOG FANCIERS

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Five events with purses ranging as high as $1,000 are attracting bird dog fanciers and trainers from many sections to the first annual meet of the Florida Field Trial association here during the week of February 11.

The events include:

Open all age event, in which pointers and setters regardless of previous winnings may participate.

Open derby for all pointers and setters whelped on or after January 1, 1927.

Championship derby, open to pointers and setters whelped on or after January 1, 1927, and owned and handled by members of the association and members of the Izaak Walton league who are not professionals.

Membership all-age, open to pointers and setters that have not won a place on the regular field trial circuit, owned by association or league members.

GOVERNOR LOSES SIESTA CHAMBER

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—The governor of Texas no longer enjoys accomodations for siestas at the state house.

Because of the need of more space for bureaus, the bedroom, provided for the governor when the capitol was built 40 years ago, has been converted into an office.

The bed in which many a chief executive took a nap now reposes in the basement, accumulating dust and cobwebs. It has never been used by the present governor, Dan Moody, who is not afflicted with the siesta habit.
